ELABORATE PROGRAMME TO MARK MEETING AT MONTCLAIR.

Preparations for the annual conference of the boys' departments of the Young Men's Christian Associations at Montclair, October 26, 27 and 28, are being made. Representative members of the local boys' department will be among the 200 or more delegates. Eighteen associations will be represented.

An elaborate programme will begin with a social hour and reception in Association Hall, on Friday afternoon, between 5 and 6:30 o'clock. This will be followed by a supper served in Trinity Presbyterian church at Claremont and Midland avenues, at 7 o'clock, under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Montclair Association.

The opening session will be held in Trinity church at 8 o'clock on Friday night, when the Rev. Allen A. Stockdale, of Berkeley Temple, Boston, will deliver an address, his subject being "The Man I Made." The meeting will be presided over by George A. Hall, of Montclair, and will consist of a song service led by H. O. Knight, who will be assisted by the State Boys' Orchestra, of which Mark Andrews, of Montclair, is the leader.

Saturday morning devotional services will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church, on North Fullerton avenue, at 9 o'clock. Randolph S. Merrill, of Paterson, will preside and the services will be conducted by Walter H. Wones, of Newark.

Conferences will be held Saturday afternoon and evening. These conferences will be divided into six different sections, to be presided over as follows: Grammar school boys, by Ira E. Lute, Camden; High school boys, by Wilfred W. Fry, Trenton, and Melvin Jackson, Madison; business boys, Lewis E. Hawkins, Orange; county and small town, Joseph N. Brown, Haddonfield; leaders' corps conference, Noble F. Randal, Montclair. Others who will address the sectional conferences are Charles W. Gilkey, and William Wheeler, of New York; Elmer F. Hopper, and Charles R. Smeeton, of this city; Charles F. Dittmar, of Freehold; Henry S. Park, of Paterson; Fred H. Rindge, Jr., of New York, and the Rev. E. M. Fergusson, State secretary of the New Jersey Sunday-schools. An opportunity will also be given the boy delegates to take part in the discussions.

The delegates will be given an opportunity of visiting the Montclair High School on Saturday afternoon, after which devotional services will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church. The Rev. John Fulton Patterson, D. D., of Orange, will address the delegates in the First Methodist Episcopal church on Saturday night.

Church services will be held in the various churches on Sunday morning, and Charles R. Scott, State secretary for boys' work, will address the delegates in Association Hall on Sunday afternoon. There will be a mass-meeting for boys in the Auditorium of the Montclair High School on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and farewell services in Association Hall at night.

Holy Names Societies Parade.

The Holy Name Societies had their annual parade and demonstration in Jersey City yesterday. Every Roman Catholic parish in Hudson county was represented and two in Bergen county—Englewood and Tenafly. Fully fifteen thousand men and boys belonging to the Holy Name societies of Essex and Morris counties also paraded in Newark yesterday afternoon. Every one in both parades in joining the society has taken a vow to refrain from blasphemous language and has promised to help his fellows in doing the same.

Mr. Parvin Spoke.

E. E. Parvin was the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. meeting yesterday afternoon. He addressed a good-sized audience on the value of Bible study. Philip Van Arsdale sang.

WEIGHTMAN WILL CASE.

Struggle for Partition of Millions Begins—Plainfield Connection.

In the Orphans' Court, at Philadelphia, before Judge Ashman today, will be commenced a bitter struggle by Mrs. Jones Wister and those allied with her to compel Mrs. Anne Weightman Walker to give some of the millions of her father, the late William Weighman, to her niece and nephews, one of whom, Aubrey Weightman, is the husband of Mrs. Rowland Cox's daughter, Fanny. A battalion of lawyers is arrayed on each side, and the case is likely to make legal history.

Mrs. Anne Weightman Walker, almost sole heiress to the $60,000,000 Weightman fortune under the terms of the will that has been offered in Orphans' Court, comes before Judge Ashman to make answer and defense to the claim of Mrs. Jones Wister, her sisterin-law, that Wm. Weightman, her father, provided in a later will or codicil millions for the maintenance of his grandchildren. The claimant, before her marriage to Jones Wister, was the wife of William Weightman, Jr., who died.

Upon a codicil which Mrs. Wister alleges was made by William Weightman after he had executed the Walker will hinges virtually the entire case of the claimants. Tesitmony in support of that codicil has been hunted in two hemispheres. Although Mr. Simpson has maintained absolute silence concerning his client's case, it is said by those associated with him that proof of the millionaire's provision for his grandchildren has been found in China and in Japan.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

COLORS THAT MAKE ONE LOOK YOUNG.

It's the color of a woman's frock and hat that makes her look either young or old, and if more of them realized this there would be more becoming gowns worn.

For then, instead of selecting a green that would not be suitable, simply because it happened to be a fashionable tint, a color that showed the eyes, hair and complexion to advantage would be decided upon.

Following this idea in choosing materials for this dresses, women would be more harmoniously clad and there would be individuality in their wardrobes that nowadays few women possess.

Besides making a difference in the apparent age of the wearer certain shades give the impression of stoutness or slenderness and this should also be studied by a woman who wants to dress artistically.

Colors that a fair-blue-eyed woman can wear with telling effect would not do for one with a sallow complexion and gray eyes. A shade that would make a decided brunette with black hair and eyes and a clear olive skin look young would add at least ten years to the appearance of one who was neither a blonde nor decidedly dark.

A fair woman, with a florid skin and well rounded body, should choose gowns in pale blue if she is under 30, but if older the pastel shades in soft blue, pale green and faded heliotrope will be more becoming worn next to the fact.

Below the waist line any dark colored cloth will not interfere with the general effect because it is too far away to cast shadows on the face and the break of light green between shows the light hair and eyes to advantage.

White and cream next to the face are, of course, desirable, as is a pale yellow.

Dark materials for street wear should be dull rather than shiny, and navy blue will make the wearer look less old than black. If it is necessary to wear the latter it should be relieved about the neck with a white or cream colored piece of lace, or a ribbon in any of the soft pastels, green, blue or yellow.

Dark women who have no color in their face should avoid any bright shades, for these bring out their lack of freshness and make the wearers look older than they would with softer tones.

Dove grays, ivory and dainty old blues, are decidely becoming for this type of women unless she is stout, in which case dull black materials relieved by ivory about the neck and bust should be worn.

Brunettes with plenty of rich coloring look stunning in strong golden browns, reddish tans, deep rich garnet and soft but pronounced crimson.

Grays, unless they are too cold, are also effective for this dark type of beauty.

REFRIGERATOR RULES.

Use clean, flat dishes to hold whatever is on the lower shelves.

Buy your ice in pieces as large as can be accommodated. This is much more economical than to buy small ones.

Be careful not to fill dishes too full so that they will spill over. If anything is spilled, don't fail to wipe it up immediately.

Pack the ice well together and do not wrap it in paper or cloths; instead, keep the door of the ice chamber shut as much as possible.

Do not put food of any sort directly on the ice. If it is absolutely necessary to place it near the ice, see that it is in glass or porcelain.

Empty the refrigerator at least once a week; scrub the interior thoroughly, then scald the ice chamber and drainpipe with boiling water in which a lump of soda has been dissolved; follow this with clear boiling water; wipe dry and let it air for twenty minutes.

Choosing Tailor Suit.

Get a ready-made suit of gray and black plaid to serve you for every day. Have tight pony jacket and plain or knife plaited skirt. Add turnover collar and cuffs of London gray velvet. Trim black hat with green wing and wide rosette of black satin ribbon. Put fold of black ribbon around crown.

Coat for Girl.

The heavy blue material will make a good coat for a young girl. Cut it straight to reach end of skirt and fasten double breasted with black bone buttons. Add collar and cuffs of velvet. Get a dull red hat of felt trimmed with red wings and folds of black velvet. Make skirt of black serge by nine gored plaited pattern and finish with three-inch hem. Get China silk for blouse and line it if necessary for warmth. Black pongee is also good. Make with unstitched plaits, stock of same, and six-inch plain cuffs fastened up back with silk buttons. There is a thin white plain muslin which is very atractive for curtains in a study. Use a two-inch hem and edge with one-inch Cluny lace.

A Wedding Gown.

Make the wedding gown of net over taffeta with full skirt of the former slightly gathered at belt. Put three wide tucks above hem. Make it long and sweeping. Drape blouse over tight silk lining in sprplice effect; run with bands of white satin ribbon. Put in a deep yoke, with stock of Val. lace and finish edges with pleating of lace and ribbon. Add two large white satin rosettes at point of surplice. Make sleeves quite wide and loose cut circular and edged with pleatings. Under this put a tight elbow sleeve finished with scarf of satin. Make fourinch belt of satin ribbon laid in folds and feather boned front and back.

A Girl's Party.

It is very possible that you will not have as enjoyable a season as you might if the girls intend to give parties to each other and exclude all the boys. These experiments never result in a great deal of fun. Your suggestion for an evening entertainment is good, but you should have the cards and music very quickly after lunch in order to keep the affair from being stiff. You might find a chafing dish good fun if you know how to cook on it. The other girls will enjoy helping. Make scrambled eggs with chopped tomatoes and slices of green pepper as a hot dish and serve it on hot buttered toast. Then make coffee or chocolate and have ice cream with hot sauce or maple sirup and chopped nuts, sandwiches, and layer cake. If the girls are determined to stick together in all the winter's entertainments, why not form a Tableau Society or a Chorus Class that will give you something to do.

Gown for Wedding.

A young girl's dress may be of dotted white net over lining of rose pink silk. Cut skirt in three circular ruffles edged with two inches of white lace. Let it sweep floor. Make blouse quite low of the net over pink cut out in a round effect. Under this put a yoke of unlined white lace without stock. Across this yoke at lower edge put a wide scarf of rose satin ribbon ending on each side in two large bows. Make sleeves from three ruffles of lace on a net foundation edged with a wide scarf and bow of pink ribbon.

A Pongee Blouse.

Keep pongee blouse perfectly plain, with unstitched plaits and without side pocket. Wear turnover collar of embroidered ecru linen and a tie of Roman ribbon. Get other blouse of coffee colored embroidered batiste or lace. You can dip pure white in strong coffee and obtain this color. Make it like a lingerie one without lining, and with elbow sleeves. Fasten down back.

To Remove Grease Stains.

Turpentine will remove grease stains. Blotting paper should be placed underneath the spot to be cleaned, then turpentine is applied and a second piece of blotting paper is laid on and the whole well pressed with something hard. The fat is dissolved, then absorbed by the paper, the stain disappearing. If you fear the material to iss delicate for the turpentine treatment, cover the spot with French chalk for twelve hours. Shake off and, if the stain is still visible, press with a warm iron between blotting paper.

Tomatoes in Aspic.

Peel one pound of tomatoes, divide into six or eight sections, removing any seeds or water.

The tomatoes should be medium sized, firm and fully ripe.

Wet a plain mold, decorate with rings of hard boiled eggs, and lay in the sections of tomato.

Fill up the mold with tomato or aspic jelly.

When set turn out upon a dish of lettuce or other green salad.

Prune Pudding.

Wash and stone half a pound of prunes, cut them into pieces and put them in a basin.

Add two ounces of chopped peel, four ounces of flour, four ounces of breadcrumbs, two ounces of almonds chopped finely, one teaspoonful of baking powder, four ounces of cleaned currants, two ounces of butter, a pinch of salt, one well-beaten egg and enough milk to moisten.

Pour into an oiled mold, covered with a paper, anr steam for three hours.

Serve with sweet sauce.

Banana Trifle.

Peel and slice six bananas. Slice a small sponge cake and spread each piece with strawberry jam. Lay them in a glass dish, add one orange peeled, sliced and cut in small pieces, the grated rind of one lemon and half a pint of custard. Then add the bananas.

Whip up half a pint of thick cream, heap it on the top and serve cold.

Lentil Stew With Forcemeat Cutlets.

Wash and soak three-quarters of a pound of lentils overnight in cold water.

Drain and simmer gently in three cups of water for two hours.

Strain out about one-fourth of the lentils and lay these aside to cool.

Melt two ounces of butter in a saucepan and add four ounces of onions cut up finely. Put on the lid and allow to cook for fifteen minutes without browning.

Then add to this the lentils and stock and allow to simmer.

Matches.

"Who are those young people in that box?" asked the man in the parquet.

"There's Elsie Blugore and her fiance, and Mazie Rich and hers, and Belle Browne and hers. They're all to be married next month."

"Indeed? Quite a box of matches, eh?"

UNHAPPINESS DISPELLED.
Men and Women Unanimous About It.
Many women weep and wail and refuse to be comforted because their once magnificent tresses have become thin and faded. Many men incline to profanity because the flies bite through the thin thatch on their craniums. It will be good news to the miserable of both sexes, to learn that Newbro's Herpicide has been placed upon the market. This is the new scalp germicide and antiseptic that acts by destroying the germ or microbe that is the underlying cause of all hair destruction. Herpicide is a new preparation, made after a new formula on an entirely new principle. Anyone who has tried it will testify as to its worth. Try it yourself and be convinced. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

FRESH AIR IN A GREENHOUSE.

At five the next day I rang the Elderly's bell, was taken through the drawing-room into that same library. The curtains over the double doorway between the two rooms were almost drawn. She presently entered from the hall. I admired the picture she made in the doorway—her big hat, her embroidered dress of white cloth, and that small, sweet, cold face of hers. And as I looked, I knew that nothing, nothing—no, not even her wish, her command—could stop me from trying to make her my own. That resolve must have shown in my face—it or the passion that inspired it—for she paused and paled.

"What is it?" I asked. "Are you afraid of me?"

She came forward proudly, a fine scorn in her eyes. "No," she said. "But if you knew, you might be afraid of me."

"I am," I confessed. "I am afraid of you because you inspire in me a feeling that is beyond my control. I've committed many follies in my life—I have moods in which it amuses me to defy fate. But those follies have always been of my own willing. You"—I laughed—"you are a folly for me. But one that compels me."

She smiled—not discouragingly—and seated herself on a tiny sofa in the corner, a curiously impregnable intrenchment, as I noted—for my impulse was to carry her by storm. I was astonished at my own audacity; I was wondering where my fear of her had gone, my awe of her superior fineness and breeding. "Mamma will be down in a few minutes," she said.

"I didn't come to see your mother," replied I. "I came to see you."

She flushed, then froze—and I thought I had once more "got upon" her nerves with my rude directness. How eagerly sensitive our nerves are to bad impressions of one we don't like, and how coarsely insensible to bad impressions of one we do like!

"I see I've offended again, as usual," said I. "You attach so much importance to petty little dancing-master tricks and caperings. You live—always have lived—in an artificial atmosphere. Real things act on you like fresh air on a hothouse flower."

"You are—fresh air?" she inquired, with laughing sarcasm.

"I am that," retorted I. "And good for you—as you'll find when you get used to me."

I heard voices in the next room—her mother's and some man's. We waited until it was evident we were not to be disturbed. As I realized that fact and surmised its meaning, I looked triumphantly at her. She drew further back into her corner, and the almost stern firmness of her contour told me she had set her teeth.

"I see you are nerving yourself," said I with a laugh. "You are perfectly certain I am going to propose to you."

She flamed scarlet and half-started up.

"Your mother—in the next room—expects it, too," I went on, laughing even more disagreeably. "Your parents need money—they have decided to sell you, their only large income-producing asset. And I am willing to buy. What do you say?"

I was blocking her way out of the room. She was standing, her breath coming fast, her eyes blazing. "You are—frightful!" she exclaimed in a low voice.

"Because I am frank, because I am honest? Because I want to put things on a sound basis? I suppose, if I came lying and pretending and let you lie and pretend, and let your parents and Sam lie and pretend, you would find me—almost tolerable. Well, I'm not that kind. When there's no special reason one way or the other, I'm willing to smirk and grimace and dodder and drivel, like the rest of your friends, those ladies and gentlemen. But when there's business to be transacted, I am business-like. Let's not begin with your thinking you are deceiving me, and so hating me and despising me and trying to keep up the deception. Let's begin right."

She was listening; she was no longer longing to fly from the room; she was curious. I knew I had scored.

"In any event," I continued, "you would have married for money. You've been brought up to it, like all these girls of your set. You'd be miserable without luxury. If you had your choice between love without luxury and luxury without love, it'd be as easy to foretell which you'd do as to foretell how a starving poet would choose between a loaf of bread and a volume of poems. You may love love; but you love life—your kind of life—better!"

She lowered her head. "It is true," she said. "It is low and vile, but it is true."

"Your parents need money—" I began.

She stopped me with a gesture. "Don't blame them," she pleaded. "I am more guilty than they."

I was proud of her as she made that confession. "You have the making of a real woman in you," said I. "I should have wanted you even if you hadn't. But what I now see may be what I thought a folly of mine look more like wisdom."

"I must warn you," she said, and now she was looking directly at me, "I shall never love you."

"Never is a long time," replied I. "I'm old enough to be cynical about prophecy."

"I shall never love you," she repeated. "For many reasons you wouldn't understand. For one you will understand."

"I understand the 'many reasons' you say are beyond me," said I. "But, dear young lady, under this coarse exterior I assure you there's hidden a rather sharp outlook on human nature—and—well, nerves that respond to the faintest changes in you as mine can't be altogether without sensitiveness. What's the other reason—the reason? That you think you love some one else?"

"Thank you for saying it for me," she replied.

You can't imagine how pleased I was at having earned her gratitude even in so little a matter. "I hadn't thought of that," said I. "It is of no consequence."

"But you don't understand," she pleaded earnestly.

"On the contrary, I understand perfectly," I assured her. "And the reason I am not disturbed is—you are here, you are not with him."

She lowered her head so that I had no view of her face.

"You and he do not marry," I went on, "because you are both poor?"

"Yes," she replied.

"Because he does not care for you?"

"No—not that," she said.

"Because you thought he hadn't enough for two?"

A long pause, then—very faintly: "No—not that."

"Then it must be because he hasn't as much money as he'd like, and must find a girl who'll bring him—what he most wants."

She was silent.

"That is, while he loves you dearly, he loves money more. And he's willing to see you go to another man, be the wife of another man, be—everything to another man." I laughed. "I'll take my chances against love of that sort."

"You don't understand," she murmured. "You don't realize—there are many things that mean nothing to you and that mean—oh, so much to people brought up as we are."

MILL GIRL GETS $5,000.

Was Scalped in Factory While Working Overtime.

New Brunswick, Oct. 15.—Teresa Furian, of Perth Amboy, late Friday afternoon was awarded $5,000 damages by the jury in her suit against her former employer, Isaac Schienman, for the loss of her hair, scalp and an ear.

In January, 1902, when Teresa was 12 years old, she was working in Schienman's clothing factory at Perth Amboy for twenty-one cents a day, sewing buttonholes. She stayed overtime one night to make a little extra money, and when she started for home the lights went out suddenly and she stumbled against a sewing machine. Her hair caught in the wheels.

The defense claimed that the girl had no business in the factory after closing time.

Roosevelt Fears for Hughes.

New York, Oct. 15.—President Roosevelt, basing his conclusions upon information which has come to him from many sources all over the State, regards the political situation here as full of danger. He has sent repeated warnings, both directly and through Republicans of national prominence who have visited him within the last few days in Washington, urging the Republican campaign managers to spare no effort to get the full anti-Hearst vote registered today and on Monday. Mr. Roosevelt is one of the most clear sighted political leaders in the country. He does not share the general belief that Mr. Hearst will be defeated by an overwhelming majority. He is insisting that every anti-Hearst vote will be needed on election day.

Slave to Study.

South Norwalk, Conn., Oct. 15.—Charles W. Brewitz, a young German who speaks seven languages and ignores work and sustenance for study, was sent to jail here Friday for stealing a score or more of valuable works from the Carnegie Public Library in Norwalk and as many more from the South Norwalk Public Library. Brewitz admitted his guilt, laying his act to an overwhelming passion for books and a total lack of funds. He was sentenced to thirty days in jail and fined $7. He is twenty-four years old and was professor of languages in the Overlook Selleck Military Academy in Norwalk until recently. While extremely competent, he neglected his work for study.

STATE BERTHS' DIVVY UNKNOWN TO GOVERNOR.

Mr. Stokes Disbelieves that Reported Parcelling Was Even Discussed by Leaders.

Trenton, Oct. 15. — Governor Stokes denied Friday that he was in any way a party to the parceling out of offices said to have taken place here during last Tuesday's gathering of State leaders. Governor Stokes said:

"I have read in the papers the statement of the so-called slate affectinfi some of the State offices in the future. I have absolutely no knowledge of any such arrangement. I have not heard it discussed, and knew nothing of it until I saw it in the press. Furthermore, I do not believe that any such arrangement has ever been made in the matter, or even discussed by the parties mentioned. I never heard Mr. Garrison's name suggested in connection with the State treasurership, nor Senator Johnson's in connection with that of secretary of State, until I saw both in print, and I do not believe that Senator Johnson would accept the position if tendered to him. Indeed, Senator Johnson had had offers of this office before and declined.

"The absurdity of such a prearranged plan as printed in the papers lies in the fact that it requires, first, the participation of the voters of the State; second, the participation of the Legislature, and third, the participation of myself.

"All of us would be required to act in the matter, and so far as I know, none of us has been consulted concerning it."

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP SAMPLES UNIMPRESSIVE.

That Is View of Labor Bureau Chief Garrison, Who Just Returned from Europe.

Trenton, Oct. 15.—After an absence of three months, spent in touring Europe, Winton C. Garrison, chief of the bureau of statistics of labor and industries, has resumed his duties at the State Capitol. Mr. Garrison left Paris September 29 and arrived at his home in Newark last Monday.

While away he visited England, Ireland and Scotland, besides spending much time at various points of interest on the continent.

Mr. Garrison declared that while he had not made any great study of the railroad and public service corporations as they are operated on the other side, he had not been very favorably impressed with the examples of government ownership of public utilities that he had occasion to use.

Mr. Garrison said that, while it is true that a person can travel a short distance for very little money in Europe, the cost of travelling great distances is proportionately greater than in this country, to say nothing of the difference in facilities and luxury of accommodation.

One of the most pleasurable features of the trip was a 400-mile automobile tour through England. Mr. Garrison "coached" over the greater portions of Ireland and Scotland.

He spoke enthusiastically about his tour, and declared that he felt greatly improved in health.

School Teachers Protest.

Jersey City, Oct. 15.—More than 300 school teachers attended Friday night's meeting of the local Board of Education to protest against a new rule compelling teachers who absent themselves from school on account of illness or for any other good reason to pay a substitute $2 a day. Heretofore they were docked $1 a day for substitutes. The teachers met at Public School No. 9, and marched in a body to the city hall. A resolution passed at a meeting of the Teachers' Association protesting against exacting $2 a day for substitutes was read by the clerk, and then Miss Marvin and Miss Van Winkle, principals, and two teachers made short speeches. Mr. Ridgeway, president of the board, said the matter would be taken under advisement and the teachers filed out.

Boy Suicide.

New York, Oct. 15.—Standing before a mirror, in his home in the Greystock apartment house, No. 50 Orange street, Brooklyn, William Coleman, thirteen years old, son of a prosperous tailor, committed suicide Friday afternoon by sending a bullet into his head. He used a small bore rifle, about three feet long, with which he had become expert and used almost daily while with the family in a summer resort on Long Island. He placed the butt of the rifle against the mirror and the muzzle agaist his forehead. The boy had suffered from chronic stomach trouble and had made threats when melancholy which had led the family to take precautions against his killing himself.

Balloon Unveils Statute.

New York, Oct. 15.—In Sherman square, at Broadway and Seventy-second street, there was unveiled Friday afternoon a monument to Giuseppe Verdi in the presence of a multitude estimated to number at least ten thousand persons. More than one hundred Italian societies were represented and more than a score of bands stood within two hundred yards of the statue. To lift the draperies off the statue a captive balloon was utilized, and shroud as it ascended shedding hundreds of leaves of paper upon which were printed excerpts from Verdi's best known works. Several pigeons were released at the same time.

GOLF.

The Middlebrook Country Club will hold a golf tournament at Bound Brook on Election Day. The committee in charge will furnish two cups and hope that there will be a large field out to contest for the same at match or hole play. It has been decided not to have a qualifying round. The handicaps used earlier in the season will be retained with such slight changes as may be necessary. There will be no entrance fee.

The events at the Plainfield Country Club on Election Day will include play for the Election Day cup, morning and afternoon; Golf Committee consolation cup, first round; Golf Committee inconsolables cup, first round; 1 p. m., Golf Committee consolation cup, second round; Golf Committee inconsolables cup, second round. There is also likely to be other special events.

The Election Day events at the Park Golf Club will be announced later, and they will include play morning and afternoon, and will practically conclude the active season at the club. However, as long as the weather remains good there will be general play on the course.

W. H. Sherwood, of Canton, Ohio, an American golfer, won the championship of the Western Professional Golf Association, last week. He defeated Fred McLeod, of Midlothian, by 1 up in 37 holes.

M. Stanton, of Dartmouth, beat F. R. Upton, of Bowdoin, the South Orange boy, by 3 up and 1 to play, thereby winning the thirty-six hole final of the New England Intercollegiate Golf Association.

Dudley H. Barrows and Robert Abbott, of this city, the former of Yale, and the latter of Princeton, will be factors in the Intercollegiate Golf Championship tournament at Garden City, this week. There promises to be a very large field of representatives from all the Eastern colleges.

Despite the fact that he has very little handicap, Rev. J. O. McKelvey is a close second in the competition for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club with 9½ points. He is tied with Charles B. Morse.

O. F. C. SHUT OUT EDWARD CLARK CLUB

SCORE 6 TO 0—VISITING PLAYER CUT HIS TONGUE.

The Orange Field Club played its first game of the season on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, with the Edward Clark Club, of Elizabeth, and won a hard-fought game by a score of 6 to 0. The locals scored in the first half, Lester Dodge making the touchdown and Harry Embleton kicked the goal. While the Orange Field Club boys did not play up to their usual standard, they made a fine showing in the initial contest.

The visiting team was not as strong as usual, but nevertheless played good ball throughout. The ball was held by the O. F. C. most of the time and their goal was not in danger at any stage of the game. Within four minutes of the calling the game in the last half, George Winchester, of the visiting team, playing half-back, met with a painful accident. He had a habit of sticking out his tongue, and while in a scrimmage one of the local players bumped him in the chin with his knee. One of his upper teeth penetrated the tongue, meeting a tooth from the under jaw and making a clean hole through the tongue. The young man was taken to the hospital and after treatment was able to go home. The local team lined up as follows:

MacLaughlin, center; J. McCullough, right-guard; Harry Embleton, right-tackle; O. Dodge, right-end; Bert Banks, left-guard; Harry Joseph, left-tackle; C. Heiser, left-end; George McVoy, quarter-back; F. Sheppard, right-half; Lester Dodge, left-half; Embleton and Banks, full-back.

Next Saturday the club will play either Trinity Club, of Brooklyn, or Flemington A. C., on Crescent Oval.

P. H. S. IS OVERWHELMED BY EAST ORANGE TEAM.

Local High School Boys' Eleven Trounced—Score Being 29 to 0.

The football game Saturday at East Orange between the high school of that place and the Plainfield High School resulted in the defeat of the local team by a score of 29-0. The East Orange team was a much heavier aggregation. Maheffey, of the P. H. S., distinguished himself by clever tackling and blocking kicks. Tillotson also played a good game for the local eleven and broke up the opposing team's interference most effectually.

There were no long end runs made, line buck being mostly played.

Following is the P. H. S. line-up: Tillotson, re.; Todd and Morris, rt.; Bogardus, rg.; Caldwell and Dorthy, c.; Fisher, lg; Fountain, lt; Rafferty, le.; Brakeley, qb.; Lyness, rhb.; Mehaffey, lhb; Loizeaux, fb. Lindsay Best umpired the game.

The Bound Brook Cricket Club, members of the Metropolitan Cricket Association, will hold its annual meeting tonight and elect officers. Other matters of considerable interest will be discussed.

Fire Loss Adjusted.

The loss by fire at the home of W. E. Lowe, of Park avenue, has been adjusted at $200. The damage was only to the house, the firemen working in such an effective manner that none of the furnishings were injured. The fire occurred one week ago last night and was caused by sparks from an open grate.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward White, of the Hotel Kensington, left today for Daytona, Fla., where they will remain until next June.

DUNELLEN LOST FIRST BIG GAME OF SEASON

STRONG HAMILTON LYCEUM ELEVEN HELD TO ONE TOUCHDOWN.

Battling gamely all the way, Dunellen went down in defeat before the Hamilton Lyceum eleven, in their first game of the season, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 6 to 0. The game was played in Dunellen.

The Dunellen eleven was outweighed by thirty pounds and was confronted by strong team work, but it put up a remarkable game of defense. The ball was taken and held several times, and quick rushes kept it zig-zagging up and down the field.

O'Rourke scored the visitors' one touchdown in the first half by an electrifying run of eighty yards. He kicked the goal neatly. After that Dunellen held doggedly to her defenses and blocked every attempt to add to the score:

The line-up:

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The Plainfield Operatic Association will meet tonight in the Camera Club rooms for its rehearsal of "The Chimes of Normandy," which it is proposed to give early in January.

—Miss Lawrence, a saleswoman employed at "The White Store," was struck in the forehead with a cash carrier box at the store, this morning, inflicting a very painful wound. She went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and had the injury attended to.

—C. E. Grant, of 701 West Front street, who is employed as bookkeeper in the New York Journal office, fell while descending the stone steps at the Grant Avenue station last Friday night. He was badly cut and bruised about the head and face. Dr. O. L. Jenkins was called and attended him. Mr. Grant is now able to return to business.

CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Entertain Fifty Friends—Enjoying a Large Inheritance.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester B. Harris, who recently removed to Plainfield from Mount Pleasant, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding at their home on West Front street, Friday night. Fifty friends were in attendance from New York, Jersey City, Newark, South Plainfield and other places, and several hours were passed delightfully. During the evening there was an exchange of gifts between Mr. and Mrs. Harris and the guests present. Mrs. Harris was assisted in receiving by Miss Lizzie Solleder, of Jersey City, and Mrs. Kitty Sleight, of Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris resided at Mount Pleasant for eleven years before moving to Plainfield. The former was for many years a gauger in the government service but is now living a retired life, having recently inherited a large fortune from relatives. Mrs. Harris has also received large bequests from relatives and the combined amounts reach six figures.

Evangelistic Services.

Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, is planning to conduct evangelistic services the latter part of the month, for two weeks. For some time there has been unusual interest in religious affairs in that part of the city and the pastor believes the time has arrived for a series of special services. There will be special music at each meeting.

Saints' Days Services.

In observance of St. Luke's day, a service will be held at Grace P. E. church Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. All Saints' day, November 1, will be marked by a service at 8 o'clock in the evening. Rev. Herbert Shipman, assistant at the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, will be in charge.

Arrested on Capias.

Francis McGuirk was arrested in Dunellen yesterday on a capias issued out of the county court. He is wanted in connection with a row that was aired by his wife and Michael Kelly in Justice Van Minden's court several weeks ago.

The Misses Frances Neidig and Amelia Gussible and Mrs. Clark, of Brooklyn, have returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neidig, of Manning avenue.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. John Mehl.

A large number of Plainfielders attended the funeral of Mrs. John Mehl, a former local resident, held at her late home in Hoboken, yesterday. She passed away Wednesday after a brief illness. She was widely acquainted in Plainfield and vicinity and leaves four girls and one boy. Interment was made in Flower Hill cemetery, Hoboken.

William Sutton.

William Sutton, the well-known painter, died at his home on East Front street at 10 o'clock this morning. He had been ill for the past eight weeks with a pulmonary trouble and his demise had been expected. Mr. Sutton had been a local resident nearly all his life and was widely acquainted. He leaves one sister, Mrs. S. P. Bullock, of Kenvil. The funeral will be held from his late home, 117 East Front street, Wednesday afternoon, and will be private.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Much interest is manifested in the Hudson County Democratic Convention tomorrow night. The friends of Colonel Stevens, of Hudson county, now being boomed as the Democratic candidate for United States Senator, hope to have the convention indorse him, but an idea prevails that "Bob" Davis will have the convention favor the election of ex-President Cleveland as United States Senator, in order to give dignity to his Assembly ticket, something for which is it not especially marker. Colonel Stevens is a clean man, and has the support of the better element in the Democratic party in Hudson.

VANDALS IN DUKE PARK CAUSE MUCH ANNOYANCE.

Ten Arrested on Tobacco Man's Threat to Close Grounds.

James B. Duke, president of the American Tobacco Company, has threatened to close his two thousand acre park at Raritan unless the authorities succeed in suppressing gambling and acts of vandalism on the estate.

Prosecutor John V. Reger and County Detective George D. Totten, in an effort to save the park to the public, Saturday night rounded up ten boys of Raritan, who are charged with committing numerous depredations on the Duke estate. Peter Leibig, Frank Frayer, James Bourke, Frank Farrell and John Burns, Jr., were arraigned before Justice Sutphen on a charge of shooting craps at night in the shadow of Mr. Duke's $30,000 fountain by the light of two electric torches, held aloft by statues. Peter Leibig was also charged with breaking fifty electric lights along the boulevard in the park. He explained that he had not broken the lights from malice, but because he was "tearing mad" after his companions had cleaned him out at a game of craps. The prisoners were held under $100 bail each, to await the action of the Somerset Grand Jury. The bail was furnished.

Nicholas Pascale and Barney Black, who were charged with stealing a boat and staving a hole in its side; Andrew Beno and Daniel Trangelo, charged with destroying seats and carving up the interior of one of the spring houses, and Frank Bizub, accused of breaking apple trees and stealing apples, were also kept out of jail by the intervention of their parents, who furnished $100 bonds each. It is expected that the prisoners, if convicted, will be severely dealt with.

Negro College Blown Up.

Anderson, S. C., Oct. 15.—Word was received here today from Seneca that Harrell College, a negro institution there, was blown up by dynamite about midnight last night. The Rev. J. F. Williams, a negro, is president of the college and it is supported by Northern white people. Williams went to Seneca from Abbeville a few years ago, and it is said made himself objectionable to the whites there. He advised the negroes not to work for the whites. A letter of warning was sent to Williams two weeks ago, advising him to leave Seneca.

New York Milk Bad.

New York, Oct. 15.—Seventy-five per cent. of the milk brought into New York city should be dumped into the gutter," said Nathan Straus yesterday. "Still the increase of cost of certified milk to fifteen or sixteen cents to the consumer will make little difference to those who take the greatest quantity of the supply in the city, as the amount that is certified is only an infinitesimal part of the whole. This increase in price, however, makes it more than ever necessary that the city's whole supply be pasteurized."

Diamonds Higher.

New York, Oct. 15.—Diamonds for holiday presents will cost this year at least twenty per cent. more than they did twelve months ago. Wholesale jewellers are now notifying the retail trade of the increased prices. Firms that buy rough stones from the De Beers syndicate say that one cause of the increase in prices is the unfavorable assorting in many shipments.

Mrs. L. W. Serrell, of West Seventh street, has gone to Europe to remain for an indefinite stay, and Mr. Serrell is living in New York. They have given up their Plainfield home for the winter.

AN AGED FRIEND DEAD

Miss Catherine Webster a Venerable Spinster Dies After a Week's Illness.

LEAVES A FORTUNE

Nearest Relatives Are Cousins—Funeral Services Friday Afternoon at Late Home.

Miss Catherine Webster, one of the oldest members of the Religious Society of Friends in this city, died at her home in East Second street, yesterday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock, following an illness of about one week. She attended the meeting of Friends on Sunday, October 7, after which she visited Hillside cemetery. There she contracted a cold which undoubtedly caused her death. During the past two days she was unconscious.

Miss Webster was a remarkably active woman for one of her years. She was born in a house at Hillside and Watchung avenues, nearly eighty-two years ago. Her parents were Nathan Webster and Catherine R. Vail. Her mother died three weeks after she was born and her father was killed two years later. Miss [illegible] parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Webster. She lived in the house in which she was born until twelve years ago when she moved to the house in which she died.

During her life Miss Webster made eight trips to California, where nearly all of her near relatives reside, and she always took the journey across the continent alone. Her last trip to the Pacific Coast was about three years ago. Up to within the last few days of her death Miss Webster's mind was as clear and active as at any time during her life. For many years Miss Mary Terry was her companion.

Miss Webster was a birthright member of the Religious Society of Friends and was a regular attendant at the Plainfield Meeting. She was a generous contributor to charity, and especially to needy members of the Society of Friends. Great interest was taken by her in the Children's Home and in Muhlenberg Hospital. She was considered one of the wealthiest Friends in New Jersey, owning much property here. It is said that her estate is worth over $100,000.

Her nearest relative in this city is Miss Agnes Vail, daughter of the late Mahlon Vail, who is a first cousin. Edward and Walter Vail, the former of Arizona and the latter of Los Angeles, brothers of Miss Vail, bear the same relationship. She also has numerous second and third cousins in California.

The funeral services will be held from the late residence on East Second street, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and interment will be in the Friends cemetery. W. W. Williams, a leader in the Plainfield Meeting, will probably have charge of the service.

TRAVELS ALONE AT 71.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Schomp Are a Hardy Couple.

Although over 71 years old, Mrs. G. D. Schomp, sister of G. Q. Dolliver, of Fairview avenue, started all alone on her way back to her home in Kansas yesterday, after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Dolliver.

Mr. and Mrs. Schomp came East four months ago, and have been spending that time in visiting friends and relatives in Somerset and Hunterdon counties. Mr. Schomp is an old Somerset resident. A son, Victor Schomp, lives in New Market. A son-in-law, John Brewer, lives on Stone street.

Mr. Schomp is a representative of the American Bible Society, and will sail, on its business, for Porto Rico Saturday. He was in Porto Rico on the same mission three years ago. He joined the Bible Society forces six years ago, and, despite his great age, learned the Spanish language to widen the field of his work.

Gift of Cotton Plants.

Counsellor Nelson Runyon received by express from Anderson, S. C. Saturday, a box of cotton plants loaded with buds and blossoms. They were sent him by John M. Hubbard, a jeweler in that city, and are considered among the best specimens that have been seen in Plainfield. Mr. Runyon and Mr. Hubbard met and became fast friends while both were spending their vacations at Asbury Park the past summer.

Big Stars Coming.

Time is being held at the New Plainfield for Richard Mansfield, Maude Adams, Anna Held and several other stars of equal prominence. Manager Counihan has also been promised the first performance outside of New York of Richard Carle in "The Spring Chicken."

MR. SQUIRES' FUNERAL THURSDAY AFTERNOON

REV. DR. RICHARDS TO OFFICIATE—OTHER MINISTERS TO ASSIST.

The funeral of Henry Chadwick Squires, who died suddenly at his home on Watchung avenue, yesterday, will be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon at 4:30. It will be largely attended by members of the church, delegations from the various chapels conducted by it, and business men from New York. Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, of the Brick Presbyterian church, Dr. Zelie and other local ministers will assist in the service.

Mr. Squires' death was a great shock to the community and expressions of sorrow have been heard on every side. His loss will be keenly felt at Hope chapel and the members of that congregation can hardly realize that he has been taken from them. During the usual session, Sunday afternoon, he distributed merit badges to scholars who had been present at every session during the year and gave a lengthy address, afterward speaking words of encouragement to the entire school for renewed effort and study during the winter. He was greatly pleased with the day's session and never left the chapel in a happier frame of mind.

MRS. HALLOCK DEAD AT AGE OF SEVENTY-THREE.

Mother of Mayor Jenkins' Wife Passes Away After Two Months Illness.

Mrs. Charlotte E. Hallock, widow of James Hallock and daughter of Mary and the late Issac M. Mead, died last evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, of East Front street. She had been ill for the past two months with a complication of troubles.

Mrs. Hallock was seventy-three years of age and had been a local resident the greater part of the time. Her husband was for many years teacher of penmanship in the city schools and both were widely acquainted. She was a member of the First M. E. church and was always interested in religious work.

Mrs. Hallock is survived by another daughter beside Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. W. H. Bryant, of New York, and four sons, George and Willard Hallock, of this city; Fletcher Hallock, of Pittsburg, and Dr. Frank Hallock, who is now abroad. Mrs. Hallock's mother, Mrs. Mead, resides at Dr. Jenkins' home and is in her ninety-third year.

The funeral will be held at her late home, Thursday afternoon at 2:15.

MME. MODJESKA PLAYS LAST LOCAL PERFORMANCE.

Great Polish Actress Presents "Macbeth" as Her Farewell.

Mme. Helene Modjeska, who in her best days was considered one of the foremost actresses in the country, bade farewell to Plainfield last night in one of the performances that is to mark her retirement from the stage. She chose "Macbeth," in which she has appeared thousands of times, as her vehicle and her work shows that advancing age has placed its hand lightly upon her. She played "Lady Macbeth" with much of her old time spirit and the large audience frequently brought her before the footlights to bow acknowledgment of their appreciation.

Modjeska's supporting company has been selected with much judgment and both Charles D. Herman as "Macbeth" and Frederick Montagu as "Macduff" won deserved applause. The costumes and scenic equipment as provided by Manager Jules Murry for the production were handsome and appropriate.

Noted Speakers Coming.

James E. Martine, the Democratic candidate for Congress, is making arrangements to have W. G. McAdoo, former police commissioner of New York and at one time Assistant Secretary of the Navy, speak in this city in the near future. He has also arranged for the appearance here of Congressman William Sulzer, of New York.

Hallowe'en Tea.

The Silver Circle of King's Daughters will give a Hallowe'en tea at the home of E. T. Wilson, 42 Sycamore avenue, Wednesday night, October 31.

"WORST BOY" CONFINED

David Freedman Sent to the Reform School at Jamesburg.

ONLY 12, BUT A TERROR

Has a Long String of Crimes, Including Horse-Thievery and Burglary to His Credit.

Twelve years old and glorying in his crimes, David Freedman, rated by the police as the worst boy in Plainfield, has been committed to the Reform school at Jamesburg by Judge Atwater.

Freedman is said by the police to be a perfect type of degeneracy. For years he has been making work for them, stealing at every opportunity, and shrinking from nothing in the way of thievery. He stole horses several times with the cunning daring of old rustlers, and burglary seemed like literal child's play to him.

Several times Chief Kiely was on the point of having him sent away, but his mother, Mrs. Lena Freedman, begged successfully to have him saved. She herself, however, was finally accounted one of the worst influences to which the boy could be subjected, and after her place had become an object of constant police surveillance and she was convicted of running a speakeasy, her influence as a saving factor in the boy's case was lost.

The boy himself seems to be a hopelessly instinctive criminal. He has the appearance of a dull boy, but into his eyes and his speech flash, every little while, a hint of the slyness and cunning that mark his police record. At no time has he shown either a realization of moral wrong or concern over the consequences of his acts.

Since his incarceration in the county jail Freedman, as if not realizing the serious nature of his offenses, has confessed to having some months ago entered and attempted to rob a coal dealer's office here. He says that assisted by a companion of about his own age he effected an entrance by smashing in the panel of a door with an ax. Evidently with much pride, he told how he ransacked the back room of a real estate office without being detected, the proprietor being seated at his desk in the front office while he was at work. In order to deaden his footfalls he said he took the precaution to wear stockings outside of his shoes.

"When that boys grows up he will probably be as thorough a crook as any police wants to handle," said Chief Kiely commenting on him.

PLAINFIELD COUNTRY CLUB HAS SUCCESSFUL SEASON.

Active Membership List Almost Filled and Will Not Be Increased.

The Plainfield Country Club held its monthly meeting at the Casino, last night, when reports were presented and a discussion followed regarding the condition of the organization. It was stated that the club had had a very prosperous season, that more than the usual number of members had taken part in the various events on the course and assisted in making the social life of the club a success.

The active membership is limited to 400 and there are now 392 in that class, leaving only eight vacancies to fill. It is doubtful if the limit will again be increased for some time, owing to the expense it would increase. New members are now constantly being received, those joining now being charged but a half a year's dues. As long as the weather permits the clubhouse and course will be kept open, which it is hoped will be as late as December 1.

BOOK CLUB ELECTS.

W. L. C. Glenney Chosen Secreary-Treasurer.

The annual meeting of the Watchung Book Club was held last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Yates, of Kensington avenue, when arrangements were perfected and officers elected for the coming year. The club, whose membership is limited to twenty-five, purchases a certain number of books each year and these are exchanged among the members. The club was organized four years ago and it has but one officer, W. L. C. Glenney, secretary and treasurer, and an executive committee consisting of two men and two women.

Mr. Glenney was re-elected secretary and treasurer last night and Dr. W. H. Murray, Henry B. Newhall, Mrs. John Doul Miller and Mrs. J. S. Zelie were chosen as an executive committee.

—David N. Force broke ground this morning for a new house on Watchung avenue, between Regent street and Codington avenue.

MRS. LOWRY PRESIDENT

Mrs. Herring's Successor is Chosen by the Monday Afternoon Club.

DELEGATES SELECTED

Resolutions On Death of Mrs. Mason W. Tyler Adopted — Papers Read by Mrs. White and Miss Osgood.

An unusual feature of the programme of the Monday Afternoon Club at this season was the election of a president at its meeting yesterday afternoon at the Casino. This action was made necessary by the resignation of Mrs. Frank O. Herring, who will spend the winter with her husband in the Adirondacks. One of the vice presidents, Mrs. James R. Joy, presided. The result of the ballot was the unanimous election of Mrs. Robert Lowry, whose previous term of office for two years' length, expired in May, 1905. Mrs. Lowry gracefully accepted the position with a few words of thanks.

Resolutions were adopted in recognitoon of the worth of the late Mrs. Mason W. Tyler, a valued member of the club. An expression was given to the club's appreciation of the services of the corresponding secretary, Miss Julia Scribner, who is ill in the hospital. The expression of sympathy to her included the gift of flowers from the club.

Interesting papers were given on "The Plays of Victor Hugo" by Mrs. Henry C. White and "Victor Hugo's Character As Portrayed in His Poetry" by Miss Ellen Louise Osgood. Discussion followed.

Delegates appointed to the State Federation of Women's Clubs meeting at Asbury Park, October 26 and 27, were the president, Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. James R. Joy and Mrs. D. M. Van Vliet. Alternate, Mrs. James W. De Graff.

CHOIR GUILD FORMED BY EPISCOPALIANS

TO INCLUDE CHOIRS OF CHURCHES IN UNION AND SOMERSET COUNTIES.

For the purpose of developing choir singing in the Episcopal churches and interesting singers in the study of high-class music, the rendition of which is possible only by large choirs, the Episcopal Choir Guild was organized last night. The meeting was held in the office of Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, in Grace church parish house. There was a good attendance and considerable interest was shown in the new organization.

At present the guild includes Grace and St. Stephen's churches, of this city, and Holy Cross church, of North Plainfield. It is proposed to admit into membership the choirs of Episcopal churches of Union and Somerset counties as they make application.

It is also proposed to hold the first musical service at the Feast of the Ascension next year and the time for holding rehearsals will be fixed by the music committee, composed of William E. MacClymont, organist of Grace church; Alfred Lacey, of St. Stephen's church, and Organist Luhr, of the Holy Cross church.

Rev. John H. Egar, of North Plainfield, was elected president of the guild, William E. MacClymont the precentor, and Rev. A. S. Peck, of St. Stephen's church, secretary and treasurer. The guild will meet subject to the call of the president.

ENTERTAIN NEW MEMBERS.

Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., Has a Pleasant Little Reception.

In honor of five candidates who were initiated last week, Plainfield Council, No. 293, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a reception and musicale last night. The affair was for members only. The newly elected members are H. W. Rankin, A. N. Laggren, W. E. Steininger, H. Y. Hartley and Ernest Jackson.

Phonograph selections by Harry K. Lister, selections by the lodge orchestra, and speeches by Harry C. Runyon and P. H. Latourette, in happy vein, were on the programme. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

The committee in charge was made up of W. F. Richards, chairman; George B. Cratsley, Alfred J. Dayton, C. S. Giles, R. I. Runyon.

SYNOD AND BISHOPS LAW

Strong Deliverance Expected From New Jersey Presbyterians.

ANNUAL MEETING NOW

Dr. E. B. Cobb Probable Moderator—Local Churches Are Represented by Their Pastors.

It is probable that an unusually strong deliverance on temperance will be requested at the annual meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of New Jersey, which began in Asbury Park last night. The Rev. Joseph Howell, of Hamilton Square, Mercer county, who is chairman of the synod's special committee on temperance legislation, has communicated with all the Presbyterian ministers in the State, asking their views of the "bishops' law" and local option. In a circular he has issued, Mr. Howell says:

"A persistent effort is being put forth by the liquor element of the State to repeal the 'bishops' bil' at the coming meeting of the Legislature, and to pass a law legalizing the sale of intoxicating liquors at certain hours on the Lord's Day. The German-American Central Alliance of New Jersey has passed resolutions to that effect, and has forwarded the same to the political parties of the State, and asked that the resolutions be made a part of the platform."

The communication goes on to quote the resolutions of the Central Alliance, and each minister is asked to send in his vote to the synod's committee, upon the question of the repeal of the "bishops' law." The further statement is made in the communication that "A new effort will be made this winter to get a local option law." It was to fight for the latter that the committee on temperance legislation was named.

Part of the programme of the synod's first session will be the election of a moderator. Dr. George Swain, of Allentown, the retiring moderator, will preach the customary sermon before his successor is elected, and then the committee of arrangements will report through its chairman, Dr. John Leroy Taylor, the pastor of the local church. The standing committees which the new moderator has in his province to appoint will not be announced until this morning.

The privilege of naming the moderator falls to the Presbytery of Elizabeth this year, and it is thought that Rev. Dr. Eben B. Cobb, of the Second church, will be its choice, in recognition of his long service as chairman of the Committee on Synodical Home Missions, which will celebrate its twentieth anniversary this evening.

An unusual feature of this convention will be the hearing of the report of the synodical home mission committee tonight, and the dicussion of it the following day. The chairman, Rev. Samuel McLanahan, has arranged his programme in this novel way in order to add interest to the anniversary celebration of his committee on the evening mentioned.

The synod has lost the presbytery of Havana since its last meeting, but it will scarcely miss its absent member, for the presbytery came in only last year, and subsequently the general assembly turned it over to a more contiguous protector, the synod of Florida.

Both the First Presbyterian and Crescent Avenue Presbyterian churches are represented by their pastors, Rev. Charles E. Herring and Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, respectively, and by lay delegates.

CODINGTON, VICE PRESIDENT.

Teachers' Retirement Fund Strengthened by Reorganization of Board.

Former City Judge William R. Codington has been elected vice president of the newly commissioned board of trustees of the teachers' retirement fund. State Superintendent Charles J. Baxter is president and Miss Elizabeth A. Allen, of Hoboken, secretary.

The decennial anniversary of the establishment of the fund has just passed. During the ten years 130 teachers have been retired, with aggregate paid annuities of $123,000. With all debts paid the fund has a balance of about $90,000. In ten years it has paid administration expenses of $16,000. Under the new act these expenses will cease.

PROPERTY OWNERS WANT BRIDGE ON DUER STREET

FREEHOLDERS TO BE ASKED TO BUILD ONE OVER STONY BROOK.

Property owners on the upper part of Duer street which was recently accepted by the borough, are circulating a petition for presentation to the Somerset county Board of Freeholders, asking that a bridge be erected on that thoroughfare over Stony brook. The steam crosses at a point just above Greenbrook and at the present time is practically impassable owing to the need of an adequate structure. The street has been placed in first class condition and the section is rapidly building up.

Elston M. French has taken the initiative in the matter and a large number of names have already been secured. It is hoped to have the petition in shape so that it can be in the hands of the freeholders at the next regular meeting. It is said that the members of the board have been broached on the subject and feel inclined to grant the request when it is formally received.

"REV." JONES NONSUITED; PASTOR'S SALARY CASE.

Failed in Attempt to Recover Alleged Claim from Calvary Baptist Church.

Because of his failure to produce a copy of an alleged contract in writing, which he claimed existed between the Calvary Baptist church and the late pastor, Rev. Scott Wallace, "Rev." George Jones, a step-son of the dead pastor, was non-suited at Elizabeth yesterday. The action was brought by Mr. Jones against the church to recover $1,918, which he claimed it owed his step-father. H. C. Runyon, Esq., was counsel for the church and assisting him was W. S. Angleman, Esq.

"Deacon" Spencer Conway was the first witness called and he maintained that there was a written contract between the church and the late pastor, Rev. Scott Wallace. He said that he was chairman of the board of trustees at the time and was sure of it, but when asked to produce the document he was unable to do so and the court promptly granted the petition of the defendant for a non-suit.

District Court Cases.

Five minor cases were disposed of in the District Court this morning out of a list of fourteen. The Dunlap estate secured a verdict for possession of premises against Bertha Gromish; D. G. Atwood secured a verdict in a contract case against W. J. Shoemaker; Herman Michelson's suit against Peter Zimmerman, on contract, was discontinued; J. A. Smith & Bro. secured a verdict against W. G. Osgood, on contract; Walter L. Hetfield, Sr.'s replevin action against Charles Gould, of Cranford, was nonsuited. It will be brought again next week.

SEC'Y. SHAW COMING HERE

Head of Federal Treasury Department to Be Mayoralty Candidate's Guest.

BALK AT ENDORSEMENT

His Political Friends Opposed to Having Fisk's Name On Democratic Ticket—Mass Meetings.

Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw will be the guest of Charles J. Fisk, the Republican mayoralty candidate, tomorrow afternoon and night. Mr. Shaw is expected to arrive here about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and will be driven directly to the Fisk home in West Seventh street.

After dinner, Mr. Fisk will accompany his guest to Elizabeth, where the Cabinet officer is due to speak at a mass meeting for Congressman Charles N. Fowler in Jacobs' theatre at 8 o'clock. The Iowa statesman will spend the night at the Fisk mansion here.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith is endeavoring to pursuade Governor Stokes to speak at the mass meeting to be held here on Tuesday next when former Governors Voorhees, Griggs and Murphy are scheduled to make addresses in the New Plainfield theatre. If the Governor, who has already promised to make an appearance at a mass meeting to be held in Elizabeth on November 2, cannot come here, State Treasurer F. O. Briggs, chairman of the State Republican Committee, will appear in his stead and will act as chairman.

It is almost certain that C. J. Fisk will refuse to accept an endorsement from the Democrats. His political friends claim that it would be unwise for him to have his name appear on the Democratic ticket. The reason they advance it that it would tend to swell the Democratic vote.

Assemblyman Perkins speaks tonight at Garwood.

MRS. DAVIS' FUNERAL.

Service at Home of Mrs. J. O. Stevens Largely Attended.

The funeral of Mrs. Louisa P. Davis, widow of P. Davenport Davis, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. O. Stevens, of Clinton avenue. It was conducted by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends.

A quartette composed of Miss Edith Boice, Mrs. Louis O. Barton, E. E. Runyon and William N. Runyon sang several selections. There was a profusion of floral tributes from friends, many of them being set pieces.

Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall bears being six grandchildren, George O. Stevens, Malcolm Davis, Archibald, Maxwell, Paul and Hugh Brakeley.

Ira Wells Wood, Republican.

J. Allen Southwick, Democrat.

Rival Congressional Nominees in the Fourth District.

Ira Wells Wood, of Trenton, was born in Wilkes Barre, Pa., June 19, 1856; is an alumnus of Princeton University, class of '77; is a counsellor-at-law of the Bar of New Jersew; was a member of the Board of Education and Common Council of the city of Trenton; was President of Trenton Board of Trade; was a member of Assembly in the New Jersey Legislature, 1899 and 1900; was appointed by Governor Murphy a Commissioner for New Jersey to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition; was elected to fill the vacancy in the Fifty-eighth Congress caused by the resignation of the Hon. William M. Lanning, who was appointed United States District Judge for the District of New Jersey, vice Hon. Andrew Kirkpatrick, deceased, and also for the full term in the Fifty-ninth Congress.

In naming J. Allen Southwick for Congress, the Democrats of the Fourth District of New Jersey have chosen wisely. Mr. Southwick is not an office-seeker, and though he has always been an active Democrat, he was never a candidate until his party in the First ward made him its nominee for Common Council one year ago. Then, as now, the office sought the man, and the man as an American patriot responded promptly to the call.

Mr. Southwick's Democracy is not of the questionable variety denominated Democracy because of its opposition to the party in power. Democracy with him stands for certain well defined governmental policies outlined by Jefferson and defended by all true Democrats from that day to this.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

With Mack in the box and most of the Jersey City Eastern League players in the other positions, the Rahways defeated the Elizabeth Stars at Elizabeth on Sunday by a score of 5 to 3. It was largely a battle between Mack and Luyster, who twirled for the Stars.

From all accounts Adam Nuebeck's venture at Elizabeth with the Invaders has been rather expensive. One in a position to know said yesterday that the new team has closed the season with nearly $1,000 indebtedness. It is dollars to cents that Frank Burke has no such deficit as that and he has given as high class ball as his rivals. It is no secret that the Invaders were losing money, and towards the windup of the season it was only a question as to how much the loss would be.

The fact that the White Sox won the world's championship by defeating the Chicago Cubs gives general satisfaction throughout the baseball world. Last year the New York Nations won everything and it is only fair that the American League should get some of the honors. The Chicago Americans played a superior article of baseball throughout the season and in the world's championship series and deserves the high position attained in the National game. It will have a tendency to give the American League the recognition it deserves.

With Joe Doyle on the firing line, the New York Americans defeated the Daabsters at St. George's Cricket Grounds, Sunday, by a score of 3 to 0. The Hobokens secured eight hits off of Doyle, while "Willie" Deegan held the Yankees to five singles.

At the close of the world's championship game in Chicago on Sunday, Charles Comiskey capped all the great and royal baseball benefactions ever heard of. He drew his personal check for $15,000 and the money is to be divided among the players of the team. Even Roth and Quillin who were ineligible for the series will get their share.

Three-Fingered Brown got his in the world's championship series. To lose two games in three was hard lines for the champion pitcher of the National League.

Captain Chance and his men, of the Chicago Nationals, are heartbroken over the result of the world's championship series. They had relied on winning the series and many of them had bet more than the losing end of their money. They are a despirited crowd.

GOLF.

College golfers are gathering at Garden City for the annual championship tournament of the Intercollegiate Golf Association, which will begin today and continue throughout the week. A start will be made with the team matches, which will claim attention today and tomorrow. The three remaining days of the week will be devoted to individual competitions. Since the tournament a year ago, Williams College has been admitted to membership in the association. The Williamsport golfers will not muster a team in this championship, but they will be on hand for the individual competitions later in the week. Robert Abbott, of Yale, is the champion. In the final round at Garden City last year he defeated his colleague, Ellis Knowles. Other prominent Yale players are W. E. Clow, Jr., Dwight Partridge and C. E. Van Vleck, Jr. Harvard will have W. Hickox, Jr., H. H. Wilder, E. W. Clark, 3d, and Templeton Briggs. Princeton is confident of making a strong bid for individual honors with Howard J. Gee, winner of the recent Richmond County Country Club open tournament; H. C. Richard, runner-up to Gee in the same tournament; W. T. West and D. H. Barrows. Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania are doubtful quantities. This tournament will be additionally interesting because it will be the first time an important event has been decided over the Garden City course since the radical changes have been made in the course. Rolling greens such as those at Garden City are of a nature to tax the resourcefulness of a professional, let alone a college golfer.

If the Eastern women have their way the next women's national golf championship tournament will be decided on a course near Chicago. They declare this to be only fair to the Western women, who, they say, are entitled to a return team match. The Midlothian Country Club has already filed an application for the championship with the United States Golf Association. Midlothian has been the scene of Western championship tournaments. Several years ago it applied for the women's event, but received no recognition, and a little later resigned as an associate member. Within a year the Midlothian Club was re-elected to the associate list.

By Tom Muir.

Thomas Riley, a well known theatrical man who managed the Denman Thompson production of "The Old Homestead" for years and who was in Plainfield with the show last season, died last week at Brockton, Mass. He had many acquaintances in this city.

It is not often that Charles Frohman comes forward with a story of receipts, but when Maude Adams in a New York State town makes all previous records look like counterfeit money; he is like Bill Simmons, who couldn't keep still. The cause of Mr. Frohman's ebullience is the aggregate of receipts of a three days' sojourn at the Lyceum theatre, Rochester. Miss Adams opened her season there last Monday night in "Peter Pan," and a grand total of $7,700 was registered after the reckoning Wednesday night..

To enable his company to fill an engagement at the Mobile theatre, Mobile, Ala., last Friday night, Charles F. Orr, with the Al G. Fields Minstrels, ran an engine fifty-seven miles to Troy, Ala., Friday afternoon after the engineer in charge of the special train had been taken ill while making his run. The company played at Jacksonville Wednesday night and because of a change of route, which cancelled the engagement at Pensacola, had to stop off at Troy and give a performance Thursday night. The company's train had to be run special from Jacksonville over the Coast Line. The train left Jacksonville early Friday morning to make the three hundred mile jump. At about noon Engineer George F. Walters, of Jacksonville, who left a sick bed to take the special through, suffered a relapse, and because of his illness the train was delayed at a station fifty-seven miles from Troy. When Orr learned of the absence of the engineer he immediately asked to be permitted to run the special into Troy.

Blackwood, of the Rutherford Public Library, "The Library Summer School at Asbury Park and Its Value to Those Who Attend It;" Miss Cornelia A. See, of the New Brunswick Public Library, "A Good Charging System for a Small Library and the Advantages of a Good System;" discussion opened by Mrs. Sara C. Van DeCarr, head of the delivery department of the Free Public Library, Newark.

MOTORISTS TO DEMAND CHANGES IN AUTO LAW

WHILE NEW BILL HAS MANY GOOD POINTS IT IS FAR FROM SATISFACTORY.

Despite all denials there is every reason to believe that the automobile people from this section of the country will combine their forces during the coming winter in an effort to compel the Legislature to make some change in the automobile law so that it will be less drastic. The principal question among the enthusiasts is just what they may demand shall be stricken out in reason and justice.

There is practically no possibility that any pressure, however great, could induce the Legislature to drop all the provisions of the motor vehicle act, so it remains merely to decide what the motorists may with reason and a fair show of success ask of the lawmakers.

The drivers of automobiles in this State are not satisfied with the law as it now stands, and they have a right to demand that certain changes be made in it. No one would be willing to say that the Frelinghuysen law has proved an utter failure, but it has without doubt developed some weaknesses that were unforseen. The law does not so provide for its own enforcement as to require that every motorist passing through the State be licensed under its provisions, and herein lies one of its gravest defects.

For a law to make a complete success, it must at least make certain of the carrying out of its own provisions, or it might as well not be on the statute books. The Frelinghuysen law has failed in this, and the fault must be remedied if there is to be any hope of the enforcement of its other provisions. This licensing of all cars is practically the cornerstone of the law. Through it the State obtains a hold upon the motorist that will restrain him from committing an act of recklessness and then leaving the State without a chance to make pay for his lawbreaking.

Under the present state of affairs a motorist may place a number pad on his machine and go on his way, practically without fear of arrest for violation of a section of the law for which the most severe penalty is provided, and this condition will remain so long as the motorist may equip himself with number pads, purchasable at any garage and about which there is no uniformity.

No motorist ever thinks of entering the bounaries of Pennsylvania without first procuring a license. The reason is simple. In Pennsylvania the licenses and the pads as well are furnished by the State. These pads, which the motorist must at all times display prominently on his machine, are uniform and distinctive in design. It is a misdemeanor for any person, aside from the proper State officials, to manufacture these pads, and their design is so different than that of any other that any policeman may tell at a glance whether or not the machine is properly registered.

Then there is provided that a new license must be obtained every year. In 1906, for instance, the pads were of blue enamel with the letters "1906" prominently displayed. The pads which motorists must obtain in 1907 are to be of red enamel, so there will be not the slightest doubt in the mind of any officer as to whether the Pennsylvania automobilist is properly registered.

The advantages of this system are manifold. If mortorists are to be registered—and there are now few who cannot really see the logic in it—the law should provide for uniformity, so that the dishonest motorist as well as the conscientious one will be compelled to register his machine.

As to the reason whether the State can justly tax the automibility more than a nominal fee for registration, and as to the restricting of speed by the law, that is another story.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., wants it distinctly understood that he meant what he said when he announced his retirement from politics. Mr. Smith took occasion to refer to this fact in a brief talk with a reporter Saturday afternoon.

"I am having a hard time to make people believe that I meant what I said when I recently announced that I was out of politics. I suppose that is because I was so long identified with the politics of New Jersey and took an active part in them."

"You were actively in politics a long time," hazarded the reporter.

"Yes," replied the former Senator reminiscently. "I was a very young man when I began to take an active part in political matters. Of course, when I say I am out of politics I do not mean that I have lost all interest in such affairs or that I will not do what I can for the success of the Democratic party, but so far as being a candidate for any office is concerned, I am done. Why as to being a candidate for United States Senator," Mr. Smith continued with a tinge of disdain in his voice, "why I wouldn't take the office if some one had an appointive power and should offer it to me."

Mr. and Mrs. William Callamy, of Union street, are parents of a daughter born to them on Tuesday, October 8.

FAMILY NEARLY ASPHYXIATED.

Millville Merchant Failed to Leave Damper Open.

Millville, Oct. 16.—Aaron Seitzik, a Millville dry goods merchant, and his family barely escaped asphyxiation at their home Sunday night. Seitzik banked the fire as usual on Sunday night, but neglected to open the damper in the pipe. He, his wife, and two daughters, Hannah and Ruth, retired soon afterward.

Mrs. Seitzik awakened early yesterday morning and felt pains in her head. She scarcely could stand, but in her weakened condition tried to rouse her husband and daughters. She could not arouse them, but she managed to summon help. Dr. John W. Wade after great difficulty succeeded in reviving the husband and daughters, who will recover.

Miss Krupp's Wedding Gown.

Essen, Prussia, Oct. 16.—In the presence of Emperor William and one hundred and forty guests Fraulein Bertha Krupp, richest woman in the world, and Lieutenant Gustav von Bohlen und Halbach were married yesterday in a little improvised chapel adjoining the bride's birthplace, the Villa Huegel, by the pastor of the neighboring village church, where the Krupp family has long worshipped. Emperor William sat with the family. Fraulein Krupp wore a princess robe of heavy, ivory tinted crepe de chine, with panels of point de Venise and had a four yard train. The veil was of Brussels lace and tulle. She wore myrtle blossoms on her head and had a few sprays of these flowers at her waist.

A $10,000,000 Suit.

New York, Oct. 16.—It was learned yesterday that an action has been instituted in the United States Circuit Court by Clarence H. Venner against the Great Northern Railroad Company and James J. Hill, its president, as defendants. Mr. Venner asks that Mr. Hill be compelled to make restitution to the stockholders of the Great Northern to the amount of $10,000,000, which it is alleged in the complaint was made illegally by officers of the railroad company through the purchase of Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway stock, which was afterward sold to the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

America's Katekeeper Dead.

New York, Oct. 16.—Nicholas F. Falter, who for the last thirteen years had been the gateman at the entrance to Ellis Island, and probably has seen more immigrants enter the United States than any other man in the immigration service, died yesterday. He was sixty-three years old and had been in the immigration service for more than twenty years.

Russian Terrorist Vengeance.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 16.—On the Moscow Railroad a train yesterday ran over and killed a man who had been bound to the rails near the station of Sokolniki, in Courland. It is supposed to have been a case of revolutionist vengeance.

JUSTICE FORT AS EDITOR

Got Out Lakewood Paper During His Son's Honeymoon.

HIS HUMOROUS NOTICE

Printer's Devil Shows His Disregard of Judicial Dignity—An Old Timer.

Supreme Court Justice J. Franklin Fort temporarily abandoned his judicial duties last week to take up the profession of editing a newspaper and with somewhat doubtful but withal interesting results at least to his son, who is the real editor of the paper his distinguished father was monkeying with.

It is scarcely probable, in view of the results, that Leslie R. Fort, editor of the Times and Journal of Lakewood, will leave the affairs of his paper in charge of his father.

When Justice Fort arrived at the State House after his short career as editor and walked into the conference room of the Court of Errors and Appeals he was in high glee and it was not long before he gave his associates on the bench an account of his brief journalistic career.

The Times and Journal is a weekly. Justice Fort went to Lakewood and climbed upon the editorial tripod. From all accounts, the whole office shivered for an hour until they got used to him. The "devil" regained sanity first.

"'Copy!" he shouted from the composing room door.

"Copy for what?" asked Justice Fort.

"Editorial copy, and get it move on, too," said the boy from force of habit, forgetting whom he was addressing.

Justice Fort thought a great while and wrote a little. He was not in a serious turn of mind and informed the readers, in a humorous vein, that the paper might be a little dull this issue, and asked that the dullness or other shortcoming be excused, as the real editor had been married and was away on his wedding trip when the office "devil" demanded editorial copy.

When Justice Fort viewed his handiwork he was pleased—so much so that he sent for the foreman and instructed him to have the notice set up in the most conspicuous type in the establishment. He was informed that it would appear in "12-point."

Justice Fort told the other judges that he did not know exactly what 12-point was, but was assured that it could be read without the aid of a magnifying glass. When Editor Fort receives a copy of the last issue of the Times and Journal he will recognize the fine hand of his father in a notice at the head of the editorial page, which was printed in big type, so large as to be highly suggestive of the "yellows." It read:

"'Married—The editor of this paper this week on Wednesday. As he is away as this issue comes from the press, if there are any errors they must be charged to the printer's devil, as must this paper, which is not written by, or with, the approval of that same editor. If we are discharged for this presumptuousness, we ask for the condolence of the public."

In his younger days Judge Fort owned the Newark Morning Times, but he did not like journalism so well as law, and sold the paper.

Deadly Trolley Speedway.

New York, Oct. 16.—Being the fifth victim in three months of the high speed of Amsterdam avenue cars in the neighborhood of Ninety-eighth street, Alexander P. McGrath, four years old, was ground to death there Sunday night while his mother was watching him from their home, No. 200 West Ninety-eighth street. The child had begged a penny from Mrs. McGrath and with it went across Amsterdam avenue to buy an "ice cream sandwich."

Count Boni's Demand.

Paris, Oct. 16.—On the eve of the trial on October 17 of the suit for divorce brought by the Comtesse de Castellane against her husband, Comte Boni, no compromise has been effected. The Count has refused the offer made in behalf of the Countess to settle a fixed income on the father of her children. The amount is not ascertainable, but is described as "very liberal, in accordance with the Countess' generous conduct throughout the affair." The Count, however, insists on the liquidation of all his old debts, to which, it is stated, the Countess' family would never agree.

Gould Separation Averted.

New York, Oct. 16.—That the reconciliation of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Gould has been accomplished by Miss Helen Gould and other members of the Gould family was shown in Hot Springs, Va., last Sunday evening, when Mrs. Frank J. Gould, who had been there for a week, gave a dinner to her husband upon his arrival. Contemplated legal action looking to a separation of the couple was arrested through intervention of others of the Goulds.

Want Political Pope.

Rome, Oct. 16.—In spite of the fact that the Pope is enjoying good health, the matter of the possible result of the next conclave, whenever it does occur, is being discussed even among the Cardinals themselves. The feeling among the Cardinals has changed, and the cry this time will be not for a merely religious Pope, but a political Pope, not for a saint, but for a statesman. There are rumors of an experiment with a foreign Pope.

Peaceful N. Y. Registration.

New York, Oct. 16.—When the polls closed last night the total registration in the entire city was 659,775, an increase of 16,000 over last year and a decrease of 28,600 from two years ago. With fewer than a dozen arrests in the entire city during the four days of registration this year all records were broken. District workers in both organizations were at a loss to explain the lack of disturbance this year.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

HARMLESS SOLUTION TO WHITEN CLOTHES.

It is never necessary for harmful washing solutions to be used in order to facilitate the laundering of clothes, for there are several things that can be added to the water which will quickly eradicate dirt, make the washing easier and will not injure the fabric.

Kerosene is one of the best clothes whiteners and is perfectly safe to use. It is especially good for clothes that have been hanging for a long time and become yellow.

For ordinary purposes use but a tablespoonful of kerosene to a gallon of water.

In the event of garments being very much soiled, and emulsion made from equal parts of kerosene, clear lime water and turpentine shaken until creamy, is invaluable.

Only one cupful of the mixture should be added to a boilerful of clothes. They should be kept over the fire for half an hour.

In the case of men's jumpers, overalls, working shirts or children's stockings or trousers, this emulsion is invaluable.

Make a very hot soap suds and add a small portion of the emulsion to the water. Allow the clothes to remain for about five minutes in the water and rinse with hot water thoroughly.

For in the latter case when the emulsion is used so strong, it is quite necessary that every particle should be removed.

Borax soaps which are free from alkali are good for laundry purposes.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Stand your pans on a damp cloth immediately after taking them from the oven, and the cakes will come out without sticking.

To produce sining results on the mirror and windows, try rubbing them over with thin, cold starch and wiping off with a soft cloth.

Try making a new dress out of a faded one by washing it in boiling cream of tartar water. It will become perfectly white.

If a piece of baking soda the size of a pea is added to each quart of gooseberries before cooking it will materially reduce the amount of sugar required to sweeten them.

Rub the kettle in which jam or preserves is to be made over the sides and bottom with a piece of tissue paper saturated with olive oil, and it will prevent the fruit from sticking.

To make rubber shoes wear longer, from the tops of old rubber shoes cut pieces the shape of a heel. Smear these pieces on the lining side with thick mucilage, or any sticky substance, and place in the heels of rubbers, pressing down firmly. These protectors prevent the rubber from receiving the driect pressure of the boot heels, and can be renewed when they show the least signs of wear. I make my rubbers last much longer by doing this.

In running ribbon through beading half the time adn annoyance will be saved by not removing the bodkin from the beading until the last hole is reached. If the ribbon is fed in straight it will not turn in the beading by this method.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

If choking, get down on all fours and cough.

After the use of a mustard poultice on any part of the body rub that part with camphorated oil to avoid the possibility of taking cold.

At the first intimation of a sore throat try a gargle of one teaspoonful of salt and one of carbonate of soda to half a glass of water.

If stung or bitten by an insect, make a paste of starch powder with chloroform and eau de cologne and apply to the affected part at once.

Persons predisposed toward erysipelas should avoid wines, strong tea and coffee and highly spiced or seasoned foods. The more laxative and cooling the diet the better.

When the youngsters burn their fingers, apply oil of peppermint. It is a wonderful remedy. If the skin is bruised, this cannot be used. In case of that kind apply a solution of baking powder or borax.

TRIFLES OF INTEREST.

In Korea bachelors cannot vote, nor can they buy liquor.

When Turkestan girls become engaged it is the custom for the fiance to pay her parents a sum of money. If she jilts him later, the parents must return the money.

The number of murders and homicides decreased 2,000 in the United States during the last ten years.

The suggestions that motor cars be equipped with cowcatchers is being favorably considered in England.

It appears from loaves of bread found in bake ovens in the ruins of the city of Pompeii that the bakers of that city made their bread into forms that were circular and flat.

A petition seven miles in length and containing over 600,000 signatures is to be presented to the British Parliament next session asking that a bill be passed prohibiting the vivisection of dogs.

An elephant can scent an enemy at a distance of 1,000 yards.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '99, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

"Nonsense!" said I. "What do you mean by 'we'? Nature has been bringing us up for a thousand thousand years. A few years of silly false training doesn't undo her work. If you and he had cared for each other, you wouldn't be here, apologizing for his selfish vanity."

"No matter about him," she cried impatiently, lifting her head haughtily. "The point is, I love him—and always shall. I warn you."

"And I take you at my own risk?"

Her look answered "Yes!"

"Well,"—I took her hand—"then, we are engaged."

Her whole body grew tense, and her hand chilled as it lay in mine. "Don't—please don't," I said gently. "I'm not so bad as all that. If you will be as generous with me as I shall be with you, neither of us will ever regret this."

There were tears on her cheeks as I slowly released her hand.

"I shall ask nothing of you that you are not ready freely to give," I said.

Impulsively she stood and put out her hand, and the eyes she lifted to mine were shining and friendly. I caught her in my arms and kissed her—not once but many times. And it was not until the chill of her ice-like face had cooled me that I released her, drew back red and ashamed and stammering apologies. But her impulse of friendliness had been killed; she once more, as I saw only too plainly, felt for me that sense of repulsion, felt for herself that sense of self-degradation.

"I cannot marry you!" she muttered.

"You can—and will—and must," I cried, infuriated by her look.

There was a long silence. I could easily guess what was being fought out in her mind. At last she slowly drew herself up. "I can not refuse," she said, and her eyes sparkled with defiance that had hate in it. "You have the power to compel me. Use it, like the brute you refuse to let me forget that you are." She looked so young, so beautiful, so angry—and so tempting.

"So I shall!" I answered. "Children have to be taught what is good for them. Call in your mother, and we'll tell her the news."

Instead, she went into the next room. I followed, saw Mrs. Ellersly seated at the tea-table in the corner farthest from the library where her daughter and I had been negotiating. She was reading a letter, holding her lorgnon up to her painted eyes.

"Won't you give us tea, mother?" said Anita, on her surface not a trace of the cyclone that must still have been raging in her.

"I CAUGHT HER IN MY ARMS AND KISSED HER—NOT ONCE, BUT MANY TIMES."

"Congratulate me, Mrs. Ellersly," said I. "Your daughter has consented to marry me."

Instead of speaking, Mrs. Ellersly began to cry—real tears. And for a moment I thought there was a real heart inside of her somewhere. But when she spoke, that delusion vanished.

"You must forgive me, Mr. Blacklock," she said in her hard, smooth, polite voice. "It is the shock of realizing I'm about to lose my daughter." And I knew that her tears were from joy and relief—Anita had "come up to the scratch;" the hideous menace of "genteel poverty" had been averted.

"Do give us tea, mamma," said Anita. Her cold, sarcastic tone cut my nerves and her mother's like a razor blade. I looked sharply at her, and wondered whether I was not making a bargain vastly different from that my passion was picturing.

XIV.

SOME STRANGE LAPSES OF A LOVER.

But before there was time for me to get a distinct impression, that ugly shape of cynicism had disappeared.

"It was a shadow I myself cast upon her," I assured myself, and once more she seemed to me like a clear, calm lake of melted snow from the mountains. "I can see to the pure white sand of the very bottom," thought I. Mystery there was, but only the mystery of wonder at the apparition of such beauty and purity in such a world as mine. True, from time to time, there showed at the surface or vaguely outlined in the depths, forms strangely out of place in those unsullied waters. But I either refused to see or refused to trust my senses. I had a fixed ideal of what a woman should be; this girl embodied that ideal.

"If you'd only give up your cigarettes," I remember saying to her when we were a little better acquainted, "you'd be perfect."

She made an impatient gesture. "Don't!" she commanded almost angrily. "You make me feel like a hypocrite. You tempt me to be a hypocrite. Why not be content with woman as she is—a human being? And—so you could I—any woman not an idiot—be alive for twenty-five years without learning—a thing or two? Why should any man want it?"

"Because to know is to be spattered and stained," said I. "I get enough of people who know, down town. Up town—I want a change of air. Of course, you think you know the world, but you haven't the remotest conception of what it's really like. Sometimes when I'm with you, I begin to feel mean and—and unclean. And the feeling grows on me until it's all I can do to restrain myself from rushing away."

She looked at me critically.

"You've never had much to do with women, have you?" she finally said slowly in a musing tone.

"I wish that were true—almost," replied I, on my mettle as a man, and resisting not without effort the impulse to make some vague "confessions"—boastings disguised as penitential admissions—after the customary masculine fashion.

She smiled—and one of those disquieting shapes seemed to me to be floating lazily and repellently downward, out of sight. "A man and a woman can be a great deal to each other, I believe," said she; "can be—married, and all that—and remain as strange to each other as if they had never met—more hopelessly strangers."

"There's always a sort of mystery," I conceded. "I suppose that's one of the things that keep married people interested."

She shrugged her shoulders—she was in evening dress, I recall, and there was on her white skin that intense, transparent, bluish tinge one sees on the new snow when the sun comes out.

"Mystery!" she said impatiently. "There's no mystery except what we ourselves make. It's useless—perfectly useless," she went on absently. "You're the sort of a man who, if a woman cared for him, or even showed friendship for him by being frank and human and natural with him, he'd punish her for it by—by despising her."

I smiled, much as one smiles at the efforts of a precocious child to prove that it is a Methuselah in experience.

"If you weren't like an angel in comparison with the others I've known," said I, "do you suppose I could care for you as I do?"

I saw my remark irritated her, and I fancied it was her vanity that was offended by my disbelief in her knowledge of life. I hadn't a suspicion that I had hurt and alienated her by slamming in her face the door of friendship and frankness her honesty was forcing her to try to open for me.

In my stupidity of imagining her not human like the other women and the men I had known, but a creature apart and in a class apart, I stood day after day gaping at that very door, and wondering how I could open it, how penetrate even to the courtyard of that vestal citadel. So long as my old-fashioned belief that good women were more than human and bad women less than human had influenced me only to a sharper lookout in dealing with the one species of woman I then came in contact with, no harm to me resulted, but on the contrary good—whoever got into trouble through walking the world with sword and sword arm free? But when, under the spell of Anita Ellersly, I dragged the "superhuman goodness" part of my theory down out of the clouds and made it my guardian and guide—really, it's a miracle that I escaped from the pit into which that lunacy pitched me headlong. I was not content with idealizing only her; I went on to seeing good, and only good, in everybody! the millennium was at hand; all Wall street was my friend; whatever I wanted would happen. And when Roebuck, with an air like a benediction from a bishop backed by a cathedral organ and full choir, gave me the tip to buy coal stocks, I canonized him on the spot. Never did a Jersey "jay" in Sunday clothes and tallowed boots respond to a burly steerer's greeting with a gladder smile than mine to that pious old past-master of craft.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Lovers of minstrelsy, the genuine black-face variety, will welcome the coming of George Primrose and his big minstrel aggregation to the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and evening. He promises the biggest and best minstrel festival ever "pulled off" on the American stage.

To hear Allen Doone laugh or sing, to see him smile or watch him play, is a treat that can be stored in the playgoers' memory and be drawn upon when the evenings are dull and the heart is weary and heavy. When Allen Doone plays Joseph Murphy's "Kerry Gow" some laugh and think that Dan O'Hara is highly buoyant, and paints the lighter side of true Irish souls; others cry and believe that the "Kerry Gow" is the sweetest bit of pathos from Irish land, and between the laughter and tears come the conviction that Allen Doone is a great singer and a fine actor. He will be seen in "Kerry Gow" at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

That jolly jingle and musical oddity, "The Rollicking Girl," which enjoyed a run of two hundred and fifty performances at the Herald Square theatre, New York city, last season, is the attraction announced by Manager Counihan for the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night. "The Rollicking Girl" is without exception one of the brightest musical attractions that have been offered the public in many years, not only on account of its dressy stage settings, large beauty chorus and witty story, but there is a certain catchiness and jingle to the music that never fails to please, and causes that whistling sensation that is ever effective and contagious. Heading "The Rollicking Girl" forces this season is that clever German comedian Barney Bernard, ably assisted by such well known stage favorites as Julia West, Paul Decker, Pearl Suvard and Helen Dexter.

An excellent melodrama will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night introducing the Russell Bros., those popular imitators of female Irish characters. The play is called "The Great Jewel Mystery," and is replete with sensational situations and the narrow escapes common to the detective. In the first act a robbery is so cleverly arranged and perpetrated that the audience will admit it to be a mystery impossible to clean up and herein commences the work of two Irishmen who by assuming disguises and playing female roles accomplish a victory which the police could never hope to work out. The Russell Bros. have for many years been recognized as the best female impersonators on the stage, but it is only a year ago that they resolved to take up the serious drama. Last season their tour was a triumph and now with a new play and a new equipment they may well be rated as one of the first sensational attractions of the road.

Viola Allen, fresh from her triumphs in Washington, where she opened her season October 1, and Baltimore, comes to the New Plainfield theatre Saturday night for a single performance of Shakespeare's historical romance, "Cymbeline," in which she will be seen in a character new to her, that of Imogen. For the last two years Frank Vernon, who also produced "The Winter's Tale" for Miss Allen, has been devoting much time to an exhaustive search in the great English museums for information necessary for a thoroughly correct reproduction of the costumes, architecture and implements of warfare of the period represented in the story of "Cymbeline." It is said that an equal care and attention has been exercised in the selection of the star's supporting company, which is, we are told, composed of actors of sterling merit.

It is good to learn that the De-Koven, Klein and Cook comic opera, "Red Feather," is to visit Plainfield. Manager Counihan of the New Plainfield theatre sends forth the information that the piece will be seen here on Saturday afternoon and evening, October 27, and that the production will be identical with that seen in New York. There will be many of the same company and a splendid musical treat is assured. At the head of the organization in the dual role of Countess Hilda von Draga and Red Feather, Manager Joseph M. Gaites has placed a most popular prima donna, Miss Cheridah Simpson, whose name is too well known in the field of superior operatic entertainment to need special introduction. The company numbers seventy-five people, including a big singing chorus, selected with view to both voice and appearance. To assist in the rendition of the score there will be an augmented orchestra.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fitch, formerly of Westfield, have taken possession of the house on West Front street formerly owned by John McKeon and which was purchased by John Darling.

—While on his way to his place of employment at W. W. Wilson's grocery store on West Third street, Saturday afternoon, Chester Decker accidentally stumbled on a stone and severely sprained his ankle.

—The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is now at work putting its wires underground in West Fourth street. When the work is completed the company plans to keep all pay stations separate from business and residence telephone circuits.

GOLF.

There is considerable speculation as to what will be the winning score in the championship tournament of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association, to be held over the links of the Forest Hill Field Club, on Tuesday, October 23. Thirty-six holes, medal play, are called for on the programme, and, as the course is a short one, low totals are predicted. George Pearson, the club's professional, holds the record at an even 70. This is par golf, and hard to beat, but for all that there are those willing to predict that some player will get around as low as 68. George Low and Pearson claim that about 147 for the thirty-six holes will be the winning score. Pearson has his doubts about 70 being beaten, although Isaac Mackie says he would not be surprised to see some one, favored with a bit of luck, get 69. Forest Hill is a course where a great deal depends upon the second shot. With the exception of the fifth and eighteenth holes, there will be no need for the brassy, so that those who happen to be playing their midirons and mashies especially well will be reasonably sure of getting in the money.

The first annual championship tournament of the Dunwoodie Country Club will be played on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. A handsome cup, emblematic of the club championship, has been presented by Frank Presbrey, and the winner, in addition to having his name inscribed on the trophy, will receive a gold medal outright. The runner-up will receive a silver medal. Conditions call for an eighteen-hole medal play qualifying round on Thursday afternoon, first and second rounds on Friday, with the semi-final and final on Saturday.

As the season is on the wane the attendance at the Park Golf Club increases. No doubt this can be accounted for by the fact that Mrs. Charles Hyde has offered a cup for October competition and there is great rivalry in contesting for it.

FOOTBALL.

The members of the football eleven of the Holy Cross church choir went out last Saturday in search of additional honors and instead they were well trounced by the eleven from the Westfield High School. The score was 29 to 0, but then the Westfield lads outweighed the Plainfield boys about thirty pounds on each player.

RECORD OF 'PLAINS NINE

Suburban Team Won Twenty-Five Out of Twenty-Nine Games Played.

AMATEUR AGGREGATION

Managed By Briant Johnston—George Frentz Was the Captain.

The Scotch Plains baseball team which closed its season on Saturday, has been composed of 'Plains and Plainfield players, and its record has been an excellent one. The team has a claim on the county amateur championship. It opened the season on Saturday, May 5, with the Somerset A. C., of this city. Twenty-nine games in all were played, with a record of twenty-five victories and four defats. The results of the team work are remarkable for a strictly amateur aggregation, not one penny having been expended during the season for the services of players.

The only expense has been for guarantees and in maintaining the grounds, which have been met by the contributions of the club's supporters. The club was organized as an experiment. Some of the players had been out of the game for several years and baseball at the 'Plains was dead. Manager Briant Johnston and Captain George Frentz had an uphill fight for a time in arousing the interest of the fans, but they succeeded, the attendance gradually increased and the team was soon paying for itself.

The result of the season's work has encouraged those interested in the team and next season the team will enter the Inter-City League, recently organized, from the material Manager Johnston has to select from, and the 'Plains will be well represented with strong hopes of winning the pennant in 1908. Following is the schedule of games played and the scores for the past season:

May 5, 'Plains 8, Somerset A. C. 4; May 12, Riversides 4, 'Plains 2; May 19, 'Plains 15, Potter 9; May 26, 'Plains 6, Somerset 5; May 30, a. m., Laurels 9, 'Plains 10; p. m., Married Men 2, 'Plains 8; June 2, Clinton Avenues (four innings) 0, 'Plains 2; June 9, 'Plains 6, Gillettes 5; June 23, 'Plains 5, Berkeley 2; June 30, 'Plains 7, Raritans, of Perth Amboy, 8; July 4, a. m., 'Plains 13, Imperials, of Elizabeth, 0; p. m., Married Men 5, 'Plains 7; July 7, Newark A. The members of the team are as follows: J. Albert, 2b; Reick, lf; Eller, cf; Baldwin, ss; A. Frentz, p; H. Alberts, c; Vanderbilt, rf; G. Frentz, captain and 1b; Schreinbeck, 3b; Johnston, manager and pitcher; "mascot," Willie Stanbery.

Mountain Youth on a Tear.

George Cooper, a young man from over the mountains, rode into the borough last evening and loaded up on the new brand of fuss fungle being sold over there. When he started home it made him think his staid old mare was a race horse from the Belmont stables and he went up and down Somerset street at a pace that threatened to wreck his rig. A cop was attracted by his yells and shouts and Cooper was taken in charge for safe-keeping. He is holding down cell No. 3 at present and will be given a hearing tonight.

URGES TEMPERANCE QUIZ FOR CANDIDATES

LIQUOR MEN ARE BACKING FOES OF RESTRICTIVE LEGISLATION.

Commenting on the notice of the temperance mass meeting which is to be held at the Congregational church Thursday night, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, urged the voters in his congregation, Sunday night, to be alert and watchful in choosing among the candidates for the Assembly.

The liquor organizations, State and national, were backing the men who were thought to be opposed to temperance legislation. He advised the voters to interrogate the legislative aspirants as to their stand on temperance legislation.

"I did not advise them to vote against the men who opposed temperance laws, because that is something for them to decide," said Dr. Schenck this morning, "but I know what I would do myself. The friend of temperance can do only one thing if confronted by a choice between a supporter and an opponent of temperance on his ballot, and be consistent."

Grewsome Prophecy Came True.

New York, Oct. 16.—According to a story told by the neighbors of the late Mrs. Bridget Mooney, of No. 58 Fifth street, Long Island City, who was run over and killed at Second avenue and Thirty-fifth street, Manhattan, last Saturday, a fortune teller had predicted the death of both the woman and her husband during the present year. Mrs. Mooney visited a fortune teller about Christmas last year and was told among other things that both she and her husband would meet violent deaths before another year passed. Her husband was killed by a fall while at work in the Pennsylvania tunnel last spring. She lived in terror of sudden death every day after the accident.

Book on Insanity Laws.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 16.—John Armstrong Chanler, a New York lawyer, who several years ago made a sensational escape from the Bloomingdale Asylum, has written a book which will be delivered from the presses next week, in which he makes sensational statements regarding his imprisonment and in which he states that any man whose relatives aspire to become possessed of his property can be railroaded to an asylum under the charge of insanity and kept there under the prevailing laws of New York. Chanler has been devoting several years to the study of the insanity laws of the world, especially those of New York, North Carolina and Virginia.

Minstrel Boys Hand Shaking.

George Primrose's minstrel troupe, which began its season here last June, arrived in town today for a return engagement at the New Plainfield theatre. The blackface artists have been renewing acquaintances all the morning and Primrose himself held an hour's handshaking bee at the Iroquois. Peter Winn and Peter Benford, Plainfield boys with the troupe, have also been holding levees. They report a splendid season so far and good prospects for their coast trip.

Weightman Will Case Ends.

The Weightman will case at Philadelphia ended abruptly yesterday through Anna Weightman-Walker producing a mysterious bit of paper in evidence which showed that Mrs. Jones-Wister has no claim on the estate. The contents of the paper were not made known but as soon as the paper was shown, Mrs. Jones-Wister agreed with her lawyer to call off the proceedings.

SYNOD STILL AT WORK

Eighty-Fourth Annual Meeting of Presbyterians at Asbury Park.

BLAUVELT MODERATOR

Leander Lovell a Member of Important Committee—Want a Local Option Law.

Leander N. Lovell, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, has been appointed a member of the committee on Synodical Home Missions, at the eighty-fourth annual meeting of the synod of New Jersey now in session at Asbury Park. The sessions are being held in the First Presbyterian church.

At the opening session on Monday Rev. Dr. I. Alstyne Blauvelt, of Roselle, was elected moderator to succeed Rev. Dr. George Swain, of Allentown, Pa. There was a great surprise in store for the delegates when it was announced that Dr. Swain would not be present to preach the customary sermon, because of illness. He was stricken in the pulpit two weeks ago and has since been sent to a sanitarium and given two chances in a million. There is every reason to believe he will recover. In electing Dr. Blauvelt as moderator, it was stated that he holds the record for the longest pastorate in the Elizabeth Presbytery, and Dr. John T. Kerr, of Elizabeth, in seconding the motion to make Dr. Swain moderator, added that eighty years ago Dr. Blauvelt's father was elected to the same office in the synod of New Jersey.

The presiding minister at the administration of the Lord's Supper was Dr. Robert Hamill Nassau, of West Africa, a missionary, and he was assisted by Rev. George L. Richmond, of Boonton, and Rev. Armond W. Wright, of Barnegat.

Yesterday the moderator appointed the various committees, which was followed by reports. Rev. Henry C. Cronin, of Jersey City, made the report of the committee of Sabbath-school work, drawing attention to the progress made during the year. Rev. W. W. Casselberry, of Dunellen, reported for the committee on systematic beneficience, and Rev. W. V. Louderbough, of Salem, presented the report of the committee on temperance. He called attention to the fact that the synod made no mistake last year in appointing a committee to co-operate with representatives with other religious bodies, and with various temperance organizations in the State for legislative work and especially to promote the enactment of a local option law by the Legislature.

Continuing, Dr. Loderbough said: "We believe that the bishops' bill would not have become a law, even in its much modified form, had not the demand for a local option law been pressed upon the Legislature with great zeal by the temperance forces of the State. Our temperance committee was indefatigible in its efforts to arouse public sentiment and gather the supporters of the bill at Trenton."

In the absence of Dr. Allen H. Brown, of Atlantic City, chairman of the committee on historical materials, the report of that committee was presented by the vice-chairman, Rev. Joseph F. Folsom, of Newark. A number of churches were reported as holding anniversaries during 1906, which appears to be peculiarly an anniversary year from top to bottom.

"As I have often said, I believe in labor unions. I believe they have advanced the well-being of every member connected with them, and through them the community has been a gainer.

"Again thanking you, I am,

"Respectfully,

"J. E. MARTINE."

HOPE CHAPEL MEN'S CLUB EXPRESSES ITS SYMPATHY

PASSES RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF HENRY C. SQUIRES.

The Hope chapel Men's Club, one of the most progressive organizations of the many in the West End congregation, met last night, and by resolutions expressed sorrow over the death of Henry C. Squires. The chapel's late superintendent was always an advocate of men's and boys' clubs and the present Men's Club had his advice and support from the time of its inception. It pleased him greatly to see it increase in membership and the officers were encouraged by his presence among them whenever he could possibly do so. Following the passing of resolutions, last night, the meeting adjourned out of respect to his memory. The sympathy of the club was expressed as follows:

"Our friend and superintendent, Mr. Henry C. Squires, having suddenly been taken from us by death our hearts are sad but we cannot fail to be grateful for the strength and beauty of his influence and we hereby make simple formal expression of our gratitude that we have been so long permitted to enjoy that influence.

"We further desire to express our sense of fellowship in sorrow and deep sympathy with the bereaved family of our good friend. We know a little of the greatness of their loss because ours is beyond expression.

"Be it resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Plainfield daily papers and to the family of Mr. Squires."

TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY OF THE CATHOLIC DIOCESE.

Elaborate Exercises to be Held On November 27 and 28 at Trenton.

Pastors of the Catholic churches in Trenton met yesterday afternoon at the Cathedral rectory in that city to plan for a fitting observation of the 25th anniversary of the diocese of New Jersey, to which St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, belongs. This diocese came into existence November 1, 1881, and the exercises incident to the celebration of its quarter century birthday will be November 27 and 28. The commemoration ceremonies will include a pontifical high mass at the Cathedral on the morning of the 27th, a public meeting in Taylor opera house in the evening and a demonstration by the children of the parochial schools the following afternoon. This demonstration will likely take place in the opera house, although this has not been definitely decided.

The feature of the celebration will be the meeting in Taylor opera house the first day. This meeting will be addressed by prominent divines from this and other dioceses. Bishop McFaul, as the head of this diocese, will take a prominent part. In addition to the addresses there will be a musical programme.

At the pontifical mass priests from all the nearby dioceses will be present and the priests of this diocese will participate in the ceremonies. Monsignor O'Grady, of New Brunswick, will preach the sermon.

TROUPE DIDN'T APPEAR.

Minstrels Disappoint New Market and Piscataway First Nighters.

Amusement lovers of New Market and the Piscataway plantations were disappointed by a minstrel troupe last night. The troupe was to have appeared at Friendship Hall, but it didn't show up.

The combination, billed as the Eureka Minstrels, placarded the village and the township several days ago, announcing its coming, and there was a good sized crowd at the hall. Never a sign of the troupe appeared, however, nor even a word of explanation. It is supposed they learned that Primrose was to come to the New Plainfield theatre, last night, and decided that it wouldn't be worth while trying to draw a crowd. The first-nighters of Piscataway are very indignant over the affair.

Butterfly Lecture.

Charles Mathewson, instructor in biology in the city High School, delivered a stereopticon lecture yesterday afternoon to the biology classes on the life history of the butterfly and moth. With the aid of these views Mr. Mathewson explained mimicry and protective coloration better than the classes have been able to understand them before. The slides were a very fine collection loaned by Dr. M. A. Biglow, of the Teachers' College, Columbia University.

Perkins to Be Speaker.

A change has been made in the slate for the reorganization of the incoming Legislature. Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of this county, is likely to be made Speaker of the House, instead of Assemblyman Alfred H. Barber, of Mercer, as was originally intended.

DISTINGUISHED KNIGHTS AT FREEDOM CASTLE

ONE OF THEM, WHO IS EDITOR, GETS NIFTY COPY.

Eagle Knights of high degree were the guests of Freedom Castle, K. G. E., at its meeting last night. Supreme Chief John D. Harger, of Detroit, Mich., head of the order, was there, and Grand Chief William B. Kirby, of Bridgeton, head of the New Jersey knights. They were greeted by a large number of members. It was hoped to have delegations from New Brunswick and Somerville present, but Supreme Chief Harger's visit was planned only a few days ago, and the notice to the other castles of the district arrived too late for response in person.

Mr. Harger and Mr. Kirby came early in the meeting, and saw the degree team initiate two candidates in the third degree. They both warmly complimented the Castle on its team The Supreme Chief said he had never seen the work better performed.

In his greeting as Supreme Chief, Mr. Harger spoke strongly for a militant campaign for the advancement of the order. He dwelt on the ambition of all good knights to bring it to the highest possible plane as to personnel and to the maintenance of that standard.

The Grand Chief spoke on the same line, urging the members to do valiant service in spreading the high and ennobling principles of the order.

Past Grand Chief Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Freedom Castle, also made a forceful speech on the same text. He gave the members an inspiring motto, "Smile and push," under which to work. Short addresses were made by various other members.

A resolution thanking the Bridgeton Evening News for much helpful publicity in the cause of the order was passed. Grand Chief Kirby is editor of the News, and he has been known to discard seven or eight live personals to make room for news of the order. Greater sacrifice than this can no Eagle Knight editor make, and the members were made to understand that by Dr. Buchanan, who introduced the resolution, Editor-Chief Kirby made no statement on the resolution, but after the session he was heard to murmur, "Double-leaded and a two-column head."

An informal reception was tendered to the visitors after the meeting. Music by Dr. Buchanan, DeWitt C. Frazee and M. A. Korff was enjoyed.

LEWIS WILLIAM DRAKE WEDS MISS JENNIE DE CAMP.

Ceremony Performed Last Night by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss at His Home.

Lewis William Drake, of West Third street, and Miss Jennie DeCamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin DeCamp, of Linden avenue, were quietly married by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss at his home last night. The ceremony took place at 8 o'clock and was witnessed only by the bride's parents. Miss DeCamp wore a gray traveling suit and held a bouquet of roses.

Returning to the home of the bride after the marriage, the young couple were tendered a reception at which a large number of relatives and friends were present. Both have many acquaintances in the city and borough and the fact was attested by an array of presents comprising silverware, cut glass and bric-a-brac. They will spend a few days in New York State on a wedding trip and returning will make their home in the borough.

The groom is a machinist in the employ of the Pond Tool Company. He is a member of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., and Court Watchung, I. O. F. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Drake, well known West End resident.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY MEETING AT WESTFIELD

SOME PLAINFIELDERS PARTICIPATE IN THE PROGRAMME.

The semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of the East New Jersey Association, held yesterday at the Baptist church, Westfield, was one of unusual interest. The devotional service was led by Mrs. Charles Conant, of the Westfield church, and the greeting was given by Mrs. F. E. Bruton, also of Westfield. The response was made by Mrs. J. M. Dudley, of Elizabeth, president of the association. "Our Educational Work" was the theme of Mrs. B. J. Shreve, of Plainfield.

In the afternoon an address of deep interest was given by Miss Anna Linker, of Madras, and two enthusiastic addresses followed by Miss Hattie Stelle, of Elizabeth, on "Our Summer School at Northfield," and on the motto of the Farther Lights Society, "Forward," by Miss Elizabeth R. Dimock, of Elizabeth, junior State secretary.

A telegram was sent Mrs. Alonzo Pettit, State president, who was absent on account of illness.

Among the delegates from the Baptist churches of this city were Mrs. A. E. Finn, Mrs. Harry Moore, Mrs. Charles Steiner, Mrs. Compton, Mrs. Theodore Runyon, Mrs. James S. Pray, Mrs. Utzinger, Mrs. Baker, Miss Linda Butler, Mrs. Chandlor, Mrs. Ryno, Mrs. B. J. Shreve, Miss Ida Yerkes, Mrs. James Manning, Mrs. Judson Bonnell and Miss Mary White.

A delightful collation, artistically arranged, was served at the noon recess by the women of the Westfield church.

FAMOUS EVANGELIST COMING TO PLAINFIELD.

H. W. Wharton, Co-Worker With Late Dwight L. Moody, to be Heard Here.

Arrangements have been made for special religious services covering a week or more, to be held at the First Baptist church, under the leadership of one of the most widely known and successful evangelists now living. Dr. Wharton was the chosen companion and fellow-laborer of D. L. Moody in many of his meetings, and is said to be much like Mr. Moody in his spirit and manner. He has been constantly engaged in revival work for twenty years past in all parts of the United States, though chiefly in the middle west and the south. A few years ago great meetings were conducted by him in New York and Brooklyn and in New England. Many thousands have been own to the Christian life through his marvellous power.

It is believed that the entire community, and pastors and members of all the churches will as far as possible unite in the meetings. Dr. Wharton will reach Plainfield the last of next week, and begin his work here Sunday, October 28. Services will be held every evening, and possibly at certain hours of the morning and afternoon.

As crowds are sure to be in attendance when once Dr. Wharton has been heard, the main audience room of the church will be used. Five hundred copies of a special hymn book have been provided, and a large chorus will lead the singing.

Will Fight for Bishops' Bill.

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union a mass meeting will be held in the Congregation church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be addressed by Rev. Hervey Wood, of Orange, who has recently moved to this State, to lead the fight against the repeal of the Bishops' bill. Liquor organization, both State and National, are going to concentrate their power against the bill this year and the churches have been asked to untie and enter the fight. The Christian Endeavor Society will be an important factor in defense of the temperance measure.

Galleryites Disturbed Audience.

During an intensely dramatic scene in the performance of "Macbeth" at the New Plainfield theatre, Monday night, the audience was disturbed by a cat-call from the gallery. Manager Counihan and his attaches made every attempt to learn the identity of the hoodlum but without success. An action of this sort at a high class production is deplored by Mr. Counihan and he has taken steps to prevent a recurrence. In the future a policeman in plain clothes will be seated in the gallery at every performance and any disorderly action will result in the prompt arrest of the offender.

Rink Opening Tomorrow.

Skating will begin in Plainfield tomorrow night. It was announced this morning that Company K's rink would positively open at that time. The floor is in excellent condition and there is full equipment on hand. An orchestra will play.

MR. CASE A V. P. OF AMERICAN BANKERS ASSN.

HIGH HONOR BESTOWED ON PLAINFIELD TRUST COMPANY OFFICIAL.

A much prized honor has been bestowed on J. Herbert Case, secretary and treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company, by the American Bankers' Association now in session at St. Louis. According to a telegram received by him today he has been made vice-president for New Jersey, the sixty-five delegates from the New Jersey State Bankers Association making him their unanimous choice. As there is only one vice-president for each State and as it is a much coveted position among the big bankers, the distinction awarded the Plainfielder has brought him warm congratulations from friends about the State.

When the Plainfield Trust Company was organized a few years ago, Mr. Case, then connected with a banking house in New York, was sought out by the incorporators to take charge of its affairs. He became its secretary and treasurer and subsequently a director. Through his efforts largely the institution has already taken its place among the leading banking concerns in the State. Its new building in Park avenue is considered one of the finest banking homes in New Jersey. Mr. Case is an officer of the Plainfield Library, the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, the First Baptist church and other local institutions.

MRS. ROGERS SUES.

Harry L. McGee Defendant in Action for Damages.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of East Front street, is complainant in the Supreme Court, Elizabeth, today, in an action brought against H. L. McGee, of North Plainfield. In July, 1903, Mrs. Rogers claims she took a Victoria auto to Mr. McGee's garage, which was then located in East Fourth street, for repairs, Mr. McGee promising to put the machine in first-class condition.

Mrs. Rogers claims that she has been unable to use the machine since the repairs were made and she seeks damages. Mr. McGee has filed a set-off, which he claims is due him for batteries and other supplies. Taggard & Thompson, of New York, represent Mrs. Rogers and Charles A. Reed is Mr. McGee's counsel.

Presented With a Set of Resolutions.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M., enjoyed a visit last night from Junior Grand Warden W. D. Wolfskeil and his successor as district deputy, George Townley, of Elizabeth. Jerusalem Lodge has a warm spot in its heart for Mr. Wolfskeil, who was district deputy of the Fifth Masonic District for several years, and in appreciation of his past services, Worshipful Master George Caskie presented Mr. Wolfskeil, on behalf of the lodge with a handsome set of resolutions. They were gratefully received and Mr. Wolfskeil expressed his high regard for Jerusalem Lodge in thanking the members for the beautiful gift. Later in the evening the visiting officers were entertained at a banquet.

Primrose Scores Again.

George Primrose and his minstrel troupe again pleased a large audience at the New Plainfield theatre last night. The show is practically the same as when organized and presented here last June, with the exception that everything moved like clockwork and the comedians and dancers were funnier than ever. The roster has been added to by the engagement of the Groman brothers who are well known to Plainfielders through frequent local appearances at the head of their own shows. The Primrose company goes direct from here to the South, thence across to Texas and California.

Faithless Husband Indicted.

Lambert R. Edmonds, a plumber, of West Front street, who was arrested considerably over a year ago after his wife had tracked him and exposed his engagement to a Metuchen domestic, and blocked his plans for an elopement, has been indicted by the Middlesex County Grand Jury on a charge growing out of his relations with the girl. Constable Robert L. Pierce, of New Market, has been given a bench warrant to serve on him.

Cannot Install "Ys."

Being unwilling to meet the requests of the councilmanic street committee in return for privileges asked, the Public Service Corporation has failed in its purpose of installing "Ys" at certain points in this city for the use of the single-end trolleys of the new type. However, the company is operating a number of these cars on the main line and expect to use them all together when their barns at Lincoln are completed.

PREACHER TELLS OF HIS ESCAPE FROM A MOB

RELATED STORY OF NEW IBERIO, LA., RIOTS SEVENTEEN YEARS AGO.

Rev. Byron Gunner, whose home is in Newport, R. I., but who has spent the greater part of his life in the South, lectured before a large audience at the Mount Olive Baptist church, last night, on "Five hours in the hands of a mob." It was in reality the narration of a personal experience and was used by him as a timely subject in view of the fact that race disturbances have been prevalent in Georgia.

Mr. Gunner was pastor of a church at New Iberia, La., seventeen years ago when a colored boy killed a white man and an uprising of the whites followed. They attempted to drive all the negroes from the town and in the excitement no one was exempted. Mr. Gunner's church and home were burned and he himself was taken by the mob and narrowly escaped with his life. Several men were killed and it was only out of respect to his calling that the minister was spared. The government had to send troops to the scene before the disturbance was quelled.

Mr. Gunner expressed the belief that troubles of this kind are becoming less frequent and gave an optimistic view of conditions in the South. He declared it to be the duty of every colored man to use every influence in maintaining law and order and have the confidence of the white man, not his distrust.

The lecture was given under the auspices of the Baptist Young People's Union of the church.

EDITOR POTTER SUED FOR $10,000 DAMAGES.

School Principal Thomas Grieves Over Publication of a Report.

In the Circuit Court, Elizabeth, today, Prof. Wendell F. Thomas, formerly principal of the Cranford Public Schools, is the plaintiff in a suit for $10,000 damages instituted against J. Alfred Potter, editor and owner of the Cranford Chronicle.

The plaintiff claims that on June 3, 1903, there was published, without comment, in the Cranford Chronicle a set of charges preferred by the Board of Education of Cranford against Prof. Thomas. The following year the principal failed in a reappointment and he claims that as a result of the published charges he has been unable to get another position teaching school.

By way of defense it is stated that in the same publication, June 3, 1903, Editor Potter published two letters from women whose children attend the schools at Cranford, urging that Prof. Thomas be supported and retained as principal of the schools, and furthermore that the Chronicle has frequently since then published articles upholding Prof. Thomas.

The plaintiff is represented by Herbert W. Knight, of Newark, and the defendant by City Attorney James E. Connolly, of Elizabeth.

Bridget On a Spree.

Bridget Coleman, who has a fondness for the crather, succumbed to its temptations yesterday and was gathered into the police net. She escaped under a suspended sentence this morning.

DEMOCRATS FOR MR. FISK

Minority Party Endorses Republican Candidates For Mayor and Collector.

A STORMY CONVENTION

Messrs. Schleif and Homan Named for Freeholders—Rev. Dr. Rodman for School Trustee.

By a vote of eight to five, the Democratic City convention in the law offices of Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., last night endorsed Charles J. Fisk the Republican candidate for Mayor, and John W. Murray, Jr., the Republican candidate for tax collector.

Rev. Erskine M. Rodman was nominated for member of the Board of Education; Stephen Schleif and James P. Homan for members of the Board of Freeholders and the councilmanic ticket is as follows: First ward, John P. Owens; Second ward, Peter Latourette; Third ward, William Harding; Fourth ward, Albert Lederer.

The endorsement of Charles J. Fisk and John W. Murray, Jr., was not secured without a heated argument on the part of the minority. Several delegates were particularly bitter, declaring that the Democratic party here would completely lose its identity by such a course. Others declared that it would not be a wise thing to nominate a mayoralty candidate in opposition to Mr. Fisk.

When a vote was called for from the thirteen delegates to the convention, the following favored the endorsement of Mr. Fisk and Mr. Murray: Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., Edward T. Lynch, J. V. F. Dilts, Joseph Harrigan, William Harding, Stephen Schleif, Albert Lederer and John Casey. Those voting against the proposition were Frank McCabe, Frank Shattle, Clarence Walden, Edward McCue and Patrick Reville.

Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., was chairman of the convention and Edward T. Lynch was the secretary. The credentials of the delegates were accepted without a protest, after which the question of placing a candidate in nomination for Mayor was taken up.

Stephen H. Schleif at once moved that the convention endorse Charles J. Fisk for the nomination, and this motion was seconded by Edward T. Lynch. The chairman of the convention, as well as Mr. Schleif and Mr. Lynch expressed their high regards for the Republican nominee and spoke in glowing terms of his past record as a citizen and office-holder, and they said that it would be a deserved compliment to Mr. Fisk to have the Democratic party endorse him. Remarks in opposition to this action was made chiefly by Patrick Reville, who predicted all sorts of trouble for the party if the endorsement was made. It was estimated by him that there are 1,200 Democratic voters in Plainfield and the proposed action by the convention would be the means of breaking up the party completely.

As the majority of the delegates favored the endorsement of Mr. Fisk the motion prevailed, as was also the motion endorsing Mr. Murray. The motion to endorse the present tax collector was made by his former antagonist, J. V. F. Dilts, and seconded by Joseph Harrigan and complimentary words were spoken concerning Mr. Murray.

Scotch Plains' Winning Baseball Team.

The Scotch Plains baseball team, which closed its season on Saturday, played twenty-nine games with a record of twenty-five victories and four defeats. The results of the team work are remarkable for a strictly amateur aggregation, not one penny having been expended during the season for the services of players.

The only expense has been for guarantees and in maintaining the grounds, which have been met by the contributions of the club's supporters. The club was organized as an experiment. Some of the players had been out of the game for several years and baseball at the Plains was dead. Manager Briant Johnston and Captain George Frentz had an uphill fight for a time in arousing the interest of the fans, but they succeeded, the attendance gradually increased and the team was soon paying for itself.

The members of the team are as follows: J. Albert, 2b; Reick, lf; Eller, cf; Baldwin, ss; A. Frentz, p; H. Alberts, c; Vanderbilt, rf; G. Frentz, captain and 1b; Schrienbeck, 3b; Johnston, manager and pitcher; "Mascot," Willie Stanbery.

two hundred and fifty performances, is announced as the attraction for the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. "The Rollicking Girl" is one of those musical attractions that are made up of the most catchy kind of songs and music that never fail to please, while the comedy element is far from ordinary. The cast this year is headed by Barney Bernard in the role of the funny wigmaker "Schmaltz," ably assisted by Julia West, as Hattie Williams' successor, Paul Decker, Helen Dexter and seventy-five other fun-makers.

The bill at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night will be an excellent melodrama entitled "The Great Jewel Mystery," which gives star roles to those clever comedians, the Russell Bros. These players have made themselves famous in female Irish roles and in that line are probably unexcelled. The play is rather sensational but evolves a reasonable story which will be appreciated by the lovers of melodrama. The story is laid in New York city, the opening scene being at the Gotham Hotel. Quick action commands immediate interest for a very daring piece of confidence work, entangles the principal characters in a labyrinth of trouble, and the law is kept busy to get at the true situation. Two quick witted Irishmen pick up the job and in the end accomplish the desired order of justice.

Viola Allen, who delighted Washington and Baltimore theatregoers with her performance of a role new to her, that of Imogen in Shakespeare's "Cymbeline," comes to the New Plainfield theatre Saturday night in her massive new production of this famous historical romance, previous to beginning a long engagement at the Astor theatre, New York, on Oct. 22. It is said that this, the third recent Shakespearean production made by Miss Allen, is by far the most elaborately beautiful, and that the character of Imogen is ideally suited to this delightful interpreter of feminine loveliness and dignified womanhood. The care and attention that have been given to historical correctness, as well as to the artistic beauty and harmonious coloring of every costume, scene and accessory, while they can never be fully appreciated by the theatregoer, have, we are told, resulted in a massive stage spectacle that is notable even in this age of splendid and costly theatrical productions.

Police Enter Paterson Saloons.

Paterson, Oct. 17.—The police say that Sunday they succeeded in securing evidence against three saloonkeepers for violating the "bishops' law" in selling liquor on Sunday. In the afternoon Warrant Policeman Sautter and Ryan succeeded in getting into Ainsworth's place, at Paterson and Governor streets. The same policemen also gained entrance to Rebner's place, on the opposite corner of the same streets. Detective-Sergeant McInerney and Patrolman Post caught a large crowd in Hofgesing's old place, at Railroad avenue and Market street, and will make a complaint against the proprietor.

Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, of Freeport, L. I., who has been at the hospital where he had an operation several weeks ago, continues to improve and he will soon regain his full health and strength.

Burton Must Go to Jail.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—The Supreme Court of the United States yesterday denied the petition of former United States Senator Burton, of Kansas, for a rehearing in the case in which he is under sentence of imprisonment and fine on the charge of accepting a lawyer's fee in a case in which the government was interested while he was serving as a Senator. The effect of the decision will be the immediate imprisonment of Burton for six months, unless his lawyers devise some other means of postponing the execution of the sentence. Some time ago Mr. Burton caused an official statement to be made by his lawyers that if the Supreme Court denied him a rehearing he would neither apply for a pardon nor accept one if it were tendered.

Boy Badly Hurt By a Fall.

Elizabeth, Oct. 17.—Charles Newell Fowler Martin, seven years old, son of John Martin, who is a porter at the main Jersey Central station here, stumbled on Saturday evening from the top floor of Kurtz Brothers' new building on Elizabeth avenue here. The boy fell about thirty feet and landed on a pile of brick in the cellar. He was removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital, where he is in a serious condition. He is named after Congressman Fowler. The little victim's father lost a son a few years ago from an electric shock which he sustained as a conductor while running an Elizabeth and Newark trolley car in a thunder and lightning storm.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

There are many fans who think it will be a mistake not to permit the West Ends, of Somerville, to join the proposed amateur league. Bogert Conklin, the manager, is quite anxious to get in the league. He is planning to have a good amateur team next season and he realizes that there will be great rivalry between Plainfield and Somerville, and the receipts from these games would be a big item. Besides Somerville has fine grounds, inclosed, something that no other team in this vicinity has. As for the idea that Somerville is too far away to make her entrance into the league practicable, this seems to be a mistake. The place can be reached easily by trolley or train and each team would naturally have a big following. Manager Conklin expects to have a conference with Physical Director Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., to talk the matter over.

If for any reason Somerville should not join the Inter-City Amateur Baseball League, it is quite likely that the team will join a league to be composed of teams from Hopewell, Pennington, Flemington and possibly Trenton. There is talk of forming such a league, but Manager Conklin, of the West Ends, would prefer to join the Plainfield league, believing that it will be a great success.

While the managers of the Inter-City Amateur Baseball League are planning to make the league strictly amateur, it will be difficult to follow this out in every position on the team, especially regarding the batteries. There is no doubt plenty of good ambitious pitchers, but it is a question whether there are enough twirlers to go round and make the league race an interesting one.

Now that the world's championship series is over and the Chicago White Sox have won the championship, the baseball season for '06 can safely be declared over and a thing of the past. The rest of the season will be devoted chiefly to football and then will begin the formation of plans for next year's big league teams. Of course every team will be a pennant-winner, several managers already claiming the honors.

Walsh, who assisted the Chicago Americans very much in winning the championship, was formerly a member of the Newark Eastern League pitching staff. "Penny wise and pound foolish" Burnham, the manager, did not think he was fast enough for his aggregation and let him go. Another bit of conclusive evidence that it is time a change was made in the management of the Sailors.

FOOTBALL.

The P. H. S. and N. P. H. S. football elevens will meet today on Crescent Oval for the first time this season. The Plainfield boys are very confident of winning.

The Orange Field Club will probably play the Flemington A. C. on Saturday. The Hunterdon county boys have a strong aggregation and will make the locals hustle.

For the first time in several years, Leal's School will probably not be represented on the gridiron. This is due to a lack of material, all of the boys at the school this year being much too light for the game. The school lost good material by graduation last year and it will probably be another year before it will have a representative team.

It is plainly evident that the P. H. S. football eleven is not as strong or as heavy as in past seasons. The team's experience last Saturday with East Orange High School proved this statement. It was a poor showing for the local eleven. However, better things are expected of the team before long.

ORANGE HAD A WATER FAMINE FOR FAIR.

Pumps at Campbell's Pond Refused to Work, Although Supply Was Abundant.

Through the defective pumps of the Orange water supply the city was practically without water during the entire morning on Monday. A connection which was made several years ago with the East Orange pipes in Main street at the junction of the two cities, was opened and gave some relief. The water was turned into the supply pipes from the old reservoir and preparations were made to connect with the main pipes of the East Orange supply in Milburn.

With the supply at the East Orange line and the gravity pressure from the old reservoir parts of the city had water, but it was only a small stream. The connection with the East Orange pipe is only a six-inch one and the gravity supply is inadequate for the entire city, even on a Sunday. With the manufacturing interests and the large calls for water from householders on a weekday it was entirely insufficient Monday. Parts of the city were without water all the morning.

Plainfield, N. J., October 17, 1906.

Now that he is the choice of both parties for the mayoralty, Charles J. Fisk need not lay awake at night troubling himself over the result of the coming election. The unanimity of the voters certainly demonstrates that a good citizen is sometimes appreciated.

For a man of his years, J. Herbert Case, secretary and treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company, is making a big mark in the banking circles of New Jersey. The latest honor that has come to him, an appointment as vice president for New Jersey in the American Bankers Association, is an enviable one indeed. It is a true expression of the high regard in which he is held by his colleagues; one of which he is most deserving.

Plainfielders will have an opportunity of hearing some of the distinguished men in the Republican party in New Jersey on Tuesday night. Not only will former Governors John W. Griggs, Foster M. Voorhees and Franklin Murphy make addresses at the scheduled mass meeting in the theatre, but there is a possibility that Governor Edward C. Stokes will have something to say. These men are leaders in the councils which shape the destiny of the party and their speeches should be intensely interesting.

MONTROSS' ADVENTURE.

Fell Asleep Under Chestnut Tree and Staid There Until Midnight.

Charles Montross, who lives on East Third street and who is almost as well known as a baseball player as his brother, "Smiling Jimmy," is suffering from a severe cold as the result of a peculiar adventure he had Sunday. He was visiting Frank Exner on Stony Hill and the two young men with Exner's sisters and other young woman went out in the woods for chestnuts. Montross did not feel well, and while Exner was up a chestnut tree, excused himself and laid down for a brief rest under another chestnut tree a short distance away, saying that he would join the others on their way home.

After gathering a supply of nuts the party walked slowly homeward. Montross, however, did not join them and some one suggested going back. "Oh, he's all right," said Exner. "I bet he is home waiting for us." They did not find him there, however, and the girls began to get nervous, insisting that something must have happened to the young man.

It began to get dark, and with lanterns Exner with a couple of other men started to hunt for the missing youth. Shouting, they searched in vain for several hours. After giving up hope they were on their way home about 12 o'clock when Exner, whose lantern had gone out for lack of oil, stumbled upon something. "Bring your lantern here quick," he said to one of the men, and as the light approached, Montross, for it was he, sat up, rubbed his eyes and exclaimed: "Where am I, anyhow? I thought I was on third base, waiting to be knocked home. But," said he, as he gazed dumfounded about him, "I see now I must have gone to sleep here when I was chestnutting. I don't see how it happened."

Church Concert.

A concert will be held at Grace M. E. church, Tuesday night, October 23. A varied programme has been prepared, in which Miss Caroline S. Doll, soprano; Mrs. Elizabeth Von Neer, reader; William N. Searles, Jr., basso cantante; Otto K. Schill, concert violinist, and H. B. Conger, pianist, will take part.

James J. Nash and family, of Manning avenue, have taken apartments in the New Madison.

William Pitcairn Robley, of Glasgow, Scotland, is visiting his cousin, James Harrington Robley, of Myrtle avenue, the borough.

By Tom Muir.

Two years have been spent in the preparation of Viola Allen's massive production of Shakespeare's "Cymbeline," in which Miss Allen will appear at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday night. The first half of the time was devoted to the obtaining of every possible authentic information regarding the costumes, customs, architecture and implements of warfare used in the period of the play, which is about 25 B. C.

Two special sixty foot baggage cars are required to transport the production of "Red Feather," which will be seen here a week from Saturday, and a travelling force of ten men, with twenty assistants, secured in each city visited, to properly prepare the scenery and effects for public view.

The arrival of Clay Clement and his company of more than fifty people at Jersey City in a special train from Omaha late Monday afternoon terminated one of the longest jumps ever made by a road company on tour. To get Mr. Clement to New York in time for a dress rehearsal Monday night at the Garden theatre of "Sam Houston," which opened last night, a special train of five coaches and three baggage cars was provided by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company. The start was made from Omaha at six o'clock Sunday morning, and the journey half way across the continent was made in time that equals any record made by any special train contracted to cover distance within a specified time.

George M. Cohan has not last felt the sting of a failure. His newest play "Popularity," has been voted "unpopular" by the New York public and is to be withdrawn from Wallack's. It will be reconstructed by the author-actor-manager and then placed on the road.

Margaret Anglin and Henry Miller, in "The Great Divide," have made the greatest success of their respective careers. This stirring drama at the Princess theatre, New York, is more than duplicating the splendid impression it made in Washington, Pittsburgh, and the other cities where it was presented before coming to the metropolis. "The Great Divide" has been called a "transcontinental play." It begins in Arizona and ends in Massachusetts. It is at once a "call of the wild," and an exposition of the power of centuries of civilized environment. Its romance is that of a primitive man and a Puritan woman. Thus the play presents a struggle, in which love is arbiter, between the pride of old New England and the freedom and impetuosity of the new Southwest—Priscilla, the Pilgrim maiden, carried off by a Young Lochinvar from out the West. Miss Anglin plays Ruth Jordan, a girl raised in Milford Corners, Mass., a community where prudery reigns supreme, who with her brother, her sister-in-law, and one or two brothers, finds herself transplanted by circumstances to a cactus farm in Arizona, near the Mexican border. There, through a series of amazing but logical events, she comes face to face with the man who is to be her master. After other events equally as astonishing as those that bring them together, she becomes his wife. The remainder of the play deals with the dramatic life of the strangely mated couple; the inevitable clash of two widely dissimilar natures, and the manner in which love levels conditions, and brings the two souls, born and nurtured under such vastly different environments, into perfect accord. The second act is no less picturesque than the first. From the castus farm, the personages are transferred to the "roof of the world," a rocky plateau at the summit of the Cordillera Mountains. From this the action changes to quiet Milford Corners, where Lochinvar, looking strongly out of place so far from his West, but quite masterful withal, at last wins happiness for himself and his bride.

Three Hurt in a Fight.

Paterson, Oct. 17.—As a result of a Saturday evening row which was carried over Sunday, with short intermissions, and in which several Hungarian residents of the over-the-river section in the First ward participated, one man is in the hospital with critical injuries and two others are confined to their homes with wounds sustained in the free fight. Julius Grossman, of 163 North Fourth street, is the man in the General Hospital. Steve Goodman and John Wharton were the other two men injured in the fight.

A Friend Indeed.

New York, Oct. 17.—Half a mile from a railroad and with no means of conveyance at hand, Thomas Doane, of No. 697 Henry street, carried on his back to the nearest surface car William Anderson, eighteen years old, of No. 778 Henry street, who had fallen from a tree Sunday while chestnuting at Rosedale, L. I., and broken his leg. Few would have known of Doane's act had not Anderson told of it to the surgeons and nurses at Kings County Hospital. He was exhausted when he reached the hospital.

Dr. Clive Montfort, of Central avenue, went to Newburgh, New York, yesterday, to attend the wedding of his sister.

STATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION ON NOV. 13 TO 15.

Annual Meeting of New Jersey Association Will Be Held in Somerville.

A preliminary programme has been completed for the annual meeting of the New Jersey State Sunday-school Association, which will be held in the Second Reformed church, Somerville, November 13, 14 and 15. Nearly all of the county associations have elected their delegates; and the Somerville Sunday-schools are making elaborate plans for the entertainment of the guests.

Each Sunday-school has the privilege of being represented, but only those presenting official credentials will re ceive badges admitting them to the body of the convention.

Two workers of the International Sunday-school Association will have a place on the programme. One is Mrs. J. Woodbridge Barnes, of Newark, primary and junior secretary, and the other is Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, of Illinois, international field worker. Mrs. Barnes will speak Thursday afternoon, and her subject will be "Our New Ideals." Mrs. Bryner will talk Wednesday morning on "Sunday-school Work Under Difficulties," and the same afternoon on "Reaching the Child We Teach."

An effort is being made by the Young People's missionary movement to have introduced into the Sunday-school lesson leaves regular periodical Bible lessons on missions. In line with this movement the New Jersey society has invited Rev. Dr. A. Woodruff Halsey, of New York, one of the secretaries of the Board of Foreign Missions, to be the speaker Tuesday night, November 13. His topic will be "The Teaching of Missions in the Sunday-school."

A feature of the gathering will be the sixth annual banquet of the New Jersey Sunday-school Superintendents' Union, which will be held Wednesday night. Charles Madison, of Newark, is making arrangements for the dinner. Prosecutor James L. Griggs, of Somerville, who is the State president, will be the chairman. The chorister will be Rev. B. C. Lippincott, Jr.

The convention will open at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. After devotional exercises there will be a home department institute and an institute for elementary field workers. An exhibit of Sunday-school materials will be held, and Rev. Dr. Milton S. Littlefield, of New York city, will explain some of the modern innovations in teaching Sunday-school lessons.

IN MEMORIAM

CATHERINE R. WEBSTER.

"The Gospel of a life like hers
Is more than books or scrolls.
From scheme and creed the life goes out
The saintly fact survives—
The blessed Master none can doubt,
Revealed in holy lives.

Several days before Miss Webster passed away, she seemed to be constantly thinking of the friends who had departed a half century since.

The Quaker poet wrote:

"When on my day of life the night is falling—
And, in the winds from unsunned places blown,
I hear far voices out of darkness calling,
My feet to paths unknown,
Be near me when all else is from me drifting,
Earth, sky, home's pictures, days of shade and shine,
And kindly faces to my own uplifting,
The love which answers mine."

Do Not Favor Trolley Plan.

Passaic, Oct. 17.—The Public Service Corporation will be notified that its proposition to pay $1,000 a year for the use of the bridge across the Passaic river, between Bergen and Passaic counties, will not be accepted. The freeholders held a conference here Saturday and requested a representative of the corporation to be present. The latter failed to put in an appearance. The freeholders demand that the trolley company pay $10,000 down and an annual rental of $5,000 for twenty years.

Miss Euphemia Demarest, of Park avenue, who has been visiting at Frankfort, has returned home.

STRIKE AT OIL TRUST LIKEWISE RAILROADS.

Senator Minturn Outlines Work He Has Prepared for Legislature During Winter.

Senator James F. Minturn, of Hudson county, intends to introduce at the next session of the Legislature a bill to abolish the State riparian board and to establish a newly constituted body, with enlarged powers. Mr. Minturn will also introduce a bill to establish a railroad and canal commission that will not only provide for general and close supervision of the railroad business of this State, but also the regulation of the Standard Oil pipe line traffic here, and for puting a large tax thereon.

Senator Minturn says these bills will be introduce early in the session so that ample time will be had in which to give he measure thorough consideration and preven their being stalled in committee.

Speaking of his plans, the Senator from Hudson had this to say:

"Unfair rates are stunting the growth of many of our larger towns to an extent that can hardly be appreciated until one has made a careful study of the matter. There are places in our State, not more than 30 miles apart, between which the fare charged is greater than to New York city, three times farther away. I consider the manner of selling excursion tickets to some points as unfair to many localities.

"And the siding privilege in the granting of which the greatest discrimination is sometimes practiced, is a matter over which the State should have control.

"I also intend that the bill shall contain a provision for regulating trolley fares in cities and suburban districts, a casual study of which subject will show there now exists no uniformity whatever. I think, too, trolley companies should have the right to carry freight in competition with steam roads.

"But perhaps one of the most important features of the bill will relate to the control of the pipe line traffic of the Standard Oil company in this State.

"I shall propose that this traffic shall be regulated as are other carriers, and that their pipe line properties and business shall be taxed in accordance with their value, so that the State may receive a proper annual return for the privilege enjoyed by the Standard Oil company in crossing the State with these lines."

A Church's Jubilee.

Seven former pastors of Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, Newark, were present at exercises held Monday night in connection with the jubilee celebration of the church's fortieth anniversary. Among them being Rev. Dr. Snodgrass, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church, this place, who formerly organized the church and secured its recognition by the conference; Rev. H. C. McBride, pastor from 1869 to 1870; Rev. Charles R. Barnes, pastor from 1875 to 1878; Rev. C. F. Little, pastor from 1881 to 1884; Rev. Dr. Warren L. Hoagland, pastor from 1887 to 1892; Rev. W. C. Negro Editor Pays a Fine.

Jersey City, Oct. 17.—T. Thomas Fortune, a negro editor, whose home is in Red Bank, was fined $25 here Sunday for carrying a loaded revolver. Fortune went into the New Jersey Central Railroad restaurant at Communipaw to have a meal. There was a dispute about the coffee and Fortune, it is allaged, went to the waiting room and, after taking a revolver from his satchel, returned to the restaurant. The waiter called Policeman Quinn, who arrested Fortune. He was arraigned before Police Judge Higgins.

Prayer Letter Branded a Fraud.

Paterson, Oct. 16.—Hundreds of people in this city are receiving what purports to be a form of prayer sent out to nine persons by Bishop Lawrence, of the Protestant Episcopal church of Massachusetts. The letter has been branded a fraud, yet hundreds are receiving the letter daily. It is usually sent out signed, and carries with it a threat that the person breaking the chain shall meet with some terrible accident. The letter has been sent to several priests in this city and they have branded it a fraud.

Submarine Stays Down.

Bizerta, Tunis, Oct. 17.—The French submarine boat Lutin left this port yesterday morning for plunging experiments. Signals received at 10 o'clock reported her disappearance. Two torpedo boats and three tugs went in search of the submarine. It appears almost certain, according to news received at a late hour last night, that the crew of the Lutin has suffered a dreadful fate, similar to that which overtook the crew of the submarine Farfadet here last year. The crew of the Lutin numbered fourteen men. None of these boats reported that its crew encountered resistance as though a vessel were lying at the bottom.

UNCLAIMED SAVINGS OF NEW JERSEY BANKS.

Accounts in Seventeen State Institutions Amount to $104,169.57.

Trenton, Oct. 17.—In seventeen of the twenty-six savings banks in New Jersey there is $104,168.57 in unclaimed accounts. Some of this money has been lying in the banks and accumulating interest since 1852. It is used, of course, by the banks for loaning, and they will probably have the benefit of it as long as they exist, unless the depositors come in with their claims, or an effort is made by their heirs to get possession of the money.

The largest account lies in the Provident Institution for Savings, in Newark. The nucleus for it was started on March 13, 1854, by John Coyle, of Jersey City. It has grown during the fifty-two years that it has been in the custody of the bank to $13,248.60, a sum that would undoubtedly look like a little fortune to the heirs of John Coyle if they should happen to come into possession of it.

In the same institution Catherine Cortlandt made a small deposit on May 3, 1852, and it now amounts to $131.64. The whereabouts of the woman are not known. The banks make no effort to find depositors. If the owners of the money want it they must come after it, or, if dead, their heirs must make application for it through the courts. Among other unclaimed deposits in the Provident Institution is that of John Buckley, of Piermont, N. Y. He started his account on March 7, 1871, and it now amounts to $5,891.52.

There are many women among those who have unclaimed deposits to their credit. In the Morris County Savings Bank Sarah Gibb has $1,294.76. Her last deposit was made on August 24, 1895. Since that time the bank authorities have heard nothing of her.

In the Howard Savings Institution, of Newark, the following unclaimed accounts of more than $1,000 are lying to the credit of women: Mary Moran, of Elizabeth, $1,016.61; Lydia E. Beach, of Paterson, $1,393.04; Eliza C. Bishop, of Newark, $1,309.10; Mary A. Gist, of Orange, $3,948.80, and Mary B. Romine, of Newark, $1,305.41.

In their annual reports to the Department of Banking and Insurance sums less than $50, and there are probably a great many ranging from $10 to $50.

In the report of the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance for the year ended December 31, 1905, unclaimed deposits in the various savings institutions are shown as follows:

Bloomfield Savings Institution	$2,044 59
Dime Savings Institution	5,772 08

Think Defaulter Is a Tool.

Atlantic City, Oct. 17.—The names of the men associated with Andrews in the conspiracy through which it is now admitted that the city lost a great deal more than the $5,000 defalcation confessed by Comptroller Heston's chief clerk, will be made known next week. After a long conference with President Leeds, of the City Council, Comptroller Heston yielded to the demand for a criminal investigation, and announced his intention of going before the grand jury toda yand telling all he knows about the scandal in his office. There is a growing belief that Andrews was little more than a tool for a ring, including men high in official life.

Closed 100 Years, School Reopened.

Mt. Holly, Oct. 17.—The quaint little Brainard School house has again been opened to the public, after having been closed for nearly a hundred years. Where the boys and girls of Mt. Holly gathered for their education before the Revolution, the boys and girls of over a century later now gather to study the principles of temperance. On Wednesday afternoon from thirty to forty members of the Junior Temperance Society of Mt. Holly hold their meetings in the tiny one-story building, which is of great historic interest to the people of the town.

IT IS FOR LADIES, TOO.

They Can Stop Their Hair Falling Out With Herpicide.

Ladies who have thin hair and whose hair is falling out, can prevent the hair falling out, and thicken the growth, with Newbro's "Herpicide." Besides, Herpicide is one of the most agreeable hair dressings there is. Herpicide kills the dandruff germ that eats the hair off at the root. After the germ is destroyed, the root will shoot up, and the hair grow long as ever. Even a sample will convince any lady that Newbro's Herpicide is an indispensable toilet requisite. It contains no oil or grease, it will not stain or dye. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST."

I will say in justice to myself, though it is also in excuse, that if I had known him intimately a few years earlier, I should have found it all but impossible to fool myself. For he had not long been in a position where he could keep wholly detached from the crimes he committed for his benefit and by his order, and where he could disclaim responsibility and even knowledge. The great lawyers of the country have been most ingenious in developing corporate law in the direction of making the corporation a complete and secure shield between the beneficiary of a crime and its consequences; but before a great financier can use this shield perfectly, he must build up a system—he must find lieutenants with the necessary coolness, courage and cunning; he must teach them to understand his hints; he must educate them, not to point out to him the disasagreeable things involved in his orders, but to execute unquestionably, to efface completely the trail between him and them, whether or not they succeed in covering the roundabout and faint trail between themselves and the tools that nominally commit the crimes.

Wilmot was the instrument he employed to put the coal industry into condition for "reorganization." He bought control of one of the coal railroads and made Wilmot president of it. Wilmot, taught by twenty years of his service, knew what was expected of him, and proceeded to do it. He put in a "loyal" general freight agent who also needed no instructions, but busied himself at destroying his own and all the other coal roads by a system of secret rebates and rate cuttings. As the other roads, one by one, descended toward bankruptcy, Roebuck bought the comparatively small blocks of stock necessary to give him control of them. When he had power over enough of them to establish a partial monopoly of transportation in and out of the coal districts, he was ready for his lieutenant to attack the mining properties. Probably his orders to Wilmot were nothing more definite or less innocent than: "Wilmot, my boy, don't you think you and I and some others of our friends ought to buy some of those mines, if they come on the market at a fair price? Let me know when you hear of any attractive investments of that sort."

That would have been quite enough to "tip it off" to Wilmot that the time had come for reaching out from control of railway to control of mine. He lost no time; he easily forced one mining property after another into a position where its owners were glad—were eager—to sell all or part of the wreck of it "at a fair price" to him and Roebuck and "our friends." It was as the result of one of these moves that the great Manasquale mines were so hemmed in by ruinous freight rates, by strike troubles, by floods from broken machinery and mysteriously leaky dams, that I was able to buy them "at a fair price"—that is, at less than one-fifth their value. But at the time—and for a long time afterward—I did not know, on my honor did not suspect, what was the cause, the sole cause, of the change of the coal region from a place of peaceful industry, content with fair profits, to an industrial chaos with ruin impending.

Once the railways and mining companies were all on the verge of bankruptcy, Roebuck and his "friends" were ready to buy, here control for purposes of speculation, there ownership for purposes of permanent investment. This is what is known as the reorganizing stage. The processes of high finance are very simple—first, buy the comparatively small holdings necessary to create confusion and disaster; second, create confusion and disaster, buying up more and more wreckage; third, reorganize; fourth, offer the new stocks and bonds to the public with a mighty blare of trumpets which produces a boom market; fifth, unload on the public, pass dividends, issue unfavorable statements, depress prices, buy back cheap what you have sold dear. Repeat ad infinitum, for the law is for the laughter of the strong, and the public is an eager ass. To keep up the fiction of "respectability," the insane ring divides into two parties for its campaigns—one party to break down, the other to build up. One takes the profits from destruction and departs, perhaps to construct elsewhere; the other takes the profits from construction and departs, perhaps to destroy elsewhere. As their collusion is merely tacit, no conscience need twitch. I must add that, at the time of which I am writing, I did not realize the existence of this conspiracy. I knew, of course, that many lawless and savage things were done, that there were rascals among the high financiers and that almost all financiers now and then did things that were more or less rascally; but I did not know, did not suspect, that high finance was through and through brigandage, and that the high financier, by long and unmolested practice of brigandage, had come to look on it as legitimate, lawful business, and on laws forbidding or hampering it as outrageous, socialistic, anarchistic, "attacks upon the social order!"

Roebuck had given me the impression that it would be six months at least before what I was in those fatuous days thinking of as "our" plan for "putting the coal industry on a sound business basis" would be ready for the public. So, when he sent for me shortly after I became engaged to Miss Eleanor, and said: Melville will complete the plan on the first of next month and will open the subscription books on the third—a Thursday," I was taken by surprise and was anything but pleased. His words meant that if I wished to make a great fortune now was the time to buy coal stocks and buy heavily—for on the very day of the publication of the plan every coal stock would surely soar. Buy I must; not to buy was to throw away a fortune. Yet how could I buy when I was gambling in textile up to my limit of safety, if not beyond?

I did not dare confess to Roebuck what I was doing in textile. He was bitterly opposed to stock gambling, denouncing it as both immoral and unbusinesslike. No gambling for him! When his business sagacity and foresight (?) informed him a certain stock was going to be worth a great deal more than it was then quoted at, he would buy outright in large quantities; when that same sagacity and foresight of the fellow who had himself marked the cards warned him that a stock was about to fall, he sold outright. But gamble—never! And I felt that, if he should learn that I had staked a large part of my entire fortune on a single gambling operation, he would straightway cut me off from his confidence, would look on me as too deeply tainted by my long career as a "bucket-shop" man to be worthy of full rank and power as a financier. Financiers do not gamble. Their only vice is grand larceny.

All this was flashing through my mind while I was thanking him.

"I am glad to have such a long forewarning," I was saying. "Can I be of use to you? You know my machinery is perfect—I can buy anything and in any quantity without starting rumors and drawing the crowd."

From the Experience of Plainfield People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Plainfield residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. 'Tis emphatic and convincing. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. David Arthur, of 111 Grandview avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used for several years in our family with the best of results. My husband, my two daughters and myself, each having had occasion to use the remedy have found in it just the relief we sought from the backaches and headaches that come from kidney troubles. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to several people, and shall continue to do so."

Burned by Auto Explosion.

Elizabeth, Oct. 17.—Mrs. Ernest Wetton and her daughter, five years old, were badly burned Sunday evening, when the gasoline tank of the automobile in which they were riding exploded. Mr. Wetton was on his way home to Roselle with his family, and the machine was passing under a Pennsylvania Railroad bridge on Broad street, when the tank exploded and flames shot into the air. A physician attended the sufferers and they were taken home in another automobile.

GOLF.

Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, is the latest divine to join the ranks of the golfers at the Park Golf Club, and in the weekly competition last Saturday he returned an excellent score. Among the other ministers who seek recreation and exercise on the Park course are Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Rev. C. L. Goodrich, and they are all playing a good game. It is doubtful whether there is another club in this section of the State that can boast of as many ministers who follow the game each week.

Two more Saturdays remain for the competition for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club and there is the greatest interest in the result. At present C. B. Morgan holds first position with 14½ points, and he stands a good chance of finishing a winner, unless there should be an unforeseen turn in affairs.

Among the golfers missed from the Plainfield Country Club during the past few weeks is J. Whitney Baker. He has been away from the city much of the time and has not had an opportunity to play his favorite game.

Professional golfers put in some practice rounds over the links of the Forest Hill Field Club yesterday. In the morning Isaac Mackie, of Fox Hills, and Jack Pearson, of Richmond County, played Jack Mackie, of Yountakah, and George Pearson, of the home club. The latter pair had a best ball of 74 and won by 2 up and 1 to play. Jack Pearson made a 76. In the afternoon George Pearson and Walter Kobbe, the Baltusrol champion, defeated Dave Hunter, the Essex County Country Club "pro," and H. J. Egner, one of the strongest of the Forest Hill amateurs. Kobbe and Pearson won by 2 up and 1 to play, and returned a best ball of 75. Horace Rawlins, of the Wykagyl Country Club, a former open champion, played a round with Orrin Terry, a clever home-bred, wh ohas the Waumbek green in the summer. Terry putted especially well, and returned a 74 and a 72. Others on the course were Dave Honeyman, of Arsdale, and Chris Crosby, of the South Orange Field Club. The Eastern open championship tournament, for which the professionals are practising, will be held at Forest Hill on October 23.

The first match play round in the championship tournament of the Dyker Meadow Golf Club was finished Monday, with the following results: A. T. Dwight beat H. T. Walden, 4 up and 3 to play; E. F. Hunt beat W. R. Simons, 2 up and 1 to play; C. J. Crookall beat J. M. Rheet, 2 up and 1 to play; F. J. Phillips beat James L. Taylor, 1 up; W. B. Rhett beat J. W. Raymond, 3 up and 2 to play; H. G. McKeever beat B. Clark, 4 up and 3 to play; T. Hovenden beat J. S. Jones, 2 up and 1 to play; J. C. Thompson beat J. E. Way, 2 up and 1 to play.

B. C. Fuller won the championship of the Apawamis Club Monday by defeating W. H. Pool, 8 up and 7 to play, in the thirty-six hole final round. The winner went round in 83 in the morning, gaining an advantage of 7 up. Both made scores of 85 in the afternoon.

Play for the governor's cup was finished at the Fairview Country Club Monday. In the semi-final round M. Glauber beat S. Hirsch, 1 up, and W. Rothschild beat A. Alexander, 2 up and 1 to play. In the final round Rothschild beat Glauber, 1 up. The members will compete in the qualifying round for the president's cup, which is emblematic of the club championship, on Saturday.

The final round for the club championship of the Glen Ridge Golf Club was played Monday before a large gallery. Harry D. Smith defeated Robert Mitchell in a 36-hole match by 4 up and 3 to play.

COLLEGIATE GOLF PLAY.

Yale and Princeton Survive for the Final Round.

Yale and Princeton will fight it out today for the team championship of the Intercollegiate Golf Association at Garden City. In the opening matches yesterday Yale defeated Cornell by a score of 20 to 0, and Princeton defeated Harvard 15½ to 2½.

The decisive defeat received by Harvard was the surprise of the day. With the exception of Templeton Briggs, all of the Crimson players were defeated. Briggs outplayed W. T. West, the Princeton captain, who failed to show his best game. Howard J. Gee, who played No. 1 for "Old Nassau," proved too steady for H. H. Wilder. There was little to choose between them off the tee, but on the greens the Richmond County open tournament winner was always master of the situation.

Robert Abbott, of Yale, holder of the individual title, barely managed to defeat C. W. Cornell. Abbott's slashing long game was in evidence as usual, but indifferent putting prevented him from winning by a much wider margin. Going to the twelfth hole Abbott drove into the trap with a cleek. The hazard is about 230 yards from the tee, and the shot was extremely lengthy even with the following wind. Abbott lost a ball going to the long seventh hole, and an 88 was the best his card should show for the round. The best individual effort was an 82 by Dwight Partridge, the former interscholastic champion.

Princeton repeated last year's form by defeating Harvard in the semi-final. Dudley H. Barrows, of the Nassau team, defeated his opponent 2½ to 0, playing a strong game throughout.

The individual championship play will be the attraction today, when Robert Abbott will have to defend the title.

TEN TEAM LEAGUE OF BOWLING CLUBS

TO BE ORGANIZED AT THE HOTEL IROQUOIS TOMORROW NIGHT.

Plans are underway for the formation of a bowling league in Plainfield to be composed of at least ten clubs. A meeting will be held at the Hotel Iroquois tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. V. W. Nash, Jr., has signed the call for John G. McLaughlin, who is interested in the proposition.

It is expected that the following organizations will be represented in the league: Saengerbunds, Park Club, Suburbans, of Fanwood; Elks, Knights of Columbus, Knights of Pythias, Y. M. C. A., Somersets, all of Plainfield; Scotch Plains, Westfield, Garwood, Jr. O. U. A. M., and A. B. C. and representatives from these clubs will attend the meeting tomorrow night when officers will be elected.

There will also be a discussion of plans, schedule and the prizes to be offered. It is proposed to offer a club prize, and prizes for the highest score, higsest average score, highest team score and average and individual prizes. During the past two seasons there has been a revival of interest in bowling and with several good allays in this city and vicinity.

High School Tennis.

In the semi-finals of the High School tennis tournament yesterday, Fleming and Williams defeated Kyte and Beacon, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, and Briggs and Martin defeated Doane and Foster, 6-2, 7-5. The finals will be played tomorrow between the winners of the two matches.

—Miss Jessie Garthwaite, who has been stenographer and typewriter in the law office of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., for some time, has taken a similar position with County Registrar of Deeds F. H. Smith at his office in Elizabeth, and Miss Ada Van Horn has taken Miss Garthwaite's position in Mr. Hetfield's office.

—S. R. Struthers, of West Front street, is a great lover of baked sweet potatoes, and at present he is having a feast, having raised several bushels of a "very fine breed" on his summer farm on Plainfield avenue. A sample weighing 28 ounces, was shown a few days ago. They certainly look and taste like the genuine North Carolina "sweets."

POLITICAL NOTES.

As predicted, the Democratic City Convention in Jersey City nominated last night John J. Heavey and Louis L. Fink for members of the Board of Street and Water Commissioners. Because he sought the nomination for Sheriff of Hudson County last fall, in opposition to Egbert Seymour, the choice of the Democratic organization, Mr. Heavey was opposed in the convention by a number of delegates, who questioned his party loyalty.

William D. Thickstun and John P. Emmons left yesterday on a business trip to Canada. They will be away over a month.

GERMANS FOR MARTINE

Farmer-Orator Captures German-Americans at Saengerbund Gathering.

SPEAKS OF HIS KINSHIP

His Mother Came From the Rhenish Country—Great Execution in First Attack on the Ten Pins.

James E. Martine took a few minutes off from campaign hustlings last night to roll his first bowling game. He was [illegible] Saengerbund.

Mr. Martine was the guest of the organization. There was no special event on, but the coming of the farmer-orator made the evening something of an occasion.

Bowling was on when he got to the hall, and he became interested in the sport. But little urging was necessary to get him in the game. Taking off his coat, he rolled up his sleeves, seized the biggest ball within reach and hurled it with Democratic fervor at the pins.

The veteran bowlers prepared to chuckle, but they had to choke the chuckle off and cheer. For the ball, possibly surprised at the fierce assault of an alien hand, fell against the pins with a mighty bump and laid them all low. Mr. Martine was the only one who was not amazed.

"Well, is that all there is to it?" he said. "If it was as easy to knock over the Republican ten pins, we Democrats would never be licked."

Mr. Martine took another ball and hurled it down the alley. The vets cheered again as every pin tumbled down.

"Oh, I tell you, my German blood will show," said Mr. Martine, as he took another ball in hand.

Then in quick succession he rolled eight balls expertly down the gutters. And the vets were courteous enough to refrain from laughing more than ten minutes at a stretch.

In his own particular field, however, Mr. Martine upheld his record. He made a speech that warmed the hearts of all the German-Americans present.

He was glad to be present, he said, because his audience was of German language. He had acquired his fondness for Germans in the most natural way, for the mother from whose breast he drew the milk of love and liberty came from Germany, near the Rhine.

He admired the traits and the virtues of the Germans, he continued, more especially their thrift and geniality. He believed that the Germans had done more to advance athletics in this country in the past twenty-five years, with their turn vereins, than any other group of men. Their enjoyment of life had done much to give a healthy tone to the National activities, for the native American, unaffected by such an influence, was too intense. Their devotion to singing and music in general was a particularly gracious influence.

He was not there to campaign, he said in closing, but it was useless for him to try to obscure the fact that he was a candidate for office. He would be less than human if he did not like to receive the plaudits of his fellows, and less of a man than he thought himself if he did not desire their endorsement. He asked that they help him to make a gratifying showing in his contest. They called him Jim Martine and hailed him as a friend. He assured them that after the election, whether he was successful or not, he would be the same old Jim Martine. Should he be elected he would represent not only his constituents, but, so far as he might with propriety and opportunity permitted, he would represent all the people of the community.

A supper was enjoyed in the visitor's honor. There was a large attendance of members.

Paper On Southern Characteristics.

At the meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church Tuesday afternoon in the lecture room of the church, a paper of rare interest was read by Mrs. Hannah V. Flanders on "Characteristics of the Mountain Whites." Mrs. Flanders' residence South and her ability to speak forcefully of what she knew made her treatment of the subject vivid and realistic. The afternoon's work was devoted to the preparation of some barrels of clothing for a western missionary and his family.

Board of Trade Meeting.

The Board of Trade will hold a meeting tonight in the Exempt Firemen's Hall. It is reported that several matters concerning municipal improvements are to be discussed.

Mr. Randolph Expected.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph and wife, of East Front street, who have been [illegible] the spring, are expected to return home this week.

MR. FISK'S NAME ON BOTH TICKETS

REPUBLICAN MAYORALTY CANDIDATE ACCEPTS DEMOCRATIC ENDORSEMENT

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk has issued the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

"October 17, 1906.

"Walter L. Hetfield, Esq.,
"Chairman Democratic City Convention,
"Plainfield, N. J.

"Dear Sir:—

"I am in receipt of your communication notifying me of the action taken by the delegates at the Democratic City Convention, endorsing my nomination for Mayor of the City of Plainfield. I appreciate the confidence you have in me to justly and fairly administer the affairs of the city. I have already been nominated and accepted the nomination from the Republican party in accordance with the platform adopted by the Republican City Convention, on which platform I have agreed to stand. On these same conditions, without prejudice to my party affiliations, I accept your endorsement.

"Thanking you and your associates for the compliment, I remain,

"Yours very truly,

"CHAS. J. FISK."

City Collector John W. Murray, who was endorsed for re-election with Mr. Fisk, has also accepted the honor. He informed Mr. Hetfield of his acceptance verbally.

MISS FULLER BRIDE OF A DUNELLENITE

CHARLES M. FEDDERMAN THE GROOM AT PRETTY WEDDING.

Amid a profusion of autumn leaves and flowers and surrounded by a large gathering of relatives and friends, Miss Carrie Florence Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Fuller, of Arlington avenue, and Charles Mensson Fedderman, of Dunellen, were married last evening. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 at the bride's home by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church. It was one of the prettiest weddings of the fall season and was witnessed by guests from New York, Brooklyn, Elmira, Elizabeth, Fanwood, Dunellen and other places.

Miss Fuller was gowned in a pretty creation of white crepe de chine, trimmed with handmade lace, given her by her brother, George Fuller, of Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic. She wore a veil caught up with lilies-of-the-valley and carried a bouquet of the same flower and bride roses. Her attendant was her sister, Miss Lulu Harriett Fuller, who as maid of honor, wore white net and carried carnations.

The best man was D. J. Killeen, of Brooklyn, and Ray Webster Fuller and Frederick Fedderman acted as ushers. There were also two ribbon girls, Ruth Fuller and Thelma Curtis, attired in white over pink, and Roberts Earl Fuller, nephew of the bride, was page. Miss Louise Myrant, of Fanwood, a cousin of the bride, played the wedding march while the bridal party was assembling and presided at the piano during the ceremony. Miss Fuller entered the room leaning on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. The young couple and the officiating clergyman stood beneath a canopy of greens and upon a rug of Patagonian guanaco skins, also sent by the bride's brother.

A reception followed the pronouncing of the words that completed the nuptial bond and later a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Fedderman left last night for a trip as far as Old Point Comfort at which place they will spend a short time. On returning they will make their home in Brooklyn where a furnished flat awaits them. The groom is employed in Brooklyn as an expert accountant.

Both young people received a large number of handsome presents which included silverware, pictures, furniture, china and checks. In the exchange of gifts in the bridal party the groom gave his best man and ushers pearl stickpins and the maid of honor received from the bride a pretty pearl brooch. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of gold beads.

ARCADE FOR NORTH AVE.

David T. Kenney Purchases Taylor Stores and Will Tear Them Down.

TO ERECT A BUILDING

Deal Includes Numbers 153 to 163 North Avenue, Running Through to Second Street.

David T. Kenney, of North Plainfield, president of the Vacuum Cleaner Company, has made another big realty purchase, this time his operation being in the very heart of the business section of the city. The deal includes seventy-two feet on North avenue, half way between Park avenue and Watchung avenues, running through to East Second street, a depth of 200 feet. It is his intention to build a handsome arcade facing on North avenue and running pretty well through to Second street.

The deal includes the buildings occupied by the Postal Telegraph Company, Clevely's restaurants, Lister's bicycle store and the real estate office of Abbott and Manning. These buildings are numbered 153, 155, 157, 159, 161, 163 North avenue. The lots in the rear for the most part are unoccupied.

For many years, Rev. J. P. Taylor, a retired Episcopal minister living on Park avenue, has owned these buildings. He is a large owner in valuable realty in the business section, which has enhanced greatly in value during the last few years. The price paid him by Mr. Kenney is not revealed.

In speaking of his plans this morning, Mr. Kenney said: "The papers have not been signed but I expect that they will be today. It has been my idea that a handsome arcade would be a nice thing in that locality. There has been much talk of the need of a thoroughfare through from North avenue to Second street, between Park and Watchung avenues. My plans will bring it about. I am not prepared to give any definite outline of the plans as yet, but I may do so in a few days."

It is understood that Mr. Kenney will erect a three or four story building of arcade style on the plot. The present buildings, old wooden structures but one story in heighth, have been somewhat of an eyesore. Being directly opposite the Jersey Central's main station, these structures have conveyed a false impression of the progressive spirit and uptodateness of the city. The various leases on the buildings it is said have not long to run. As soon as they expire the buildings will be torn down.

Only recently, Mr. Kenney bought a big tract of land on the southern slope of the Watchung mountains between North Plainfield and Scotch Plains. A good part of it he subsequently donated to the Trenton diocese for an institution to be known as St. Mary's College.

'PHONE CO.'S BUILDING SLOW IN CONSTRUCTION.

Structure Will Not Be Ready for Occupancy Before July.

It is now practically a certainty that the new building being erected on East Fourth street by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company will not be completed and ready for operations by June or July of next year. The construction work is being rushed as rapidly as possible, but even when the building is finished there will still remain a great amount of work to equip it. Everything in the line of equipment and furnishings will be new, including a large switchboard of the latest and most approved type. There will also be installed the common battery system, which will do away with all batteries in private 'phones.

The system of common battery is so perfect that practically all of the little troubles now met in making a call will be obviated. When the new building is completed and equipped there will be a great task to perform in cutting over the connections from the old to the new building and the changing of something like 2,200 telephones throughout the city and borough for new instruments to be used with the common battery system.

The doing away with batteries in private 'phones will also be a saving in time to say nothing of material. At present the company employs men to make regular trips about the city and borough at sated intervals and replenish the batteries.

In cutting over the cables from the old to the new office it is expected that the work will require about an hour, and it will be done at night when the business is not so heavy. For a time after the change is made both offices will be in operation until the complete change is effected.

Mrs. H. C. Huff and son, Herbert, of Codington avenue, returned home last night after a two weeks' visit in Philadelphia.

JUDGE RUNYON RESIGNS AS HEAD OF LOCAL ELKS

EXPLAINS THAT PLANS MAY SOON CALL HIM FROM THE CITY.

At the regular meeting of Plainfield lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., last night, City Judge William N. Runyon tendered his resignation as exalted ruler, an office which he has held the greater part of the time since the lodge was organized. It was received by Acting Exalted Ruler Clarence E. Teel, but the members were loath to accept it in the hope that he might be induced to reconsider. The judge made it plain, however, that he had taken the step after due and deliberate counsel and that his decision was final. Action was deferred until next week.

In his resignation, the officer stated that plans which he had made for the near future might compel him to absent himself from the city and at any rate from the lodge. When asked about the matter today, the Judge admitted that there is a possibility of his leaving the city about the first of the year but declined to discuss the subject further.

SIX CENTS DAMAGES WAS ALL HE RECEIVED.

Pearson Fails to Secure Compensation in Court for Alleged Thrashing.

Six cents was the amount of damages awarded Albert Pearson, of East Front street, in the Circuit Court at Elizabeth yesterday, in his suit for $500 against Frank Smalley for damages. The verdict carries no costs with it. The trial was before a jury.

Pearson sued to recover for a thrashing he claimed Smalley administered to him in a row over an attack made by Pearson's bulldog on a setter owned by Smalley. Pearson alleged that Smalley knocked him down and whipped him grievously.

Smalley's story was that Pearson answered him insolently when he protested against the second attack of the bulldog on the setter, and that he was exasperated into slapping Pearson's face. Pearson's father, Oscar Pearson, his mother and his sister appeared for him.

W. A. Coddington represented the defendant. C. D. McNabb was Pearson's lawyer.

TWELVE YEARS WEDDED.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair Celebrate Event.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair, of Duer street, informally celebrated the twelfth anniversary of their wedding, last night, by entertaining a company of forty relatives and intimate friends. There were selections on the piano by Mrs. Edward Craig. Mr. and Mrs. Blair were remembered with many handsome gifts, including cut-glass and silverware. Later in the evening a fine supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Blair were married twelve years ago at Duer street and Lincoln place by Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, and they have always resided in the borough. They have three children, two daughters, Madeline and Marion Blair, and one son, Robert James Blair.

CELEBRATED HER BIRTHDAY.

Miss Dorothy Martin Entertains Company of Playmates.

In celebration of the ninth anniversary of her birthday, Miss Dorothy Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Martin, of Duer street, gave a party yesterday afternoon. The house was pretily decorated, red and green being the prevailing colors. Supper was served. Miss Martin received some gifts. Those present were the Misses Madeline and Marion Blair, Gertrude King, May Bennett, Jubilee Rowley, Edna Force, Helen Woodruff, Blanche Stout, Catherine Day, Lucy and Mabel Douglass, of this city, and Miss Frances Speer and Luther Speer, of Bangor, Pa., cousins of Miss Martin.

His Seventh Birthday.

In honor of his seventh birthday, Kenneth Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Bennett, of Watchung avenue, entertained a party of friends at his home yesterday afternoon from 2 until 5. The little guests played games for prizes and also enjoyed vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments were served. The young host received several presents.

A Harvest Home.

The Calvary Baptist church will hold a harvest home fair for the benefit of the church building fund, commencing tonight and continuing until Friday night, October 26. Tonight the Black Jenny Lind Concert Company will appear and present a programme of vocal and instrumental music.

SHAW FAILED TO DRAW

A Slim Crowd at Elizabeth Meeting Upsets the Party Leaders.

ONLY ABOUT 600 THERE

Treasury Secretary Went to Elizabeth from Here, After Dinner at the Home of Charles J. Fisk.

Following a dinner in this city, last night, Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw went to Elizabeth to speak at a Republican mass meeting that disappointed the party leaders. Mr. Shaw's speech was a splendid one, but the meeting was so thinly attended as to set grave lines in the faces of the Republican campaign managers this morning.

Not many more than 600 people were in Jacobs' theatre when the meeting began. They all remained until the end, and they made a commendable showing as earnest cheerers for the party of Lincoln, McKinley, Roosevelt and protection, but the captains of the host were faced by the unexpected gaps in their ranks.

Secretary Shaw was the drawing card counted upon to fill the theatre for a rousing meeting for Republicanism and Mr. Fowler. Mr. Shaw went to Elizabeth from this city shortly after 7 o'clock in company with Charles J. Fisk, whose guest he was at dinner. Mr. Fisk and Mr. Shaw came here from New York early last evening with just about time for dinner.

Ex-Governor Foster M. Voorhees presided at the meeting, while on the stage were Senator Kean, Congressman Fowler, Mayor Berry, Mr. Fisk, County Chairman Frank H. Smith, and most of the party leaders in Union county. The stage and theatre were elaborately decorated with American flags.

Secretary Shaw received a warm welcome when he was introduced, and sustained applause when he finished his address. His speech was mainly devoted to an exposition and defence of the protective tariff, and he dwelt on the benefits derived by the American workingmen from this policy. His remarks were sprinkled with humerous illustrations which pleased his hearers immensely. He praised the administration of President Roosevelt, and made an eloquent plea that its policy be sustained and the President sustained in his work for the people, by the re-election of a Republican House of Representatives.

The speaker paid a tribute to the work done in Congress by Representative Fowler, and ridiculed the Democratic candidate's argument that Mr. Fowler should not be sent back because he had steadily failed to answer rollcalls. He declared that it was not always the Congressman most prompt in answering rollcall who did the most legislative work, and mentioned the late Thaddeus Stevens, of Pennsylvania, and Senator Allison, of Iowa, as examples of hard workers at Washington who were conspicuous for absence from rollcalls, but who kept in close touch with all legislation enacted and helped to frame a large part of it. Chas. Newell Fowler, he said, was another such quiet, effective worker, and richly merited a re-election. These references to Representative Fowler were applauded.

Ex-Governor Voorhees followed the Iowan in a speech which pleased the audience, and which was roundly applauded.

To Be Presented at Congregational Church Sunday Night.

First Meeting of Creditors.

William N. Tier, of this city, having been adjudicated bankrupt in the District Court of the United States, Atwood L. DeCoster, referee in bankruptcy, has given notice that the first meeting of Mr. Tier's creditors will be held at the referee's offics in the Cory building, 109 Broad street, Elizabeth, on Wednesday morning, October 31, at 10 o'clock. At that time the creditors will have an opportunity to prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt and consider such other business as may come before the meeting.

PRELATE OFFICIATES AT MRS. TYLER'S FUNERAL

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC BY SOLOISTS OF CHURCH OF TRANSFIGURATION.

The large attendance of relatives and friends at the funeral services of Mrs. Elizabeth Margaret Tyler, wife of Col. Mason W. Tyler, held from the late home in West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, was an impressive tribute to her life and character. Among the mourners were many who have been associated with Mrs. Tyler in church and charitable work; also many old friends from out of town and who learned to love and admire her for her many excellent qualities.

The services were in charge of Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey, and Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, of which Mrs. Tyler was a member and earnest worker for years. The Bishop and the rector read the Scriptures and conducted the responsive readings.

During the services there were four selections by a quartette from the Church of the Transfiguration, New York, composed of R. Craig Campbell, J. R. Bolton, Willett Seaman and R. L. Barnhart. Their selections were "Abide With Me," "Son of My Soul," "Art Thou Weary," and "All Ye Saints."

Although it was requested that flowers be omitted, there were a number of beautiful floral tributes which surrounded and covered the bier. The interment was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers were Alexander Gilbert, John B. Dumont, J. Evarts Tracy, Orville T. Waring, Charles Matthews and W. F. Merrill.

WARREN CHAPEL SOCIETY HEARS PLEASANT NEWS

GETS $100 CHECK AND PROMISE OF MORE BY DUPLICATING AMOUNT.

The Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel held an all day sewing meeting, yesterday, during which garments were prepared for the Christmas box and for Ellis Island. The members assembled at 9:30 and from then on until 1 o'clock they plied their needles as busily as the proverbial bee. At the latter hour adjournment was made while a luncheon was served, consisting of cold boiled ham, baked beans, creamed potatoes, pickles, sliced tomatoes, hot rolls and coffee, pumpkin pie and cheese. It was served under the direction of a refreshment committee composed of Mrs. J. H. Snyder, Mrs. F. C. Burner, Mrs. John Higgins and Mrs. William Demarest. The tables were prettily decorated with cut flowers and plants and fifty members of the society sat down.

The sewing was in charge of Mrs. Gibson Smith and Mrs. J. W. Gavett and matters had been so arranged by them that a very gratifying number previous to the luncheon, the society was addressed by Mrs. J. O. McKelvey who announced that she held a check for $100, the gift of a friend who had promised it in the event of the Missionary and Aid raising a similar amount for the new Warren chapel furnishing fund. This has been done and the diners were made happy by the receipt of the additional money.

When the last course had been served, Mrs. McKelvey made another announcement that brought equally as much pleasure to everyone of the members. She stated that the same friend would give another $100 under the same conditions and almost immediately $20 was pledged. The society has already raised about $600 for the fund and every effort will be made to get the promised check which will bring the total up to $800.

Smith was chosen chairman of the meeting and Deacon Edgar F. Sheppard was chosen clerk. The tellers were John Hoffman and F. S. Cutter.

POLITICAL PEN PICTURES

A Millionaire and a Farmer Rival Candidates For Congressional Honors.

THEIR WAYS AND VIEWS

C. N. Fowler Almost Unknown at Home—J. E. Martine Beloved By His Townspeople.

In his characteristic and delightfully entertaining way, H. B. Walker, the Washington correspondent of the Newark Evening News, pictures the rival candidates and accurately describes the situation in the Fifth Congressional district. The story as it appeared last night in the Newark Evening News, with its splendid tributes to James E. Martine, is herewith reproduced;

Two men who started in life as farmer's boys are running for election to Congress in the Fifth District of New Jersey. One of these farmer boys went to college, studied law, became a trust magnate and lives in a magnificent modern mansion. The other left school at thirteen to help support the family, remained on the farm and today is still poor. One has made millions out of great financiering schemes, but walks the streets of his home city almost a stranger to its inhabitants. The other, sticking to the farm and giving his life to the espousal of political causes he has believed right, though they proved unsuccessful, is known and loved by every man, woman and child in the town which he has seen grow up about his farm.

The Fifth Congressional District consists of Union, Morris and Warren counties. Charles N. Fowler, the Republican nominee, banker, millionaire and orator, has been in Congress for six terms. James E. Martine, the Democratic nominee, farmer and orator, has never held a political office, although he is one of the most prominent and picturesque figures in the Democratic party in New Jersey. Fowler, in eleven years of service in Congress, has been at all times conservative and regular. Martine is as much of a party man as his opponent, but belongs to that wing of the party which the conservatives call radical. Fowler loved and apostrophized McKinley, and regards Roosevelt as a great man, but possibly too aggressive. Martine is a warm personal friend and admirer of Bryan, likes Hearst and believes in his sincerity and principlees, but has paid his obedience to partizan regularity in giving equal support to Cleveland and Parker, and is a close friend of George B. McClellan.

Fowler has called to his aid in his effort to secure re-election Secretary of the Treasury Leslie B. Shaw, a standpatter, who has opposed many of Fowler's hopes as chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency for his pet hobbies of currency reform. The men who will aid Martine in his speaking campaign are "Billy" Sulzer and Colonel Stevens.

Are Opposing Characters.

Two men of more opposing characters and personality could not well be found to be pitted against each other. Fowler is a high protectionist, and fears a low tariff as the harbinger of all evils. Martine, in theory, believes in a tariff for revenue only, but sees no obstacles to combining that principle with a revision of present tariff schedules which will accomplish the purpose, leave the protective idea existant and remedy the evils of trust domination and oppression he believes too many of the high tariff schedules have brought about.

Fowler has never been known to express his views publicly on the trust question, excepting to the extent of indorsing and pledging loyalty to the Roosevelt platform. Martine, at bottom, believes in government ownership of public utilities, but is willing to make a trial of real State and government regulation of rates and methods in a premier effort to destroy the worst features of private monopoly.

Both men live in the same county—Union. Fowler's house is in Elizabeth; Martine's home is on the old Cedar Brook Farm, outside Plainfield, where old Thomas Morgan built his home in 1696. The Fowler mansion is a triumph of what modern architecture and art, backed by unlimited money, can produce. The Martine homestead, architecturally, has been little changed since it was erected in 1718, partly built of the timber and boards from the original Morgan cabin. It is the home one would place out for an idealist and dreamer, and in Union County Martine is known as an idealist and dreamer, a man who dreams of the dethroning of class privilege and the restoration of the constitutional provision for a representative government for, by and of the people. Most men with such ideals are today regarded as impractical and radical.

Style and Simplicity.

At Fowler's marble mansion a male servant meets the guest at the door and takes his card. At Martine's I walked down the long avenue or sugar elm and pine trees to the fine colonial house where Edmund Clarence Stedman, the banker-poet, lived with his wife, the Quaker poetess, and vied with Fred in composing sonnets of beauty inspired by the loveliness and untainted simple beauty of the spot. In the garden we found the nominee's sister, Miss Martine, a delightful, cultured woman, engrossed and drying lace curtains. The entire atmosphere breathed democracy and idealism.

Fowler was born on a farm in Illinois, fifty-four years ago. Martine was born a year or two earlier, in New York. The latter's father was a builder, and out of the profits of his business he bought Cedar Brook Farm. About the time Fowler was being prepared for college, or a little earlier, Martine, a boy of thirteen, left school because of his father's death and assumed the management of the farm.

When he was eighteen Martine attended a Democratic State convention, and on some pending question made a speech which won the attention of T. F. Randolph, then beginning his campaign for United States Senator. The farmer boy orator was seized upon and carried through the State on a speaking tour. When the campaign was over and Randolph elected, Martine went back to hoeing corn and plowing for oats, but he had acquired a passion for politics and public speaking, and it soon became the ruling passion of his life.

Martine's First Candidacy.

A few years later, soon after his first vote, he was husking corn one day when a committee of Democratic leaders in the county walked out into the cornfield and announced to him that they wanted him to run for member of Assembly.

"But I don't want to go to the Legislature," he remonstrated.

"Well," suggested a committeeman, in so many words, "probably you won't have to, but we've got to have somebody to run, and you're about the best man we can get." Martine ran. He made a good fight, but he was beaten.

At intervals of a few years this sort of thing has been repeated ever since. When the Democratic party in Union has been faced with a forlorn hope, and had to have somebody to head the ticket and keep the party together, Martine has been called on, and has always responded. He has always been beaten, but defeat has

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Several weeks ago Abram G. Nelson hired a New Brunswick woman as a domestic. The woman brought her eight-year-old daughter into the household. Not long after their arrival a gold watch, a locket and other articles of jewelery were missed. They were traced to the little girl and investigation disclosed the fact that she had been distributing gifts among the neighborhood children. All of the missing jewelery was recovered. The domestic and her daughter have gone back to New Brunswick.

Nerve of a 10-Year-Old.

Tarrytown, Oct. 18.—Joseph Dowling, a ten-year-old boy of Columbus avenue, New York, while trying to steal a ride on a freight train here yesterday, fell under the wheels and his right leg was cut off. The lad picked up his mangled limb, which lay by him on the track and, holding it aloft, said to the physician, "Say, Doc, I don't want this leg any more. I wish I had lost my head, though." He was taken to the hospital and there exhibited his nerve by allowing the surgeons to operate on his limb without giving him anaesthetics.

NEW JERSEY IS SURELY ADVANCING.

Federal Census Shows This State Is Becoming Great Industrial Centre.

According to the report of the federal census taken last year of the manufacturing industries of this State and forwarded to the bureau of statistics of labor and industry here, New Jersey is making great gains as a manufacturing centre.

The total number of industrial establishments in the State in 1905 was 7,011, as compared with 6,415 in 1900. The capital employed was $716,046,545, against $477,301,565 in 1900, showing an increase of fifty per cent. The number of wage earners increased 24.5 per cent. from 213,975 to 266,387; while the wages increased from $95,164,913 to $126,182,633, an increase of 34.7 per cent. The cost of materials rose from $334,726,904 to $470,554,500, and the value of the finished articles from $553,005,634 to $774,618,029.

In Camden the number of wage earners increased from 7,742 to 12,661, the wages from $3,216,943 to $6,097,913 or 69.6 per cent. Capital increased from $15,592,565 to $31,992,487 or 105.2 per cent. The value of the products increased from $17,969,954 to $33,587,273, or 36.9 per cent.

The report shows that the wages have increased far in advance of the increase in the number of employes along all lines of industry and that the past half decade has been the most prosperous in the history of the State.

"The Goat" and "The Curb."

New York, Oct. 18.—Another Jerseyman entered the ranks of the curb brokers yesterday, and the New Yorkers gave him a perceptible initiation. He is William Ganzel, of Westfield, N. J. Mr. Ganzel is to be the curb representative of J. B. Russell & Co., members of the Stock Exchange. The beginner in curb speculation was given a liberal order in Greene Copper five per cent. bonds, a security which does not exist. He made valiant efforts to obtain the bonds at the prices scheduled for him, but despite his frantic efforts he could not catch the eye of the other brokers who made one of the most exciting "fake" markets in years. Finally he bought the whole block of $100,000 bonds at the top figure. Then some kind broker told him all about it, and he went away thinking things.

—Arthur Murphy, Esq., has taken possession of his new office in the Woolston & Buckle building on North avenue. He has one of the offices vacated by Reed & Coddington.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

Undoubtedly the strongest football eleven here is the Orange Field Club. The organization has an attractive schedule of games for the season and it has fair prospects of winning a majority of the gridiron contests.

In arranging its schedule for the season the powers that be at Bucknell University seems to have thought that the harder the better. Nobody can accuse the Bucknell people of looking for soft spots and if they can win half their games they will be doing well. The season opened with Cornell and this Saturday the Princeton Tigers will be the opponents of the Bucknell team. A week later Bucknell will grapple with the Navy team, then comes the University of Virginia, which has been sweeping all adversaries aside and a week after that comes the team of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The West Point team will be played on November 17, and the Baltimore Medical eleven on November 24.

President Swain in announcing that a holiday had been granted to the Swarthmore students to celebrate the victory over Pennsylvania had this to say: "I think the occasions are very rare when the regular work of the college should be suspended. When such holidays are granted they must justify themselves on the ground of the welfare of both the college and the students. As this is the first time in the history of the college that the Swarthmore football team has defeated the University of Pennsylvania I do not feel that it is strange that the students should desire this holiday, and on the whole I am inclined to believe they will use it well. It was a clean, honorable game, to which no lover of manly sports could properly take exceptions. The game was free from any unnecessary roughness on the part of both teams. There was no injury whatever to the Swarthmore team, all the eleven players remaining in the play throughout the game. It is unusual that the team is drawn so evenly from the classes. There are two seniors and three from each of the other classes."

GOLF.

While he has always been strong on his driving, Robert Abbott has failed to show the same high-class play in approaching and putting. As reported from Garden City, yesterday, he displayed an indifference in putting, which almost lost him his match with Cornwell. He had a very narrow escape, defeating his opponent only by two up. Dudley H. Barrows, of Princeton, won his match quite handily, thus helping his team to defeat Harvard. He scored 2½ points.

As evidence of the important place Plainfield holds in golf in the Metropolitan district, it is now an established fact that there are very few open tournaments of any interest that Plainfield is not represented by one or more players, and they generally make a good showing. Local golfers have not won all their honors on home links, and their work will compare favorably with that of the leading players, either in the amateur or professional ranks.

W. Lester Glenney and F. O. Reinhart, who were tied for a leg on the October Handicap cup at the Plainfield Country Club, last week, will play off the tie this week. At the end of the month those who have won a leg on the cup will play off at match play.

Shipments of white sand are being received at the Plainfield Country Club to be used about the course for extra hazards. Chairman Calkins, of the Greens committee, expects to make the course much more difficult and real low scores a rare thing.

It is a source of satisfaction to the members of the Park Golb Club that the proposed opening of a street through the course will not interfere with the play, in fact it will have a tendency to make the course even more sporty than at present.

Walter J. Travis has been named as captain of the Metropolitan Golf Association team which is to compete for the Lesley cup at the Merion Cricket Club, October 26 and 27. Under the amended conditions governing this tri-city competition between New York, Boston and Philadelphia, each captain shall furnish in advance to the other two captains a list of twelve players from which his team is to be chosen. It is also understood that a captain may play any ten men in any morning or afternoon match in which his team is to take part, the only condition being that no player starting in the morning or afternoon contest can be withdrawn during the match in which he starts. The amended rule in this way provides for two substitute players.

Announcements are out for the eleventh semi-annual thirty-six hole medal play handicap, open to members of the University Club, to be held over the links of the St. Andrews Golf Club on Wednesday, October 24. So far as possible handicaps will be based upon the metropolitan ratings. The tournament committee consists of Austen G. Fox, chairman: Robert L. Harrison, Frank A. Moore, Arthur H. Lockett and Richard S. Thomas. Entries should be sent to R. H. Thomas, No. 70 Fifth avenue, New York, before 3 p. m. on Tuesday, October 23. The courtesy of the St. Andrews Club will be extended to intending participants from the date of entry.

The executive committee of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association has decided that only members of that body will be eligible to compete in its first annual championship tournament, to be held on the Forest Hill Field Club links on Tuesday, October 23. There are about eighty members of the association now, but, even so, a number of well known "pros" in the East have failed to join. They have still time to get within the fold if they so desire. On the afternoon of the second day, October 24, the plan is to have well known amateurs team up with the professionals in four-ball matches.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A musical treat is promised our theatregoers in the visit of "The Rollicking Girl," which is announced as the attraction for the New Plainfield theatre tonight. This catchy and up-to-date musical oddity held the boards at the Herald Square theatre, New York city, for two hundred and fifty performances last season and played to record breaking business at every performance.

Probably no team of comedians have become more famous than the Russell Bros., who will be at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. Their work in female Irish roles is admirable and so far not equalled by any other players. The vehicle they offer this season is a melodrama of New York life by Mark E. Swan, entitled "The Great Jewel Mystery" and tells the thrilling story of a most sensational robbery at a swell hotel in the metropolis. Upwards of twenty character roles are required in the production, the same being filled by well selected players.

Viola Allen will present her massive new production of "Cymbeline" at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday night. Our theatre-goers will, on this occasion, have an opportunity of passing judgment on what has been pronounced in Washington and Baltimore the most artistic Shakespearean revival of modern times two days before it is seen in New York, where, on October 22, Miss Allen follows Annie Russell at the new Astor theatre. This is Miss Allen's third Shakespearean presentation of recent years, the others being "Twelfth Night" and "The Winter's Tale." Years ago, when but a girl, Miss Allen was John McCullough's leading woman and with the advantage of the training acquired in such a school, combined with the rare talent inherited from her gifted parents, it is not strange that the Viola Allen of today should be one of the most satisfactory modern exponents of the famous heroines of the great bard.

"Way Down East" with its pretty story and quaint characters of New England life, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday, October 25. The play has become so well known through successive performance that any reference to its character seems almost superfluous. In the parlance of theatrical folk, it is the best repeater of any play of modern times. It goes to the same cities year after year, and the business it does seems to increase with every succeeding engagement. The play has made several fortunes for William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer, and the end is not yet. It is the sort of play that appeals to all classes of theatregoers. City bred folk enjoy the characters and pictures they have known in other years; the rural folk are pleased with having their own people set before them in a mimic world, while those who frequent the gallery find just enough of the melodramatic in the play to appeal to their heroic natures. In consequence "Way Down East" reaches the purses of all classes and there are few plays of which the same can be written.

Broker Kept in Pen.

New York, Oct. 18.—Judge Olmsted, of Special Sessions Court, seemed surprised yesterday when a clerk interrupted the regular order of business and called the case of Henry Tobin, accused of having violated the speed laws in his automobile. Tobin is a broker, at No. 12 East Thirty-first street, and lives in the Hotel Marquis. "Don't be in such a hurry to call that case," said the Judge. "It will do us no harm to have the defendant sit awhile in the prisoner's pen with others who are less fortunate." He was fined $20, which he paid.

Sues Bookie For Lost Money.

New York, Oct. 18.—Interest is manifested by bookmakers and even members of the Jockey Club in an action before Judge Marean at Flushing, L. I., where Frank T. Waite has made Sol Lichtenstein, a bookmaker, defendant to recover $1,200 which the complainant is alleged to have lost on a horse two years ago. According to the complainant he wagered the sum at even money and, losing the race, he seeks to collect under a statute by which losers in similar cases have sought to recover.

Mrs. A. M. Stiles, of East Sixth street, has recovered from a long and severe illness.

Bank Defalcations Daily.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 18.—One new case of bank embezzlement every day in the year was the average estimate of defalcations made by Mr. Pierre Jay, Commissioner of Banking of Masachusetts, addressing the Convention of the American Banking Association here yesterday. The Commissioner declared that there was no way to prevent dishonest bank clerks from stealing enormous sums, but that an accounting system would check the thefts. So great has stealing become among bank employes, the Commissioner said, that it deserved the consideration of the officers of all banks.

REPUBLICAN APATHY.

That there is decided apathy in the Republican party in Union county as far as the Congressional fight is concerned grows more apparent every day. Just why this lukewarmness exists is not accounted for by the party managers; at least they will give it out. But it is discernable nevertheless, on every hand. At Elizabeth last night there were not more than five or six hundred people at the mass meeting although it had been freely advertised that Secretary of the Treasurer Leslie M. Shaw would speak.

This condition of affairs is to be regretted. To cast their ballots intelligently, the voters of the Fifth district should hear the respective arguments of the Fowler and Martine campaigners. Here in Plainfield it is expected that they will do so. The size of the audience when Martine opened his campaign a few nights ago is a pretty good indication that they will. Next week Mr. Fowler and his friends will have their inning, and no doubt they will be greeted by a big mass of voters. But the situation in Plainfield is different than it is in other parts of Union county. The people have not warmed up elsewhere as they have here. As a result the campaign is lagging.

The New York Central has been convicted of giving rebates to the Sugar Trust and sentence will be imposed tomorrow. Everyone knows what the punishment will be without waiting for the court to announce—just a few thousand dollars fine, which will indirectly come out of the pockets of those less favored by the railroad octopus.

According to the Trenton True American, the falling off in the Democratic registration in New York is an ill omen to Hearst. It is more probable that the Yellow candidate will profit by it for the decent men in the party are solid for Hughes.

P. S. C. MAKES REDUCTION.

Somerville Gets Street Lighting Much Cheaper.

Somerville, Oct. 18.—As the result of a conference between E. F. Brown, a member of the Somerville Board of Commissioners, and A. B. Carlton, one of the vice presidents of the Public Service Corporation, Mr. Brown yesterday received a communication from Mr. Carlton, who has agreed to make a substantial reduction in the price of lights for this city. At the last meeting of the Board of Commissioners it was claimed that the city was not receiving full power lights, and the bills of the Public Service Corporation, amounting to over $1,200 for street slights for the months of August and September, were held up. The contract for lighting had expired, and the authorities wanted a reduction in the price charged for the service.

Mr. Carlton in his communication stated that in consideration of the payment of bills for lighting to October 1, at 10 per cent. less than the full amount, the Public Service Corporation will reduce for one year the rate for 25-candlepower incandescent street lamps to $16 a lamp per year from October 1. Heretofore the company has charged $20 a year.

The town of Raritan, one mile west of Somerville, has just renewed a five-year contract at a reduction of $4 a year for incandescent lights.

Mr. Brown also had a conference with the Public Service officials anent the nuisance of tickets being used on the trolley cars between this city and Bound Brook, and the corporation has granted his request to do away with them. The fare will be five cents and passengers will pay on the cars.

never discouraged him or diminished his enthusiasm for the cause of Democracy.

In recent years the growth of Plainfield has brought the Martine farm well into the city, and the Democratic nominee has done less of farming, and more of real estate business, his cornfields having been sold off in building lots and built up into city squares. They say Martine has made a great deal of money out of real estate, and those who know say also that a large part of the money he has made has gone into politics, to keep the Democratic party together, and to carry on his own campaigns.

Fowler, from his farm home in Illinois, went to Beloit College, Wis., later graduating from Yale, and from the Chicago law school. About twenty years ago he came to New Jersey, settled in Westfield, and got active in local politics. He was then a struggling lawyer. In 1902 he was nominated by the Republicans for Congress, and elected. He has been reelected five times since, and is now looking for a seventh term. At the time of his first election Fowler was said to be, and said himself that he was, a poor man. Today he is rated among the multi-millionaires in the House of Representatives.

Fowler as a Money Maker.

The beginning of Fowler's fortune is understood to have been due to his activity in forming and promoting the Typewriter Trust. Since then his business and financial relations have grown and extended. His largest business interests to-day are probably in a marble quarry in Vermont. A few years ago he was interested in promoting the development and exploitation of forests of petrified wood found in the sunken lands of Arizona. Fowler is the man of affairs. Wealthy and busy. In Congress he has made himself known as a student of money, banking and currency, and is chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency. For years he has made currency reform his hobby, but for some mysterious reason his plans for such reform have never progressed beyond committee reports on his more important bills, and the passage by the House of some of his minor measures.

In his district, Fowler has been much criticized for his non-attendance in the House. His visits to Congress have been infrequent, and his stays short. It may be that private business has required his attention elsewhere. It may be that he is one of those members who realize how entirely the Speaker and his Committee on Rules govern, and how non-essential and futile is the attendance or effort of the average member. However that may be, Fowler holds one of the highest prizes for a record of absenteeism. Hill, of Connecticut, the second man on his committee, is practicaly in control of committee-room, and the clerk of the committee of which Fowler is chairman is a Connecticut man, appointed by Hill. These are some of the things they are talking of in the Fifth District this year, and which are being made campaign issues.

Both Brilliant Speakers.

Both Fowler and Martine are interesting and brilliant public speakers. There is more of the polished orator in Fowler's style. His methods are more those of the lyceum. Martine's genius on the stump or platform is native, inborn. He calls a spade a spade. Sometimes his language is so direct as to offend the subjects of his criticism. Fowler belongs to the class of men who refer to the spade as an agricultural implement for delving, and who see only poetry in the picture of the man with the hoe. Fowler is an optimist in all things. Martine is a politician materialist, with a full appreciation of the poetic and artistic side of things, but who would make these idealistic spots more conspicuous, and possibly more numerous and general, by bringing into stronger relief the ugly spots on the body politic.

Fowler and United States Senator John Kean have for years been political enemies, although both Republicans. They have waged a bitter feud for control of the party in Union county. Kean has been accused on different occasions of having not been over-anxious for the success of Fowler's campaigns. Fowler knows these things, but publicly has never attacked Kean any more than Kean has publicly given utterance to the many things of which he privately accuses Fowler. Neither has any faith in the other, but neither is brave enough to denounce the other publicly, or to oppose the other politically, in open fight. Like Griggs, Fowler has been suspected of being in sympathy with the Colby movement in the party but, again like Griggs, took no part in, the primary fight for the overthrow of the corporation control and influence in the party of which he has complained.

Different Kinds of Fights.

With the exception of one or two towns which get their supply from the Public Service, the companies owned by Senator Kean and his brother control the water and gas supply of Union County. The rates they charge are high, and the water and gas interests have enabled them to get and keep a tight hold on the Republican organization. Union County primaries and elections have been as notoriously corrupt and influenced by money as those elsewhere in the State. Vote buying is as prevalent there as in other counties. But in all his years of fighting Kean, Fowler has never attacked the Kean machine for its methods, for its combination of corporation and political interests or for the use of money in controlling nominations and elections.

Martine has fought the water monopoly for years. There isn't a town in Union that has a municipal water plant. Martine has talked and written and protested against such a condition. He hasn't made any headway, but he has kept at it. It may be said by some that he has fought the local corporations because they are owned by Kean, who is a Republican, but those who know Martine best say that he is built on broader lines. This year Fowler's hope of re-election lies in the chance that the Kean machine will stand by him. Whether it does or not is a mater that should prove interesting.

Two years ago Martine was pitted against Fowler. The Roosevelt wave, which carried almost everybody on the Republican ticket into office throughout the country, carried Fowler through by nearly 5,00 plurality. In 1902, in the same district, Fowler defeated DeWitt Clinton Flanagan, a Morris County millionaire brewer and distiller, by only 149. In 1904, when almost everything else went Republican, Martine carried Elizabeth, the biggest city in the district. Plainfield is regarded as the most certain Republican city in Union County. A few years ago Martine opposed Charles Fisk, a wealthy banker, for Mayor, and lost by less than twenty-five votes.

When the Fifth District was rearranged a few years ago, it was figured by the party leaders that it was Republican by something less than 1,500 votes, under normal conditions, in an off year. The Fowler-Flanagan contest showed this estimate to be somewhat liberal, but not far out of the way. In recent years, however, conditions have made the Republican vote heavier. Warren County was then looked upon as being Democratic by at least 1,000, Morris Republican by half as much, and Union Republican by 1,000. The building of the big cement works in Warren and the reopening of mines and big manufacturing establishments there, has brought into that county a new element in the form of several thousand foreign workmen, who have changed materially the political complexion of the county.

Money May Count.

"Fowler will probably win out," was the way an old-time Republican manipulator sized up the situation the other day. "He will carry Union by a small majority, although Martine will cut down the vote in Plainfield and probably carry Elizabeth. The millionaires in Morris County will vote for Fowler, and Jim hasn't got the money necessary to get the vote in the mining and cement plants of Morris and Warren."

That is the practical side of it. There is a law against buying votes in New Jersey, but nobody seems to be giving it much consideration as a possible factor in the elections. There has been such a law for years, but nobody has ever tried to enforce it. Fowler and Martine are both opposed to buying votes in theory, but probably both will spend money in this year's campaign, as usual. That doesn't mean it will be spent directly in buying votes. There are so many other ways. The man who takes $5 to work on a poll committee, for the party, doesn't consider that he is selling his vote. He probably doesn't realize that he is violating the spirit, if not the letter, of the law. And workers are high priced in the Fifth District, as they are elsewhere.

In the Martine-Fisk Mayoralty fight it is said by those who claim to know, that Fisk's campaign expenses were at least $6,000, and Martine's half as much. This in a little town like Plainfield for a local office with little or no salary attached, where it doesn't matter a straw to the taxpayers what is the politics of the Mayor, so long as he be an honest man with courage and ability enough to look out for the interests of the city. In the present Congress fight in the Fifth District the probabilities are that both candidates, to whom vote-buying and corruption and debauchery in elections are equally repugnant, will spend thousands of dollars to control or influence votes in various ways, although it is not probable that either of them would under the circumstances directly buy a vote.

Martine and the Railroad Agent.

Martine tells an interesting story of how, in his early political career, he learned of the power of money in politics and how the corporation game is worked. He had just taken a nomination for Assembly when he was sent for by a capitalist interested in a big railroad company and told that the company would contribute to his campaign. A big safe in a private office was opened and a big roll of bills produced.

"Now," said the railroad man, "if we help you out, you understand that if you are elected you are to do as we tell you."

"I don't understand anything of the sort," said Martine. "If you want to help me out and believe that I will do anything I can for you that is fair and consistent with the public interests, all right. If you are buying me and expect me to be a pawn for you or anybody else, keep your money."

"And they kept it," says Martine.

That happened thirty years ago or so. Conditions have changed in the State since. The bosses and the corporation people have found less crude methods of doing things now, but the spirit still lives. In all his thirty years in politics nobody has ever accused Jim Martine of being anybody's tool, or of being dishonest or insincere. Fowler has never been accused of being dishonest. He is accused of having given more attention to money-making for himself than to his public duties as a member of Congress.

Hundreds of Republicans in Plainfield will vote for Martine because they know him to be a good fellow, and an honest, public-spirited man. He prides himself upon his local popularity. There is a story told in his town about his meeting two little colored boys with a small wagon loaded with apples.

"Where did you get the apples, boys?" asked Martine.

"Down at Jim Martine's orchard," replied the boys. "You can get all you want there."

"I didn't care anything about the apples," said Martine, when asked about the story, "but it was rather a disappointment to me to find there was anybody in Plainfield who didn't know me."

Says Husband Stole Her Money.

New Brunswick, Oct. 18.—Word was received in this city yesterday that an opinion had been filed in the suit of Mrs. Emma J. Jackson against the estate of her deceased husband for $2,000, which, it was alleged in her bill of complaint, he had stolen from his wife while asleep. The Court of Chancery dismissed the appeal on the ground that no direct evidence was produced to prove the allegation. Mrs. Jackson alleged that the money was taken from her by her husband on February 12, 1894, while she was asleep on a lounge.

MISS LA BARRE GETS DAMAGES IN $5,000.

She Also Has Criminal Suit for Assault Pending Against John F. Maroney.

The suit of Miss Viola La Barre against John F. Moroney, an insurance superintendent, for $20,000 damages for an alleged assault last May 24 was tried yesterday before Judge J. Franklin Fort and a jury in the Supreme Court in Jersey City.

Miss La Barre, attractive and young, was a typewriter in Maroney's office, at No. 45 Montgomery street, Jersey City. Dr. Frank F. Bowyer testified that he attended Miss La Barre and found black and blue bruises.

The defense tried to show that Miss La Barre encouraged Maroney. She this denied indignantly. She wept frequently while on the witness chair. Maroney has been criminally indicted on Miss La Barre's complaint.

At a late hour the jury gave Miss La Barre a verdict for $5,000.

BOONTON FACTORY DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Four Hundred Men Thrown Out of Employment by Disastrous Blaze.

Boonton, Oct. 18.—A fire at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning destroyed the Boonton Iron and Steel Company's mills, Boonton's largest manufacturing plant, and the Lincoln Iron works, which manufactured bridge iron used for building purposes and fancy structural iron work. The latter was totally destroyed.

Four hundred men are thrown out of employment and the loss of wages will amount to $5,000 a week. The buildings were owned by the estate of J. Cooper Lord, and were insured. The loss to the machinery is heavy, but covered by insurance.

The origin of the fire is not known. It started in the mills of the Lincoln Iron Works, which occupied the front end of the big mill, which covered several acres of land. One of the workmen in the iron and steel company's mills, discovered the fire and, running to the old mill bell, sounded the alarm, which was soon taken up by the Maxfield, South Boonton and the Harmony alarms.

When it was seen that the rolling mill was doomed the whole town turned out and witnessed the destruction of the vast mills. The flames ran along the shafting, which were soaked with oil, and in a few minutes the whole structure was a mass of flames. As the building covered so much ground the firemen had difficulty in handling the flames.

As the front of the mill fell in and the old bell tumbled to the ground the sparks shot upward 100 feet or more. The escaping steam from the boilers in the mills added to the confusion and hundreds of persons, standing near by, ran fearing the boilers would explode.

A freight car of the Lackawanna Railroad standing on a switch was partly destroyed, and a number of steel cars on the same switch suffered. The branch office of the Iron and Steel Company's mills, which was attached to the mill, was burned but the books were saved. A strong wind was blowing from the northwest and this kept the sparks from spreading over the town. The sparks set fire to the woods on the park side of the town. The proximity of the New Jersey Boiler Company's works and the Loando Hard Rubber Company mills gave the situation a more serious aspect but these buildings were saved.

ONLY PRETENDED TO TAKE POISON.

His Attempt to Frighten Wife Caused Him Much Pain and Trouble.

After a quarrel Monday night with his wife at their home, No. 32 Dickerson street, Newark, Alvah Dickerson, thirty-three years old, placed a bottle containing carbolic acid to his lips and pretended to swallow the contents.

Mrs. Dickerson ran screaming from her apartments and summoned neighbors, who knocked the bottle from Dickerson's hand. Then a Fifth Precinct policeman appeared and Dickerson was bundled off to the City Hospital.

At the hospital Dickerson protested that he had not swallowed any of the poison, but the doctors declined to take his word, and he was subjected to a gruelling process in which a stomach pump played a conspicuous part.

When the doctors found no evidence of poison they turned Dickerson over to the police and he spent the night in a cell.

When arraigned before Judge Kuhn yesterday, charged with attempted suicide, Dickerson explained that he had no notion of killing himself, but had pretended to swallow the carbolic acid in order to frighten his wife. Believing that the prisoner's experience had had a chastening effect Judge Kuhn discharged him.

NETHERWOOD PARK.

Another Attractive Spot in Beautiful Netherwood Section.

The laying out, grading and mapping of the property recently purchased by the Plainfield Land and Building Company, of which A. D. Thompson is the president, is now nearly completed and when the macadam is laid in the streets, this new addition to the beautiful Netherwood section will be something that Plainfield should feel proud of. The land is among the highest in the city and the streets are now being sewered by the company, to be followed by macadamizing. Already many lots have been sold and several fine houses are in course of construction. The property, laid out in park style with winding sreets, is all restricted. The lots are all large and well drained. City water, gas and electricity will be introduced at once, making the entire property valuable for home seekers.

Robert McCready has added to his Netherwood Park property by purchasing of A. D. Thompson another plot of ground on Dixie lane adjoining his former purchases. Mr. Thompson has also sold to Walter E. Cahoone two fine building plots on Dixie lane, Netherwood Park, and to Wm. J. Haywood, of New York, three handsome plots on Denmark road, both of whom will erect handsome dwellings in the near future.

Addison Hayes, of Colorado Springs, Col., her daughter; Dr. and Mrs. Gerald D. Webb, Mrs. Webb being her granddaughter; Jefferson Hayes Davis, a grandson; Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, Mrs. C. E. Bateson, a niece; Dr. and Mrs. J. Harvey Drew, Miss Drew, Dr. Robert H. Wiley, Mrs. Davis' physician, and the Rev. M. A. Seagle, of St. Stephen's Episcopal church.

The women of the German Lutheran church will hold an entertainment in the church on Grove street, tonight.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

Oct. 21: "Studies In Church Benevolences."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Our business in the world.—John xx, 21. The world dependent upon us.—Rom. x, 14. Commanding all our resources.—II Cor. viii, 1-7. The investment of the whole life.—II Cor. viii, 5. Our resources administered not by impulse, but wisely.—II Tim. ii, 15.

If this world is ever to go rightly it will be because it has found out God's plan regarding it and is carrying out that plan. This holds good of the individuals, of society at large and of nations also.

God's plan to develop men in society as brothers has been made known to us. It appears to us as the only possible way for human peace, happiness and prosperity. The Master has given us commandments and has lived the life which is pattern and much more than example. He has promised the Spirit to guide into all truth, to give wisdom and strength. Wonderfully has the Spirit manifested His power of transforming men and lifting them into newness of life.

Now comes the task of making all men know the mystery of this fellowship which for the ages has been hidden. This task Jesus has placed on us. It is not enough to tell men about it in words, not enough to say it with the lips and pen. It must be told in deeds. It must be in a voice and look and gesture. It must be on the heart until the constant desire of soul is for the uplifting of the world from its sin and sorrow and shame into the peace and purity of God.

This will tax all our resources. We can do little alone, but we are not called to do alone. We are united in the great church of Jesus Christ. When the gentile churches would assist the Jerusalem Christians they did not send their gifts singly, but collected all together and sent special messengers with Paul to present their offerings in the best manner.

So now we are organized, and our gifts are put with others in the work, but our responsibility does not end when the contribution box has passed or our subscription has been paid. We need to know what the church is doing and where and how.

Do you know in what lands we have missions and what has been and is now being done? Can you tell of our fellow members in China or Japan or India, in Africa or Mexico or South America, in the Philippines or Porto Rico? Do you ever give them a thought or prayer? Do they get any hold on your sympathies? Are they as foreign to you and as impersonal as the man in the moon? Not if you are a Christian.

The great trouble with many is that they have never invested enough in church benevolences to expect any dividend and so have never followed their investments with prayers and inquiries. Put in enough cash to know what it is to have a share in the work. Then insist on knowing what your money is doing.

Study the church benevolences to see what the need is, where it is greatest and where you can best invest with surest prospect of greatest returns. Learn what others are doing, and you will know better what to do yourself.

Be a diligent, constant giver, but be an intelligent giver also. Be liberal, but be wise in your liberality.

A Warning to Parents.

Parents are often sorely tried over the choice of their sons for young women whom they do not approve for wives or over the disposition of their daughters to accept attentions from young men whom they consider unfit for husbands. Parents, however, are often responsible for placing their children in circumstances or conditions of life where just the event they deplore has come in a natural course of development. It may be possible at an early stage to so shape a child's mind that he or she will have the parental standard of judgment in thought before the time of sentiment and action comes. It may be that the place of residence, the circle of society, the educational institution, may be so selected that the child will naturally form an alliance that is acceptable on the whole. Many parents have chiefly their own previous carelessness or thoughtlessness as the cause of the alliance which they regret so greatly and try too late to break up. Foresight and preparation a long way ahead might have averted the disaster. Cross currents may affect the best laid plans, but many a parent will find upon reflection that there was a time when he might have anitcipated the influences that affect his child.—Watchman.

Old Fashioned.

The air is old fashioned; it circles the earth
The same as it did before Abraham's birth,
Gives beauty and vigor and cleansing of blood
As it did to the ancients before Noah's flood.
The Bible, old fashioned, giveth health manifold,
But do not reject it because it is old.

The light is old fashioned; it painteth the flowers
The same as it did in Eden's sweet bowers;
The gems that reflect it bear many a name,
But light in all ages gives beauty the same.
The Bible, like light, has a glory untold,
But do not reject it because it is old.

Water's old fashioned, which springs from the hills
And flows to the valleys in life giving rills
The same as it flowed on its way to the sea
To kiss Jesus' feet as they trod Galilee.
God's word, like the river, rare blessings doth hold,
But do not reject it because it is old.
—Rev. William T. Sleeper in Christian Endeavor World.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy. New Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland Block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its working by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 21.

By REV. S. E. DOYLE.

Topic.—Faithfulness.—Luke xvi, 10; I Cor. iv, 1-5; Rev. ii, 10.

Christian faithfulness is fidelity in the performance of all our Christian duties and obligations. It is apparently a very commonplace word, and yet it is a word that should be written large in all the relations of our lives. No greater eulogy can be pronounced upon any man than to declare that he was faithful—the employed faithful to his employer, the patriot faithful to his country, and, above all, the Christian faithful to his Saviour and to his God. On the other hand, no failing in life is so despised as faithlessness. Let us therefore be faithful and not unfaithful.

Faithfulness in little things is expected of us. Christ so taught in the parable of the unjust steward. "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much." The tendency to treat faithfulness in little things lightly is a very common one. Many patriots could easily die on the field of battle for their country, yet they fail to live for it in the faithful performance of the duties and obligations of citizenship. Martyrdom would readily be welcomed by many Christians, who find the daily routine of the Christian life hard to conform to. But faithfulness in all things is demanded of us, and he who is faithful in the comparatively minor duties of life will prove faithful in a great crisis if it should come. The master of details is also master of great events. "He that is faithful in that which is least will be faithful also in much." Despise not the little things of life. They may seem to be trifles. "Trifles make perfection, and perfection is no trifle."

Faithfulness to God is the chief thing demanded of us. "It is required in stewards that a man be found faithful." No other virtue in a steward would compensate for unfaithfulness. A trust is committed to his care, and, no matter what else he may be or may not be, nothing will cause unfaithfulness to be palliated or excused. We are the stewards of God. We ourselves and all that we are and have belong to God. Every gift we possess is a trust from God, for which we must some day render an account unto Him. Let us therefore be faithful stewards.

Faithfulness should continue throughout our entire lives. There is no command that we should be faithful until we are twenty-five or fifty years of age. "Be thou faithful unto death" is the divine command. To such a one there is a rich reward, a crown of eternal life. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."

Dr. Sheldon on Christian Endeavor.

The distinguished author of "In His Steps" is a stanch friend of Christian Endeavor. In a recent number of the Endeavor Spirit he has the following to say about "The Influence of Christian Endeavor Societies:"

"First, their influence in the church of which they are a part. It almost goes without saying that a church which has any future in it must have young people who are actively at work. It would be safe to say that if all the young people's societies were cut out of all the churches in America the churches themselves would sustain a tremendous loss, even those churches which are indifferent to the organization. The direct influence of an Endeavor society on the pastor of a church is noticeable in many directions. The pastor gets his inspiration from various sources. He draws it from the spiritual atmosphere in which he is supposed to live, from the everlasting promises, from his reading, from friends, etc. But by far the largest source of his real inspiration must be the knowledge of enthusiastic co-operation in Christian work among his young people.

"This influence is so large and powerful that the man in the ministry who has no experience of it is a man to be pitied, and it is doubtful if any leader in Christian work can do faithful service and remain encouraged unless he has this consciousness of sympathy and enthusiastic fellowship which the Christian Endeavor societies always furnish.

"In the second place, the influence of the Christian Endeavor societies is a recognized factor in the social and political life of the world. There are hundreds of communities where the Christian young people of this society are a distinct and practical factor in the political and social welfare of the place. Scores of Endeavor societies have literally turned the tide of political corruption back in their town or village, and hundreds of them all over the country and the world represent to the outside world the finest type of Christian enthusiasm in existence. It is worth more than one can measure to know that there is in America and throughout the world a band of several hundred thousand young men and women whose ideals are those of the Son of God. This factor must be reckoned with by the world outside of the church and of Christ. This influence is strong, enthusiastic and practical. To the Endeavor society the world owes today, for direct influence in countless ways of righteousness, more than to any other organization of young people known that is not Christian."

Giving of Thanks.

Am I to thank God for everything? Am I to thank Him for bereavement, for pain, for poverty, for toil? Psalm, my soul; thou hast misread the message. It is not to give thanks for everything, but to give thanks in everything.—George Matheson.

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

"No, thank you, Matthew," was his answer. "I have all of those stocks I wish—at present."

Whether it is peculiar to me, I don't know—probably not—but my memory is so constituted that it takes an indelible and complete impression of whatever is sent it by my eyes and ears; and just as by looking closely you can find in a photographic plate a hundred details that escape your glance, so on those memory plates of mine I often find long afterward many and many a detail that escaped me when my eyes and ears were taking the impression. On my memory plate of that moment in my interview with Roebuck, I find details so significant that my failing to note them at the time shows how unfit I then was to guard my interests. For instance, I find that just before he spoke those words declining my assistance and implying that he had already increased his holdings, he opened and closed his hands several times, finally closed and clinched them—a sure sign of energetic nervous action, and in that particular instance a sign of deception, because there was no energy in his remark and no reason for energy. I am not superstitious, but I believe in palmistry to a certain extent. Even more than the face are the hands a sensitive recorder of what is passing in the mind.

But I was then too intent upon my dilemma carefully to study a man who had already lulled me into absolute confidence in him. I left him as soon as he would let me go. His last words were, "No gambling, Matthew! No abuse of the opportunity God is giving us. Be content with the just profits from investment. I have seen gamblers come and go, many of them able men—very able men. But they have melted away, and where are they? And I have remained and have increased. I feel that I can trust you. You began as a speculator, but success has steadied you, and you have put yourself on the firm ground where we see the solid men into whose hands God has given the development of the abounding resources of this beloved country of ours."

Do you wonder that I went away with a heart full of shame for the gambling projects my head was planning upon the information that good man had given me?

I shut myself in my private office for several hours of hard thinking—as I can now see, the first real attention I had given my business in two months. It soon became clear enough that my textile plunge was a folly; but it was too late to retrace. The only question was, could and should I assume additional burdens? I looked at the National coal problem from every standpoint—so I thought. And I could see no possible risk. Did not Roebuck's statement make it certain as sunrise that, as soon as the reorganization was announced, all coal stocks would rise? Yes, I should be risking nothing; I could with absolute safety stake my credit; to make contracts to buy coal stocks at present prices for future delivery was no more of a gamble than depositing cash in the United States treasury.

"You've gone back to gambling lately, Matt," said I to myself. "You've been on a bender, with your head afire. You must get out of this textile business as soon as possible. But it's good sound sense to plunge on the coal stocks. In fact, your profits there would save you if by some mischance textile should rise instead of fall. Acting on Roebuck's tip isn't gambling, it's insurance."

I emerged to issue orders that soon threw into the National coal venture all I had not staked on a falling market for textiles. I was not content—as the pious gambling-hater, Roebuck, had begged me to be—with buying only what stock I could pay for. I went plunging on, contracting for many times the amount I could have bought outright.

The next time I saw Langdon I was full of enthusiasm for Roebuck. I can see his smile as he listened.

"I had no idea you were an expert on the trumpets of praise, Blacklock," said he finally. "A very showy accomplishment," he added, "but rather dangerous; don't you think? The player may become enchanted by his own music."

"I try to look on the bright side of things," said I, "even of human nature."

"Since when?" drawled he.

I laughed—a good, hearty laugh, for this shy reference to my affair of the heart tickled me. I enjoyed to the full only in long retrospect the look he gave me.

"As soon as a man falls in love," said he, "trustees should be appointed to take charge of his estate."

"You're wrong there, old man," I replied. "I've never worked harder or with a clearer head than since I learned that there are"—I hesitated, and ended lamely—"other things in life."

Langdon's handsome face suddenly darkened, and I thought I saw in his eyes a look of savage pain. "I envy you," said he with an effort at his wonted lightness and cynicism. But that look touched my heart; I talked no more of my own happiness. In so doing so, I felt would be like bringing laughter into the house of grief.

XV.

TRAPPED AND TRIMMED.

There are two kinds of dangerous temptations—those that tempt us, and those that don't. Those that don't give us a false notion of our resisting power, and so make us easy victims of the others. I thought I knew myself pretty thoroughly, and I believed there was nothing that could tempt me to neglect my business. With this delusion of my strength firmly in mind, when Anita became a temptation to neglect business, I said to myself: "To go up town during business hours for long lunches, to spend the mornings selecting flowers and presents for her—these things look like neglect of business, and would be so in some men. But I couldn't neglect business. I do them because my affairs are so well ordered that a few hours of absence now and then make no difference—probably send me back fresher and clearer."

When I left the office at half past twelve on that fateful Wednesday in June, my business was never in better shape. Textile common had dropped a point and a quarter in two days—evidently it was at last on its way slowly down toward where I could free myself and take profits. As for the coal enterprise nothing could possibly happen to disturb it; I was all ready for the first of July announcement and boom. Never did I have a lighter heart than when I joined Anita and her friends at Sherry's. It seemed to me her friendliness was less perfunctory, less a matter of appearances. And the sun was bright, the air delicious, my health perfect. It took all the strength of all the straps Mercon had put on my natural spirits to keep me from being exuberant.

I had finally intended to be back at my office half an hour before the exchange closed—this in addition to the obvious precaution of leaving orders that they were to telephone me if anything should occur about which they had the least doubt. But so comfortable did my vanity make me that I forgot to look at my watch until a quarter to three. I had a momentary qualm; then, reassured, I asked Anita to take a walk with me. Before we set out I telephoned my right-hand man and partner, Ball. As I had thought, everything was quiet; the exchange was closing with textiles sluggish and down a quarter. Anita and I took a car to the park.

We walked for an hour, talking with less constraint and more friendliness than ever before, and when I left her I, for the first time, felt that I had left a good impression.

When I entered my offices, I, from force of habit, mechanically went direct to the ticker—and dropped dead in an instant from the pinnacle of heaven into a boiling inferno. For the ticker was just spelling out these words: "Mowbray Langdon, president of the Textile association, sailed unexpectedly on the Kaiser Wilhelm at noon. A 2 per cent raise of the dividend rate of textile common, from the present 4 per cent to 6 has been determined upon."

And I had staked up to, perhaps beyond my limit of safety that textile would fall!

Photogravures of Candidates.

Two handsome portraits, genuine photogravures, such as sell in art stores at $2 each, the subjects being Edwin S. Stuart and Lewis Emery, Jr., candidates for the Governorship of Pennsylvania, will be issued as art supplements to the Sunday North American for October 21 and October 28. The Stuart picture will be issued on October 21 and that of Mr. Emery on the following Sunday. The editor of this paper has received advance copies of the two portraits and pronounces them works of art of the highest class. Nothing so good has ever been issued as a special supplement. As the editions of the Sunday North American for these two dates will be limited and the demand unusually large, it will be necessary to order the paper in advance to insure delivery.

Girl Frightfully Beaten.

New York, Oct. 18.—Beaten so frightfully that the surgeons of the J. Hood Wright Hospital declared they had never seen anything to equal her injuries, May Fowler, twenty-four years old, was removed from the Minqua Hotel, 124th street and Eighth avenue, last Saturday night and for two days lay semi-conscious in the hospital. When she regained her faculties in a slight degree she was thrown into a relapse by the discovery that diamond rings worth about $1,200 had been torn from her fingers by the man who had marred her face and head with a bottle, until she was almost beyond recognition. Who this man is the girl does not know. She went to the hotel with him after a chance meeting on the street.

CLERGY'S AID IS ASKED FOR PURE BALLOT BOX.

Anti-Bribery League Seeking Reform Wave to Get Honest Vote of the People.

That the Anti-Bribery eLague intends to prosecute a mist vigorous campaign in an effort to stamp out corruption at the coming elections was evidenced at a meeting of that body in the Y. M. C. A. building, Trenton, Monday night. Committees were appointed and organized for a big mass meeting, and one of the principal efforts of the committee will be toward securing the promise of Governor Edward C. Stokes to address the meeting, which is planned for the near future.

Believing that through the pulpit the people of the city can be appealed to with considerable effect, resolutions calling upon the clergy to lend their assistance to the cause were adopted, and these, with a plea for personal corporation, will be sent to the Ministerial union of this city. A copy of the resolutions follow:

"To the Ministerial union of the city of Trenton:

"The Mercer County Anti-bribery league, which was organized largely through the efforts of members of your body, to check the evils of vote buying, so flagrantly manifested at the last election in this city and county, respectfully suggests for your consideration the desirability of some action looking to a general expression by the clergy of the city on some Sunday preceding the coming election, of condemnation of the practice of bribing voters as a means of carrying elections and of calling upon all citizens to aid, so far as they may be able, in enforcing the laws designed to suppress bribery at elections.

"The league also asks personal cooperation of all members of Ministerial union and have them attend our meetings and help in the work of suppressing corruption in elections.

"Respectfully submitted,

"MERCER COUNTY ANTI-BRIBERY LEAGUE."

Tribute to Fisk.

According to despatches from Plainfield, N. J., the Republicans of that city have decided upon Mr. Charles J. Fisk, of the well known banking house of Harvey Fisk & Sons, of New York city, as their candidate for Mayor. It is hardly necessary to say to readers of this paper that no better choice than this could possibly have been made. Mr. Fisk has been a resident of Plainfield since 1885 and has always been active in movement for its welfare, and has always been looked up to and respected by everybody. He is a man of very high standing in the councils of the Republican party, a member of the Union League Club, of New York, of the Republican Club, of the Lawyers' Club, and of various other influential organizations. He is a director of the Delaware and Bound Brook Railroad Company, etc. The announcement of the selection of Mr. Fisk was made by ex-Mayor Alexander Gilbert, chairman of the Republican Advisory Committee, who is himself a banker. It was stated that Mr. Fisk was selected as the only man who could make a formidable opponent to the Colby party. The campaign was one of the hottest ever known in Plainfield, a great deal of personal feeling having been brought to bear. But with a clean, strong and able man such as Mr. Fisk the indications are that the Republicans will win a sweeping victory. It is but rarely that this paper takes any part in political contests, but on the present occasion it seems to be nothing less than a plain duty to state the facts of the case and to express the opinion that the Republicans of Plainfield will be doing the best and wisest thing possible under the circumstances in giving to Mr. Fisk all the support and influence they can possibly bring to bear.—New York Financial and Commercial World.

CITY BOYS DEFEAT THE BOROUGH LADS

P. H. S. MADE 2 TOUCHDOWNS IN 1ST HALF—N. P. H. S. 1 IN 2D.

The football game yesterday between the high school teams of Plainfield and North Plainfield resulted in the defeat of the borough eleven by a score of 10 to 5.

Captain Mahaffey won the toss and chose the south goal. North Plainfield kicked off and after a series of end plays and forward passes P. H. S. pushed the ball to the forty yard line. Another forward pass and Brakeley carried it over for the first touchdown. The wind was strong and Caldwall missed the goal on the kick. Again the forward pass was repeated successfully and in five minutes Fountain rushed the pig skin over the goal line. After the next kick off P. H. S. had the ball within ten yards of the oposing team's goal when time was called, the score then standing 10—0 in favor of P. H. S.

In the second half the North Plainfield boys played with a little more snap and once Dunning succeeded in blocking a forward pass. A. Van Arsdale broke through the P. H. S. line and made an eighty-five yard run for a touchdown. McClintock missed the kick. When the whistle blew for time P. H. S. was near the goal and the score stood 10 to 5. Mahaffey of P. H. S. held up his repetition for sure tackling and good playing in general, and Tillotson was "Johnny on the Spot." Fountain and Bogardus also played a good game for P. H. S. M. Vanarsdale, A. YALE WINS CHAMPIONSHIP AT GARDEN CITY COURSE.

Eli Defeats Princeton in Big Team Match 8½ to 4½ Points.

Yale won the team championship of the Intercollegiate Golf Association yesterday over the course at Garden City, beating Princton by 8½ points to 4½. It stood 9 to 5 by holes. It was thirty-six hole final, Yale leading after the first eighteen by 7 to 5. The name of the winning team will be inscribed on the trophy, the gifht of the United States Golf Association, and it gives Yale the first leg on the college boys' $600 cup that became a three win cup by the action of the annual meeting on Tuesday night. Yale has now won five and Harvard six of the team championships. Princeton has now been runnerup four times.

In yesterday's play, Abbott, the individual champion, and Partridge made the running from the start for Yale. Abbott is a phenomenal long player, and he had Gee fussing to equal his full shots, with the result that he Princetonian was 5 down in the morning. The best cards included Abbott's an 87 and 85. Further honors came to Plainfield through the playing of Dudley H. Barrows, playing with the Princeton team. He defeated Knowles, of Yale, 2½ to 0.

The individual championship begins this morning. At the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Golf Association, Tuesday night, W. T. West, Princeton, was elected president; Robert Abbott, Yale, treasurer, and H. H. Wilder, Harvard, secretary. The Nassau Country Club will be asked to hold the tournament next fall.

P. H. S. MAY CANCEL FOOTBALL SCHEDULE.

Five Players Have Resigned Because of Parental Objection to the Game.

Henry Pound, manager of the Plainfield High School football eleven, has cancelled the game scheduled for Saturday with the Rutgers Prep, and it is doubtful whether the team will play again this season. The parents of the players seriously object to the game, especially on account of the many casualties, two deaths resulting in New Jersey this year. The matter was brought to the attention of the football squad at a meeting held yesterday, and it was decided to give up the game.

Lindsey Best, coach for the team, said last night: "It would be impossible to continue the schedule as five of the eleven members of the team have resigned and it is doubtful whether other players can be secured to take the vacant places. Besides there seems to be much objection to the game on the part of the parents of the players."

Taylor Mehaffey, captain of the team, said today that he would try and secure other players to make up an eleven, but he considered it doubtful as to whether this could be done.

School Field Meet.

The High School field meet will be held at the Driving Park, November 2. Eleven events are on the card, one being a class relay race, for four man teams. Entries will close October 30. The events in addition to the class race are as follows: 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, 440-yard run, 880-yard run, shot put, running high jump, running broad jump, standing broad jump, pole vault, and a 60-yard dash for all students sixteen years of age or younger.

ENCROACHED ON LAND.

But Real Estate Company Was Saved From Damages In Court.

The Westfield Real Estate Company, of which Rev. George A. Francis, of this city, is president, successfully combatted the effort of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hefele, of Westfield, to secure damages for alleged trespass in erecting a house, before Court Justice Swayze and a jury, in Elizabeth, Tuesday.

The claim grew out of an encroachment of 30 feet on the plaintiffs' property. The defendants admitted the encroachment, but pleaded complete innocence of wrongful intent, and submitting that a cellar that had been dug was refilled and that the land was put in better condition than before, they contended no damage had been sustained.

The jury assessed the company six cents. W. A. Coddington defended the suit. Jeremiah Kiernan was the plaintiff's lawyer.

—Robert Rushmore, accompanied by B. Frank Coriell, Bert Fletcher, L. B. Woolston and Henry Woodland visited Salaam Temple, Newark, last night, making the trip to and from Newark in Mr. Rushmore's automobile.

A "SOUTHERN EVENING."

Programme at Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

Under the auspices of the committee from the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, which has charge of the arrangements for the support of a girl at Salem College, a "Southern Evening" was enjoyed in the church parlors, last night. Supper was served by the young women who wore appropriate costumes.

The programme included several representations of well-known southern stories. This part of the programme was concluded with the playing of a medley of southern songs by Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis. "Litt'l' Lammie" was sung by Miss Evalois St. John, and selections were read by Miss Mary Ross. Mrs. J. B. Cottrell, Miss Nan Randolph and Mrs. S. A. Burdick sang. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Miss Mary A. Ross, Miss Mary St. John and Miss Mildred Green, and the waitresses were Miss Rose Davis, Miss Isabelle Randolph and Miss Eva Rogers.

TO INSTALL NEW BOILER.

Change to Be Made at the New Plainfield Theatre at Once.

Manager W. J. Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, has contracted with George J. Tobin to install at once in the basement of the playhouse a 1906 model of the Granger Company's high-pressure tubular boiler. It will be used in heating the building, the present apparatus having been found inadequate. It supplied sufficient warmth for the auditorium but the pressuhe was not enough for the stage or lodge rooms.

The new boiler will be equipped to run a motor as it is Mr. Counihan's intention to have an independent electric lighting plant next season. He proposes to have a system capable of caring for 800 or 1,000 globes, thus giving him increased lighting facilities. The new boiler will represent an outlay of $1,000 and will care for the house for years to come.

Odd Situation in Assault Trial.

New Brunswick, Oct. 18.—An unusual point was brought up in court Monday, when George and Michael Bochino, the inmates of the Rahway Reformatory, charged with assaulting Keeper Nels Hansen there on September 27, were arraigned on indictments charging atrocious assault. They pleaded not guilty and their father offered bail for them. Judge Booraem held that the men, having been prisoners at the time of the crime, could not be bailed to liberty, a state they were not entitled to even though the crime had not been committed as alleged. He commanded, therefore, that the men be remanded to the county jail without bail, until the trial, on October 18.

He was a mason contractor when they were married, in 1883. Two years later he disappeared and remained away until April 20, 1895. He declined to tell where he had been, and after three days disappeared again.

H. C. SQUIRES AT REST

Concourse of Friends Gather About His Bier While Ministers Pay Him Tribute.

DR. BLISS' EULOGY

Impressive Services at Crescent Avenue Church—Church Officers Honorary Pall Bearers.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Henry Chadwick Squires were held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon. The edifice was filled with members of the church together with a large number from Hope chapel, of which he was one of the founders and of which he was superintendent for years.

Rev. D. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, was in charge of the services, which began with the reading of Scriptures, followed with prayer by Rev. L. R. Howard. After the quartette sang "Abide With Me," Dr. Zelie and Mr. Howard both read Scripture selections.

Rev. Dr. John C. Bliss, of New York, who made the address, was well acquainted with Mr. Squires and his religious work in the church, chapel. Dr. Bliss spoke feelingly of the departed, dwelling on the friendship he had with Mr. Squires and how he had known and trusted him and what a help he was in the cause of religion.

Dr. Bliss said that Mr. Squires had a heart full of sympathy for others and his death was the going out from a home where the ties were so sacred. He spoke of the great loss to the church, where he made such noble sacrifices and worked so earnestly and faithfully as an elder and as a teacher of the young men's Bible class. He referred impressively to the blessed work at Hope chapel, and said that he never met him but that Mr. Squires did not mention the work at the chapel and refer to the good work being done by the different members. He had a close personal relationship with his workers.

The speaker said that his heart was full of sympathy with those who will miss Mr. Squires. He considered it no small matter to have such a worker taken away and it was not surprising to him that to bereaved ones it seemed as though all the light had gone out of the skies when such a sorrow comes. He spoke of the many noble lives it had been the privilege of the church to have as workers; what a roll call of honor might be made. There is rejoicing, however, to know that they are with the Lord, that they have been called to that far better land with all the redeemed of the Lord.

In conclusion Dr. Bliss said that there was nothing that would give Mr. Squires more joy than to know that all his friends had given their hearts to Christ and would try and serve Him. He made an earnest appeal to those present to emulate the life and character of him who had gone before and to serve Christ with all their hearts.

Following the address, the quartette sang "Lead Kindly Light," and Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, former pastor of Hope chapel, but now pastor of the St. Cloud Presbyterian church, West Orange, offered a fervent prayer. The benediction was pronounced by Dr. Zelie.

At the close of the service the remains were placed in the vestibule of the church and as the congregation passed out they took a last look at the face of one who for thirty years had been an elder of the church and an earnest worker for all its interests.

There were many beautiful floral tributes, comprising cut flowers, wreaths of flowers, bunches of chrysanthemums and galax leaves, which completely covered the casket. Wm. E. MacClymont was the organist. A quartette choir consisting of Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; Miss Grace Carroll, contralto; Elmer D. Cutting, tenor, and Charles L. Lewis, bass, sang two selections, "Abide With Me," and "Lead Kindly Light."

The interment was in Hillside cemetery and the pall-bearers, members and active workers at Hope chapel, were Donald McInnis, David Bowden, Fred Wharton, Robert Slorah, Walter Bradford and Thomas Hendry. Deacons H. O. Newman, T. F. Budlong and S. H. Whitney, together with all the elders of the church, escorted the body in and out of the church.

Hope chapel sent an ivy wreath, and there were cut flowers and wreaths from the Men's Club, the Men's Bible Class, the Ladies' Aid Society and the Women's Bible Class.

CLOSED SEASON ON SNIPE FOR YOUNG HOBO

CONNELLY'S EXPLANATION OF SUSPICIOUS CONDUCT DIDN'T GO.

A young man who described himself as Tim Connelly, of Bayonne, was sent to jail for twenty days by Judge Runyon this morning, because he could not explain satisfactorily why he was slouching about the locked door of the Grant avenue station last night. He was near enough to the door to awaken suspicion and there too long to explain away the suspicion.

Patrolman Stillwell saw Connelly and another youth close to the station door at 8:30 o'clock. The station is locked shortly after six. Stillwell jumped for both men in a hurry and both ran. Connelly's companion escaped.

Connolly told Judge Runyon this morning that he and the other youth got off to gather cigar stumps for future consumption. The police were certain he had planned to get into the station, and the court shared their conviction. Connolly was given twenty days on a technical charge of vagrancy and trespass.

"Gee, it must be the closed season on snipes," he said as he was led away.

SUPT. KREBS' ADDRESS AT CITY HIGH SCHOOL.

Speaks to Pupils On Influence of Heredity and Environment.

Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of the North Plainfield schools, addressed the students of the Plainfield High School this morning on the influence of heredity and environment and the power of the will to overcome both of these. "To blame our ancestors for our own shortcomings," he said, "is not a legitimate excuse, for by our own will power we are enabled to rise superior to our environment and to our inheritance."

"We are the architects of our own fortune," said he, "and are what we want to be." In illustrating this point he quoted Hawthorne, John Foster, Napoleon, Gladstone, and Sir Robert Peale. "Dreaming in youth is a good thing, if only it results in action; for boundless ambition, when directed aright, will result in complete and gratifying success. What is really worth while is the development of power. To quote Whitman, 'Henceforth I ask not good fortune; I myself am good fortune.'"

POSTAL CLERK MISSING

G. Elmer Squires Fails to Report For Duty and Cannot Be Found.

FRIENDS ARE PUZZLED

Has Not Been at Home Since Tuesday and His Mother Can Throw No Light on the Mystery.

G. Elmer Squier, who has been night distributing clerk at the local post office since September 15, failed to report for duty at the regular hour last evening and inquiry revealed the fact that he had mysteriously disappeared. When word was sent to the home of his mother, Mrs. Harriet Squier, of Grove street, with whom he lived, is was stated that he had not been there since Tuesday noon. A systematic search was at once instituted but no trace of his whereabouts have been discovered and relatives and friends are at a loss to account for his absence.

Squier, who is but twenty years old, has worked at the post office for the past two years or more as subcarrier and was considered one of the best of the force. When it was decided to have all late arriving mail distributed at night, he was appointed to the position and has given every satisfaction since. He began his duties at 6 o'clock in the evening and worked until 2 in the morning.

He was at the office as usual Wednesday night and his time clock had been rung at 2 o'clock showing that he had left at the customary hour. Fellow-employees who worked with him Wednesday evening noticed nothing strange in his actions and he said nothing that would indicate that he intended going away. When Postmaster Bird was informed of his disapeparance he investigated his department and found that everything was in the best of shape.

Squier is possessed of exemplary habits and is not loked upon as a youth who would leave his home good reason. His mother is unable to throw any light on the mystery and his intimate friends are in the same quandary. It is reported by one of the latter that he remarked last summer that he would like to go West and "grow up with the country" and that he might start out in the spring. This is the only tangible thing heard but it is not thought he would make the change without first giving due notice at the post office or at his home.

Gave Birthday Affair.

Oscar Nelson, of West Fourth street, gave a birthday party to twenty of his friends Wednesday night. Features of the gathering were vocal solos by William Wilson and recitations by George Ruggles. At midnight a fancy chicken supper was served under the direction of William Marsh, who is an expert in this branch of the culinary art. The host received several presents in honor of the occasion.

P. H. S. Note.

Supplementary examinations in stenography for those who failed in June were held this afternoon, and typewriting will be given on Monday at the Plainfield High School.

MR. FLYNN LEADS AS "MAYORALTY" CANDIDATE

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HAVE GREAT NIGHT AT ST. MARY'S FAIR.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, had charge of the fair of St. Mary's parish in the school hall, last night, and their popularity drew a crowd that was almost a crush. The large room was filled to its capacity all evening and it seemed as if everything in sight was bought up so rapidly did the articles on the tables disappear. The contests were also given great "boosts" and in the most important ones there was great rivalry.

The vote for "mayor" of the parish attracted voters by the score and all of the contestants fared well. Before closing time last night the standing of the candidates was made known as follows: Peter Flynn, Sr., nominated by the parish as a whole, 810 votes; Dr. W. C. Boone, nominated by the Knights of Columbus, 720; Patrick Casey, nominated by Division No. 4, A. O. H., 680; J. W. Graham, nominated by the Holy Name Society, 640.

The entertainment last night was furnished by the American Mutoscope Company, which furnished illustrated songs and moving pictures. They will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night. The A. O. H. will have charge tomorrow night, when the fair is scheduled to close. Some time next week there will be an "inauguration" night when the winner of the mayoralty contest will be "installed," and a social time enjoyed by those who have assisted in making the fair a success.

SOMERSET DEMOCRATS IN SESSION TODAY

CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE ADDRESSES CONVENTION.

The Somerset County Democratic convention was called to order at Germania Hall, Somerville, at 10 o'clock this morning, with a full delegation. North Plainfield is represented by David J. Carney and Michael Koller from the First district and Stonewall Jackson and William Mills from the Second district. Michael J. Duffy is the delegate from North Plainfield township.

F. C. Sutro, of Basking Ridge, was made temporary chairman, and Walter C. Linbarger, of North Plainfield, temporary secretary. After the appointment of the various committees an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock, when candidates will be nominated for the Assembly and coroner.

During the early part of the day it looked very much as though F. C. Sutro would receive the Assembly nomination. Others prominently mentioned for the nomination are W. V. Steele, of Bridgewater, and A. V. D. Polhemus, of Franklin Park.

Among those attending the convention are J. Allen Southwick, Congressional nominee; Baird Stockton and Jonathan Blackwell, all of Trenton. This afternoon they will address the convention. It is generally conceded that the convention is one of the most quiet held in years. There does not appear to be any particular contest and there will be no fight in making up a ticket.

MARTINE CAMPAIGNING IN WARREN AND MORRIS.

Tells Voters of Charles Newell Fowler's Alleged Absenteeism.

James E. Martine, the farmer-orator, is waging his campaign for Congress with a vigor characteristic of the man. Last night he addressed a big crowd at Dover and today he is talking to small gatherings of farmers in other parts of Warren county. He met Senator Johnston Cornish this morning, who assured him that old Warren would give him at least 1,500 majority.

Today Mr. Martine speaks at Rockaway and Whippany, and tonight he will arrive at Port Oram where another mass meeting will be held. In all his speeches, the Democratic nominee is dwelling upon his opponent's alleged dereliction of duty and his continued absence from the halls of Congress.

Mrs. Hallock's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Charlotte E. Hallock, widow of James Hallock, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. L. Jenkins, of East Front street. It was conducted by Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. A quartette composed of Mrs. VonBrakle, Miss Dupont, William N. Runyon and E. E. Runyon sang several selections. Interment was made at Scotch Plains.

MR. MOY CAUSES A STIR

Not a Leader and Won't Be Responsible to Anyone, He Tells City Committee.

MR. FISK EXPLAINS

Then All Is Serene Again at Republican Committee Meeting—Someone Donates $100.

Making final arrangements for the big meeting to be held in the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday, mapping out a plan of action for campaign work in the various districts and receiving reports from committees took up the time of the Republican City Committee at the Casino last night. Chairman Charles J. Fisk presided and the attendance was larger than is generally noted at an ordinary session of the organization.

Chairman Fisk announced that former Governor Griggs would be the principal speaker at the theatre meeting and that two other former governors, Franklin Murphy and Foster M. Voorhees, would be present. Governor Stokes had been invited, he said, and would let him know today whether or not he could be here. If he is unable to attend, State Treasurer Frank O. Briggs, chairman of the State Committee, will come in his stead and will be asked to act as chairman. A band has been engaged for the evening and will parade about the business streets before going to the theatre.

During the evening, Mr. Fisk designated various members of the committee to act as leaders in the different districts and George W. V. Moy, who was a Colbyite in the primary fight, was mentioned as being responsible for the first district of the Third ward. Mr. Moy took the floor and announced to the chairman that he was not a leader and didn't aspire to be. Continuing he said that he was in the committee at the present time only as a matter of courtesy as by his election he was not entitled to take part in its business until January.

"Besides," said Mr. Moy, "I object to the word 'responsible.' I am not responsible to anybody or to any committee."

When Mr. Moy concluded, Chairman Fisk took the opportunity to explain that he had been invited to attend the committee meetings and that if he had any compunction about it, there were any number of other members who would gladly resign in order to have him appointed legally until his term by election commences. After that Mr. Fisk stated that by "responsible," the committee did not mean that Mr. Moy or any one else was supposed to be bound down to some certain work, but that there were ante-election duties that had to be done with someone in charge.

"There must be a leader for nearly everything," said Mr. Fisk, "if there wasn't, there would be no head or tail to any undertaking."

The explanation seemed to satisfy Mr. Moy as there was no further protest from his corner.

The treasurer reported that the same thirty-two cents that was in the treasury before the primary election was still on hand. This elecited the information from Mr. Fisk that he had received $100 in contributions so that the sum total of the committee's resources at present is $100.32. It was announced that postal cards would be sent out for the mass meetings both on October 23 and November 1, and the matter of advertising the same in other ways was left to the finance committee. J. Hervey Doane was appointed a committee of one to attend to decorations at the theatre next week and a list of vice-presidents was prepared, after which adjournment was made until Thursday night, October 25.

IN MEMORY OF MR. SQUIRES.

Special Memorial Service at Hope Chapel.

Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, has arranged for a memorial service to be held at the chapel Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in memory of the late Henry Chadwick Squires, its founder and first superintendent. Leander N. Lovell will preside at the service, and the speakers will be Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel; Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel; Rev. F. D. Tildon, of Bethel chapel. Invitations have been sent to Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of New York, and Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, of East Orange, to attend and speak, but no answer has been received as yet.

To Elect a Director.

On Monday the Boys' Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School will hold a meeting and elect a member for the board of directors to fill the place of Samuel Reid, who has left school.

SAYS NO SALOONKEEPER IN AMERICA OBEYS LAWS

Rev. Hervey Wood Makes Some Startling Statements at Endeavor Union Meeting.

REGULATION IS WEAK

According to Speaker, Prohibition is Only Solution—Drinking Among Women Increasing Very Fast.

In defense of the Bishops' Bill and for the purpose of stimulating an interest in the general fight that is being made throughout the State to keep the measure on the statute books, Rev. Hervey Wood, of East Orange, addressed the Christian Endeavorers and others last night in the Congregational church. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Plainfield Union of Christian Endeavorers and it was also attended by several pastors of local churches. Fred Lounsbury, Jr., president of the Union, presided and Rev. C. L. Goodrich conducted the opening exercises after which Mr. Wood was introduced.

The speaker's subject was "The Irristible Conflict Between the Church and the Liquor Traffic." At the outset he explained what he meant by the Church, which was all members of Christ's body, wherever found and who love Christ in sincerity. His definition of the liquor traffic was the sale of liquor in any form.

Mr. Wood described the saloon as a modern institution, distinctly American. He said that abroad they have what are called inns and public houses. In explaining why there should be a conflict between the church and the saloon Mr. Wood alleged the two are diametrically opposed one to another. The saloon stands for all that is vile and bad, he said, while the church stands for all that is good and above all the sanctity of the home, which the saloon threatens to destroy.

Mr. Wood said he believed it is now generally recognized that the works of the devil are the results of the liquor traffic and that it is a detriment to Christianity, that it degrades and shuts a man out of Heaven. He alleged that the Archbishop of Canterbury once told him that the worst enemy of the grand old Church of England was the liquor traffic.

The speaker quoted Dr. White, a leading Baptist clergyman of Atlanta, Ga., who in speaking of the recent uprising between the whites and blacks of that city, attributed the trouble to the liquor traffic, and he also cited an instance of where a Jersey City saloon-keeper committed suicide because of the enforcement of the Bishops' bill. He alleged that it is now recognized that the liquor traffic cannot be properly regulated, but that the proper way to treat it is through prohibition and he believed that the time would come when the Government would realize this and adopt laws for the prohibition of it.

He said he believed that the church should drive out the liquor traffic, the same as it has the race track with its gambling from New Jersey. Mr. Wood felt indignant that the people would submit to having the saloon interests dictate to them and tell them what they should and should not do. He asked his audience if it knew any saloon-keeper that respects the laws, declaring that of the proprietors of the 250,000 saloons in the United States not one had any respect for the laws.

Mr. Wood quoted a recent article in the Newark Evening News which said that the German-Americans of the State are going to demand the repeal of the Bishops' bill and that permission be given to have saloons open on Sundays from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 11 o'clock at night. In arguing against such concessions Mr. Wood cited the good features of the Bishops' bill, which provides that no liquor shall be sold on Sunday and all screens must be removed from the front of saloons on that day. He said that the bill was drawn by the bishops of the Episcopal and Catholic churches and intended to preserve the sanctity of the home and he hoped that every effort possible would be made to prevent its repeal.

He deplored what he said was a fact that during the past ten years drinking on the part of women had increased sixty per cent. He declared that ninety per cent. of the saloon keepers are foreigners and if they do not want to abide by the laws

CHARITY SOCIETIES MAY CONSOLIDATE

ORGANIZED AID AND RELIEF ASSOCIATION MAY BE MERGED.

The consolidation of the Plainfield Relief Association and the Organized Aid Association will come up for consideration at a meeting of the contributing members of the relief association to be held at the rooms, 544 West Front street, Wednesday morning, October 24, at 10 o'clock. This action is a very important one and it is hoped that there will be a full attendance.

The question of merging the two organizations has been talked of for some time. It is realized that the interests of the organizations are practically identical and it is believed that by consolidating them better and more efficient work can be accomplished. The Organized Aid Association comprises all the charity organizations of the city, except the Plainfield Relief Association. The latter organization is the oldest of the kind in town and has been doing a distinctive work. After the Organized Aid Association was formed it co-operated with the relief association in looking after the charity work of the city.

There has always been perfect harmony between the two organizations, but the work has grown to such an extent that the members believe that a stronger society can be effected by consolidation, thus bringing all of the charity work under one head. Besides it will mean a saving in expenses in the distribution of charity and supporters of the organization can make their contributions direct, without dividing them up between the association and organized aid as at present. It is understood that a majority favor the consolidation plan.

BIBLE STUDY OPENING.

Dr. Schauffler Speaks at Y. M. C. A.; Classes Begin Next Week.

A reception was held at the Y. M. C. A. last night to mark the opening of the Bible study department. An address on Bible study and its value by Rev. Dr. A. F. Schauffler, of New York, was the feature of the evening. The affair, which was held in the small hall, was well attended.

The first class meeting will be held next Tuesday, when Rev. Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut will begin with his newly organized training class. Physical Director Listman is to have a gymnasium Bible class, former Secretary J. H. Manning will teach on "Main Lines of Bible Study," and Mr. Robbie will teach a course on the life of Jesus.

ROLLERWAY OPENS.

Company K's Skating Rink Is Not a Rink.

Company K's haven for the devotees of roller skating opened last night. It must not be called a rink. The company has officially designated it a skaters' rollerway.

The opening was successful. Between seventy-five and one hundred pleasure-seekers were on the rollerway during the evening. A three-piece orchestra, headed by Charles Suhr, furnished sweet strains for the rollers. Allen Tranchand is in command of the rollerway.

Will Complete Work This Month.

Contractor C. E. Kelly is now finishing up the work on the new West End avenue bridge and hopes to have it completed this month. This week the work of laying the concrete sidewalks was started and upon the completion of that the roadbed will be macadamized. There is still considerable difficulty in gettin a sufficient amount of dirt to fill in the approaches, and it will also be necessary to build retaining walls on both sides of the bride. This work will probably be done by each county separately.

David Shay Will Return.

Arrangements have practically been completed whereby David Shay, the present secretary at the Plainfield Country Club, will return to the same position next year. His work has been very satisfactory this year, helping to make the season at the clubhouse one of the most successful in its history. Mr. Shay has not yet decided where he will spend the winter, having several plans under consideration.

Marshall & Ball Clothing
The Highest Type of Ready-to-Wear.

Unusually Attractive Clothing.

It is the discriminating man—the man who appreciates and wants the earmarks of good tailoring, who is invariably attracted to the M. & B. store for his clothing.

The kind we have been making for nearly 50 years have all the good points seen in fine custom garments.

Notice the swing and shape of the collar, the grace and harmony of the lapel, the fit and shape of the shoulder, the hang of the coat front when not buttoned, the comfort and style of the vest and the shapeliness and fit of the trousers.

All manufacturers of clothing get some of these features all the time, all of them some of the time, but we have earned our reputation by getting all of them all the time.

"Londoncut" Suits, $12 to $25. Sack Suits, $10 to $30. Fall Overcoats, $12 to $35.

THE RIGHT KIND OF CLOTHING FOR BOYS.

It's not possible to incorporate more goodness, more genuine wearability into boys' clothing than our tailors have done. It has been made to stand the wear and tear of the school yard—and that's rough.

Same time it has a stylishness that is an education to the boy in the wearing of good apparel. Most satisfactory feature, however, to parents, is the moderate cost.

Boys' Suits and Overcoats, $3 to $16, etc.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

National Champion Eben M. Byers, of Pittsburg, received one of the worst drubbings in his golf career at the hands of Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, in the final round at thirty-six holes of the Myopia Hunt Club's invitation scratch tournament on Wednesday. Travis won the match 7 up and 5 to play, leading his opponent from the second hole. Although the champion steadied in the afternoon round, he was unable to pull back his opponent, who led him 5 up at the end of the first round. Travis played grand golf throughout the day, while Byers was constantly in trouble and very weak on his putting.

Continuation of play for the October Handicap cup and play for the Golf Committee cup, weekly competition, will be the attractions at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, and a week later the weekly competition will end for the season. Upon the result of the play on the next two Saturdays will be determined the winner. On October 27 there will also be the play-off for the October Handicap cup among those who have won legs on the trophy.

Charles A. Reed looks like a winner of the President's cup at the Park Golf Club. He now has a total of 13 points with only a few more Saturdays' play. His nearest opponents are Charles B. Morse and Rev. J. O. McKelvery, each having 9½ points. John L. Watson holds the lead for the Hydewood cup, October competition, with six points, but there is only the difference of one point between him and two players in second place.

An interesting fact concerning golf matches is that all of Walter J. Travis' defeats have been in eighteen hole matches. He has not lost an important thirty-six hole match since the national tournament at Onwentsia in 1899, when Findlay S. Douglas proved his conqueror.

Interest still increases in the approaching championship tournament to be held at Forest Hill on Tuesday and Wednesday under the auspices of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association. Beside a money prize of $125 to the winner of the championship, he will receive a handsome gold medal, said to be one of the finest ever selected for the purpose. There will be sufficient prizes in money to allow nearly every one of the good players to get a slice. On Wednesday there will be a tournament when the professionals will be paired with the crack amateur players from various clubs. Among the most promising "pros" scheduled to take part in the championship play is "Marty" O'Loughlin and his friends believe that he stands a good chance of landing among the winners.

Some of the New York newspapers published good pictures of Robert Abbott, of this city, yesterday, showing him at play for golf honors at Garden City. Abbott has the reputation of being one of the longest drivers among college golfers, his work in this respect being phenomenal at times.

FOOTBALL.

Of course, it is a source of regret that the Plainfield High School has given up football, but under the circumstances it is probably the wisest thing to do. In the first place the management scheduled games with teams much too fast for the local eleven. In its first game at East Orange the team was defeated by a score of 29 to 0 and every member of the East Orange High School eleven outweighed Plainfield. It is said that the same conditions would have existed at New Brunswick on Saturday had the game with Rutgers Prep been played. If P. H. S. had picked teams of its class and weight probably no fault would have been found.

Plainfield will be represented in the college football world this year, as usual. On the Yale 'varsity team are Ray Biglow and Roome, both former residents here. They are considered two of the star players among the college elevens and will probably do great work this season.

Football is going to the dogs. Not only are the Chicago and Purdue rivals to break bread together the evening before their annual game, but Bill Reid, the Harvard coach, recently paid a visit to New Haven and was received with open arms by the Yale folks. Reid looked over Yale's uniforms and paraphernalia and also looked over the team to get an idea of how Yale was getting along with the new rules, and not once was he menaced with a blackjack. The Yale coaches answered Reid's questions fully, told him what they were doing and assured him that he would be welcome at any time. Reid, in turn, invited the Yale men to come up and see Harvard at close range. Another blow at football is the fact that Bob Forbes, the Yale tackle, was not in the practice on Monday and Tuesday because too tight shoes worn last Saturday lamed his feet.

PRISONERS BELONG TO GANG.

Police Say Two Whom Woman Helped Capture Are Old Offenders.

According to the Elizabeth police, Mrs. C. F. Brown, of Anna street, Elizabeth, who Wednesday saw two men enter the home of James Hastings by means of a skeleton key, and who hastily gathered a posse of neighbors, who surrounded the Hastings home and held the strangers captive until the arrival of detectives, did a great public service. One of the prisoners, according to the police, is Arthur Martin, alias Moore, and the other William Price, both former convicts.

Chief of Police George C. Tenney says that he has proof that the prisoners took part in robberies in Rahway, Belleville, Newark and Elizabeth. He believes that they can also be connected with burglaries in many other places. The men were well supplied with skeleton keys, and Martin had a notebook which, it is thought, may lead to the running down of a regularly organized gang of robbers.

"ROLLICKING GIRL" RETURNS.

Repeats Success It Attained Here Early Last Month.

W. E. Nankeville's production of "The Rollicking Girl" played a return engagement at the New Plainfield theatre last night and repeated the success it scored here on Labor Day. It was witnessed by a large audience which was convulsed by the drolleries of Barney Bernard and delighted by the tuneful choruses.

Aside from the comedian, honors were again taken by Miss Pearl Charlton Seward, who was delightful in the role of "Fanchette." She imparted unusual strength to the interpretation and, added to her personality, it made her a greater local favorite than ever. She is a conscientious worker and gives promise of becoming a factor in the field of musical comedy. She was rewarded with liberal applause that was induced by keen appreciation.

CIVIL WAR ENGINEERS' REUNION AT ELIZABETH.

Propose to Erect Monument Over Grave of General Serrell.

The survivors of the First New York Regiment Volunteer Engineers held their twenty-seventh annual reunion at Elizabeth Thursday afternoon in the rooms of Ulric Dahlgren Post, G. A. R., of which they were guests. About fifty veterans, with their wives and daughters, attended the affair.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Major C. B. Parsons, of Red Bank; secretary, Drum-Major J. C. Wambold, of Bloomfield; treasurer, William S. Cannon, of Newark.

Before adjourning it was voted to raise $200 by subscription to erect a monument on Staten Island over the grave of Brigadier-General Serrell, who was the only colonel of the regiment, and its last president. He died during the last year.

Threw $100 Bills at Wife.

St. Louis, Oct. 19.—Mrs. Fannie Eberson, wife of A. A. Eberson, a St. Louis capitalist, testified in her divorce suit today that before their domestic troubles began Mr. Eberson had a playful habit of pelting her with $50 and $100 bills rolled into little wads. After marriage she said her husband never ate Sunday dinner with her and that he was in the habit of getting home as late as five oclock in the morning and was very noisy. The court allowed Mrs. Eberson $175 a month pending the divorce suit.

Frederick Schreiner, of West Sixth street, father of Berthold J., and Robert Schreiner, is very ill at his home.

of this State or country they can go back to where they come from as the steerage rates are cheap. In speaking in favor of a local option law, he said that forty States now have such a law and he hopes taht New Jersey would eventually have such a measure.

Mr. Wood has been engaged to travel throughout New Jersey to speak and work for the Bishop bill and do what he can to have it remain a law.

STORM SEWER EXTENSION WORK HAS STARTED.

Construction Company Begins on Richmond Street Connection Today.

The Harrison Construction Company, of Newark, which has the contract for building the extension to the Richmond street storm sewer, started its work today by making the four inch sewer connections to the curb, so that it will not be necessary later on to go under the storm sewer.

This sewer will be arch from South avenue to the railroad, four feet wide and three feet high and from the railroad to North avenue it will be a thirty-three inch sewer of moulded concrete blocks. This work is to be done under the general supervision of Street Commissioner Gavett.

In connection with other city work, the placing of slag on Evona avenue has been resumed between South Second street and West Third street. The work of repairing West Front street under the direction of the street commissioner is being paid for chiefly by the Public Service Corporation. This will be completed within a few days.

Mr. Gavett is having the culverts and catch basins throughout the city cleaned and repairs are being made to culverts and crosswalks putting them in good condition for the winter season.

MAN AND HIS TAILOR.

London offers two models for winter suits—a two-button and a three-button coat. Both are supplied with extra long collars and lapels. They fasten with a single row of buttons, and in the case of the two-button style the coat is rounded away slightly in front. The three-button style comes straight down the front, and is square across the bottom with a very slight rounding of the corners of the fronts, which, however, meet all the way down from the top button. Pocket flaps are a feature of these new coats, and the number depends on individual taste. The two-button coat sometimes has two side pockets, while its rival has an extra one above the right pocket.

Cuffs there must be if a man makes any pretence of keeping up with the times. Every business or lounge suit has its natty cuffs, scarcely more than two inches wide and rounded at the corners. Three buttons are put on the sleeves, the first one fastening through an end of the cuff.

With a coat cut as low as either one of these models the waistcoat must be high enough to show two inches or more above the opening of the coat. This may be made to match the coat and trousers or it may be of a contrasting material and color. One of the smarest combinations from the hands of a Bond street tailor is the black and white mixture which gives a gray effect to the suit illustrated and which will be worn by Mr. Frank Dekum in the forthcoming production of "The House of Mirth." The coat and trousers are of the mixture and the waistcoat is of fawn color cloth, with pearl buttons to match. This combination of gray and fawn is very modish at present in men's haberdashery.

The Inverness overcoat is rarely worn nowadays, though it is perfectly good form for the opera and the play. Elderly men are very partial to it, as it has about it an Old-World air which is very pleasing. Furthermore, it is a very handy garment, can be slipped on and off with ease, and will resist a really incredible amount of mussing. It is made only of black fabrics, and cut quite long. Young men prefer the Chesterfield and the frock overcoats, which, while more modern, yet lack the aristocratic grace traditionally asssociated with the Inverness.

Combinations of brown and tan with an indistinct overplaid in red or green is one of the smartest weaves. Now and then one sees a brown and white mixture with a blue thread running lengthwise of the cloth. Other materials that promise to become fashionable for morning suits are gray-blues, navy blue with white underplaid or stripe and a few salt-and-pepper mixed effects.

For somewhat out-of-the-way garments an English model shows a shaped Chesterfield coat and a movement was on foot in London and New York to make evening dress coats in blue worsted cloth, but like the fad of wearing knee breeches after the manner of our forefathers it did not "take." Fancy waistcoats, it is said, will be very largely worn this season, most of which will be double-breasted and made of French flannel in a large variety of patterns.

The "frock cutaway" or the "cutaway frock" has come into fashion again and is a very popular suit in New York. For afternoon wear the coat and waistcoat are made of black or gray worsted and are worn with striped trousers. For morning wear or for men who prefer it as a business suit it is made in ordinary tweeds. In the first case, of course, a top hat is the correct thing, and a soft hat or derby when pattern cloth is used.

A waistcoat of the same material as the coat and trousers is the correct thing, but fancy flannels are much to the fore at present, and there is no doubt that waistcoats of widely different materials will hold supremacy over self suitings.

RUMBLES OF THE RAIL.

In Spain no one enters or leaves a railway carriage without bowing politely to the occupants.

Wireless telegraph apparatus has been installed on many trains in Italy on Prof. del Vecchio's system, which renders it easy for trains to communicate with stations and with each other.

A watchmaker of Ontario has made a remarkable working model of an engine. It weighs only four grains, and is of gold and steel. It would take 120 of these engine to weigh an ounce.

The Great Northern Railway have issued the following notice to trainmen and staff: "In order that the smartness in the appearance of the staff should be maintained, Mr. Broussen requests that all members of the staff should wear white collars, and the practice of wearing colored collars must, therefore, be discontinued forthwith."

A Roumanian leper was at Frankfurt placed in a railway carriage, every door and window of which was securely fastened and sealed, for removal to his native country. The Austrian authorities, however, refused to permit hi mto pass the frontier, so the poor man, still imprisoned in his sealed compartment, remained in the goods yard at Passau for several days, his food being conveyed to him through a small window. Finally the German authorities decided to bring him back to Frankfurt, where he is now in a hospital, strictly isolated. The man, who speaks eight languages, is said to have contracted the terrible disease in Abyssinia, where he was at work on the railway.—Globe's Railway Exchanges.

"y daughters," interrupted Mrs. Nuritch, haughtily, "don't need to learn cooking. They'll be able to hire all the servants they want."

"Quite so madam, but our special course is designed to teach them how to keep a cook."

MR. AND MRS. GOODFELLOW CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING.

Forty Friends, Bringing Gifts, Tender Happy Couple a Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston B. Goodfellow, of Netherwood avenue, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding yesterday, and last night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Faith chapel, the couple was given a surprise party. There were about forty in the company of relatives and friends, and Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow did not have the slightest intimation of their coming.

The evening was passed in a social way, features being vocal and instrumental selections. The couple were showered with congratulations and not the least enjoyable part of the affair was the presentation of gifts, including goldenware, flowers and many useful articles. A special gift was a handsome gold-head umbrella from members of Faith chapel. This was presented to the couple by Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Faith chapel, who took occasion to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow upon the completion of fifty years of married life. Later in the evening supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow have been residents of Plainfield since 1888. Mr. Goodfellow is a veteran of the Civil War and is now commander of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. He is a contractor by trade. During their residence here they have made many friends, and since the founding of Faith chapel have been actively engaged in the work there.

Deny Mission Is Church.

The Court of Errors and Appeals is to be called upon to decide when a church is not a church. The city of Elizabeth has just been informed of the appeal taken by those who seek to prevent the location of a saloon at East Grand and Spring streets, in that place, on the ground that the lot is within two hundred feet of the Mount Zion Mission in that place. James C. Connolly, city attorney, decided that the building was not a church, as the minister lived in a part of the building, and part of the ground floor was used for storage purposes. Services are held in the building Saturday instead of Sunday. Mount Zion Mission is an offshoot of a faith-curist church in Jersey City. The Supreme Court sustained Mr. Connolly.

G. O. P. Convention Tomorrow.

The Somerset County Republican convention is called to meet in Somerset Hall, Somerville, tomorrow. Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, who is county chairman, has been in Europe for several weeks, but it is expected back today, and will look after the details of the convention. No candidate for Assembly has been agreed upon in advance of the convention. It looks as though Irving Hoagland would be renominated for a third term if he will accept. W. W. Smalley, a Bound Brook coal and lumber merchant, has been urged for the place, and he has recently announced his decision not to run. Clarence E. Case, of the law firm of Clark & Case, has also been talked of as a possible candidate.

Transferred Case.

Isaac Lockman has sued Ann Kane, in the District Court, for the recovery of $100 paid on a property option. It is alleged the title was not sound and Lockman did not feel safe in closing the deal. The case will be tried before Judge Swift on Wednesday, Judge Newcorn having transferred it because he acted as counsel for Lockman in the beginning of the deal. F. J. Blatz is Lockman's lawyer and W. G. DeMeza is the defendant's representative.

Will Talk About Stricken City.

Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue, who recently returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast in the interest of Methodist missions, will occupy the pulpit at Grace M. E. church, Sunday morning and tell something of the reconstruction of SanFrancisco.

A Class Social.

The class of 1909, Plainfield High School, held a business meeting today at recess and voted to hold a sociable in the near future. The president, Charles Loizeaux, was given full power to appoint a committee and make all arrangements.

HUGS LAWYER IN COURT.

Woman Showed How She Was Held Up.

George Berdine, Prosecutor of the Pleas of Middlesex county, was well hugged by a pretty woman in court in New Brunswick yesterday.

The woman was Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, of that place, complaining witness in a case against Howard Ryan and James O'Neill. She alleges that on Christmas night of last year Ryan and O'Neill, who are boys of 20, stopped her on the street and committed assault and battery upon her. She declared on the stand that Ryan held her arms while O'Neill attacked her. Both boys, she said, were drunk.

A juror asked how Ryan had held her. Prosecutor Berdine stepped to the stand and suggested that Mrs. Smith take hold of him the way Ryan took hold of her.

"I might hurt you," said Mrs. Smith. "You're too fat." But she stepped behind the Prosecutor and threw both arms around his waist, pinioning his arms tight. Judge Booraem had to pound for order.

Activities Planned And On In the Boys' Department.

The Boys' Cabinet of the Y. M. C. A. met yesterday afternoon, and plans for the season were formed. The social committee, of which Fred Smith is chairman, is arranging a junior star course. The electrical club, of which Stanley Robbins is chairman, will meet for the first time this afternoon. The membership committee, at the head of which is Leslie Leland, has arranged to extend the privileges to certain school boys to show them what a fine institution the Y. M. C. A. is. The department will hold a chestnut hunt tomorrow afternoon. The bike run has been cut out.

Bodine, of the local Union, and Miss Emma Starr, president of the Westfield Union. After the close of this conference, the National W. C. T. U. convention will be held in Hartford, Conn., and the above-mentioned persons will attend that gathering.

Italian Holiday Exodus.

New York, Oct. 19.—There began yesterday, with the sailing of the Republic, of the White Star line, the annual exodus of Italian laborers, who go to Europe to pass the Christmas holidays. In the steerage on this liner were 724 persons, mostly Italian workingmen. Persons who have to do with handling steerage traffic say it is almost impossible to explain the large exodus, in view of the great demand for labor in this country.

Indian Prince for Harvard.

New York, Oct. 19.—Shrimat Jaisingrao Gaekwar, son of the Maharajah Gaekwar, of Baroda, arrived yesterday on the Baltic, of the White Star line, to enter Harvard University as soon as it is settled that he fills the necessary requirements. Prince Jaisingrao has with him a secretary and several servants, but when he enters the university all his retinue will be sent back, except the secretary.

Tommy Twaddles—Well, you see, I wasn't kept after school to-day.—Cleveland Leader.

An Unpatriotic Suggestion.

"Any congressman will tell you that his salary amounts to less than his income would be in private business," said the fair-minded citizen.

"Yes," answered the man with a suspicious nature, "but isn't that so sometimes because he would be of so much more real use in private business?"—Washington Star.

Good Time to Stop.

"Yes, young Gaffney had a remarkable career in college. He took all the prizes in his class, and he took the prize for debating, and the prize for oratory, and then he took seven prizes in athletics."

"What's he doing now?"

"He's just been made the cashier of a newly organized bank."

"Well, I hope he will drop that habit now."

"What habit?"

"The habit of taking things."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Regarding Mattresses

Flosilk
THE IDEAL MATTRESS.

These Flosilk Mattresses are the cleanest and most sanitary mattresses made. The filling is made from a vegetable substance that grows on the Island of Java which will not absorb moisture like other mattress fillings. It can be made over like a hair mattress and will keep its shape four times longer than any hair mattress will. It is the lightest mattress made—so light, in fact, that it can be turned over with one hand. Positively vermin-proof.

WOMAN

"Woman" is the name of a new magazine for women. The first number is just issued. Your newsdealer has it. You can get it from him, and it is worth your while getting it. There is nothing startling about this magazine. There should be nothing startling about a decent magazine for women and the home. But this particular magazine is unique among all the so-called publications for women. You might not like it a little bit, and then, again, it might hit your fancy good and hard.

If you like fiction—good, wide-awake, snappy stories—both serials and short stories—you will like "Woman." In fact, fiction is the big feature of the magazine.

All the other magazines for women are cast on the same model—a little bit of fiction, a few articles, more or less chit chat, some wise advice, a fashion department and a smattering of general miscellany. "WOMAN" doesn't look any more like this conventional model than a yellow dog looks like a race horse. It is built on new lines for a strictly woman's publication. To know what it is like you will have to get a copy of it. It would cost too much to tell you all about it in this advertisement.

The price of "WOMAN" is TEN CENTS A COPY, and the magazine is a very big one—192 pages.

By the way, two rattling good serial stories begin in this first number and it contains a big lot of other good things. You would do well to ask your dealer for it before his supply is exhausted.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

TO TELL FORTUNES.

Ask the person whose fortune you are to tell to make a wish, while you shuffle and reshuffle the cards. Then lay them, face down, upon the table and ask her to cut them in three piles.

Look at the cards in each pile separately. If in the one in which the nine of hearts is found there are two aces the cards foretell the getting of her wish.

Discard the spot cards below the sevens, and take out a queen (or king) to represent your "client." For a dark woman the right queen is that of spades; dark hair and blue eyes, take a heart; chestnut hair and brown eyes, a club, and a fair woman a diamond.

Lay the face card down on the table and lay out four at a time of the pack left after discarding, placing one on the left of the face card, one on the right, one above and one below.

The cards the card faces (the queen's head is always turned to one side) tell what is to be; those behind her what has passed; those over the card what is or will be in her mind, and those below her what she triumphs over.

The significance of the cards, according to an old colored "mammy" whose readings were a never-failing source of delight to "young white folks," and a creator of awe among her own people, are as follows:

Spades: Ace—love, or, coming upside down, sickness; ten—something immediate, or a disappointment (the "or," of course, depending upon the other cards which appear with it); nine—despair, or a quarrel; eight—in the far future; seven—vexation, annoyance.

Clubs: Ace—a letter, some testimonial of distinction and honor; ten—a journey; nine—a proposal, a present; eight—prosperity and success in business; seven—inheritance, gain, profit.

Hearts: Ace—your home; ten—a wedding; nine—betrothal, the "wish" card as well; eight—great surprise; seven—falling in love, a love affair.

Diamonds: Ace—great prosperity, news; ten—immediate pleasure, meeting a long absent friend; nine—sickness or money; eight—pleasant information; seven—flattery.

The face cards mean people, light or dark, according to the rules given for determining the individual's card; and the kings mean older men than do jacks.

Read according to the groups rather than from each card, letting the meaning of the cards "give and take" from each other.

Three cards of one kind coming together signify: Three aces—a great surprise; three tens—finding a new friend; three nines—a removal; three eights—something unexpected; three sevens—a loss; three jacks—deceit and treachery; three queens—a quarrel; three kings—a warning.

The cards following tell the nature of the meaning.

Anna Scores On Boni.

Paris, Oct. 19.—The hearing of the suit for divorce brought by Comtesse de Castellane against her husband, Comte Boni, and the hearing of the suit brought by the creditors of the Count, were both postponed for a fortnight Wednesday, counsel for the Countess succeeding in having the Court decide to hear the divorce suit before the creditors' suit. The Count wanted to have the latter case decided first.

Viola Allen as "Imogen," in "Cymbeline," at New Plainfield Theatre Tomorrow Night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The Russell Bros., so well known characters, will be at the New Plainfield theatre tonight offering a big melodrama, under the management of Charles E. Blaney, entitled "The Great Jewel Mystery." The play is vigorous in action and tells a thrilling story of detective life, and the methods of the swell mobsmen and his confederates who play for high game; the scenes are laid in Greater New York and show many interesting pictures of the daring methods of the confidence gang—the production is made by the Frank Dodge studio people.

Viola Allen will present her massive new production of "Cymbeline" at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. Our theatre-goers will, on this occasion, have an opportunity of passing judgment on what has been pronounced in Washington and Baltimore the most artistic Shakespearean revival of modern times two days before it is seen in New York, where, on October 22, Miss Allen follows Annie Russell at the new Astor theatre. This is Miss Allen's third Shakespearean presentation of recent years, the others being "Twelfth Night" and "The Winter's Tale." Years ago, when but a girl, Miss Allen was John McCullough's leading woman and with the advantage of the training acquired in such a school, combined with the rare talent inherited from her gifted parents, it is not strange that the Viola Allen of today should be one of the most satisfactory modern exponents of the famous heroines of the great bard.

"Way Down East," Lottie Blair Parker's idyllic play of New England farm life, comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday afternoon and night. It appeals not to a limited class, but to everybody with a spark of sympathy, a liking for an interesting story and a relish of good wholesome fun. There are many reasons for its popularity, its pathetic theme, its genial humor, its charming pictures of country life, its quaint characters and striking realism; but its more potent element undoubtedly is the strong human interest that permeates every scene. To this, all classes and creeds must

A noted physician of Pittsburg, Pa., in a recent letter to Dr. Oidman says:

"In your prescription known as 'Pepsoids' you have given the medical world the greatest and most valued discovery in medicine of the present century. You have at last solved the problem that has baffled the skill of the best physicians of recent times, how to cure permanently all Acute or Chronic Stomach Diseases known as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach and Digestive Weakness. I have used your prescription, 'Pepsoids,' in hundreds of cases without a single failure. I attribute the success of your treatment mainly to the fact that the disease germs of the stomach cannot resist Pepsoids. Your theory that most Stomach Diseases are brought about by multitudes of nefarious disease-breeding germs must be correct, judging from the remarkable results attained from the use of your 'Pepsoids.' I consider 'Pepsoids' the best and most valuable remedy yet discovered, for the treatment of stubborn stomach ailments."

Pepsoids cure Dyspepsia and all Stomach Diseases, in a new way, by repairing the wornout lining of the Stomach and at the same time, destroy all disease-breeding germs. Dyspepsia and the worst forms of Stomach Disorders once cured in this way never returns.

been presented in this country. The music is by Reginald DeKoven, whose name is sufficient guarantee that the score is something really worth while. It is said to be written in his characteristic vein and to equal, if not surpass, his favorite "Robin Hood." To Charles Klein, author of David Warfield's phenomenal success "The Music Master" and also author of "The Lion and the Mouse," felt the task of writing the libretto of "Red Feather." He labored well, choosing for his plot the story of the intrigues of a band of conspirators of the country of Romancia. The throne is tenanted by a Crown Prince, who is considered by many of the subjects not to be the rightful heir. Those who champion the cause of the pretender, are led by one Red Feather, a notorious free-rider, who in the unravelling of the plot proves to be none other than the noble Countess Hilda von Draga. Both the Crown Prince and the deposed heir are in love with this great court lady and their efforts to thwart one another on the field of love lend additional interest to the romantic story. The book is well supplied with comedy of a very amusing variety.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Young have moved from West Front street to the East End of the city, having leased the home they occupied to a Somerville family.

—The dancing classes from the Plainfield High School and the North Plainfield High School will soon resume their weekly receptions at the Casino under the direction of Mrs. Westcott.

—Street Commissioner Gavett is now busily engaged in making general repairs of streets throughout the city before winter sets in, and he hopes to complete all work now underway before freezing weather arrives.

—A number of excellent voices have been added to the Plainfield Operatic Association, which is planning to give several operas and concerts this winter. Rehearsals are held every Monday night at the Camera Club rooms.

—T. J. Mumford, of West Ninth street, who purchased the Isaac Lane farm near the Plainfield Country Club, has plans under consideration for a handsome summer home there. The work will be commenced in the spring.

—Under the direction of the Union County Board of Freeholders extensive repairs are being made on the Plainfield side of the Grove street bridge. This structure has been in need of this work for some time and as soon as it was reported to the board by Freeholder Wilbur it was ordered attended to.

Some Royal Doings.

Marseilles, Oct. 19.—The mail advices which reached here Wednesday from Indo-China brought another and more revolting story of the doings of King Thanh-Thai, of Annam, showing that he went to the extent of cannibalism. After killing one of his wives he caused the body to be cooked and served up for dinner, forcing his entourage to eat it under pain of death. Some of the King's wives were bound and burned with boiling oil and subjected to other cruelty, while women were thrown into the cages of wild beasts, where they were devoured before the King.

Miss Jennie Anderson, who has been visiting friends in Plainfield during the past week, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen, who have been absent from the city for several months, have returned to their home on Myrtle avenue, the borough.

FOOTBALL.

The Army and Navy will meet on the gridiron at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, this season and not at Princeton. The Quaker City field is an ideal place for the game and it was a mistake to ever change the place for playing the game between the middies and the cadets.

"I have no doubt," said Coach Vost, encouragingly, when he arrived in Ann Arbor after seeing the Pennsylvania-Swarthmore game, "that either Pennsylvania or Swarthmore would have walloped you last Saturday." Yost was addressing his football squad, and he made this succinct analysis of Pennsylvania's play: "The Quaker eleven has a fair centre, mediocre guards, excellent tackles, splendid ends, a fair quarterback, two dandy halves and a first class fullback. Interest in the Michigan game is all consuming down East," goes on the voluble Hurry Up person. "The people generally do not know that Chicago beat Michigan last fall. They've heard Michigan for five years, and we didn't get bumped hard enough by Chicago to hurt their hearing." Eastern football followers have better hearing and memory than Yost thinks. The shot that humbled the Michiganders by a 2 to 0 score was heard 'round the world. It proclaimed that the great and only Yost was only mortal after all. Possibly there are more persons in the benighted East who are aware that Chicago beat Michigan last fall than are aware of the existence of a coach named Yost.

PARKS TAKE TWO GAMES FROM ROSELLE.

Local Bowlers Roll Good Scores Against Rivals.

The Park Club five went to Roselle last night and rolled three games with the Casino five, and succeeded in winning two of the games by good margins. The Parks took the first one by a score of 834 to 781, lost the second by a score of 845 to 867 and won the third by a score of 876 to 731.

The local bowlers rolled good individual scores. Barlow rolled high score, 202 in the second game, and in the third game, Long rolled 224 and F. O. Ball put up a score of 223. The other scores were excellent throughout. The scores:

BASKETBALL LEAGUE BEGINS NOVEMBER 17

PLAINFIELD FIVE WILL PLAY SIX GAMES AT HOME.

The schedule of the Northern New Jersey Y. M. C. A. basketball league, to which the local association belongs and hopes to take premier honors, was announced by Physical Director Listman this morning. Plainfield will play six games at home, on November 26, December 17, January 7, January 28, March 11 and March 18.

The complete schedule is as follows:

November 17, Passaic at Montclair, Newark at Hudson City, Orange at Rahway; Nov. 24, Montclair at Newark, Hudson City at Orange; November 26, Rahway at Plainfield; December 1, Plainfield at Passaic, Newark at Montclair, Hudson City at Rahway; December 8, Passaic at Orange, Plainfield at Newark, Montclair at Hudson City; December 15, Orange at Hudson City, Rahway at Newark, Plainfield at Montclair; December 17, Passaic at Plainfield; December 22, Plainfield at Orange; January 5, Orange at Montclair, Newark at Rahway; January 7, Hudson City at Plainfield; January 12, Plainfield at Rahway, Passaic at Hudson City; January 19, Newark at Orange, Montclair at Rahway, Hudson City at Passaic; January 26, Orange at Passaic, Rahway at Hudson City; January 28, Montclair at Plainfield; February 2, Hudson City at Montclair, Passaic at Newark; February 9, Orange at Newark, Rahway at Passaic; February 16, Montclair at Passaic, Rahway at Orange, Plainfield at Hudson City; February 23, Rahway at Montclair, Hudson City at Newark; March 2, Montclair at Orange, Newark at Passaic; March 9, Passaic at Rahway; March 11, Orange at Plainfield; March 18, Newark at Plainfield.

In every case where an association has a second team, that team will play the second team of the association opposed to the first team in reverse schedule. That is, on the night Plainfield, which is organizing a second team, plays Newark at Newark, the Newark second team will come here to play Plainfield's seconds. Mr. Listman said this morning that the prospects for a lively second team were good. The make-up of the premier team has not been decided on definitely.

In last year's league battle, Newark won, after a hot contest with Orange, to break a tie. Montclair was third.

YALE'S CHANCES BRIGHT TO WIN GOLF HONORS.

Robert Abbott and Dudley H. Barrows Among Survivors.

Eight college golfers, five from Yale, two from Princeton and one from Harvard, survived the first day's play in the individual championship tournament of the Intercollegiate Golf Association at Garden City, yesterday. T. M. Clafin, Harvard, won the low medal score in the eighteen-hole medal play qualifying round. All the scores were in the high side, owing to a terrific wind which was blowing across the links. As the pairs began to finish it was plain that anything under 95 would be likely to qualify.

Robert Abbott, the title holder, made an even 90, as did Howard J. Gee, of Princeton. Dudley H. Barrows, Princeton, pulled a match out of the fire when he defeated G. V. Rotan, of Yale, by 1 up on the home green. Rotan stood 2 up with only three holes to go, only to have his hopes dashed when Barrows finished with 4, 5 and 3. In speaking of the match afterward Rotan said: "I thought it was all mine, but I will give Barrows credit for having plenty of nerve."

Abbott defeated I. S. Broun, of Harvard, by 3 up and 2 to play, in a fairly good scoring match. The champion went out in 43, a pace too fast for Broun to follow. In the summary of yesterday's play Abbott made a 47, 43—90, while Barrows card showed a 48, 44—92. In the second round this morning Barrows will meet Borup, of Yale, and Abbott will play West, of Princeton, and the survivors of these and the other matches will finish tomorrow.

—W. R. Harris, of West Fourth street, has purchased the property on West Front street, now occupied by James Patterson, and will take possession in the near future.

NEW BOWLING LEAGUE IS SHAPING UP RAPIDLY

TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION EFFECTED BY SEVEN CLUBS LAST NIGHT.

Assurance of permanent and prosperous organization was secured by the men at the head of the movement to organize a bowling league, last night. Temporary officers were elected at a meeting held in the Hotel Iroquois parlors, and plans for the preparation of a schedule were made.

There was some misunderstanding as to the date of the meeting, and only seven teams were represented, but the scheme was pushed forward vigorously in spite of that. The teams represented were the Elks, Knights of Columbus, Somersets, Scotch Plains, Saengerbund, Red Feather and Plainfield Social Club.

It is hoped to have ten fives in the league, and there may be twelve.

William Nash was elected temporary chairman and Charles Meyer, Jr., secretary. Mr. Nash reported that the Juniors were organizing a team, with E. Compton at the head of it. Garwood will probably be in the league.

The contest will be known officially as the City Bowling Tournament, and be conducted under the national rules, as on the big alleys in New York. Several prizes will be offered, among them $50 in gold for the winning team. There will be no dues, each team paying a $10 entrance fee.

There will be another meeting tomorrow night for the preparation of a schedule. It is hoped to start the games the first week in November.

$10,000 Diamond Belt Found.

The mystery of the whereabouts of John L. Sullivan's diamond studded world's championship belt has at last been cleared. The famous trophy is in Chicago. It reposes on a cushion of velvet in the vaults of Tom N. Donnelly, loan broker, No. 118 Dearborn street, in that city. How it came there is still a bit of mystery, for Mr. Donnelly refuses to reveal the name of the man from whom he purchased the bejewelled ornament. All that Donnelly will admit is that he bought the belt from some one in New York. It has been said that the former champion pugilist disposed of the belt for a song during one of his frequent periods of financial embarrassment.

David Bernard Injured.

David Bernard, employed as a foreman at the Levering & Garrigues iron works near Dunellen, was taken to the hospital yesterday afternoon suffering from a very severe contusion of the knee. While superintending some work at the plant his knee struck some heavy iron plates inflicting injuries. The joint swelled greatly and the pain was so intense that M. Bernard was obliged to quit work and go to the hospital for treatment. He will be detained there some time. Mr. Bernard is thirty-eight years old, a widower and resides at Dewey Park.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc.

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

Ball was watching narrowly for some sign that the news was as bad as he feared. But it cost me no effort to keep my face expressionless; I was like a man who has been killed by lightning and lies dead with the look on his face that he had just before the bolt struck him.

"Why didn't you tell me this," said I to Ball, "when I had you on the 'phone?" My tone was quiet enough, but the very question ought to have shown him that my brain was like a schooner in a cyclone.

"We heard it just after you rang off," was his reply. "We've been trying to get you ever since. I've gone everywhere after textile stock. Very few will sell, or even lend, and they ask—the best price was ten points above to-day's closing. A strong tip's out that textiles are to be rocketed."

Ten points up already—on the mere rumor! Already ten dollars to pay on every share I was "short"—and I short more than two hundred thousand! I felt the claws of the fiend Ruin sink into the flesh of my shoulders. "Ball doesn't know how I'm fixed," I remember I thought, "and he mustn't know."

I lit a cigar with a steady hand and waited for Joe's next words.

"I went to see Jenkins at once," he went on. Jenkins was then first vice-president of the textile trust. "He's all cut up because the news got out—says Langdon and he were the only ones who knew, so he supposed—says the announcement wasn't to have been made for a month—not till Langdon returned. I [illegible] it, though. That was the only way to free his crowd from suspicion of intending to rig the market."

"All right," said I.

"Have you seen the afternoon paper?" he asked. As he held it out to me, my eye caught big textile headlines, then flashed to some others—something about my going to marry Miss Ellersly.

"All right," said I, and with the paper in my hand, went to my outside office. I kept on toward my inner office, saying over my shoulder—to the stenographer: "Don't let anybody interrupt me." Behind the closed and locked door my body ventured to come to life again and my face to reflect as much as it could of the chaos that was heaving in me like ten thousand warring devils.

Three months before, in the same situation, my gambler's instinct would probably have helped me out. For I had not been gambling in the great American Monte Carlo all those years without getting used to the downs as well as to the ups. I had not—and have not—anything of the business man in my composition. To me, it was wholly finance, wholly a game, with excitement the chief factor and the sure winning, whether the little ball rolled my way or not. I was the financier, the gambler and adventurer; and that had been my principal asset. For, the man who wins in the long run at any of the great games of life—and they are all alike—is the man with the cool head; and the only man whose head is cool is he who plays for the game's sake, not caring greatly whether he wins or loses on any one play, because he feels that if he wins to-day, he will lose to-morrow. But now a new factor had come into the game. I spread out the paper and stared at the headlines: "Black Matt To Wed Society Belle—The Bucket-Shop King Will Lead Anita Ellersly To The Altar." I tried to read the vulgar article under whose vulgar lines, but I could not. I was sick, sick in body and in mind. My "nerve" was gone. I was no longer the free lance; I had responsibilities.

That thought dragged another in its train, an ugly, grinning imp that leered at me and sneered: "But she won't have you now!"

"She will! She must!" I cried aloud, starting up. And then the storm burst—I raged up and down the floor, shaking my clenched fists, gnashing my teeth, muttering all kinds of furious commands and threats—a truly ridiculous exhibition of impotent rage. For through it all I saw clearly enough that she wouldn't have me, that all these people I'd been trying to climb up among would kick loose my clinging hands and laugh as they watched me disappear. They who were none too gentle and slow in disengaging themselves from those of their own lifelong associates who had reverses of fortune—what consideration could "Black Matt" expect from them? And she—the necessity and the ability to deceive myself had gone, now that I could not pay the purchase price for her. The full hideousness of my bargain for her dropped its veil and stood naked before me.

At last, disgusted and exhausted, I flung myself down again, and dumbly and helplessly inspected the ruins of my projects—or, rather, the ruin of the one project upon which I had my heart set. I had known I cared for her, but it had seemed to me she was simply one more, the latest, of the objects on which I was in the habit of fixing my will from time to time to make the game more deeply interesting. I now saw that never before had I really been in earnest about anything, that on winning her I had staked myself, and that myself was a wholly different person from what I had been imagining. In a word, I sat face to face with that unfathomable mystery of sex-affinity that every man laughs at and mocks another man for believing in, until he has himself felt it drawing him against will, against reason, and sense, and interest, over the brink of destruction yawning before his eyes—drawing him as the magnet-mountain drew Sindbad and his ship.

But—it is not in me to despair. There never yet was an impenetrable siege line; to escape, it is only necessary by craft or by chance to hit upon the moment and the spot for the sortie. "Ruined!" I said aloud. "Trapped and trimmed like the stupidest sucker that ever wandered into Wall street! A dead one, no doubt; but I'll see to it that they don't enjoy my funeral."

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Special meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., held Tuesday, Sept. 18, 1906, at 2:30 p. m. Roll call showed all members present except Freeholders Perry and Swain—2.

The director stated that the meeting had been called to take proper and suitable action on the death of County Collector E. M. Wood, and also to provide for the selection of a County Collector as his successor.

Freeholder Kline moved that a committee of five be appointed to draft resolutions relative to the life, services and death of County Collector Wood, which was so ordered.

The director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Kline, Cady, Robison, Swain and Woodruff.

By Freeholder Chandler: Resolved, That the salary of the county collector be and is hereby fixed at the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars per annum, payable monthly.

Freeholder Gruener moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was adopted unanimously.

By Freeholder Jensen:

Whereas, By reason of the death of Edward M. Wood, the office of County Collector has become vacant, therefore be it

Resolved, That the said vacancy be filled, and that Nathan R. Leavitt be and is hereby appointed county collector to fill such vacancy for the term provided for by law, and until the appointment and giving of bond by his successor; and be it further

Resolved, That the said Nathan R. Leavitt furnish bond in the penal sum of twenty thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of his said office as Collector, said bond to be duly approved by the committee on Collector's Bond.

Freeholder Cady moved the adoption of the foregoing preamble and resolution, and in doing so briefly expressed his entire confidence in Mr. Leavitt's ability to perform the duties of the office for which he had been nominated—that he had been tried and found competent.

Freeholder Woodruff seconded the nomination of Mr. Leavitt, and in a few remarks stated that he was confident of Mr. Leavitt's ability to fill the office of county collector in a manner that would give entire satisfaction to the people of Union county.

The foregoing preamble and resolution were adopted without dissent.

On motion the director appointed Messrs. Wilbur and Robison as a committee to bring Mr. Leavitt before the board.

Mr. Leavitt thanked the members of the board for his appointment, pledging his best efforts to conduct his office on the lines as laid down by his predecessor, and for the best interests of the county; he asked the co-operation of the members of the board to that end.

Freeholder Krouse moved to adjourn, which was carried.

The director declared the board adjourned until Thursday, Oct. 4, 1906, at 2:30 p. m.

GETS VALUABLE HISTORIC DATA

DR. GODFREY RETURNS FROM CANADA WITH INTERESTING RECORDS.

Dr. Carlos E. Godfrey, of the adjutant general's office, has returned from a trip to Canada, made in quest of military records relating to New Jersey troops in the old wars. The search was entirely successful, resulting in the addition of some valuable documents to the collection now in the possession of the adjutant general.

One of the interesting finds of Dr. Godfrey was made at Ottawa, where he secured about 700 pages of military matter relating to New Jersey troops in the Colonial wars. The records also contain many details relative to the expedition to Havana in 1762.

At Nova Scotia Dr. Godfrey succeeded in obtaining 2,700 muster rolls of the New Jersey Loyal Volunteers. This organization was in service during the entire Revolutionary war. It consisted of one brigade of six battalions, which were finally consolidated into four. The Loyal Volunteers were commanded by Brigadier General Cortlandt Skinner, and in the same command were Lieutenant Colonel Elisha Lawrence, of Monmouth; Lieutenant Colonel John Morris, of Middlesex; Major John Drummond, of Essex; Lieutenant Colonel Abraham Van Buskirk, of Bergen; Lieutenant Colonel Joseph Barton, of Somerset, and Lieutenant Colonel Isaac Allen, of Trenton.

Another find to which little or no reference is made in the historical works showing New Jersey's participation in the Revolution consisted of the records of the West Jersey Volunteers, which were recruited from Burlington, Gloucester and Cumberland counties. This organization, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel John Van Dyke, of Princeton, was subsequently consolidated with Skinner's brigade.

In November of 1778, part of the brigade went south and participated in the capture of Havana, the battle of Utah Springs, South Carolina, and the defense of Fort 96, in the same state. At the close of the war about 500 of the brigade removed to Brunswick, Canada, and obtained lands from the crown, the officers being retired on half pay for life as a reward for their services to the king.

The muster rolls obtained in Nova Scotia show that Skinner's brigade had a maximum complement of 128 officers and 1,263 men, a total of 1,391, and the West Jersey Volunteers a maximum of twenty-six officers and 317 men, a total of 343, or a grand total of 1,734 officers and men. Allowing for depletions by death, wounds, desertions and other causes, it is estimated that the rolls will show about 3,500 men in service with the organization during the entire war.

During his absence in Canada Dr. Godfrey was accorded every courtesy by the officials to whom he had letters of introduction and others. He had hardly more than arrived at his hotel than he received an official call from Major General Percy H. N. Lake, chief of the general staff of the Canadian militia, who in the absence of the visitor, left his card.

While at St. Johns Dr. Godfrey met Alfred A. Stockton, a lawyer and member of parliament, who was deeply interested in the historic old Princeton family of that name, but in the stirring time that marked the opening of the Revolution his great ancestor joined the king's forces and subsequently moved to Canada, while other members of the family, including Richard, signer of the Declaration of Independence, sided with the cause of their country. Mr. Stockton had a beautiful establishment at St. Johns, which, like the famous old homestead at Princeton bears the name "Morven."

Among other data which Dr. Godfrey has succeeded in obtaining for the State records are the rolls of the Swedish government of the troops of that country stationed along the Delaware from 1627 to 1654, and the rolls of Major Thomas Patterson's battalion of New Jersey soldiers, four companies of which formed part of the Second Regiment, United States Infantry. These troops were called out by Congress on March 3, 1791, under Major General St. Clair, whose command was defeated by the Indians at Fort Recovery, O. All these records are expected to prove of value in tracing the part played by different families and individuals from this State in the old wars, and will undoubtedly be eagerly sought by students of Jersey genealogy.

Million for Poor Spinster.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Miss Jennie Phipps, sixty-six years old, of Troy, N. Y., has fallen heir to $1,000,000 by the death of Mrs. Anna Morgan-Baker, widow of W. T. Baker, who was a prominent citizen of Chicago. The spinster, who for years has been penniless and was supported by the Baker family, comes into possession of this vast amount because she is the only blood relative of Mrs. Baker, being a sister. W. T. Baker died three years ago and left no will. His wife, who was mentally deranged, received a widow's dower amounting to $1,000,000, all in personal property.

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.
You cannot afford to grow old.
In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible ones youthful appearance.
It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.
The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.
Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.
Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure.
Accept no substitute—there is none.

Slip of Paper Still Secret.

Philadelphia, Oct. 19.—Admitting that they know that deductions derogatory to her character may be drawn from her action, nevertheless Mrs. Jones Wister and her counsel steadfastly declined yesterday to give an inkling of the contents of the slip of yellow paper which caused her to withdraw from the contest for a division of $60,000,000, left by William Weightman. That the contents of the yellow paper refers to the personal relation between Weightman and Mrs. Wister there appears to be no doubt. It sets forth the affair in plain detain, whichever way it is, tells who made the proposal, the argument used and the methods employed in furtherance of the plan. It concluded with his opinion of the matter and his wishes as a consequence of it.

DEMOCRATS PICK STEVENS

Scion of Famous Jersey Family Somerset Nominee For Assembly.

MR. SOUTHWICK SPEAKS

Congressional Candidate Addresses Convention at Somerville—Bowers for Coroner.

Robert L. Stevens, of Bernards, was nominated by acclamation as the candidate for member of Assembly by the Somerset county Democratic convention in session in Germania hall, Somerville, late yesterday afternoon. Isiah B. Bowers, of Basking Ridge, was unanimously nominated for coroner. After the noon recess, F. C. Sutro, of Basking Ridge, was made chairman, having been the temporary selection, and E. V. Cruser, of Belle Mead, was chosen secretary in place of the temporary secretary, Assemblyman Irving Hoagland, of Franklin Park, was made temporary chairman. John Cooper, of Warren township, was chosen temporary secretary. Mr. Hoagland made a short speech thanking the convention for the honor conferred. He referred to the perfect harmony now existing in the party and predicted success for the ticket at the coming election.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley was in charge of the delegation from North Plainfield. There were two vacancies, A. G. Hooley and C. W. McG[illegible] from the First district of the borough being unable to attend. Assemblyman Irving Hoagland was seated to fill one vacancy and the one other was allowed to go by default. The delegates from the borough were Thomas Doud, J. V. E. Vanderhoof and Irving Hoagland from the first district and Alonzo F. Brokaw, Peter A. Emmons, William C. Smith and L. B. Woolston from the Second district.

Chairman Hoagland appointed the usual committees, Mayor Smalley being put on the committee on resolutions. After this business the convention proceeded to nominate a ticket. It was generally known that Assemblyman Hoagland, now serving his second term, did not want a re-nomination, and W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, was agreed upon by the delegates. He was nominated by Fred M. Voorhees, of Bound Brook, and received the honor by acclamation, as did also Dr. Fred A. Wilde, of Bound Brook, for the office of coroner.

After the nominations the convention adjourned to 2:30 o'clock, when the resolutions and various reports of committee will be received and Congressman Ira W. Wood will make an address. Among those who attended the convention but did not remain throughout was Former Senator Charles A. Reed.

The committees of the convention were: Credentials—John W. Reed, J. D. Barnmann, William Mills, Lawrence Hickey, M. W. Scully; Resolutions—George E. Pace, Horace McWilliams, E. V. Cruser, H. VanZandt, James L. Hall; Rules—C. H. Tiger, William Conover, Stonewall Jackson, Stephen Brokaw, Frank Allette; Permanent Organization — David Philhamer, Thomas Ryan, William J. Duffield, John W. Kuhl, Thomas Hildebrant.

Resolutions endorsing the last National and State platforms of the Democratic party, declare for equal taxation, condemn the county tax boards, bribery of voters and corporations, and pledges support to the Congressional nominee for the Fourth district and to the nominees selected by the convention.

J. Allen Southwick, of Trenton, the candidate for Congress in the Fourth district, addressed the convention. He was followed by Irwin S. Marshall, chairman of the City Executive Committee of Trenton.

The appointment of a member of the Executive Committee for the Second district of North Plainfield borough brought forward the old scrap, which has been on between Walter C. Linbarger and L. D. Townley for some time. When the former appeared in the convention with the two delegates from his district favoring him it looked as if he would be appointed to the position. However, when the call was made for the names of Executive Committee to be handed in to the secretary that of L. D. Townley was sent up as well as Linbarger's. Both of the delegates from the Second district of North Plainfield declared they favored Linbarger and the latter claimed his seat on the committee, addressing the convention.

There was much discussion over the matter and it was finally left to the Executive Committee to decide which of the two men is entitled to the position. Linbarger claimed that the presentation of Townley's name was an effort of David J. Carney, the Democratic leader in North Plainfield borough who lives in the First district to keep him out of the Executive Committee. Linbarger made a plea for the matter to be settled on the floor of the convention. The delegates voted against the proposition.

The Executive Committeeman appointed from the First district of North Plainfield borough was D. J. Carney and M. J. Duffy was selected from North Plainfield township.

SMALLEY FOR ASSEMBLY

Bound Brook Man Choice of Somerset Republican Convention.

WILDE FOR CORONER

Senator Frelinghuysen Calls Delegates to Order—Mayor Smalley Heads Borough Delegation.

W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, received the nomination for the Assembly, and Dr. Fred A. Wilde, also of Bound Brook, the nomination for coroner, at the Somerset County Republican convention held at Somerset Hall, Somerville, this morning. Both nominations were made by acclamation, there being no opposition or contest of any kind.

The convention was called to order at 11:30 o'clock by Senator Joseph F. Frelinghuysen, chairman of the Somerset County Republican committee. Assemblyman Irving Hoagland, of Franklin Park, was made temporary chairman. John Cooper, of Warren township, was chosen temporary secretary. Mr. Hoagland made a short speech thanking the convention for the honor conferred. He referred to the perfect harmony now existing in the party and predicted success for the ticket at the coming election.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley was in charge of the delegation from North Plainfield. There were two vacancies, A. G. Hooley and C. W. McG[illegible] from the First district of the borough being unable to attend. Assemblyman Irving Hoagland was seated to fill one vacancy and the one other was allowed to go by default. The delegates from the borough were Thomas Doud, J. V. E. Vanderhoof and Irving Hoagland from the first district and Alonzo F. Brokaw, Peter A. Emmons, William C. Smith and L. B. Woolston from the Second district.

Chairman Hoagland appointed the usual committees, Mayor Smalley being put on the committee on resolutions. After this business the convention proceeded to nominate a ticket. It was generally known that Assemblyman Hoagland, now serving his second term, did not want a re-nomination, and W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, was agreed upon by the delegates. He was nominated by Fred M. Voorhees, of Bound Brook, and received the honor by acclamation, as did also Dr. Fred A. Wilde, of Bound Brook, for the office of coroner.

After the nominations the convention adjourned to 2:30 o'clock, when the resolutions and various reports of committee will be received and Congressman Ira W. Wood will make an address. Among those who attended the convention but did not remain throughout was Former Senator Charles A. Reed.

REV. DR. ERDMAN TO LEAVE MORRISTOWN PASTORATE

Congregation to Present Him With a Fund of Over $20,000 at His Withdrawal.

Rev. Dr. Albert Erdman, who is the father-in-law of Rev. G. Kennedy Newell and is well known in this city, recently tendered his resignation as pastor of the South Street Presbyterian church, Morristown. A committee of fifteen was appointed to consider it and at a parish meeting Thursday night this body reported in a series of resolutions to accept it to take effect April 10, 1907, but recommended Dr. Erdman's appointment as pastor emeritus, no duties or salary being connected therewith.

The report was a unanimous presentation by the committee and was unanimously accepted. The committee was discharged but a committee of three, Rev. Dr. Francis B. Dwight, Dr. Frederick Owen and Henry M. Smith, was appointed to take charge of a fund that is being raised for Dr. Erdman at the expiration of his term. The amount will, it is expected, exceed $20,000.

COLUMBIA LODGE MUSICALE.

Workmen Entertain Large Audience at First of Monthly Affairs.

Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., held the first of a series of monthly entertainments for members and their families, last night. The affair was largely attended, and much enjoyed.

The programme was opened by a brief speech of welcome by J. W. A. Bauersachs, chairman of the entertainment committee. After that, music, and then refreshments.

The musical numbers included several selections by the Vivo Instrumental trio, composed of M. A. Korff, George Spier, violins, and Edward Spier, piano; vocal solos by Joseph Moon; and piano solos by Dr. J. H. Buchanan.

H. S. Schlief and John Bicknell were associated with Mr. Bauersachs on the committee.

Working Under An Old Charter.

The Public Service Corporation is now running its big gas main through Watchung avenue and East Fourth street to the gas house. This main is a part of the one being extended to Metuchen. It seems to be settled that the company has the right under an old charter to open up the streets and lay gas mains and for this reason did not make application to the Common Council. The charter referred to was granted to the old Plainfield Gas Company.

BAN ON FAMOUS HYMNS

Interdict Against "Nearer My God to Thee" and Restrictions on "Lead, Kindly Light."

ORDER OF BP. O'CONNOR

Father Bogan and All Other Priests of the Diocese Formally Notified of the Episcopal Mandate.

Bishop John J. O'Connor, of the Newark Catholic diocese, has placed an interdict on the hymns "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and "Lead, Kindly Light." The first hymn is tabooed altogether, while the latter may be sung only after services. Bishop O'Connor has sent this order to Father Bogan of St. Mary's church and all other rectors of the various churches in his diocese.

When seen at his Episcopal residence in South Orange yesterday the bishop said:

"The rule of the church forbids the singing of any hymn or anything else that is not part of the liturgical service; and of course, 'Nearer, My God, to Thee,' is no more part of the service than is 'In the Swee[illegible] Bye and Bye.' Aside from the church rule, this hymn is purely sentimental, and I can see no reason for its rendition. 'Lead, Kindly Light,' is an appeal for spiritual light, but then there is no cause for singing it in our churches."

The liturgical service is in Latin, but the singing of an English translation of a part of the liturgy or a Psalm, &c., is sanctioned. It is an iron rule of the church not to allow songs not included in music receiving the approbation of the proper authorities.

The two hymns now excluded have been sung frequently of late. "Lead, Kindly Light," was written by Cardinal Newman before his conversion to Catholicism.

MISS CATHERINE WEBSTER BORNE TO HER GRAVE.

Friends Pay Last Respects to a Venerable Member of Their Fold.

There was a very large gathering of Friends from New York, Shrewsbury, Rahway and this city at the funeral services of Miss Catherine R. Webster, which were held from the late home in East Second street, yesterday afternoon. Among those present were some who had known the venerable woman nearly a life time.

John Shotwell, a member of the Shrewsbury Meeting, and for many years a warm friend of Miss Webster, was the first speaker. He referred to Miss Webster's good qualities, in her belief in Christ and her faithful living of her religion. He dwelt at some length upon the value of her service in the Plainfield Meeting and cited the Scriptures to show how she had followed in the footsteps of the Master. He also referred to her acts of charity, and told how willing she always had been to assist the needy, especially among her own people. He said that she would be greatly missed in the Meeting where she was a faithful attendant.

The next speaker was W. D. Williams, of the Plainfield Meeting. He referred to the faith of Miss Webster as set forth by St. Paul in the eighteenth verse, fourth chapter, and also the first verse, fifth chapter, Second Corinthians. He said that her faith was great and that she had builded on the premises exemplified in the life of St. Paul. Mr. Williams said that all realized that she would be missed in the Meeting and asked who of the mourners would be willing to allow her mantle of service and good works to fall on them and continue the work.

At the grave in the Friends cemetery, Mr. Williams offered prayer. The pall-bearers were Charles E. Vail, Clarence Vail, Mulford Estil, William A. Woodruff, Joseph B. Coward and Eugene M. Laing.

FIRST ICE DROP.

John Morton Announces a Decrease in Price November 1.

John Morton, the ice dealer, announced this morning that he would lower the price of ice to all his customers after the first of the month. Small consumers will be asked fifty cents a hundred instead of sixty, and a proportionate decrease would be accorded saloons, hotels and other large consumers.

Mr. Morton's action will be independent. He said this morning that there was no understanding between the ice men, and that he did not care what action the others might take.

German Church at Westfield.

Rev. Mr. Schneegas, of the German Reformed church, will conduct German services at 30 Lincoln avenue, Westfield, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. It is hoped eventually to establish a German church at that place.

ANOTHER BOY PUT AWAY

Willie Berkowitz Caught Trying to Steal Theatre Money.

BROKE RECENT PAROLE

Forged Father's Name On $50 Check, and Barely Escaped the Reform School at That Time.

Caught in the act of trying to steal money from the gallery box office at the New Plainfield theatre last night, Willie Berkowitz, a fourteen-year-old forger on parole, was sent to Elizabeth this morning by Judge Runyon to await commitment to the Reform School.

Assistant Treasurer Leonce Texier, who has charge of the gallery box office, discovered Willie's attempt. Texier turned from the window to wrap up some papers, and that was the chance Willie seized to thrust his hand through the window from the outside and reach for the pile of change that lay on the desk beneath it. Texier heard the noise his straining made, and turned in time to see the outstretched hand. Willie jerked his hand out and ran, but not before Texier had been his face at the glass. He was captured in front of the theatre a few minutes later by Patrolman Payne to whom the attempt was reported.

Willie tried to make Judge Runyon believe this morning that he had not gone near the box office, and was wrongly accused, but Texier positively identified him, and Willie had no alibi handy.

"There is only one thing to do with that boy," said Capt. Irwin, of the probation officer's staff, who was in court for his weekly examination of probationers. "He wil be better off in the Reform School. He needs it."

"I agree with you," said the magistrate, and Chief of Police Kiely said the same thing. Willie's commitment was made out at once, and he was taken back to his cell weeping loudly.

The boy's first serious crime, for which he was arrested several months ago, was unusual in several features. Willie taught his father, who is a Polish emigrant, how to write his name in English. The father's signature was naturally, a copy of Willie's hand, and the boy found it easy to forge his name on a check for $50. He took the money to New York and had a high old time for a few days. He was arrested when he came back here, penniless.

Capt. Irwin and Mr. Berkowitz had completed arrangements to have the boy sent away then, when the father's heart changed, and he begged another chance for Willie. The latter changed his ways for a time, but he drifted back to his old associates, and his relapse followed.

DUTCH MINISTER SPEAKS AT LOCAL CHURCH SERVICE.

"Grand Old Man of Holland" Addresses Seventh-Day Baptists.

Rev. G. Velthuysen, of Haarlem, Holland, known as the Grand Old Man of that country, who is the leader of the Seventh-Day Baptists in his native land, addressed a large congregation at the Seventh-Day Baptist church this morning. He is a broad minded, big hearted man, and a speaker of commanding personality. He spoke in terms of deep appreciation of the denomination and particularly of the people who first came to him in Holland as missionaries.

Dr. Velthuysen illustrates in his own life that the "open throne of grace, and love of the Heavenly Father gives one the most supreme happiness." The value of prayer was emphasized by him and he also made an earnest appeal that all serve God with a whole heart; "He shall have no other Gods before Me."

Rev. Mr. Velthuysen will speak this afternoon to the Junior and Senior Christian Endeavor societies, and tonight he makes an address at the church. Tomorrow he will preach in the New Market church of that denomination.

Enlarge Ice Field.

The Natural Ice Company are having a strip of land that puts into their pond at Watchung cut out to increase the ice-forming area. The strip was several hundred feet square and they will have that much more in their ice field this year. The pond is about fourteen acres in extent.

CITY JUDGESHIP PLUM

If W. N. Runyon Resigns, W L. Hetfield, J., Likely to Be Appointed.

CANDIDATES LIKELY

Huff, Gallup, H. Runyon and DeMeza Are Also Boomed—Salary $600 a Year.

In the event of his resigning the office on January 1, when according to his plans he will remove from Plainfield, William N. Runyon's successor as city judge of Plainfield in all probability will be Walter L. Hetfield, Jr. That he is a candidate for the place, Mr. Hetfield, himself, denies, but it is a pretty safe forecast to say that he will be appointed. There are others seeking the job already, it is reported, and there is apt to be a lively scramble when the present incumbent's resignation is placed in the hands of the Common Council.

Among those who are said to have their eyes on the position are four other local barristers. Friends of William G. DeMeza have already gotten together to boom him for the place and it is said that they have some promises from politicians to use their influence. Just as hard are the friends of Fred J. Huff working for him, while Carlos Gallup and Harry C. Runyon are both being strongly boomed. There are others who would not refuse an appointment, but so far as can be learned none of them have "seen" the leaders.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., is a member of the Union County Board of Elections and is an active party worker. He is classed as a "regular."

The salary attached to the office is $600 per year.

AMITY HOSE VETERAN MARCHED WITH PRIZED RELIC.

Gustavus Isaacs Manned Rope of Silver Hose Carriage in Elizabeth Parade.

At the firemen's parade held in Elizabeth October 11, 1906, one of the interesting features was that presented by the Exempt Association of this city, who marched with the "Silver Hose Carriage," formerly belonging to Amity Hose Company, No. 38, of New York city, Volunteer Fire Department.

Gustavus Isaacs, a former member of the famous Amity Hose Company, viewed the most interesting display of the fire apparatus of this and other States, and for a number of blocks "maned the rope" of his old hose carriage, renewing associations of days gone by. He was a member of Amity Hose Company, up to the time it was disbanded. He participated in the last parade, in New York city, in 1860, at which the carriage appeared. This was the parade given in honor of the visit of Albert Edward Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII of England.

The Exempt Association of Plainfield are the fortunate custodians of this valuable relic, which as far back as "the fifties" was the pride of the annual parade of the New York volunteer fire department, and was always made one of the principal features in matter of decoration at the annual ball given by the Metropolitan department at the Academy of Music in that city.

JUDGE GENTLE WITH FATHER'S SCHOOLMATE.

Patrick Muldoon Was Drunk, But He Was Not Scolded by City Magistrate.

Patrick Muldoon, fifty-five years old, 671 West Front street, was arrested yesterday afternoon for drunkenness by Doorman O'Gorman. The officer saw him clinging to the iron post before Henry Windham's cafe.

Muldoon told Judge Runyon in court this morning that he was waiting for a Fourth street car, and passed over a transfer to corroborate the statement. The transfer was dated Thursday afternoon.

"You've been waiting some time," commented the magistrate. "You were a schoolmate of my father, weren't you?"

"Yes, sir," answered Muldoon with a smile. "Forty years or more ago, we went to school together at New Market. Theodore Vail was the teacher then."

Muldoon hadn't been in court for a year and the magistrate suspended sentence. He is well-to-do.

MYSTERY IN HIS DEATH

Unknown Man Found Near B. & O. Trolley Crossing May Have Been Murdered.

MAKING INVESTIGATION

Thought at First That He Had Been Struck By a Trolley Car, But Circumstances Point Otherwise.

Officials of the Public Service Corporation are making a determined effort today to unravel the mystery of an unknown man's death at the B. and O. crossing near Cranford, last night. It was at first supposed that he was killed by a trolley car that passed over the bridge at 7 o'clock, but later developments tend to show that it may have been a case of murder. The victim had a fractured skull and several bad gashes about the head, otherwise there were no marks on the body, and everyone of his pockets had been turned out. The remains were brought to Cole's undertaking rooms in this city and the police are assisting in the investigation.

The trolley car was in charge of Motorman Fred Skillman, of Elizabeth, and he declares he saw no one in front of him or noticed anything unusual until he had gone some distance beyond the bridge. Then a man suddenly sprang toward his platform and throwing a derby hat directly in his face called out, "You've killed a man." As Skillman reversed his controller he noticed the fellow turn and run off in the darkness.

As soon as the car was brought to a stop, the crew hurried back and found a body alongside the tracks. They carried it off the road and sent the usual telephone calls in accident cases. Skillman was positive from the start that no one had been struck by his vehicle and he so informed the company officials when they arrived. Credence was lent to his story when the pockets were found turned out as if they had been hurriedly rifled. In one of them was a small notebook having the address, "George M. Forbes, Providence, R. I., printer," but beyond this nothing was found.

Public Service detectives searched about the spot this morning and met several B. and O. employes who work around the terminal just off from the trolley bridge. They stated that they had noticed four or five man hanging about the structure yesterday and the description of the dead man tallies with one of them. From this and other facts the theory has been advanced that the victim was first struck on the head with some weapon which caused death and that after the pockets had been rifled the body was placed beside the car tracks. One of the strongest points to bear out the suggestion or murder is the fact that there is not a mark on the body below the head, almost an impossibility when a person has been struck by a car. The authorities of the county are to be asked to take hold of the case.

The victim was about fifty years old, thick-set and weighing 190 pounds. He had a gray mustache and gray hair. The clothing was in good condition but of cheap material.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES BEGIN TOMORROW NIGHT.

Rev. E. E. Roberson to Conduct Revival Meetings at Monroe Avenue Church.

Tomorrow night at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church a two weeks' series of revival meetings will begin. They will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. E. Roberson, who has had a wide and successful experience in holding evangelistic services. Already it is said there is a deep interest in the work and several persons have signified their desire to become Christians.

Mr. Roberson will preach every night and he will visit any one who wishes spiritual advice. Praying circles have been formed and systematic visitation already begun. New music books have been purchased and singing will be a feature of the meetings.

The services will be held in the main room of the church and arrangements have been made to seat all who attend. The subject for tomorrow night will be "The Gates of Pearl," and a double male quartette will sing "Beyond the Pearly Gates." The meetings will be conducted along general lines and everybody interested will be welcome.

Two In the Dragnet.

The borough police arrested at different times, last night, Harriett Richardson, colored, for disorderly conduct, and Firman Godown for drunkenness. Both will be given a hearing tonight.

SOMERSET COUNTY RATABLES FOR YEAR 1906.

Official Figures Show City's Taxable Valuation About Equal to Neighboring County.

TIMELY COMPARISONS

Found in Table of Ratables of Union and Somerset Counties for 1906—The Figures.

The valuation of taxables as equalized by the Somerset County Board of Taxes furnishes an opportunity for some timely comparisons. For instance, the ratables for 1906 in Somerset, show that the combined valuation of both realty and personalty in that county is but $1,583,118 more than the valuation in Plainfield alone. The valuation in Somerset county as officially announced is $22,547,093, while in the city of Plainfield it is $20,963,975.

The school tax in Plainfield is more than half what it is in the entire county of Somerset, the latter being $36,364, and the former being $19,488. It is also four times what it is in North Plainfield. Another interesting comparison is to be found in the county tax, the amount in this city being more than a third of the total amount in Somerset county, and three times the amount in North Plainfield.

He and several members of the "Cymbeline" company, who also knew Mr. Varrey when he was on the stage, will pass part of tomorrow with him.

Driver Killed by His Vehicle.

Elizabeth, Oct. 20.—While driving home from Newark Thursday night, Joseph Wicienty, who was in the employ of the A. & F. Brown Progress Iron Works Co., of this city, tumbled from the truck on which he was sitting at Trimble street here. His companion placed the unconscious man in the vehicle, and, driving to the works, carried Wicienty into the office. A physician, after examining the man, declared he was dead, his skull having been fractured by the fall. He was thirty years old and leaves a widow and family living in Poland. The body was removed to Stiner's morgue. He boarded at 130 Port avenue, Elizabeth.

Rev. Geraud Valthuysen, of Haarlem, Holland, who preached at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this morning, has been visiting Rev. and Mrs. G. B. Shaw, of Central avenue.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The old well on Front street, one of the old familiar sights of the town, is practically dry. The old well has furnished drinking water for not only the residents of that section of town of the present generation but for several generations. The introduction of city water in town could not take the place of a drink from the old well. In years gone by the well was always ready to send up its bucket full of the cooling fluid, but since the sinking of the additional wells at the Plainfield Water Company's plant, the stream has gradually been getting smaller and smaller until today the well is practically dry. The only reason that can be assigned for it is that the large wells of the water company have drawn upon the streams to such an extent that some of the smaller ones have become a thing of the past.

THE PERFECT WAY.

Scores of Plainfield Citizens Have Learned It.

If you suffer from backache,

There is only one way to cure it.

The perfect way is to cure the kidneys.

A bad back means sick kidneys.

Neglect it, urinary troubles follow.

Doan's Kidney Pills are mode for kidneys only.

Are endorsed by Plainfield people.

Mrs. Martha Snedeker, of 244 East Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Some six weeks ago I began using Doan's Kidney Pills for an attack of kidney trouble that had been annoying me for a long time, procuring the remedy at Randolph's drug store. My main symptoms were severe backaches and pains in the top and back of my head, a stiffness in the limbs—especially my arms, and a sediment in the urine that looked like brick-dust. I had a languid feeling of weakness and depression and physicians did not help me. Doan's Kidney Pills reached the cause of my trouble, however, and that very quickly and now all those aches and pains I have described have disappeared and the kidney secretions are perfectly normal, all of which is due to the healing virtues of Doan's Kidney Pills and their direct action on the kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

On Monday "Marty" O'Loughlin will leave for Forest Hill where on the following day he will compete with all the principal "pros" of the east in the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association tournament. This without doubt will be one of the banner attractions of the season and will be watched by many amateur players throughout the Metropolitan district, who are looking for points. Charles Kirchener, of this city, is one of the prime movers in this tournament, and it is predicted that it will be the most successful ever held.

One week from today the last competition of the Golf Committee cup will be held at the Plainfield Country Club, but during the succeeding few Saturdays there will be play for the Golf Committee consolation cups for those winning points for the regular cup, but did not score enough to win. There will also be play for the inconsolables cup for those who fail to qualify in the first round for the consolation cup. These competitions with the play for the Cross country golf cups on Thanksgiving day will close the season.

Samuel Dalzell, of the Chevy Chas Golf Club, won the low score qualifying prize at the Columbia Golf Club on Thursday with a score of 85. L. L. Harben, Columbia, and F. H. Ellis, Chevy Chas, turned in the next best net scores with 87.

In the fall open tournament at the Brookline Golf Club on Thursday, there were 160 golfers. Brice Stevens won the gross score prize with an 81, and W. Lindsey the net, with 74. His gross was 88. Eighteen players qualified for match play.

A somewhat peculiar feature in local golf is that there are members of the Plainfield Country Club who have won points for cups at the Park Golf Club, and members of the latter club have won points at the Plainfield Country Club. This exchange of play is much enjoyed by a number of golfers and shows a decidedly friendly spirit.

Many entries are being received at the Middlebrook Country Club, Findern, for the big tournament on Election day. This promises to be an interesting event and the club has offered handsome prizes for the winners. The tournament will be continued all day.

Dave Patrick, the "pro" at the Westfield Golf Club, will leave that club at the end of the present season to take a similar position with a larger club.

FOOTBALL.

The Flemington A. C. cancelled its game with the Orange Field Club eleven for this afternoon on Crescent Oval, and in consequence there the local team will not have a game. Efforts were made to bring Cranford here, but that team had a contest scheduled. A week from today the O. F. C. will play its first game this season with Alls on Crescent Oval. The latter team is said to be very strong this year under the management of Captain Percy Phillips and is likely to give its old rivals a hard tussel.

The P. H. S. has given up football for this season and the game scheduled for this afternoon with Rutgers Prep has been cancelled, as has also all the other games scheduled for the season. Captain Taylor Mehaffey has found it impossible to make up an eleven to fill the number of vacancies due to resignations. It is likely the boys will now devote more time to basketball, the team being in the city league.

The N. P. H. S. football eleven is crowing considerable these days over the ninety-five yard run made by Van Arsdale in the game with P. H. S. This feature of the game was commented upon by Superintendent Krebs at the Borough High School yesterday morning in his talk to the pupils.

New Haven and Corneil papers take the students of their respective universities to task for not enthusing more, "Are the undergraduates worthy of the team?" being a question put to the Ithacans. More thinking, talking, yelling and singing of football is urged. In New Haven "one of the surprises of the season," according to the New Haven Register, "as far as it has advanced is the small crowds that have been out to see the practice and to see the games." Coaches, players and faculty take note of this, and the faculty is said to regard it as something of an indication that football is uninteresting as a practice if not as a sport. It is pointed out, however, that Yale players may be reaping the result of secret practice of last year, which was started so early that the students lost track of the development of the eleven. Secret practice has been let severely alone so far this season.

The Indians have not played Yale since 1900, when the white men buried the red men under a 35 to 0 liking for Yale men to coach. Big Hickok, one of Yale's guards in the '90s, coached the Indians seven or eight years ago, and it was while he was coach and also an official in the game that the Indians scared Yale out of a year's growth in a close contest on Manhattan Field. Last year Ralph Kinney, guard and tackle at Yale and still bigger than Hickok, coached the redskins, and this year Carl Flanders, last year's Yale centre, has just gone to Carlisle to show the Indians a few things. Flanders is not as big as Hickok or Kinney, but he was not eligible for Yale's Peewee Club. Big men seem to be in favor at Carlisle for coaches. Pop Warner of Cornell was another giant who had them in charge.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

It is high time that the oft repeated claim that—"chronic baldness can be cured" be filed away with the old announcement that the moon is made of green cheese. The claim is untrue, and aside from this it induces many people to ignore the chances they have to prevent baldness.

The greatest stride toward the ultimate elimination of baldness was the discovery by Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany (ask your doctor about him), that most hair loss is due to an invisible growth, of vegetable character, in the scalp—literally a "dandruff germ," producing a highly contagious disease. The greatest stride toward the prevention of baldness was the recent discovery of a prophylactic fluid called NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE, which, if intelligently used—will destroy the dandruff germ and prevent baldness.

Herpicide is the original dandruff germ destroyer and its extraordinary success—for dandruff and falling hair, also dull, brittle and lustreless hair—has brought out many imitations. Even the old line hair "growers" and hair "tonics" now claim to kill the dandruff germ. Quite a tribute to Herpicide, isn't it? An exquisite hair dressing. Stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. Don't wait; try it now.

"Real Love Letters of a Real Girl"

"I am not going to beat the big drum of sentiment and make a wailful noise. Nothing is so dead as a dead infatuation. The more a person has been infatuated, the more he resents an attempt to galvanize the dull, dead thing into life. I am wise, you see, to the end. And reasonable, too, I hope. And brave. And brave, I tell you. Do you think I will be a coward, and cry out? I make you a present of everything; of the love and happy thoughts, of the pleasant dreams and plans, of the little prayers sent up, and the blessings called down—there were a great many every day—of the kisses, and all the dear sweetness. Take it all. I want nothing from you in return. But do you suppose that, having given you all this, I am going to give you my soul as well? To moan my life away, my beautiful life? You are not worth it. You are not worth anything, hardly. You are unstable, invertebrate. My life shall be splendid in spite of you. You shall not cheat me of one single chance of heaven."—(From Fraulein Schmidt and Mr. Anstruther in the November Delineator.)

Viola Allen, in "Cymbeline," at New Plainfield Theatre This Evening.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Viola Allen in a magnificent production of "Cymbeline" is the attraction announced for tonight at the New Plainfield theatre. The advance seat sale indicates that the famous actress will be greeted by a large audience.

"Way Down East," which has been so successful the past nine years, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday afternoon and night. It is a delightful play of New England life and will be presented as heretofore under the stage direction of Joseph R. Grismer, who is certainly a master of stage craft. The scenic effects will be very beautiful and elaborate. The farm pictures and the snow storm scene lend themselves well to stage realism. The company is said to be well selected.

In the way of a dramatic feast, Theodore Kremer's new and original melodrama, "Queen of the Convicts," is pronounced strong and appetizing meat, plentifully spiced throughout four acts and eleven scenes with clean comedy and cute fun. The title is appropriate, as suggesting the incidents of devoted but impulsive and credulous love, specious villainy, reckless passion, base treachery and heartless deception upon which it is founded, and the constantly deepening shadows of which are lightened by interpersed laughter, and finally dissipated by the confusion and punishment of crime, and the triumph of truth and justice. It will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night.

The company that Manager Jos. M. Gaites has organized for this season's presentation of the Ziegfeld Opera Co.'s gorgeous production of the romantic comic opera, "Red Feather," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night is entirely adequate in every way. The scenery is known to be magnificent; the music is thrilling and full of snap and fire, and best of all, the singers are superior to any that can be found outside of grand opera. Cheridah Simpson, for several seasons prima donna of various Savage operas, will be at the head of the company of seventy-five, which includes a number of well known and popular comedians and a large ensemble of singers. Even the chorus, it is said, was chosen with absolute judgment as to voice qualities, and in personal appearance is all that can be desired. The great success that "Red Feather" has made seems to prove that real comic opera is as much appreciated as ever, now that the reign of musical comedy has come to an end. "Red Feather" is the result of the combined labors of Reginald DeKoven and Charles Klein.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 20, 1906.

The voters of Somerset county will have to choose between two good men for the Assembly. The Democrats have named R. L. Stevens, of Bernards, a member of the old Jersey family of that name, and the Republicans have placed W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, in the field as his opponent. Mr. Stevens will be remembered as a recent candidate of the Democracy for congressional honors. He is a man of much refinement and of marked ability. His opponent, Mr. Smalley, is a good solid everyday business man, who, although not like his rival, "born to the purple," has earned a goodly share of the world's goods and the undivided respect of his neighbors where he has spent the best days of his life.

It is to be expected that John W. Murray, Jr., will get a rousing big vote for tax collector. Recognizing his fitness for the office and the impartial and satisfactory way he has discharged its duties during the short time he has served in that capacity, the Democrats very properly added their endorsement to the Republican nomination given the Third warder. Mr. Murray is the type of man needed for responsible positions and there is no more onorous office than that which he is destined to fill for some time to come.

If its Board of Excise keeps up its good work, Elizabeth's saloons are destined to be as well regulated as those of Plainfield. It is proposed now to compel the saloonkeepers there to close their places between the hours of midnight and 5 o'clock in the morning. For some years, an ordinance has been in effect here, prohibiting the sale of liquor between 11 o'clock at night and 6 o'clock in the morning; and the best part of it is that the regulation is rigorously enforced.

Insurance is a mighty good investment, but the flood of printed literature sent out by the multitude of committees fighting to control the companies is enough to hasten the death of the man who pays the premiums.

It is moved and seconded that the City Clerk cast a ballot for Charles J. Fisk for mayor. Vox Populi has it and it is so ordered.

Investigate N. Y. Magistrate.

New York, Oct. 20.—That a city Magistrate, sitting daily in the police courts, under solemn oath to deal out even-handed justice, and paid to do so, discharged a prisoner against whom a serious charge was pending, and did so on the receipt of $1,000, is the accusation which was brought before the Grand Jury for investigation by District Attorney Jerome yesterday. The Magistrate is not named in the formal charge, the inquiry being conducted under the "John Doe" guise. Bad checks are also mentioned in the case.

European Foe of S. O.

Bremen, Oct. 20.—The European Petroleum Union, which has been organized here to fight the Standard Oil Company, has an initial capital of $5,000,000. It is backed by the Rothschild company and Nobel Brothers, both Russian concerns; the Deutsche Bank, and other petroleum interests. The union is designated as a selling agency. The existing selling agencies in the various countries of Europe will be amalgamated and reorganized as sub-companies of the union.

Ruined By Divorce Chase.

New York, Oct. 20.—Ruined, friends say, by a long pursuit of his wife, who fled to Europe with her child as he began divorce proceedings, Francis S. Wilson, an actor, yesterday filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. The schedule entered in the United States District Court by his attorney, John J. Little, shows liabilities of $2,567, with assets of $111.

By Tom Muir.

The production of "Cymbeline," in which Miss Viola Allen appears at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, comprises fourteen scenes, some of them the heaviest from a scenic standpoint that have ever been placed on the road. To handle them properly, the company carries eight men and the house management is required to furnish seven more. The effects are to be shipped direct from Plainfield to the New Astor theatre, New York, where Miss Allen begins a long engagement Monday night.

Arnold Daly, the producer of George Bernard Shaw's plays and who was seen in two of them in this city, last season, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in New York, yesterday. He places his liabilities at $11,821 and mentions assets of $400. Shaw lost heavily by the suppression of "Mrs. Warren's Profession," which the New York police stopped after the first performance and his affairs got tangled through disagreements with managers. The plays he presented here were "Candida" and "You Never Can Tell."

Chris Sorenson, of this city, who is assistant manager of Arthur Pryor's band, was sitting in a hotel office at Pana, Ill., a few days ago, when he received a terrific slap on his off shoulder and a salutation of "Hello, Plainfield," that sounded like a thunder clap from a clear sky. When he had collected his scattered senses sufficiently to look around he was greeted by the smiling face of "Bob" Fitzsimmons, whose road tour in "A Fight for Love" had led him to the same city. The hotel habitues then and there heard all about Plainfield and there are some of them who think it's the greatest burg this side of the Mississippi—at least that's what "Fitz" says in a letter. He states that he put the "salve" on in three inch layers and nobody need be surprised if some Panic has pull up stakes and hike toward New Jersey.

Louise Dresser, who plays the Gibson girl in Lew Fields' "About Town" at the Herald Square theatre, New York, tells a good joke she had a few days ago on a curious actor-idolator. Miss Dresser had been standing in front of the theatre talking with Mr. Fields, and, as she started for the theatre door to get ready for the performance, she was suddenly stopped by a strong clutching of her arm. Turning quickly, a little woman, wild-eyed and staring, met her gaze as she listened to a rambling apology for being thus stopped. "Tell me," Miss Dresser finally caught from the jumble of words, "was that the celebrated Lew Fields?" The opportunity was too good and Miss Dresser, who is always a joker, could not resist the temptation. Assuming a seriously impressive and dramatic pose and with resonant intonation she answered: "Yes, and I'm Sarah Bernhardt," and it was all she could do to keep a straight face before the look of admiration and awe that came over her diminutive questioner.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE A LOCAL ORCHESTRA.

Preliminary Meeting and Rehearsal in G. A. R. Hall Last Night.

Preliminary steps were taken last night by B. A. Paroubek and Louis Clauss to organize a local amateur orchestra to be known as the Plainfield Philharmonic. A combined meeting and rehearsal was held in G. A. R. hall and it was attended by a gratifying number of musicians. Among them was a good-sized delegation from the Elizabeth Philharmonic which has taken an interest in the movement.

The rehearsal was in every way satisfactory to the promoters and they feel greatly encouraged by the start. The orchestra will be made one of the best that has yet been seen in the city and it is the plan of Mr. Paroubek and Mr. Clauss to give a series of high class concerts. Both are skilled musicians and those who join are to be given the benefit of their experience. More members are needed and those who are interested are invited to attend the next meeting and rehearsal to be held at G. A. R. hall next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

AUTO KILLS FARMER'S WIFE.

Son of Bernardsville Physician's Driver Is Responsible.

Newton, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Henry Kays, the wife of a farmer near here, was instantly killed in an automobile accident Thursday. She was driving from Branchville to this place with her young daughter in a light wagon, when at a sharp turn in the road an automobile, driven by Frank Allen, son of a wealthy physician, at Bernardsville, struck her vehicle squarely. Mrs. Kays was thrown to one side of the road and her daughter to the other.

Allen saw that the woman was badly injured, but that the child was not much hurt. He hurried them to a drug store in Branchville, but was told when he arrived there that the woman was dead. Witnesses of the accident say that Allen did not heed a danger signal at the turn in the road put up by the highway commissioners to prevent such accidents.

FIRE INSURANCE CO.'S HONOR LIST.

Forty-one Which Promptly Paid 'Frisco Losses in Full, So Classified.

New York, Oct. 20.—The Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco has not yet completed its investigation into the insurance situation there, but enough is known now to make a classification of the fire insurance companies with respect to payment and non-payment of losses due to fires from the earthquake.

Interest in the settlement of these losses is widespread, and inquiries on the subject have been pouring into the newspaper offices, banks and business houses there for months. Sufficient evidence is now at hand to supply a partial estimate of the companies which held risk in San Francisco, but the Chamber of Commerce profers to wait until the whole investigation is complete before making any statement. It is known, however, that but forty-one companies out of the entire list have paid their losses with anything like promptness.

At the top of the roll of merit are put the Etna of Hartford, and the Liverpool and London and Globe. The American of Newark is given a prominent place.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST" etc

COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

XVI.

A GENTEEL "HOLD-UP."

In my childhood at home, my father was often away for a week or longer, working or looking for work. My mother had a notion that a boy should be punished only by his father; so, whenever she caught me in what she regarded as a serious transgression, she used to say: "You will get a good whipping for this, when your father comes home." At first I used to wait passively, suffering the torments of ten thrashings before the "good whipping" came to pass. But soon my mind began to employ the interval more profitably. I would scheme to escape execution of sentence; and, though my mother was a determined woman, many's the time I contrived to change her mind. I am not recommending to parents the system of delay in execution of sentence; but I must say that in my case it was responsible for an invaluable discipline. For example, the textile tangle.

I knew I was in all human probability doomed to go down before the stock exchange had been open an hour the next morning. All textile stocks must start many points higher than they had been at the close, must go steadily and swiftly up. Entangled as my enemies' resources were in the coal deal, I should have no chance to cover my shorts on any terms less than the loss of all I had. At most, I could hope only to save myself from criminal bankruptcy.

There was no signal of distress in my voice as I telephoned Corey, president of the Interstate Trust company, to stay at his office until I came; there was no signal of distress in my manner as I sallied forth and went down to the Power Trust building; nor did I show or suggest that I had heard the "shot-at-sunrise" sentence, as I strode into Roebuck's presence and greeted him. I was assuming, by way of precaution, that some rumor about me either had reached him or would soon reach him. I knew he had an eye in every secret of finance and industry, and, while I believed my secret was wholly my own, I had too much at stake with him to bank on that, when I could, as I thought, so easily reassure him.

"I've come to suggest, Mr. Roebuck," said I, "that you let my house—Blacklock and company—announce the coal reorganization plan. It would give me a great lift, and Melville and his bank don't need prestige. My daily letters to the public on investments have, as you know, got me a big following that would help me make the flotation an even bigger success than it's bound to be, no matter who announces it and invites subscriptions."

As I thus proposed that I be in a jiffy caught up from the extremely humble level of reputed bucket-shop dealer into the highest heaven of high finance, that I be made the official spokesman of the financial gods, his expression was so ludicrous that I almost lost my gravity. I suspect, for a moment he thought I had gone mad. His manner, when he recovered himself sufficiently to speak, was certainly not unlike what it would have been had he found himself alone before a dangerous lunatic who was armed with a bomb.

"You know how anxious I am to help you, to further your interests, Matthew," said he wheedlingly. "I know no man who has a brighter future. But—not so fast, not so fast, young man. Of course, you will appear as one of the reorganizing committee—but we could not afford to have the announcement come through any less strong and old established house than the National Industrial bank."

"At least, you can make me joint announcer with them," I urged.

"Perhaps — yes — possibly — we'll see," said he soothingly. "There is plenty of time."

"Plenty of time," I assented, as if quite content. "I only wanted to put the matter before you." And I arose to go.

"Have you heard the news of textile common?" he asked.

"Yes," said I carelessly. Then, all in an instant, a plan took shape in my mind. "I own a good deal of the stock, and I must say, I don't like this raise."

"Why?" he inquired.

"Because I'm sure it's a stock-jobbing scheme," replied I boldly. "I know the dividend wasn't earned. I don't like that sort of thing, Mr. Roebuck. Not because it's unlawful—the laws are so clumsy that a practical man often must disregard them. But because it is tampering with the reputation and the stability of a great enterprise for the sake of a few millions of dishonest profit. I'm surprised at Langdon."

"I hope you're wrong, Matthew," was Roebuck's only comment. He questioned me no further, and I went away, confident that, when the crash came in the morning, if comes it must, there would be no more astonished man in Wall street than Henry J. Roebuck. How he must have laughed; or, rather, would have laughed, if his sort of human hyena expressed its emotions in the human way.

From him, straight to my lawyers, Whitehouse & Fisher, in the Mills building.

"I want you to send for the newspaper reporters at once," said I to Fisher, "and tell them that in my behalf you are going to apply for an injunction against the textile trust, forbidding them to take any further steps toward that increase of dividend. Tell them I, as a large stockholder, and representing a group of large stockholders, purpose to stop the paying of unearned dividends."

Fisher knew how closely connected my house and the textile trust had been; but he showed, and probably felt no astonishment. He was too experienced in the ways of finance and financiers. It was a matter of indifference to him whether I was trying to assassinate my friend and ally, or was feinting at Langdon, to lure the public within reach so that we might, together, fall upon it and make a battue.

Not without some regret did I thus arrange to attack my friend in his absence. "Still," I reasoned, "his blunder in trusting some leaky person with his secret is the cause of my peril—and I'll not have to justify myself to him for trying to save myself." What effect my injunction would have I could not foresee. Certainly it could not save me from the loss of my fortune; but, possibly, it might check the upward course of the stock long enough to enable me to snatch myself from ruin, and to cling to firm ground until the coal deal drew me up to safety.

My next call was at the Interstate Trust company. I found Corey waiting for me in a most uneasy state of mind.

"Is there any truth in this story about you?" was the question he plumped at me.

"What story?" said I, and a hard fight I had to keep my confusion and alarm from the surface. For, apparently, my secret was out.

"That you're on the wrong side of the textile."

So it was out! "Some truth," I admitted, since denial would have been useless here. "And I've come to you for the money to tide me over."

He grew white, a sickly white, and into his eyes came a horrible, drowning look.

"I owe a lot to you, Matt," he pleaded. "But I've done you a great many favors, haven't I?"

"That you have, Bob," I cordially agreed. "But this isn't a favor. It's business."

"You mustn't ask it, Blacklock," he cried. "I've loaned you more money now than the law allows. And I can't let you have any more."

"Some one has been lying to you, and you've been believing him," said I. "When I say my request isn't a favor, but business, I mean it."

ASTOR THEATRE, NEW YORK.

Viola Allen as Imogen In "Cymbeline."

The second attraction at the new Astor theatre will be another splendid Shakespearan production by a woman star of unusual talent and prominence. Viola Allen, whose beautiful presentation of "Twelfth Night" and "The Winter's Tale" will be remembered as being among the most important Shakespearean productions of recent years, will make her first New York appearance as Imogen in "Cymbeline," Monday, October 22. The role of Imogen is one of the most lovely and least acted of the heroines of the great bard, and is said to exactly suit Miss Allen's talent which is peculiarly well suited to the portrayal of pure and womanly women. It is a character whose strength lies in its complex simplicity and appealing tenderness. Although such actresses as Mrs. Siddons, Adelaide Neilson and Helen Faucit have played this sweet and alluring role it has not been seen on the local stage for the last ten years. The production is said to be one of the most massive and beautiful Shakespearean revivals of the day. It was staged by Frank Vernon, the noted producer of classic dramas, and is pronounced historically correct even to the most minor detail. The scenery, of which there are twelve different sets, is from the studio of Emens and Unitt. The costumes are by Messrs. Van Horn and Madame Freisinger, and the incidental music is by Hamilton Clarke. The company is the largest and best with which Charles W. Allen has ever surrounded his star. Important parts are played by J. H. Gilmour, Sidney Herbert, C. Leslie Allen, Fuller Mellish, Jefferson Winter, Henry J. Hatfield, Myron Calice, Alison Skipworth and other players of note. There will be a Saturday matinee beginning at 2 o'clock.

Chauncey Olcott in New Play.

Chauncey Olcott, the popular comedian, will begin an engagement of two weeks at the New York theatre Monday evening, appearing as Richard Temple in his new Irish drama, "Eileen Asthore," a romantic play written for him by Theodore Burt Sayre. The scenes are laid in and about Dublin in 1804. The story concerns the fortunes of a warm-hearted, hot-headed young Irish gentleman, Richard Temple, who has squandered his fortune. Just as he is planning to enlist in Napoleon's army, he falls in love with Eileen O'Donnell, a dainty Irish maiden, decides not to go to the French war, determines to reform, and, after months of probation, regains his character and wins the girl of his choice. There are several other complications of romantic interest. The scenes of the play show Richard Temple's lodgings in Dublin, The Harp and Shamrock Inn near Dublin, and the picturesque grounds of Terrance O'Donnell, also near Dublin. During the performance Mr. Olcott will sing the following songs, written and composed by him for this play: "Day Dreams," "Wearers of the Green," "Olcott's Love Song" and "Eileen Asthore," which, in the Celtic language means "My Treasure." Augustus Pitou, the manager of Mr. Olcott, has given the production a magnificent mounting and surrounded the star with a very competent cast which includes Geo. A. Lessey, Richard J. Dillon, Arthur Jarrett, Daniel Jarrett, Charles Ogle, John Dunne, William Walters, Ned Reardon, George Brennan, Quincy C. Bass, Jr., Florence Lester, Mildred Beverly, William Keys, Gertrude D. Stanley and Olive McVine. Matinee performances will be presented Wednesday and Saturday during Mr. Olcott's stay at the New York theatre.

Little Hip.

"Little Hip," the baby elephant at the New York Hippodrome, climbed five flights of stairs one day last week to have tea with Edna Wallace Hopper and a number of her professional and social friends in her New York apartment. Among the distinguished guests was Sir Francis Otter, an English baronet visiting New York. "Little Hip" had his first highball from Sir Francis, and seemed to enjoy the after-effects. The baby elephant paid this visit to Mrs. Hopper in return for her kindness in christening him at the Hippodrome several weeks ago. The visit was not made without police interference, however, and the elephant was placed under arrest as he marched down Fifth avenue, on the ground that he was parading without license. When taken to the station house, "Little Hip" was released, as the desk sergeant said that he did not care to have an elephant on his hands. "Little Hip" arrived at the pink tea somewhat late, but, after climbing the five flights of stairs, he exhibited a healthy appetite for cake, popcorn, peanuts and highballs. It was noticed at the Hippodrome that night that the baby elephant went through his performance with great verve and enthusiasm, this exhilaration undoubtedly being due to his first fall from the water wagon.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith, of Brooklyn, have been visiting relatives here for several days.

ABBOTT AND BARROWS DEFEATED IN GOLF PLAY.

Partridge and Clow to Meet in Final Today for Intercollegiate Championship.

Yale boys will fight out the final of the Intercollegiate Golf Association at Garden City today. The two survivors are W. E. Clow, Jr., of Chicago, and Dwight Partridge, of Manhattan. Abbott and Knowles also had the final to themselves last year, the former winning, but Clow put both out yesterday, beating Knowles on the home green and Abbott on the nineteenth hole, narrow squeezes enough. Partridge snuffed out the last hopes of Harvard and Princeton, beating Briggs, by 3 and 2, and Dudley H. Barrows, by 1 up.

Abbott made only one poor shot on the long game on the seventh hole, but his putting was very bad. With normal putting he would have been about 5 up. Clow putted as well as Travis ever did, and with as good play with his cleek today it may be no cinch for Partridge, although the latter is a very good all around player and possesses the better tournament record.

In the match between Barrows and Patridge, the former showed a card of 89 and the latter an 88. Both players hail from the sheltered inland courses of Bedford and Plainfield, so that their card is not bad golf by any means.

In the second round of the championship, Dudley H. Barrows, Princeton, beat George Borup, Yale, by 4 up and 3 to play, and Robert Abbott, Yale, beat W. T. West, Princeton, 4 up and 3 to play. In the semi-final Partridge beat Barrows, 1 up, and Clow beat Abbott by 1 up in 19 holes. Today's final will be at thirty-six holes.

Girls' Basketball at P. H. S.

The try-out yesterday of the candidates for the girls' basketball team of the Plainfield High School resulted in the selection of the following: L. Andrews, jumping center; L. Line, side center; E. Crampton and B. Alpaugh, guards; B. Fleming and G. Moody, forwards. Miss Esther Crampton, business manager, says that this is only the temporary first team, and some changes will probably be made. The team is without a captain as the vote for a selection was a tie between Miss Esther Crampton and Miss Elizabeth Pound.

PISTOL IN LABOR FIGHT

Union Man Grazed by a Non-Union Man's Bullet.

SATURDAY NIGHT CLASH

One Non-Union Man Charged With Homicidal Assault, Two Others With Assault and Battery.

Gunplay, which has been threatening for several weeks, broke out in the conflict between the union men and the non-union men among the machinists, Saturday night. In a row between two union sympathizers and four non-union employes of the Scott Press Works on South avenue, Alexander G. Aitken, twenty-five years old, employed at the Watson & Stillman plant in Aldene, one of the union men, was slightly wounded in the left groin by a bullet alleged to have been fired by Eugene Wheeler, one of the Scott quartette. Wheeler was arrested after the shooting, and was remanded this morning, by Justice Mosher, for a hearing tomorrow morning.

Aitken and Jacobson clashed with Wheeler and his companion in front of Aleck Findlay's saloon on East Second street, at 9 o'clock. Jacobson, who is a special agent of the Machinists' Union, claims that the fight started with an attack on him by Charles Gordon and George A. Nelson, two of the non-union men. Wheeler, it is charged, came to the support of his companions, and the fight became general. The fourth non-union man was Frank W. Fenton.

A few minutes of tusseling was climaxed by three shots. One of the bullets struck Aitken in the groin, inflicting a flesh wound. He saw a revolver in Wheeler's hand, it is alleged, and closed with him, wrenching the weapon away.

Wheeler broke from the group and ran down the street. He turned up Park avenue, toward Front street, and ran into Chief of Police Kiely on the corner.

"I've been shot," he cried, and the chief opened a question box immediately. As soon as the chief caught the drift of Wheeler's story, he chased him into police headquarters and hustled to Second street. The row ended just before the Chief got to the scene, and the men scattered. Nelson and Fenton were caught on West Second street, near Park avenue. They were locked up as witnesses, and Gordon was added to the bag latter, at his boarding house, 440 West Sixth street. Aitken surrendered himself, and was put into the hands of Dr. C. B. Lurburrow, city physician. The bullet was found inside his trousers leg, to where it had glanced.

He was allowed to go after swearing out a complaint of assault with intent to kill against Wheeler. Gordon, Nelson and Fenton were released after a hearing before Mayor Buckle last night.

Wheeler was represented before Justice Mosher, this morning, by G. W. V. Moy. The lawyer demanded either an immediate hearing or the release of his client on bail. Chief Kiely was not ready to proceed with the State's case, and the court remanded the prisoner as he requested.

Mr. Moy repeated his demand for bail, but the justice said he did not believe he had authority to grant it. He took the request under advisement.

In a satement made to Chief Kiely, Wheeler declared that he drew a revolver in self-defence. He pleaded not guilty to the charge made by Aitken.

After the hearing, Jacobson swore out complaints of assault against Gordon and Nelson.

This is the second time within two weeks that a revolver has figured in a clash between union men and non-union men. Wheeler, it is said, was one of the men who was involved in the gunplay at Henry Windham's cafe. The trouble between the machinists grows out of strikes that the union is trying to maintain at the Scott Works and the Krom Machine Works. The management of both plants deny that there is a strike, and insist that the men were discharged.

Francis J. Blatz has been retained to represent the complainant in the shooting case.

DRUNKEN MEN CRUELLY ABUSE JADED HORSE

ANIMAL NEARLY DEAD WHEN PURSUING COP RESCUES IT.

The Westfield police telephoned Chief Kiely, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, that three men in a buggy, driving a jaded horse cruelly, had escaped them going in this direction. The Chief instructed Bicycle Policeman Higgins to lay for the trio and the officer hustled to Netherwood.

He spotted the men on South avenue near the city line. They answered his hail by lashing the horse. The animal made a desperate effort in response, and the muddy road way enabled it to pull away from the officer. Near Terrill road the man-and-am was in good shape and Higgins overhauled the tired animal. One of the trio jumped out and escaped but Higgins captured the other two.

Both men were drunk. The horse was nearly dead with exhaustion, and the wagon showed signs of terrific usage.

After driving the two men to the station house and locking them up, Higgins took the limping horse to George Cole's stable.

The two men gave their names as George Gay and Thomas Ball, of Newark. They claimed their companion was unknown to them and steadfastly refused to even guess at his name and habitation. They said they hired the horse in Newark 5 o'clock this morning, but the police believe they have been driving it since yesterday. It looked as if it had been abused, unfed and unhoused for a month. The prisoners will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

A LIVELY CLIMAX TO A CHURCH ROW.

Rev. Gideon M. Shott's Church Has a Stormy Session.

Dissensions has broken out in the Lyons Farms Baptist church as a result of differences dating back a long time and which culminated last night in a stormy congregational meeting. For two years, it is said, there have been two factions in the church, one of which was led by the pastor, Rev. Gideon M. Shott, formerly pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church.

A month ago Mr. Shott appointed a committee, consisting of Isaac Bedden, John Winans, C. C. Bailey, John Davidson, W. G. Muller and Taylor Jeffreys, to consider the standing of delinquent members and to report last night. The meeting was largely attended and the committee recommended that twenty members be deprived of the "right of fellowship" for a year, and in the event of their failing to pay their church dues by that time to be suspended.

The report caused an uproar and the faction opposing Mr. Shott charged that every one of the twenty members was arrayed against the pastor and that they were being discriminated against. Motion after motion was made, but each was lost sight of, it is said, in the heat of discussion.

Mr. Shott admits that angry words had been exchanged. He also says a good deal of the bad feeling was caused by his refusal to allow festivals in the church. But the origin of the trouble within the organization he adds, datss back many years. Mr. Shott declared the report of the committee was a fair one.

SQUIER RETURNS.

Missing Postal Clerk Back—No Explanation of Absence.

G. Elmer Squier, night distributing clerk at the post office, who mysteriously disappeared last Wednesday morning, returned yesterday and appeared at the post office last night. He met Clerk W. B. Sharp, but offered no explanation as to why he left town. Squier asked if Assistant Postmaster James A. Martin received a note that he left at the office when he went away, and was informed that he did not.

It is said that Squier stands in a position to receive a severe reprimand, and before he can return to work he must make amends to Postmaster Bird for absenting himself without leave. He will probably return to his old position in the near future. Postmaster Bird is at Delaware Water Gap with his wife and will not return to Plainfield for several days and nothing will probably be done in the postmaster's absence.

Martine On Two Tickets.

A separate nomination paper for James E. Martine, the Democratic congressional candidate, has been filed by the Independent Democracy. NO MORE VOTE BUYING Declaration of Candidates That Has Cast a Chill in Somerset County.

MR. STEVENS DECLINES!?

Rumored That Democratic Assembly Nominee Refuses to Run and Party is Without a Candidate.

The stringent law against bribery at elections passed by the last New Jersey Legislature, which makes a candidate or poll worker liable to two years imprisonment for even giving a box of cigars to influence a vote, has had a salutary effect on the fall campaign in Somerset county. It is conservatively estimated by politicians that two local candidates, both wealthy men, spent at least $10,000 each among the 10,000 voters in Somerset county in an attempt to secure the election in a heated campaign last fall.

The free use of money to secure the election of a candidate, while unlawful, has heretofore been openly countenanced by the executive committees of both parties, but it is rumored that Prosecutor John V. Reger will take a hand in enforcing the new law, irrespective of parties, in the present campaign.

A wave of reform has suddenly swept over the campaign orators on the stump. Allan G. Southwick, the Democratic candidate for Congress, in a speech before the county Democratic convention at Somerville last Friday denounced the system of bribery at elections and announced that he would not spend one dollar to secure his election, and if elected he would refuse to accept the office if it could be proved that any one else had paid a voter a dollar to cast a ballot for him.

W. W. Smalley, the Republican candidate for Assemblyman, in a speech before the Republican county convention held at Somerville, Saturday stated that he had no sought the nomination and was free from alliances and would refuse to spend money to secure his election. Ira W. Wood, the Republican candidate for Congress, and other prominent politicians also denounced bribery at elections in strong terms before the convention.

This wave of reform has had a remarkable effect on political aspirants and ward workers. Heretofore there have been a number of candidates clamoring for the nomination of Assemblyman. This year it has been a difficult matter for either the Republican or Democratic parties to get men to accept the nomination.

The county Democratic convention nominated Robert Livingston Stevens for Assemblyman. Stevens is a man of wealth who was a former candidate for Congress. He was not present at the convention, and it was stated by his friends that he would not accept the nomination. It is said that Mr. Stevens positively refuses to accept the nomination and the Democratic party is now without a candidate for Assemblyman.

The public announcement by candidates that no money will be used in the campaign has caused a chill to pass down the spinal columns of the ward workers and floating voters and there is no enthusiasm in the campaign.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING.

Bedminster Township to Have One Costing $23,000.

The Board of Education of Bedminster township, Somerset county, met at Bedminster on Saturday afternoon and issued a call for a special school meeting to be held at Larger Cross Roads on Saturday afternoon, November 10th, at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of voting on a proposition to erect a new school building at Peapack. The cost of the building will be $23,000. There will be four rooms on the first floor and two class rooms and an assembly room on the second floor. The assembly room will later be divided into two classrooms by means of a folding partition.

The Board expects to furnish the new building from the proceeds of the sale of the building now used. A lot was purchased last spring. The whole school plant will probably be worth $27,000.

Common Council Meets Tonight.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting tonight to receive bids for the construction of the south side sanitary sewer and to take action on the petitions of the policemen and firemen as to an increase in their salaries. It is likely that some other matters of importance will be considered, making it a busy session.

Rasores Club Meeting.

The Rasores Club will meet tomorrow morning with Mrs. W. W. Howland, 76 Rockview avenue.

IN MR. SQUIRES' MEMORY

Ministers and Laymen Pay Tribute to Founder of Hope Memorial Chapel.

DR. RICHARDS' LETTER

Rev. Dr. Zelie and Revs. L. R. Howard, F. D. Tildon and J. O. McKelvey and L. N. Lovell Speakers.

Hope chapel Sunday-school assembled as usual yesterday afternoon but instead of devoting the customary hour or more to the study of the Scriptural lesson, the time was spent in a service dedicated to the memory of Henry C. Squires. He who had been superintendent for eighteen years and whose sudden death last Monday cast a gloom over every member of the institution was spoken of again and again in words of tenderest praise by those who knew him, who had worked with him and realized as did no one else what a life of devotion his had been. His fidelity, his perseverance, his strength of character and his individual idea of Christianity were extolled in a manner that made the hearts of his people glad but brought keener realization of the loss that they had suffered.

Leander N. Lovell, who was formerly superintendent of Warren chapel and a co-worker of Mr. Squires for years, had charge of the service, and it was in a way as simple as the life of the departed official. On the platform were Dr. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel; Rev. F. D. Tildon, of Bethel chapel; Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel; Rev. H. J. Cochran, superintendent of the Crescent Avenue Sunday school; E. E. Parvin and A. W. Duxbury, who occupy the same office at Warren and Bethel chapels respectively, and Assistant Superintendent Ira W. Travell, of Hope. In the congregation were Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, Henry B. Newhall, S. H. Whitney, Major W. D. W. Miller and H. Otis Newman. The singing was led by Frederic H. Andrews, who was Mr. Squires assistant superintendent in the chapel's infancy, and Judge William N. Runyon presided at the piano.

Mr. Squires was always proud of Hope chapel's singing and for the first few months after the service began the hymns that he liked to hear were sung. Judge Runyon contributed a solo and prayer was offered by Mr. Tildon, after which Mr. McKelvey made the first address. He spoke as one who had weighed every word and had given utterance only to that which he knew to be so from personal knowledge, not from hearsay or observance from a distance.

The loss of Mr. Squires, he said, would not only be felt in his immediate family but in the large parish which includes the parent church and the three chapels. The work at Hope was always his foremost thought and though he knew the malady that caused his death was upon him, he kept at it with fortitude akin to heroism. He virtually died with "his harness on his back." Continuing the speaker declared that Mr. Squires had left something to Hope chapel—that great love of his which it always had enjoyed.

"You have a rich inheritage in many ways," said Mr. McKeyvey, "and may the heir—Hope chapel—prove worthy of its inheritance."

Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope, spoke in a similar vein and laid stress on the fact that Mr. Squires never let any obstacle interfere with his attendance at Hope. When at one time he was compelled to move to New York and lived there for a year, he came to Plainfield regularly every Sunday. He did so against the advice of friends as the journey served to aggrevate the heart trouble from which he suffered. But he was always happy serving Christ and this was the way in which he sought to do it. He brought the chapel through many dark periods, his perfect faith and confidence accomplishing what others thought was practically impossible. In closing Mr. Howard expressed the belief that if Mr. Squires could have left a message for Hope chapel it would have been "Believe in God and all will be well."

Previous to his address, Mr. Howard read two letters, one from Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, of New York; and the other from Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, Hope chapel's first pastor, now located at West Orange. Both regretted their inability to be present but expressed themselves in sympathetic and reminiscent tones in the communications. Dr. Richards' letter was as follows:

Lockport, N. Y.,
Oct. 18, 1906.

Mr. Howard:

Your telegram has just reached me. I should love to be with you at the memorial service at Hope chapel

JOHN W. KEAN CONFIDENT

United States Senator Says Union County Will Go Republican.

THE LIQUOR AGITATION

Sage of Ursino Does Not Believe Bishops' Bill Will Prove All-Important Factor.

United States Senator John Kean, in an interview Saturday, declared that the political situation in the State boded no ill for the Republican party, and so far as he could see the party would be victorious this year in the same measure at it has been in the past. He said that he did not consider the Bishops' bill the foremost issue in the State and expressed himself as being of the opinion that the Independent ticket in Essex was in the main brought into the limelight by Prohibitionists, and while it might have a tendency to take votes from the Republican candidates, would not prove an important factor in the campaign. He predicted a comfortable victory for the Republican ticket in Union county.

Senator Kean was approached by a newspaper man. "What do you think of the present political situation in the State, and what are the Republican chances for success?" he was asked.

"Well," replied the Senator, "I could tell you much better at a little later date."

"But what is the outlook at the present time?"

"The situation is improving, and, to my knowledge, the chances of Republican victory in the State are just as good this year as they have been in the past."

"Do you think that the Bishops' law has materially injured the Republican party and that it will affect the party's chances of success at the polls this election?" was asked.

"No," replied the Senator.

"Then you do not think that the Bishops' bill is the foremost issue in the campaign, and that the success of the Republican party depends materially upon how they regard the issue?"

"No, I do not consider the Bishops' bill by any means the all-important issue."

When asked whether he thought the Colby movement was a thing of the past or whether there was still some chance of the "New Idea" movement winning out, the Senator smiled and asked his interviewer just what he thought of it. When the newspaper man said that it did not look as if the Colby movement would really pan out successfully for a few years at least, Senator Kean nodded his head and said, "Well, that's it."

"What do you think of the situation in our own county?" the Senator was asked.

"Union will go Republican," he said. "The Republican Assemblymen will all be elected."

Senator Kean was asked whether he thought that the passage of the Perkins and the Avis bills had settled permanently the question of railroad taxation in the State, to which he replied in the negative. He intimated that there was a probability of the local boards of assessors being given the power to tax railroad main stem property at local rates and that a law to this effect might be enacted in a short while.

Miss Ida M. Tier Surprised.

Miss Ida May Tier was given a delightful surprise at her home in Bank place, Saturday night. It was planned by the family to have Miss Tier remain away from home for the day, and in the meantime the house was elaborately decorated with autumn leaves and Japanese lanterns. The affair was a unique one. The guests were masked and appeared in Japanese costumes. At midnight supper was served, covers being laid for thirty. There were guests from New York, Brooklyn, Montclair, Fanwood and this city.

Attended Health Conference.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow, of the Board of Health, returned on Saturday from Trenton, where he attended a conference of the State and local Boards of Health. Andrew E. Kenney represented the Borough Board of Health at the conference.

O'Loughlin and Morgan Paired.

In the golf tournament at the Forest Hill Golf Club on Wednesday, "Marty" O'Loughlin, the "pro" from the Plainfield Country Club, and C. B. Morgan, an amateur of the same club, will be paired in a match tournament.

VIOLA ALLEN PORTRAYS SHAKESPEARE'S "IMOGEN"

GIFTED ACTRESS AT HER BEST IN THE DIFFICULT ROLE.

Charles W. Allen's new production of "Cymbeline" with Miss Viola Allen in the role of "Imogen," held the boards at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday night, and drew a large gathering of Shakespearean lovers, the second of the week. Artistically it went far beyond anything that has been seen at the playhouse since its opening and the work of Miss Allen and her company established a local standard that will remain for many days to come.

Although the drama was introduced in 1633 and presented repeatedly when Shakespearean productions were the rule rather than the exception, few stars have essayed the part of "Imogen" in America during the past fifty years. The last was Adelaide Neilson, who appeared in New York shortly before her death in Paris. The action calls for the barbaric splendor of the early Britons contrasted with the luxury and elegance of the patrician Romans twenty-five years after the Roman invasion of Britain and has given the stage managers opportunity for remarkably picturesque settings. There are in all fourteen massive scenic sets and for the Allen production there is an unusual entire act drop. The costuming has been done with accuracy in mind.

Those who had seen Miss Allen last season in "The Toast of the Town" and also at various times in "The Christian" and "The Eternal City" were enabled to note the capabilities of this most accomplished actress. She imparted to the role of "Imogen" the combined grace, delicacy of conception and womanly tenderness that are so necessary for the proper intrepretation of this most exacting of Shakespearean heroines. Miss Allen is still a young woman and when the occasion demanded, she gave to her lines the fire and enthusiasm that have stamped her as an artiste of the first rank and confirmed the fact that she has a role well suited to her temperament and talent.

Miss Allen's supporting company is the best she has ever been given and includes such well known players as J. H. Gilmour, Sidney Herbert, C. Leslie Allen, Fuller Mellish, Jefferson Winter, Margaret Montrose and Ivia Denton. The productions, exactly at it was seen here, opens tonight at the New Astor theatre, New York, for a long run.

DR. H. K. CARROLL GIVES TALK ON SAN FRANCISCO.

Postpones His Scheduled Address, However, at Grace M. E. Church.

Owing to the severe storm yesterday morning, Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, who was to have given a talk at Grace M. E. church, on "The San Francisco Horror and the Mission Work on the Pacific Coast," postponed it until some Sunday early in November.

Dr. Carroll gave a brief talk, however, on his trip to the Pacific Coast. Being the missionary secretary for the Methodist Episcopal church, he was sent west to inquire into the true conditions of affairs, and he spent two months there.

While all of the Methodist churches were destroyed during the earthquake and fire, Dr. Carrol said, it is surprising to see how the members are rallying, and how grateful they are for all the aid given to them by the Methodists of the east. They are now doing all in their power, he declared, to rebuild their houses of worship and are meeting with success. Dr. Carroll said that those who have not visited California have no idea of the conditions. He said it is almost beyond description.

He also spoke briefly of the M. E. conferences held in Montana, California and Washington, which he attended, telling of the great progress in missionary enterprise throughout the country.

Former Plainfield Pastors to Speak.

Anniversary week at the Scotch Presbyterian church, New York, began yesterday, and during the week the services will be shared by two pastors formerly of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of this city. Rev. Dr. John C. Bliss will speak on Wednesday evening at the anniversary of the prayer meeting and Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, moderator of the Presbytery of New York, will be among the speakers Friday evening, when many representations of societies and institutions will be present.

Grand Regent Will Be Here.

The grand regent and other officers will pay an official visit to Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, Thursday night. It is hoped that there will be a representative gathering. The grand regent will distribute souvenirs of the occasion.

NOTED INVENTOR DEAD

Friederich Schreiner Developed the Manufacture of Stereotyping Machinery.

HAD MANY PATENTS

Was Associated for Years With Potter Press Works But Recently Erected His Own Plant in the East End.

Following an illness of one month with bronichial pneumonia, Friederich Schreiner, of West Sixth street, died at his home last night. He had been a resident of this city for the past sixteen years and was widely known.

Mr. Schreiner was born in Germany fifty-four years ago and came to this country when a young man. He located in Philadelphia and took up the manufacture of printing press supplies. Being of an inventive turn of mind he devoted considerable attention to stereotyping and soon patented some valuable labor-saving devices and improvements over the old style of machinery. Later he developed the stereotyping process to such an extent that he became known both in America and Europe as an expert in this line.

On coming to Plainfield, he entered into a partnership with the Potter Press Company and was there a number of years before attempting for himself. He recently built a plant for the manufacture of his patents at North avenue and Berckman street, where the business rapidly increased. It required so much of his time that he found it necessary to form a partnership with David Huston, of Louisville, Ky., who travels for the firm.

Mr. Schreiner has also been widely known in manufacturing circles as the first man to make a success of the cold stereotyping process. His inventions enjoyed a wide sale both at home and abroad and are used by the foremost papers in America. His latest invention was a stereotype pressing machine, which is made at the Potter Press Works, and which Mr. Huston has been introducing among the big printing plants of the country. He was a member of the German Reformed church.

There are surviving a wife and two sons, Berthold J. Schreiner, the druggist, and Robert Schreiner, who is head clerk at L. W. Randolph's pharmacy. The funeral will be held at the late home, Sixth and Division streets, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

NEW MARKET'S OLDEST RESIDENT PASSES AWAY.

Mrs. Arza Coon, Aged Ninety Years, Succumbs To General Debility.

Mrs. Arza Coon, aged 90 years, about the oldest resident of New Market, died yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dunham, where she resided for several years. She had been in very feeble health for a long time and this with her advanced age caused her death.

Mrs. Coon formerly lived at De-Ruyter, N. Y., where her late husband was for many years a deacon in the Seventh-Day Baptist church. Her daughter was a wife of the Rev. L. E. Livermore, formerly pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Nek Market, and died during her husband's pastorate. Mrs. Coon was a faithful and regular attendant of the Seventh-Day Baptist church and during her younger years was very active in the church.

The funeral will be held from the home of Mrs. Dunham, New Market, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. N. H. Jordan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church there, will be in charge.

Special Preparation for Revival.

Special religious services will be held at the First Baptist church tonight, Wednesday and Friday nights, to make preparation for the coming of Rev. Dr. Wharton, the evangelist, who will begin his services on Sunday morning. There will be special music and congregational singing from a new revival hymn book and at the meetings this week these books will be used to acquaint the people with the hymns. There will be a large chorus choir during the revival. The people of Plainfield generally are invited to attend these meetings and will be made welcome.

Reduction in Trolley Fares.

Now that a straight five-cent fare is soon to be established between Bound Brook and Somerville, instead of ten cents as at present, there is some talk of the company making the fare between Plainfield and Bound Brook five cents. This would be reasonable as the company will carry a passenger from any point in Dunellen to Westfield for a five cent fare. It is argued that ten cents is too much to ask for a ride from this city to Bound Brook.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Way Down East" will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday afternoon and night. It is a delightful play of New England life and will be presented as heretofore under the stage direction of Joseph R. Grismer, who is certainly a master of stagecraft. The scenic effects will be very beautiful and elaborate. The farm pictures in the snow storm scene lend themselves well to stage realism. The company is said to have been selected carefully for their individual parts. It began its present season in New York city at the Academy of Music, where it remained for ten weeks, playing to an aggregate of over $100,000. Considering this is the tenth season of its life, and the 600 to 680th performance in New York city alone, the hold it has upon the public is truely remarkable.

"Queen of the Convicts" is a title that implies much. Theodore Kremer, the author noted on both continents for his prolific pen and never failing ability to thrill, promises to create the sensation of his career in his latest play by the above named title. As is his custom, he has once again chosen actual events in preference to fiction for his theme. The Servian Revolution, starting with the attempt to seize the throne of Servia, success of which was only attained after many exciting events, furnished him food for this, his latest work. Being a historical fact, this production will appeal to many as an educational lesson told in a delightfully interesting manner. This attraction will hold the boards at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night. It is needless to say that P. H. Sullivan has provided his star with a gorgeous production, novel electrical effects, and a strong acting company.

"Red Feather," the romantic comic opera in two acts by Reginald DeKoven, with libretto by Charles Klein, of "Music Master" and "Lion and the Mouse" fame, and lyrics by Charles Emerson Cook, will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. The scenery, costumes and special effects cost Florentz Ziegfeld about $72,000, therefore its splendor is unquestioned. Jos. M. Gaites has furnished a strong company, with the well known prima donna, Cheridah Simpson, at the head of it, and a big and attractive chorus behind her. The tremendous vogue that the opera has attained, however, is said to be due, in a large measure, to the musical score, which is in Mr. DeKoven's familiar and most pleasing vein. The soprano music is full of brilliant bits of melody and evidently of an ambitious character. Throughout the score there are effective choruses, of distinctly musical value, original tuneful, well orchestrated and ingenious.

Arthur E. Crone, assistant csahier at the City National Banl, who has been detained from work on account of eye trouble, is improving and hopes to return to his position within a short time.

Letters received from N. Douglass Drake, of the borough, who is in the Adirondacks, indicate that he is very much improved and gaining in weight. He will remain in the mountains for several months.

Mrs. F. W. Bailey, of Duer street, has returned from Bridgeton, where she has been visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Judson Pierson, widow of the late Rev. Judson Pierson. She also witnessed the marriage of her nephew, Judson Pierson, Jr.

—The Plainfield Operatic Association will hold a rehearsal of "The Chimes of Normandy," in the Camera Club rooms tonight. The company is making excellent progress and having little trouble in learning the score.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr., have been entertaining friends from out of town over Sunday.

A meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the class room of the Methodist church.

The inclement weather yesterday made the attendance at the church services very small.

Mrs. George Stiliger has returned from a week's stay with relatives and friends in Brooklyn.

There was no skating at Deegan's rink Saturday night. The bad weather no doubt kept those who enjoy the sport indoors.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held last night in the parlors of the church.

Miss Viola Allen, in "Cymbeline," at the New Plainfield theatre, was enjoyed by a number from here Saturday night.

The Township Committee has had a large triangle sign put up at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, warning automobile drivers that the corner is a dangerous one and to reduce speed. The sign can readily be seen and read coming either way on Park avenue or Front street. The spot has long been considered a dangerous one and several serious accidents have narrowly been averted by the quick action and cool headedness of one of the chauffeurs. The hotel hides the view of Front street by automobile drivers coming either way on Park avenue, and the sharp turn does not give a chauffeur much chance to avoid a collision unless they reduce speed. This many of the reckless ones neglect to do. The sign will at least act as a warning to those drivers who are not familiar with the road.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Miss Irene Day has recovered from a brief illness.

Mrs. Lydia Jacobs was ill for several days last week.

Thomas Bogue has returned to work after a two weeks' illness.

Mrs. Rachel Stelle, of Philadelphia, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Blackford.

Miss Alice S. Pierce has announced that she is prepared to do light tailoring, such as relining, pressing and mending. She was formerly a chief assistant to a well known and old established tailor of Plainfield.

Mrs. Henry Kroohs, who has been very ill, is slowly improving under Dr. Nelson's care.

Mr. and Mrs. Terence Quinn are entertaining the former's sister, Miss Bridget Quinn, who came here from Ireland a week ago. She will make her home here.

Mrs. Catherine Stein has sold her house in the village to G. G. Nelson, buying a new place in North Plainfield. The sale was made through Robert L. Pierce.

Miss Imogene Smith has been transferred from the South Plainfield school faculty to the one at New Market. She has the primary grade.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has completed the spur to the property recently purchased by C. E. Kelly for a lumber yard. The latter has been started.

Philip Smith visited the Hippodrome, New York, Saturday afternoon with a party of Plainfield friends.

The Young People's Society Club met at the home of the Misses Johnson Saturday night. They will have one more rehearsal—a dress rehearsal—at Marconnier chapel on Thursday evening. The entertainment will take place the following night. The proceeds are for the benefit of Marconnier chapel. It is to be hoped the entertainment will prove as great a success both socially and financially as when given here in Washington Hall for the benefit of the Baptist church. The fund for repairing the sheds has now reached about $100, which amount will insure the work being done in an entirely satisfactory manner.

Miss Grace Clark, of Grandview avenue, spent Sunday with friends at Orange.

Miss Mueller, of Buffalo, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Fred Ball, of Washington avenue.

Miss Ella Hedden, of West Fourth street, has returned from a visit with out of town friends.

The Lonely Life

The Tragic Confession of a Spinster, Who Realizes That No Fame or Wealth Can Compensate for the Solitude of Her Life.

In this article the author, whose name for obvious reasons we are not at liberty to disclose, drops for once the mask which she in common with other "Bachelor Maids," is accustomed to turn to the world.

Though no longer young, she frankly says she longs for the companionship of a husband and the care of children. The circumstances which have kept from her the happiness which these blessings bring are stated with the same directness which characterizes the whole article. It is the life-story of a "successful" woman, a drama of real life in which the last act is a tragedy.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Men's Club of the First Presbyterian church will meet in the chapel Wednesday night to elect officers.

The annual foreign missionary collection was put off for a week by the Congregational church yesterday morning.

Communion services with reception of members will be held at the Congregational church on Sunday morning, November 4.

The Girls' Mission Club of the Congregational church will meet in the church Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock and at 6:30 supper will be served.

The Women's Association of the Congregational church will hold its next sewing meeting on November 13, instead of November 6, as planned.

Rev. H. C. Ashley, pastor of the Mt. ZZion A. M. E. church, who was operated upon at the hospital several weeks ago, is steadily improving and hopes soon to return to his pulpit.

Members of the Congregational church will attend the annual meeting of the Philadelphia Branch and the Ladies' Home Missionary Union to be held at Upper Montclair November 17-18.

Because of the death of Superintendent H. C. Squires, the reception that was to have been tendered Rev. L. R. Howard, tomorrow night, has been postponed until Tuesday, November 27.

As a result of special meetings held in the Presbytery of Elizabeth in 1905 and 1906, there were total additions to the Presbyterian churches of 390 in 1905 and 735 this year. The total additions in all of the presbyteries of the State were 3,080 last year and 5,046 this year.

Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney, of this city, president emeritus of the Centenary Collegiate Institute, Hackettstown, preached an interesting and helpful sermon at the First M. E. church, yesterday morning, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea. Mr. McCrea occupied his pulpit in the evening.

PERSONAL.

Philip V. Van Arsdale, Brown '06, is attending the New York Law School.

Miss Nellie Brown, of Dunellen, has been spending a few days with relatives in town.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Besler, of North Plainfield, have gone west on a pleasure trip. They will make the journey in Mr. Besler's private car.

Mr. and Mrs. George Strathie and daughter, Miss Ella May Strathie, of this city, have returned from a visit with relatives at Bound Brook.

John Shotwell, of Shrewsbury, who came here to attend the funeral of Miss Catherine R. Webster, has returned after a few days' visit with friends.

Edward Neal, of West Front street, was among those who witnessed the Brown-Pennsylvania football game at Philadelphia on Saturday.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

Injuries have been fewer at Harvard than usual this season, with nothing to speak of in that line at Princeton and with not many and no serious injuries at Yale. There have been a pretty goodly number of injuries this season, however. There have been two deaths, but in a majority of the other accidents the injured ones were back in the game in a few days. At Harvard they don't know whether the decrease in injuries is due to the new rules or to chance, but it is believed there that the changed game has made the difference. What an unfeeling thing it was for Walter Camp to do to so frame the new rules that his son should be injured. But seriously Mr. Camp was only one of fourteen who framed the new rules and is neither responsible for all of their faults nor all of their virtues. On the subject of football fatalities the Cornell Sun prints the following: "The enemies of football point each year to the number of deaths attributable to this game as a main point of difference between this sport and the others. They do not seem to realize that other popular sports introduce the element of danger also and probably to as great a degree. For instance, the figures collected by the Brooklyn Citizen regarding the number of baseball deaths in the East alone this year would seem to indicate that baseball, contrary to the popular belief, is a far more dangerous pastime than football. Twelve baseball players were killed during the last season through actual participation in the game. Besides this number a dozen spectators were killed in falling off roofs or by some similar accident. This list is much larger than the Eastern football casualties of last year."

Bosey Reiter, the coach for the Wesleyan football eleven, is meeting with good success with his players this year and the chances are they will make a much better record than in several years. Bosey is one of the best coaches in the country and very popular with college men. He played on the Princeton 'varsity several years and was rated as a star quarterback.

Among the important college football teams this year, Plainfield will probably be represented at Brown by Arthur Denton, who has always had a fondness for athletics. Prior to the time he had typhoid fever he was never considered heavy enough for a 'varsity eleven, but since then he has taken on weight until he now tips the scales at 165. Denton went to Philadelphia with his team on Saturday to play Pennsylvania, and is now spending a day or two here before returning to Providence.

(Other sporting news on page eight).

Miss Ida Swackhamer and Mrs. Cornelia Backer, of this city, have returned from a visit with Miss Matie Swackhamer, of Whitehouse.

THE CANDIDATES.

For the information of the voter the list of Congressional candidates of the various parties in the Fifth, Fourth and Third districts is published:

Fifth District (Union, Warren and Morris counties—Charles N. Fowler (Rep.), James E. Martine (Dem.), Harry Vaughan (Pro.), George B. Whitesell (Soc.), James E. Martine (Ind. Democracy).

Fourth District (Hunterdon, Somerset and Mercer counties)—Ira W. Wood (Rep.), J. Allan Southwick (Dem.), William Lunger (Pro.), Upton Sinclair (Soc.), C. J. Wolff (Soc. Lab.)

Third District (Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean counties)—Benjamin F. Howell (Rep.), David Harvey, Jr., (Dem.), R. Bruce Crowell (Pro.), Frank Rapp (Soc.-Lab.)

The Assembly nominees follow:

Union county—Republican, R. S. Perkins, Peter Tillman and John R. Moxon; Democratic, H. C. Coulter, Joseph T. Hague and James E. Desmond.

Somerset county—Republican, W. W. Smalley; Democratic, R. L. Stevens.

Middlesex county — Republican, Frank Crowther, Wm. R. Drake, E. E. Haines; Democratic, Dr. Hugh Ramsey, Thomas Haggerty and Alfred Kerr.

GIVE THEM THEIR DUE.

No opposition is likely to be made on the part of the taxpayers to the proposed increase of pay for the policemen and firemen and if the Common Council takes favorable action tonight on the petitions filed, it is safe to say it will be carrying out the wishes of the community. The city employees in these two departments are poorly paid for the services they render and the hours they devote to the work. If the municipality desires the best sort of men as its servants, it must pay for them. This applies to the patrolmen and the firemen just as much as it applies to the tax collector or street commissioner. In their places the policeman and the fire laddie have proportionately as responsible positions as the men higher up, and proportionately they deserve just as much reward.

HEAR JOHN W. GRIGGS.

The voters should turn out en masse to hear the distinguished men who will make addresses at the Republican mass meeting to be held tomorrow night. Especially should they seize the opportunity to hear former Governor John W. Griggs, whom the lamented President McKinley made his Attorney-General. Mr. Griggs is a brilliant speaker whose arguments are both forceful and eloquent. In addition to his address there will be speeches by former Governor Voorhees and former Governor Murphy. The former is well known to the people of Plainfield and were he to be the sole attraction, it would be an evening well spent to hear him.

BOUND TO SHINE.

The Newark Morning Star shot into existence bright and early today. It's a one cent paper; independent in politics and sparkling with fresh and reliable news and brilliant comment. That it is destined to shine eternally is a sure thing for what better guarantee could there be than the name of James Martin, which graces the head of the editorial column?

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson, of Lincoln place, are the parents of a ten-pound boy who came to their home Friday. Mother and child are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander W. Scott, of Borough Park, Brooklyn, who have just returned from Wyoming, entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. Anderson, of this city, last week.

A SECRET SOCIETY IN CITY HIGH SCHOOL.

Alpha Gramma Kappa Is Organized by Some of the Pupils.

Heretofore in the history of the Plainfield High School, efforts have been made to organize fraternities which would stand the test of time and be of benefit to the pupils. Owing to the strenuous measures it is said taken by the principal and others in authority who disapproved of secret societies in preparatory schools no fraternity is known to have existed in the high school longer than four or five weeks.

Regardless of the proverbial warning that "history repeats itself," four pupils have formly established a fraternity known as the 'Alpha Gamma Kappa." Several meetings have already been held and these officers elected:

President, Guion H. Fountain; vice-president, Egbert H. Bogardus, Jr.; secretary, Fred D. Reed; treasurer, Clyde Doane. The officers declare the object of the fraternity to be secret, and the pupils are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the "Alpha Gamma Kappa."

CAREER QUITE CHANGED.

Otto Wolgang to Marry as Well as Enter New Business.

Otto Wolgang, who has been a barber here for fifteen years, has sold his shop on West Front street to Frank Caruso and Vincent Tozzi. Mr. Wolgang will go into the wholesale dry goods business in New York.

In connection with the announcement of the sale this morning came an interesting bit of information on Mr. Wolgang. He will be married next month to Miss Minnie Green, of Harlem, New York. His home will be in the metropolis.

Revival at Monroe Avenue Church.

Despite the very stormy weather there was a large congregation at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church last night to attend the first of a series of revival meetings. Rev. J. E. Roberson, the pastor, is in charge. He preached an eloquent sermon last night which was listened to with great interest. There was also special music by a quartette choir. These meetings will be held every night, except Saturday, until November 4. During the two weeks the Epworth House Library will be open Saturday evening instead of the customary time on Friday night.

Captain Hand's Narrow Escape.

George Endicott, the young son of Dr. Endicott, was driving an automobile on Park avenue, this morning, when Captain William Hand, riding a wheel, attempted to cross on Second street. Young Endicott saw a collision was inevitable and applied his emergency brake, lessening the power of his machine so that it stopped just as it struck the wheelman. Captain Hand was knocked over but the force was not sufficient to hurt him.

Louisa Mast.

Louisa Mast, daughter of the late Bernard Mast, died at her home on Watchung avenue, Saturday morning. Although ill for some months her health had improved greatly during the summer and her death came as a great shock to her friends. She had been a resident of this city but a short time. The funeral service will be private and interment will be made in the Lutheran cemetery, Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Sandford, Jr., of Second place, have just returned from a pleasure trip to Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maurer entertained Mr. and Mrs. Nighman and daughter, Miss Florence Nighman, of Jersey City, and Mrs. William Daltonbaugh, of Pittsburg, Pa., on Sunday.

Rev. Geraud Velthuysen, of Haarlem, Holland, who has been visiting in this country, will sail for home on Wednesday. Yesterday he preached at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, New Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Delvers, of Somerset street, are parents of a daughter, born to them Saturday night.

Mrs. A. E. Park, of West Sixth street, is visiting friends and relatives in the western part of New York State.

CHOIR ELEVENS TIED.

Playing an even game all the way, the Holy Cross Club eleven tied their rivals from East Orange, Saturday, 6 to 6. The game was played on Holy Cross field.

Play was snappy on both sides, the youngsters working hard, earnestly, and pluckily for every advantage. From the earnestness of the contest arose several squabbles over plays, but good sportsmanship prevailed and the small gales blew over harmlessly.

Holy Cross will go to East Orange for a return game on Election Day. The line-up:

USE PRESS WANT ADS

Sunday afternoon. But my own service at which I must be present comes at 4 o'clock.

It has been a great sorrow to me that I cannot be in Plainfield at this time. Today I think of the many friends meeting at the Crescent Avenue church, which Mr. Squires had served for many years as elder with the greatest fidelity. And on Sunday you will be gathering at the chapel; the chapel really grew out of his mind and heart. It was he who conceived the thought of moving down that little chapel which used to stand on East Fifth street. From the first he was put in charge of the Sunday-school which began to gather in that building. And from that day to this he has given himself to the service of Hope chapel with a completeness of devotion such as we have rarely seen in any department of Christian work.

It always seemed to me that the wisdom which he displayed in this work was no less remarkable than his devotion in it. I think he saw as deeply as any one that I have known into the principles which should govern us in our effort to reach the public who have been outside, and to make our religion serviceable in meeting all the various forms of human need.

I believe that the example of his patient experiment along those lines has been most instructive and helpful far beyond the limits of Plainfield or the State of New Jersey.

If I could have been with you on Sunday, I should have tried to express my sense of what we owe him; but I know that I should have failed to put it into words.

Except for other duties which I could not escape, I should certainly be with you. Very sincerely yours,

WILLIAM R. RICHARDS.

Mr. Newell knew of Mr. Squires' work at Hope probably as did not other of his assistants, as it was he who labored with him when the chapel had its hardest days. An inkling of what the late superintendent believed and accomplished was gained from the letter which Mr. Howard read as follows:

St. Cloud Parsonage,
Orange, N. J.,
October 20, 1906.

Dear Mr. Howard:

I am very sorry that I cannot join in the memorial service to do honor to the memory of Mr. Squires.

How can I express all that I feel about this great loss? It is because I have known Hope chapel so well that I appreciate the greatness of the loss. One purpose moved Mr. Squires—Hope chapel. It was his faith that moved the old chapel through the streets of Plainfield. It was his faith that tore down the old walls and built the additions. It was the faith of Mr. Squires that built the new chapel. He believed that the Hope chapel people could carry and pay the $2,000 mortgage.

The chapel stands free of debt today because the people did just what Mr. Squires believed they would do. "Memorial chapel" as a name, has a new significance today—it is a memorial of Mr. Squires' faith.

I must say a word about our superintendent's influence in this great Fourth ward. Other men have served longer in the Common Council than Mr. Squires did, but I doubt if any men has exercised a stronger influence for righteousness than he, during the past twenty years. His uncompromising stand against every form of evil was a tremendous power in this ward.

That the West End is so largely safeguarded against the saloon and other vicious influences is due in a great measure to his leadership among the hundreds of men with whom he came in contact, and whom he led in petition and active opposition against the inroads of harmful influences.

Mr. Squires believed in the bowling alley and the gymnasium but his great strength among us lay in his simple faith in the Gospel of Jesus Christ. He never dreamed that a gymnasium could sore a man or that freedom from saloons meant the regeneration of a community. These were means to an end—the great end of bringing men to Christ.

The man shone in his greatest power when he would gather the teachers about him and lay before them the burdens of his heart and ask they to pray. No one believed in prayer more sincerely than our superintendent—and no one will ever forget the teachers' prayer meetings.

You know how Mr. Squires' large sympathy made him the especial friend of the unfortunate, the forsaken, the despairing. How well I remember the meeting, in '93, during the panic when he called us together to devise means of helping each other in the hard times. Over $1,000 was placed at the disposal of Hope chapel for those hard days, all because of the confidence men had in the policies of Hope which Mr. Squires directed.

My own personal loss cannot be fully described. I cannot feel yet, that Mr. Squires is not in his old place. What his devotion to Hope chapel meant no one but the chapel minister can known. I thought I appreciated his singular consecration while it was my privilege to labor with him, but separation from such unsparing faithfulness has made my appreciation of it grow deeper.

May the benediction of this life rest upon us, calling us to a like faith and consecration.

Yours very sincerely,
G. K. NEWELL.

A third address was made by Dr. Zelie in which he declared that Mr. Squires' work at Hope chapel has enhanced the idea of Christian service everywhere. He never departed from this self-imposed task, the gaining of his livelihood was a small thing in comparison.

"We speak of it as a sacrifice," said Dr. Zelie, "but to him it was the great enjoyment of his life. Think of how many of the Beautitudes he could claim and you of Hope chapel can verify him. As his memory keeps coming back to you I want to give you a watch-word to go with it: Not as in my presence but in my absence also."

Judge Runyon sang another solo and the fourth and last address was made by Mr. Lovell. In it he referred to the taking away of three great workers for Crescent Avenue church and its chapels, Mr. Ginna, Mr. Cahoone and Mr. Squires. All had devoted their lives to the Master, he said, and were ready to go at His call. Their places in a measure had been filled but their memories lingered and were an inspiration to those who had been left behind to take up the work. Of Mr. Squires he spoke in the same loving terms as did those who preceded him and in closing he declared he would be with his beloved people in spirit as long as Hope chapel existed.

The congregation sang "How Firm a Foundation" and the benediction was pronounced by Pastor Howard.

DISCUSSION TO BE HAD ON STATE'S INSANE

PLAINFIELDERS TO ATTEND CONFERENCE OF CHARITIES AND CORRECTIONS

The regular quarterly conference of the New Jersey State Department of Charities and Corrections will be held in the Senate Chamber at the State house in Trenton next Thursday. Among the Plainfielders who will take a prominent part in the deliberations are Hugh F. Fox, president of the State Society of Charities and Corrections. Dr. George B. Wight, commissioner of charities and corrections, has announced this programme:

One—Reading of chapter 3[illegible] of the laws of 1906, which relate to the insane. Under this head these topics will be discussed: "How to Make the Law More Effective," and "Does the Law Meet All the Demands of the Case?"

Two—Is commitment to asylum hospitals so easy as to be open to abuse? Are not many so-called insane merely drunks? These two things will be discussed.

Classification in State institutions—

(a) As to defectives—Are they now in the proper institutions? Who classifies them now? Can there be a uniform rule of classification? What separations other than sex should be made?

(b) As to criminals in prison and reformatory—Ought they be separated in classes? How separated?

(c) As to neglected and incorrigible children—How may they be separated?

Four—Remarks upon our State institutions, their improvement and condition, by Mrs. E. E. Williamson.

Five—Report of committee on statistics, by Professor Johnstone.

Six—The parole system in New Jersey—Prison, reformatory, boys' home, girls' home.

Seven—The probation system.

Eight—The merit system.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

For the best of meats and poultry go to J. W. VanSickle, North avenue. Quick service.

There is no better meat market than the Grandview, Somerset street. The Grandview trade is the best, because its meats are best.

The vibration treatment at William B. Randolph's barber shop, Watchung avenue, is expertly administered. Unusually well equipped for tonsorial delights.

Charles Conover & Co., painters and decorators, of Elmwood place, are rushed with first-class work, showing that people know where to go when they want the best.

Smokers are finical. They want the best of cigars. They get them when they go to M. C. Dobbins, North avenue, and buy his Flor Fina, his Exquisite—solid Havanas—and the old reliable Figaro and Nickel Yara. All of Falk's fine pipe mixtures.

For hardware or builders' materials of any kind, stoves, kitchen utensils, cutlery, etc., go to the H. E. Gayle Hardware Company, and you will find these things at low prices. The firm buys only the best goods and you can make no mistake by dealing here.

Besides selling first-class fresh and salt meat, Roth & Co., of East Front street, is making a specialty of the best sausage, made from Jersey pork, and new salt mackerel. There is no use talking it certainly pays to trade with this firm. It always gives you full value for your money every time.

You can do just as well in buying clothing at M. Weinberger's store on West Front street as anywhere in New Jersey or New York. A glance through the large stock at this store will convince you of the merits of the goods, the style and the low prices. Men's furnishings carried in a large variety. Inspect these goods before going elsewhere and if you want a fine overcoat this is the place to get it.

ANNUAL MEETING DATES.

Plans Made for Agricultural Board and Horticultural Society Sessions.

Trenton, Oct. 22. — Secretary Franklin Dye, of the State Board of Agriculture, and Miss Mary W. The Horticultural Society will meet at the State house on January 3 and 4 and the State Board of Agriculture at the same place on January 16, 17 and 18. Boycott All Hebrews.

Odessa, Oct. 22.—The Union of True Russian Men, operating in conjunction with the Black Hundreds, has issued a proclamation to the people of Odessa, declaring that no mercy will be shown to the "rebel intellectuals" and calling on the people to maintain a rigorous general boycott on all Hebrews, in trade as well as in social relations. The proclamations insist that Hebrews must not be supplied with the necessaries of life and that their living thus being made impossible they will be compelled to leave the city in large numbers. The authorities did not interfere with the posting of these proclamations.

Train Kills Icelander.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE CO[illegible]etc

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

"I can't let you have any more," he repeated. "I can't!" And down came his fist in a weak-violent gesture.

I leaned forward and laid my hand strongly on his arm.

"In addition to the stock of this concern that I hold in my own name," said I, "I hold five shares in the name of a man whom nobody knows that I even know. If you don't let me have the money, that man goes to the district attorney with information that lands you in the penitentiary, that puts your company out of business and into bankruptcy before to-morrow noon. I saved you three years ago, and got you this job against just such an emergency as this, Bob Corey. And, by God, you'll toe the mark!"

"But we haven't done anything that every bank in town doesn't do every day—doesn't have to do. If we didn't lend money to dummy borrowers and over-certify accounts, our customers would go where they could get accommodations."

"That's true enough," said I. "But I'm in a position for the moment where I need my friends—and they've got to come to me. If I don't get the money from you, I'll get it elsewhere—but over the cliff with you and your bank! The laws you've been violating may be bad for the practical banking business, but the're mighty good for punishing ingratitude and treachery."

He sat there, yellow and pinched, and shivered every now and then. He made no reply.

Presently I shook his arm impatiently. His eyes met mine, and I fixed them.

"I'm going to pull through," said I. "But if I weren't, I'd see to it that you were protected. Come, what's your answer? Friend or traitor?"

"Can't you give me any security—any collateral?"

"No more than I took from you when I saved you as you were going down with the rest in the Dumont smash. My word—that's all. I borrow on the same terms you've given me before, the same you're giving four of your heaviest borrowers right now."

He winced as I thus reminded him how minute my knowledge was of the workings of his bank.

"I didn't think this of you, Matt," he whined. "I believed you above such hold-up methods."

"I suit my methods to the men I'm dealing with," was my answer. "These fellows are trying to push me off the life raft. I fight with every weapon I can lay hands on. And I know as well as you do that, if you get into serious trouble through this loan, at least five men we could both name would have to step in and save the bank and cover up the scandal. You'll blackmail them, just as you've blackmailed them before, and they you. Blackmail's a legitimate part of the game. Nobody appreciates that better than you." It was no time for the smug hypocrisies under which we people down town usually conduct our business—just as the desperadoes used to patrol the highways disguised as peaceful merchants.

"Send round in the morning and get the money," said he, putting on a resigned, hopeless look.

I laughed. "I'll feel easier if I take it now," I replied. "We'll fix up the notes and checks at once."

He reddened, but after a brief hesitation busied himself. When the papers were all made up and signed, and I had the certified checks in my pocket, I said: "Wait here, Bob, until the National industrial people call you up. I'll ask them to do it, so they can get your personal assurance that everything's all right. And I'll stop there until they tell me they've talked with you."

"But it's too late," he said. "You can't deposit to-day."

"I've made special arrangements with them," I replied.

His face betrayed him. I saw that at no stage of that proceeding had I been wiser than in shutting off his last chance to evade. What scheme he had in mind I don't know, and can't imagine. But he had thought out something, probably something foolish that would have given me trouble without saving him. A foolish man in a tight place is as foolish as ever, and Corey was a foolish man—only a fool commits crimes that put him in the power of others. The crimes of the really big captains of industry and generals of finance are of the kind that puts others in their power.

"Buck up, Corey," said I. "Do you think I'm the man to shut a friend in the hold of a sinking ship? Tell me, who told you I was short on textile?"

"One of my men," he slowly replied, as he braced himself together.

"Which one? Who?" I persisted. For I wanted to know just how far the news was likely to spread.

He seemed to be thinking out a lie.

"The truth!" I commanded. "I know it couldn't have been one of your men. Who was it? I'll not give you away."

"It was Tom Langdon," he finally said.

I checked an exclamation of amusement. I had been assuming that I had been betrayed by some one of those tiny mischances that so often throw the best plans into confusion.

"Tom Langdon," I said satirically. "It was he that warned you against me?"

"It was a friendly act," said Corey. "He and I are very intimate. And he doesn't know how close you and I are."

"Suggested that you call my loans, did he?" I went on.

"You mustn't blame him, Blacklock; really you mustn't," said Corey earnestly, for he was a pretty good friend to those he liked, as friendship goes in finance. "He happened to hear. You know the Langdons keep a sharp watch on operations in their stock. And he dropped in to warn me as a friend. You'd do the same thing in the same circumstances. He didn't say a word about my calling your loans. I—to be frank—I instantly thought of it myself. I intended to do it when you came, but"—a sickly smile—"you anticipated me."

"I understand," said I good-humoredly. "I don't blame him." And I didn't then.

After I had completed my business at the National Industrial, I went back to my office and gathered together the threads of my web of defense. Then I wrote and sent out to all my newspapers and all my agents a broadside against the management of the textile trust—it would be published in the morning, in good time for the opening of the stock exchange. Before the first quotation of textile could be made thousands on thousands of investors and speculators throughout the country would have read my letter, would be believing that Matthew Blacklock had detected the textile trust in a stock-jobbing swindle, and had promptly turned against it, preferring to keep faith with his customers and with the public. As I read over my pronunciamiento aloud before sending it out, I found in it a note of confidence that cheered me mightily. I'm even stronger than I thought," said I. And I felt stronger still as I went on to picture the thousands on thousands throughout the land rallying at my call to give battle.

MISS OAKLEY WINS SUIT.

Gets Liberal Judgment for $27,500 Against W. R. Hearst Paper.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22.—A jury in Judge Tuthill's division of the Circuit Court has rendered a verdict for $27,500 in favor of Mrs. Frank Butler, better known as Miss Annie Oakley, champion woman wing shot of the world, against the Chicago American, William R. Hearst's paper.

Miss Oakley on the stand declared that the paper had defamed her character in publishing a statement to the effect that she was addicted to the use of drugs, and that she had been convicted and sentenced to jail. The jury deliberated but a short time when it rendered the verdict. A number of newspapers published the libel and from nearly all of them Miss Oakley has recovered damages.

The article in which Miss Oakley was made the central figure by The American was published about three years ago, when a woman was arrested on a charge of vagrancy and theft. The American printed a picture of Miss Oakley and a story of her life, Miss Oakley immediately demanded a retraction, but it was not forthcoming. An investigation disclosed that the prisoner had been associated with Miss Oakley and travelled in the same company with her. She was an understudy.

Mrs. Butler resides at 22 Eppirt street, East Orange. She formerly lived in Nutley.

Wood, Tireless Worker.

Representative Ira W. Wood, of the Fourth Congressional District, is a tireless campaigner. He is quite a wonder to some of the veterans. He is a young politician, serving his first full term in the House, but seems to take as naturally to politics as a duck takes to water. He is not making a whirlwind campaign exactly, but is getting about over his district with a sort of still hunt effectiveness. He is a very suave gentleman, of winning manners, a good talker and a man of absolute purity of life. He is a fetching candidate, particularly with the farmers.—New York Herald.

Vegetarian Beet Dish.

Wash two beets and boil for one hour, or till tender.

Remove the skin and cut them in thin slices.

Peel a medium-sized onion, cut it in very thin slices and divide the slices into rings. Melt one tablespoonful of butter, fry the onion in it till cooked, add salt, pepper and a few drops of vinegar, also the slices of beets.

Allow the latter to become hot.

Put a border of mashed potatoes on a hot platter and serve the beets in the center.

Serve very hot.

FOOTBALL.

The match between the Metuchen and Dunellen elevens has been cancelled by the former.

Brown and Dartmouth will conclude their football season at Springfield the latter part of November. This is the great game that both teams work up to, as they are strong rivals. However, the odds are in favor of Dartmouth as that team is usually composed of big strong men who have come from the farm and are able to withstand a hard fight.

Capt. Wright, of the Springfield Training School eleven, has played against Yale this season and has seen Harvard play, and he thinks Harvard is the better team. "Harvard appears to me to be faster than Yale," he says. "The players get away well together and are very aggressive, more so than Yale. Harvard seems to know more football. She has a good centre, strong guards, weak tackles and a strong back field." Harvard is making heroic efforts to brace up the weak tackles. Blagden, tackle on the crack 1901 eleven, has been coaching them, and Cutts, the ineligible who played the other tackle on that star team, is coming all the way from Seattle to take the tackles in hand. Fred Crolius, the Villanova coach, declares that the Princetonians are playing more football than any eleven he has seen this year. He says they will loom up the strongest team of the year. Poor Yale! What chance has she?

California Poet the Guest of A. V. D. Honeyman.

Joaquin Miller, the Californiapoet, spent Sunday in the borough, visiting the family of A. V. D. Honeyman. He left for Boston this morning. Mr. Miller formerly was a frequent visitor to this region, but has not been East in a number of years. He says that he left home only because the outlook from his residence on Oakland Heights, is too desolate a scene; that the constant view of the devastation there made him heartsick.

It is said that Miller looks more like Santa Claus than any other man in America.

BURGLAR IN BOROUGH HOME.

Got $125 Worth of Loot from Servant's Room.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Barkalew, of Lincoln place, retired early last night, but were awakened shortly after 8 o'clock by the noise of someone passing down a rear stairway. They hurried to the head of the flight just in time to see a man make his escape by way of a door. An investigation was made and it was found that a burglar had visited a servant's room and stolen a gold locket, clothing and other things valued in all at $125. The servant was not home at the time.

The matter was reported to the borough police and they were quickly on the scene but so far have gained no clue to the identity of the intruder.

ST. MARY FAIR CLOSES.

Profits Will Exceed Any Yet Secured From a Similar Undertaking.

St. Mary's fair was brought to a close, Saturday night, in what might be termed "a blaze of glory." Before the end came, the booths had been stripped of all their possessions and the attention of the big crowd was devoted to piling up votes for the mayoralty and other contests. As a result, the net proceeds of the affair will exceed any that have yet been secured from an undertaking of this kind in the parish. An informal dance wound up the festivities.

On Friday night of this week, the winners of all the contests will be made known, when a "post-gathering" will be held in the school hall. At that time, those who have helped to make the fair such a great success, will be entertained.

GIVES FOWLER'S RECORD

J. E. Martine Cites How Many Times Opponent Voted and Spoke in Last Congress.

HE'S "A MERE CIPHER"

Democratic Candidate Declares People Want Bill of Particulars; Not Generalities.

The following communication has been received from James E. Martine, Democratic candidate for Congress, with a request for publication:

"Editor, The Daily Press:

"A good deal of discussion is going on regarding Mr. Charles N. Fowler's diligence and industry in Congress. I have said in my speeches that Mr. Fowler has been absent most of the time, and idle when present. Mr. Fowler's fuglemen say that he is a faithful, able representative and a great power for good. In order to get at the exact facts I have made examination of the Congressional Record from January 4, 1906, to the end of the session on June 30.

"First. During this period the roll was called (on a call for Ayes and Nays) 92 times. Mr. Fowler answered 18 times and was absent and not voting 74 times. These are not formal or perfunctory roll-calls to find whether a quorum is present; it is the highest and most solemn method of voting, so important that it is provided for by the constitution. Its object is to enable the citizens of the country, to know just how every representative votes on important matters. I emphasize this point because Mr. Fowler and his supporters have represented these roll-calls as something trivial and immaterial. On some of the absences (14 as nearly as I can tell) Mr. Fowler was paired with another absentee, but while this might have saved his vote it cannot mend his reputation, unless he was unavoidably absent. In the other cases he was not paired, and his vote was lost, and in some of them the question was decided by a small majority so that every vote was important.

"Second. These 92 roll-calls were held on 50 different days (several calls often coming on one day, and again several days might pass without a call). Mr. Fowler was present on 15 of these days and absent on 35. We must assume that he was absent from Washington, for if he was in or near the city could he possibly have ignored or dodged the constitutional duty owing to his country?

"Third. The session lasted about six months (omitting the three weeks in December which I have not examined) and if Mr. Fowler's general attendance was in the same proportion as his attendance at roll-calls, he was there about 5 days out of 180. If he disputes this conclusion then he must admit that he was less regular when about to be put on record by a roll-call than when he could sit in quiet obscurity. Which horn of the dilemma does he prefer?

"Fourth. The Record each day publishes the Washington residence of each representative. A blank follows Mr. Fowler's name (i. e. no address given) until January 30, and then for the first time his address is given as "The Shoreham." He was no novice in Washington; he needed no time to "get settled." This evidence tends to show that he did not even go to Washington to attend to his duties until the end of January, and this is supported by the fact that the first roll-call to which he answered was on January 24. If this is not correct, where did he reside and why was his residence not given in the Record?

"Fifth. What is his record as a speaker and debater? The index to the Record shows that he made three speeches during the last session. One was on April 16th when he spoke on a bill regulating the loans of National banks. His remarks fill less than half a column of print, and could be spoken in five minutes. His other two speeches I will give verbatim; they are models of oratory, combining brevity and consciousness in the highest degree. On February 8 he said: 'Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill Senate 2582,' and in reply to a question by another member he said, 'No, sir.' On May 21 he said: 'Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H. R. 13566) to amend sections 6 and 12 of the currency act approved March 14, 1906.' So far as the index shows these were the only occasions when our representative opened his lips in the last session, or sought by word of mouth to exert any influence on pending legislation. Many laws were passed, some of them of great importance—the debates were keen and able, the best men in Congress in an honest and patriotic spirit were glad to use their powers to criticise and perfect those laws. But Mr. Fowler was not among

WILL SMALLEY VOTE FOR JOHN F. DRYDEN?

THAT'S WHAT GEORGE T. ROGERS WANTS TO KNOW.

George T. Rogers, a prominent Republican in North Plainfield, has sent the following letter to W. W. Smalley, the Republican Assembly candidate in Somerset county:

"Mr. W. W. Smalley,
"Republican Candidate for Assembly, Somerset County,
"Bound Brook, New Jersey.
"Dear Sir:

"If the law provided for the election of United States Senator by popular vote, I would not cast mine for Mr. Dryden; neither will I knowingly support a candidate for Assembly who, if elected, will vote for Mr. Dryden for United States Senator. If publicly assured that you will not support Mr. Dryden, my vote will be for you; if not, it will be against you.

"I am sending a copy of this letter to the Plainfield press.

"Yours very truly,

MINOR MATTERS IN THE COMMON COUNCIL

ROUTINE BUSINESS AT ADJOURNED MEETING OF CITY FATHERS.

Among the minor matters considered at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, was a petition from Joseph T. Vail for permission to erect a dwelling at Putnam and Carlton avenues, partly of brick and partly of frame. Mr. Mellick, chairman of the fire and building committee, moved that the petition be granted, provided it met the approval of the building inspector as to details, and the motion prevailed. The petitions of Elston M. French and others for electric lights on George street, east of Leland avenue, and on East Second street, east of Leland avenue, were referred.

The $1,000 bond and petition of Charles H. Hand, offered in connection with his request to move a dwelling house in the Second ward, were presented. The bond was given to the city to indemnify it against damage while the house was being moved. The dwelling has been transferred and the bond was ordered returned. Mr. Hibbard presented a communication from Tax Collector J. W. Murray, Jr., in which he asked for help to distribute tax bills, and on Mr. Hibbard's resolution Mr. Murray was authorized to employ such assistance as he may need, the expense not to exceed $150.

Another communication was received from the Board of Assessors, in which the members asked for an increase in salary. They cited the fact that the new tax laws devised last winter by the Legislature imposed more arduous duties, which include the making of an extra tax book, while the new system of taxation requires a great deal more time. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Mr. Mellick reported back the petition of I. H. Boehm for permission to build a vestibule to the main entrance to his store on West Front street, and moved that it be refused. He said that the committee had decided that it would be unwise to grant permission for the erection of such a vestibule on the sidewalk.

CATHOLICS TO BUILD

South Plainfield Members of the Denomination Want a Church.

Energetic efforts to gather money enough for the erection of a church are being made by the Catholics of South Plainfield. They worship now in Washington Hall.

Plans are shaping for a fair to be held in aid of the project, and the prospects for its successful execution are very bright. There are many Catholics in South Plainfield and the surrounding country, and the church would be prosperous from the start.

MEN WHO OVERDROVE HORSE HEAVILY FINED

CITY JUDGE RUNYON SCORES THEM SEVERELY IN PASSING SENTENCE.

Swift punishment fell on the two Newark men who were arrested yesterday for driving an overworked horse to the point of exhaustion, in the city court this morning. The prisoners, Thomas Ball and George Gay, were fined $25, or 20 days in jail, apiece.

Chastened, subdued and sober, the pair presented an apologetic air when arraigned before Judge Runyon. They pleaded guilty and threw themselves on the mercy of the court. They said they hired the horse at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, in Newark, to go to a funeral. Somewhere along the road they filled themselves with exciting drinks and started for here under an imaginary stress to get a friend. They picked up a third man, who escaped Bicycle Policeman Higgins when he made the arrest yesterday, in Cranford, but the added load made no difference in the pace to which they forced the racked horse. They insisted that the escaped man was unknown to them by name.

Judge Runyon scored the men severely in passing sentence. He said they were little better than wife-beaters, and rated the latter as pure dogs.

Ball had a check for $25 and made arrangements to have it cashed. He said he would go to Newark and telegraph his companion's fine. David Cody, a Newark liveryman, telephoned confirmation of the pair's story of the hire of the rig this morning. He will send after it today.

DIME SAVINGS INSTITUTION LETS BUILDING CONTRACTS.

Concern To Remove to Temporary Quarters on Saturday.

The directors' building committee having charge of the remodelling of the Dime Savings Institution has decided on all the contracts, but those for carpenter work and furnishing.

J. J. Spurr & Sons, of Harrison, have received the contract for the stone work; William N. Pangborn, of the borough, that for the mason work; Woolston & Buckle for painting and A. M. Griffen for the heating. The Manganese Steel Safe Works will furnish the new vault.

The Dime Savings Institution will change its place of business on Saturday, moving to the building formerly occupied by The Plainfield Trust Company, and next week the work of remodelling the old building will be started. William F. Arnold, cashier of the City National Bank, is chairman of the building committee, and A. L. C. Marsh is the architect.

A BRITISH JAG.

Englishman With a French Name In the City Court.

John Journeau, an Englishman in spite of the Gallic termination to his name, was found by Patrolman Overbaugh on the street yesterday afternoon in a state of complete souse.

"I am an Englishman, your Honor," said the prisoner with dignity when arraigned this morning.

"Well, whatever you are, Journeau," said Judge Runyon, "you collected a good old American jag."

Journeau said he didn't know how it happened. He said he quit work last week to prepare to visit his mother in Southampton, England, and was all ready to go. The magistrate said he didn't want to interfere with a laudable trip like that. He suspended sentence and wished Journeau bon voyage.

Twenty Years for Dittmar.

One of the strongest murder trials on record in the Somerset county court, at Somerville, was that of William Dittmar yesterday for the murder of David Howard on June 10. Dittmar was convicted before he was actually tried, and after the conviction the court heard the testimony of nearly a score of witnesses to determine the punishment to be imposed, after which Dittmar was sentenced to twenty years at hard labor in the State prison.

Mr. Schreiner's Funeral.

Shaw, of the Seventh Day Baptist church, of which Mr. Schreiner was an attendant member, will officiate, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church.

SANITARY SEWER BIDS

Corporation Counsel to Decide Whether Montclair Man's Bid Should be Accepted.

NEWARK FIRM NEXT

Tusco's Bid May Be Irregular—Ingersoll-Rand Co. Bids On Pumping Station.

The most important business considered at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, was that in reference to the proposed building of the southside sanitary sewer, an addition to the present system, intended to cover a certain section which cannot be sewered by gravity. Contrary to expectations there were a number of bids, twelve in all, received for doing the work. Some concerns bid for the sewer work alone, others for installing the pumping station, while still others bid for the whole work. In several instances the Ingersoll-Rand Company figured in the bids for the pumping station, one bid being offered by the company, through its representative, Charles B. Morse, and in other instances the company's system was included in the bids offered by other contractors.

It was impossible last night to ascertain exactly the lowest bids, there being a question about the regularity of the lowest one offered by James J. Tusco, of Montclair. It will be submitted to the corporation counsel for a decision as to whether it should be accepted.

The next lowest bid was that of the Harrison Construction Company, of Newark, approximating $26,000, while the next lowest bid was that of Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., which was about $27,000. The exact figures will be determined today. The highest bids were ordered returned, pending the awarding of the contract.

The bidders were as follows: James J. Tusco, Montclair; Peter Morgan, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; E. A. Matthews, East Orange; The Ellis Company, New York; Antonio Costa, Orange; Harrison Construction Company, Newark; W. B. Travell, Plainfield; Callahan & Chamberlain, Elizabeth and Westfield; Sloan & Lutz, Newark; Ansonia Manufacturing Company, New York; Manolo & Klinberg, Newark, and the Ingersoll-Rand Company, New York.

The Ellis Company offered to put in the entire system for $5,000, and the bid of the Ansonia Manufacturing Company was $5,471.43 for the whole contract. The Ingersoll-Rand Company's bid for installing the pumping station was $4,671. It is said that the last named company's system will be adopted.

In connection with this matter, Mr. Gloak offered an ordinance which was read only for information, it being the intention of the Common Council to act on the same after a public hearing on Monday night, November 12. This ordinance provides for the appropriation of land necessary to establish a pumping station, and the land desired is that owned by Clifton & Campbell and located on Randolph road, south of Arlington avenue, adjoining the property of John Wierenga. It has a frontage of 250 feet, a depth of 500 feet and is twenty-five feet wide in the rear and runs to a point opposite the bridge crossing Cedar brook. The Common Council will give parties interested an opportunity to speak for or against the proposed ordinance at the meeting on November 12.

ANOTHER ENDORSEMENT.

State Typographical Union Supports J. E. Martine.

James E. Martine, Democratic candidate for Congress, was endorsed at a meeting of the New Jersey State Eight Hour Committee of the International Typographical Union, held Saturday afternoon at Orange. James E. Desmond, of Elizabeth, the Democratic candidate for Assembly, was also endorsed.

Martine was endorsed on Friday night by the Union County Trades Council at Elizabeth. A week previously he was endorsed by Plainfield Typographical Union.

Schoolboys' Dangerous Practise.

Trolley crews on the Arlington avenue and West Fourth street lines have entered protest to the division superintendent regarding the practice of schoolboys who steal rides on the cars. While the conductors are inside they catch hold of the rear platform, and are frequently unable to get off without risking life and limb. One boy a few days ago was thrown on his face and quite severely cut and bruised. The matter is to be taken up with the school authorities.

Francis M. Bacon, the well-known real estate broker, is seriously ill at his home at West Sixth and New streets.

STEVENS AND MARTINE TOUR UNION COUNTY

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES LEFT PLAINFIELD IN SWIFT AUTOMOBILE.

In company with Col. Stevens, of Hoboken, who seeks to be the Democratic choice for United States Senator, Farmer-Orator James E. Martine, Congressional nominee, spent some time about town this morning. At 10 o'clock the two aspirants left in an automobile for a tour of Union county. They will visit Cranford, Westfield, Rahway, Elizabeth and Summit during the day, returning here at night.

In an address to the voters, Col. Stevens says:

"I am laying special weight upon the importance of the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people, and, pending the Constitutional amendments necessary for this purpose, I am advocating the passage of such State laws as will give the voter in the primaries the opportunity of expressing his choice for this high office.

"I am also advocating the passage of such a Corrupt Practice Act as will effectually detect and punish bribery and corruption, whether at the primaries or polls, or when committed by any candidate or office-holder. I am also urging that such a law should contain provisions limiting the amount of money that a man may spend in so-called legitimate political expenses, to the end that every citizen, be he rich or poor, may have an equal opportunity to present his cause to the people. I am also insisting that such an act should contain a clause making it clear whose money is being used in any candidate's behalf.

"As an earnest of my intentions in this matter I have pledged myself not to spend any more money in this campaign than a relatively poor man might afford and to render an account of all money I may spend and, as far as I can ascertain it, of all money that may be spent in my behalf.

"Such a campaign cannot win unless it meets the approval of the people; without this approval none is entitled to win."

WHEELER AGAIN REMANDED.

Witnesses Wanted by Grand Jury So Hearing Went Off.

The hearing of Eugene Wheeler, charged with shooting Alexander G. Aithen, in a labor quarrel Saturday night, was again put off this morning. Two of the witnesses were subpoenaed before the Grand Jury today, and Justice Mosher laid over the examination until this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Wheeler was remanded without bail. Justice Mosher is convinced that he cannot allow bail on the charge preferred, and he has definitely refused Lawyer G. W. V. Moy's demand for it.

Chief Kiely said he did not know what the witnesses had been subpoenaed for. It is conjectured that they are wanted in connection with an investigation of the pistol-drawing episode in which S. W. Rushmore figured against alleged union pickets at the Krom Machine Works several weeks ago.

AMEDEO AND THE CHIEF.

Chianti, Some Liquid Syllables and An Official Umbrella.

Chief Kiely saw Amedeo Ciocci, who had absorbed fabulous quantities of Chianti and other Latin booze, misbehaving at Park avenue and Front street at 10 o'clock last night. He ordered Amedeo to desist, and Amedeo said sassy things in liquid syllables. The chief sleuth poked Amedeo with his umbrella and told him to dry up. Amedeo waxed sassier and shed liquid syllables in increased measure, whereupon the Chief turned him over to Patrolman McKeon.

Amedeo was humble and penitent when he appeared before Judge Runyon this morning. The Chief bore no ill-will, and the magistrate suspended sentence. Amedeo bowed to the Chief before he left, and assured him that his umbrella would ever be held in admiring remembrance.

Ida May Moore.

JAMES E. CHURCH IS A HUSTLING AGENT.

For Thirty-five Years He Was a Telegrapher and Station Agent.

"Good Housekeeping," in illustrated monthly magazine, is represented by James E. Church, of 243 Somerset street. He moved to North Plainfield from Hackensack about eighteen months ago, where for thirty-five years he was a well-known resident, telegraph operator, station agent and real estate broker.

Mr. Church began his work for "Good Housekeeping" in Hackensack in the spring of 1902. After making a successful canvass of his home town he was induced to take a general agency for the same magazine for three counties. This territory was quickly increased and soon he was asked to cover the State. He is now in charge of the entire subscription work for the magazine in New Jersey.

Mr. Church moved here to get a more central location and for the reason that he believed this the center of the largest resident class of intelligent housekeepers in the State. On coming here he at once identified himself with the religious work of the city by becoming an active member of the First Baptist church, and a teacher of a class of young men in the Bible school of that church. He is also a member of the Y. M. C. A.

Fred Randolph Has An Argument.

Fred Randolph, colored, of the city, was arrested by Chief Marshal Weiss in the borough, yesterday afternoon, for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Fred has a reputation as a talker when he gets loaded but on this occasion he outdid himself. He was handing out an argument to a Somerset street shoemaker that led the tenants of the building to believe a riot was in progress and a hurry call was sent for the police. Not having the necessary bail he is being held for appearance tonight.

Somerset Club Plans Celebration.

The Somerset Club held an important business session, last night, and decided to hold a Hallowe'en celebration. It will take place in the headquarters of the club at Somerset street and Manning avenue and David J. Carney and the other officials have been delegated to get up a suitable programme. There will be no street parade, as was given last year, but the entertainment will be one of the best the club has yet conducted.

INVESTIGATION IS NEEDED

Mr. Gilbert Suggests That Consolidation Commission's Powers Be Enlarged.

FOR INTELLIGENT VOTE

Former Mayor Will Accept If Commission Plans Be Changed—Letter to Common Council.

Following his appointment as a commissioner in the matter of the proposed consolidation of city and borough, which fact was recently communicated to him, former Mayor Alexander Gilbert presented a communication to the Common Council, last night, of timely interest. It is as follows:

"I am in receipt of a communication from the city clerk under date of October 2, informing me that at a meeting of the Common Council held on the 1st inst., I was appointed a commissioner in the matter of consolidation of the City of Plainfield and the Borough of North Plainfield. At the same time I received an extract from the minutes of the Common Council and copy of resolutions adopted at a meeting of the joint committee of the city and borough Councils and Board of Trade with reference to the matter of consolidation.

"I find in the report of the joint committee that it is the intention to appoint a commission to consist of two citizens of Plainfield and two from North Plainfield who, when appointed, shall choose a fifth member who shall be a citizen of Plainfield.

"The powers of this commission as I find them expressed and set forth in the report of the joint commission of the city and borough Councils and the Board of Trade are to take charge of and arrange all the details involved in the proposed merger and to prepare Legislative acts if such be found necessary or desirable. In other words the commission is to prepare a plan of consolidation to be submitted to the voters at an election to be held in the near future.

"My own views as to the wisdom of consolidation are so uncertain that it would be necessary for me to investigate very carefully the pros and cons involved in the proposed merger in order to determine what my attitude would be with regard to the matter; and I do not think the voters of the city or borough will ever be prepared to vote intelligently on the subject until a thorough investigation has been made and the advantages and disadvantages are clearly set before them. For this reason I think the commission in addition to the powers expressed in the resolutions should be clothed with power to investigate and determine as to the wisdom of consolidation and to consider and set forth in its report to the Common Council the advantages and disadvantages of such consolidation so that the voters when asked to vote on the question may be prepared to vote understandingly.

"If it be the pleasure of your honorable body to widen the scope of the commission in conformity with these suggestions I will accept the appointment, otherwise I shall feel obliged to decline.

"Very truly,
"A. GILBERT."

SCHOOLBOY GAMESTERS.

Dunellen Board Forgives Them and Offers Reinstatement After Suspension.

The case of Russell Runyon, Ray Huff and Peter Mohan, the Dunellen schoolboys who were suspended last week for playing poker in the basement of the Whittier school, Dunellen, was considered by the Board of Education of that place last night. The board decided that the boys could return to school if they wished.

Russell Runyon is the only one who will accept re-instatement. Ray Huff has entered business college and Peter Mohan has gone to work. The episode has made a lot of talk in Dunellen.

Married at St. Mary's.

Michael J. Devine, the Liberty street tonsorialist, and Mrs. Mary Nugent, of West Third street, were quietly married in St. Mary's church Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Bogan and was witnessed by a small gathering of friends. The couple were attended by John F. Casey and Mary Casey. Mr. and Mrs. Devine will make their home on West Third street.

Wheelman's Arm Broken.

The muddy condition of Somerset street resulted in Charles Truschell, of Grove street, falling from his wheel, this morning, and sustaining a broken arm. He also received several bad cuts on the forehead where his head came in contact with the macadam. His injuries were dressed by Dr. Buchanan.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

There are many things to take into reckoning when accounting for the tremendous vogue of "Way Down East" which will be at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday afternoon and night. The simplicity of the story appeals to everybody, the broad fun of the inimitable Hi Holler and the comedy of the other characters, the realism of the various scenes, the wonderful simulation of the blizzard, the strength of the company, and the power of the third act scene; these things in some measure will tell why "Way Down East" fills the theatre season after season. Added to this is the fact that the cast is kept up to its original standard of excellence while the production is made more elaborate each succeeding season.

The announcement that Theodore Kremer's new play, "Queen of the Convicts," dealing with the Servian Revolution, is to be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, brings to mind the fact that an attraction of this character is the first to be given in this country. And it is sure to score a bigger hit on account of its thoroughly new and original theme than any other melodrama yet offered to the public. As a skillful stage constructor, Theodore Kremer has few equals and no superiors. His past triumphs speak for themselves and in "The Queen of the Convicts" he promises to excel all previous efforts. P. H. Sullivan, under whose direction this production will be made, has secured a strong competent company to support the eminent star, Miss Selma Herman.

"Red Feather," the new comic opera by Reginald DeKoven, Charles Klein and Charles Emerson Cook, with an exceptionally strong company and all the gorgeous scenery, costumes and mechanical and electrical effects that contributed to the great success of the piece during it's long New York run will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. The prima donna of the company is Cheridah Simpson, who has for the past three years held a similar position with the Savage forces. The story of "Red Feather" is one of unusual interest. It is that of a conspiracy, which reaches a sudden and successful climax in the last act, to overthrow a usurper of the throne of the kingdom of Romancia and restore the rightful sovereign. Chief among the plotters is a mysterious freerider, Red Feather, whose identity is unknown until it is tunefully revealed in strict confidence to the audience. It is the Countess Hilda von Draga, who masquerades in the guise of a cavilier on the roads, while appearing at the court as a high born lady. The son of the usurper, the Crown Prince, is in love with the countess, and so also is his captain of the guard, and in their rivalry and the pursuit of Red Feather the action of the plot passes. The climax is reached when the countess to save the captain, whom she loves, makes known her identity with the conspirator, and the army of restoration bursts the gates.

"The Harvard Girl," one of Spitz and Nathanson's production, is an ideal for lovers of comedy, and its clever specialities, its side spliting climaxes and situations will be the attraction at the New Plainfield thetre next Monday night and will be extravagantly presented, with scenery, costumes, etc. The company is said to be a strong one and contains many funny comedians who appear in the numerous roles, as well as present their specialities. There is also a large chorus of pretty and shapely show girls, who sing and disport themselves with spirit and in a very fetching manner.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Fanwood Council, R. A., holds an important meeting tonight in their rooms. The secretary has notified all members to be present as business of vital importance to every member will be transacted.

All women interested in the Study Class will be cordially welcomed at the meeting.

Salary Question Not Discussed.

Contrary to expectation no mention was made at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, regarding the proposed increase of salaries of the firemen and policemen. The matter will probably be taken up at the November meeting. The absence of Councilmen Daniel and Ginna, the former being chairman of the finance committee, no doubt had something to do with laying the question over until a future time.

THE PEOPLE ALL

In Chorus Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This word of late has been in everyone's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means, a destroyer or killer of "Herpes." Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Robert Abbott's many friends here will regret that he did not retain the Intercollegiate golf championship at Garden City. He made a strong bid for the honors, and it was not until nineteen holes were played was he put out in his match.

Dudley H. Barrows, another Plainfield boy, made a good showing in the Intercollegiate golf play. He reached the semi-final round by playing a clever game and under most conditions would have been in the finals.

The weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup will be concluded at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday. This season's event has been unusually successful this year, as more players have contested for honors and the play has been very close throughout. Unlike last year, the winner will not be known until the last day of play.

The rivalry for the several cups at the Park Golf Club continues and there is even more interest now than at any time during the season. The offering of the Hydewood cup, October competition, by Mrs. Charles Hyde has had a tendency to bring out a strong field every week.

P. W. Whitney, of the Brookline Country Club, won the open tourney against bogey, last week, in a field of 100. He was the only player to be even up with the Colonel.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Country Club will be held in November when new officers will be elected and plans for next year discussed. It is understood that several changes will probably be made in the course and at the clubhouse for the convenience and comfort of the players. George P. Mellick, who is now serving the club as president, is very popular with the members and he is already being talked of for another term.

"Marty" O'Loughlin expected to have Robert Abbott for a partner in the golf match at Forest Hill, tomorrow, but the former intercollegiate champion could not get away to play. The young "pro" then asked C. B. Morgan to play with him and the latter agreed. Both are at the top of their game and should make a good showing.

Although the golf schedule will close on Thanksgiving Day at the Plainfield Country Club, there will be play on the course as long as the weather remains favorable. This will probably be as late as December.

FOOTBALL.

Notwithstanding the fact that there are several football elevens in the city, not a single game was played in town on Saturday. This week Saturday the first game between the Orange Field Club and Alis will be played at Crescent Oval and there is much speculation as to the outcome. Both are very strong and evenly matched.

The management of the Orange Field Club football eleven is perfecting a strong list of games for the season and hope to give lovers of the sport here some fast exhibitions.

It is remarkable what local interest is to be found here in all of the college football games played throughout the country. Inquiries are made every week concerning the scores of even the most remote college games, showing that the interest here in all colleges is quite general.

It is generally admitted that Biglow and Roome, of Yale, are two of the strongest players to be found among the college elevens this season, and it is also conceded that Yale has about the strongest team to be found among the colleges.

There is more than ordinary interest being shown in the approaching game between the teams from Michigan and Pennsylvania, as it will be the first battle on the gridiron between the East and the West. Both elevens feel confident of winning.

The Holy Cross football eleven which played a tie game on Saturday with the team from the Orange church will meet at Orange on Saturday, November 3, when the local team hopes to score a victory.

The Orange Field Club will be out this week for heavy practice in preparation for its game on Saturday with Alis. The latter team will also put in considerable time in practice.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold a meeting for sewing tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold its meeting for sewing Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in the church parlor. At that time preparations will be made to send a box of clothing to a missionary in Kansas.

Announcement is made by the trustees of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church that pews will be held for pew holders at the Sunday morning service until 10:40, after which if not occupied it will be understood that the ushers are at liberty to use them.

MR. GILBERT IS RIGHT.

Mr. Gilbert's suggestion that the powers of the consolidation commission be widened is most sensible. It would be absurd to have a vote taken on so important a proposition without a full understanding of what it meant to the taxpayers of both Plainfield and North Plainfield. To go into it blindly would be sheer folly. It would be like buying a cat in a bag, and would probably be the cause of endless trouble.

As Mr. Gilbert says, the commission should be empowered not only to arrange the plans for the election and such other details as may be necessary in case a referendum is resorted to, but it should probe the subject fully. A thorough and exhaustive investigation should be made of every phase of the proposition and facts and figures complete in detail should be laid before the people before any further action is taken. By that means, and that means only, will an intelligent vote be possible.

PLACE THEM ON RECORD.

The idea on the Christian Endeavor Union to place the Assembly candidates on record as to their views on the Bishops' bill is a capital one. It is only fair to the voters that the nominees of the two parties state explicitely what position they would take regarding that splendid measure were they chosen to represent Union county in the Legislature. There is no doubt that some of the candidates will dodge the question put to them by the Endeavorers, and in such event there is only one course for the Union to pursue. That course is to vote against the evasive or dilatory office seeker.

RALPH LURIA SUED.

New York Firm Press Claim for $133 Against Him.

Only one case was contested before Judge Newcorn in the District Court this morning, the contract suit of Podlesh & Greenberg, of New York, against Ralph Luria, of Spooner avenue, on a book account for rugs and furnishings. The case was tried before a jury, and took up most of the session.

The plaintiffs claim a balance of $133 is due. Luria submitted several checks in evidence, claiming that they should be credited to his account. The plaintiffs contended that the checks were for goods bought on a cash basis. The case went into the hands of the jury at 11:15 o'clock, and it became apparent very soon that the jurymen were not at all of one mind.

After an hour and three-quarters of deliberation, the jury returned a verdict in full for the plaintiffs. Francis J. Klatz represented Podlesh & Greenberg.

SAM EDWARDS EARNS THE RIALTO'S PRAISE.

Assumes Unknown Part in Big Production in Little More Than an Hour's Notice.

Already known along the length and breadth of the Rialto as a comedian equal to any emergency or occasion, Sam Edwards, brother of Maze Edwards, of the Casino, added to his laurels, last week, by proving himself "Johnny on the spot." Without any previous preparation and only one hurried rehearsal, he jumped into the cast of "The Little Cherub," one of Broadway's leading productions, and "made good" in a part being bungled by an understudy.

The role is opposite to Miss Hattie Williams, who is the star, and was held by Thomas Wise. He was taken suddenly ill, Tuesday night, and his understudy was put on. The latter played like an amateur and preparations were made to get someone else but without success until late Wednesday afternoon, when the management located Sam Edwards. The matinee was then on and Sam was hurried to the Criterion theatre where he saw the last act, this much being sufficient to give him an idea as to what was wanted. He assumed the part Wednesday night and made a hit of the largest variety, the members of the cast even giving him a "hand" from the wings. Wise has since returned to his place but Edwards has been singled out by Chas. Frohman to stand in line for a "fat" part.

them. He took no part in framing the bills; he took no part in the debates, in most cases, he took no part in the voting. The only public duty which he has performed with fidelity and regularity has been the drawing of his salary. His course this session has been typical of his career for four years. I made the same charges in 1904 and he hardly denied them. He simply checked it through, trusting (and, as the event showed, with good reason) to Mr. Roosevelt's popularity and the good-natured tolerance of his constituents to pull him out. Mr. Fowler has been a mere cipher in Congress; whatever good ideas he may have about currency and banking they are so kinky and muddled that no one can understand them, and he has never been able to impress himself on Congress sufficiently to have any of his bills enacted into law. When one considers his record for attendance, voting and debating, need anyone look further for an explanation of his inefficiency?

"Now, sir; I have set out the facts and my authority for them. I suggest that the campaign orators abandon their general arguments and come down to particulars. We don't want to hear about the beneficient effect of a protective tariff, or the rate bill, or the 'heresies of Mr. Bryan.' We want to know whether the Congressional Record is correct when it says that Mr. Fowler was present on only 18 roll-calls out of 92, and took no part in any of the debates. If these statements are incorrect, I will gladly welcome the correction; if they are true then it is high time that Mr. Fowler should be retired. I have no wish to enlarge on my own virtues, but I can fairly say that if I am elected to Congress I will be found at my place transacting the public business with industry and honesty and with such measure of ability as is mine. I shall look on an election to Congress as something higher than a means of livelihood.

Moriz Rosenthal Recital.

Moriz Rosenthal returns to America after an absence of eight years, and one of his recitals is to be given in the Krueger Auditorium, Newark, Tuesday evening, November 27. The mere mention of the name of Rosenthal should interest all lovers of music, and the fact that he is to give a recital in Newark will be a musical treat. The great pianist, for great he is, was born at Lemberg, and at the early age of four he showed unmistakable musical ability. Before he reached the age of ten he appeared in public and the beginning of his wonderful successes was established. Lovers of music, and especially those of the piano, should take advantage of hearing the wonderful virtuoso. Mail orders, which are arriving at this early date, indicate a large gathering at this recital. Orders are being received by Frederick N. Sommer, 794 Broad street, telephone 170, Newark. The regular sale of seats will open at Lauter's piano warerooms, 657 Broad street, Newark, Thursday, November 22.

THE FORUM.

Volunteer Singers Desired.

Editor, The Daily Press:

May I avail myself of your ever-ready courtesy to extend the following invitation:

We want at least a hundred voices in the chorus which will lead the singing in the evangelistic meetings under Dr. Wharton. These meetings are not for one congregation but for the whole city, and it is desired that the chorus shall be formed of singers from all the churches. Training and skill are not essential, but only a fairly good voice and a willing heart. It is an opportunity, perhaps, to win that sweetest of all praises, "She hath done what she could." And that benediction awaits men as well as women; both are needed, older or younger.

Wherever he goes vast crowds throng to hear Henry Wharton, and all feel the power of his simple, gracious messages. Much, of course, depends upon the singing. Will not many in all the churches volunteer to help? If you will do so, please drop me a card, or 'phone me, saying that you will take a seat among the chorus-singers; if not every evening, as often as possible. You will not be expected to render this help Sunday evenings if your own church is open, but there is reason to hope that many of the churches will give up their evening services, and pastors and people unite in this great work.

Singers will be admitted by the side door, on Grove street.

Death of Mrs. A. H. Burlingham.

Mrs. Emma Starr Burlingham, widow of the Rev. Dr. A. H. Burlingham, died at her home in Mount Vernon, N. Y., on Sunday. Her husband, who died in March, 1905, was one of the best known Baptist ministers in the United States. She is survived by two sons. Mrs. Burlingham was a sister of the late Mrs. Charles H. Stillman, of East Seventh street and an aunt of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, of East Seventh street, and William M. Stillman, of West Seventh street.

113 Choice Lots at Auction.

The Plainfield Land and Building Company will sell all the remaining lots owned by it on Rock and South avenues; also West Third street. There will certainly be bargains for some one as the sale is positive and the highest bidder will get the lots. Read advertisements on eighth page of today's Press.

Miss Elsie Brokaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. De Witt Brokaw, of Sycamore avenue, has gone to Baltimore, Md., to spend a month with friends.

—The examination for leaders of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium classes will be held October 30. Examinations for grades will also be held that night.

MORGAN ONE POINT AHEAD OF MURPHY

CLOSE CONTEST FOR CUP ON COUNTRY CLUB LINKS.

C. B. Morgan failed to win any points for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, and he still holds the same position, leading with 14½ points. Arthur Murphy won first honors with a net score of 80 and he strengthened his position by three points. He now has a total of 13½, while Charles A. Stover, in second place has 13⅜. There remains but one more Saturday to play for this cup and the competition this week will be watched with great interest.

The point-winners on Saturday were Arthur Murphy, 87, 7—80; Henry D. Hibbard, 90, 5—85; J. A. Lane, 96, 11—85.

An extra event of interest was a mixed foursome. This was won by C. B. Morgan and Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers with a score of 87. The scores:

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and C. B. Morgan, 88, 1—87; Miss Edith Tracy and W. Lester Glenney, 98, 4—94; Miss Margaret Goddard and Frank O. Reinhart, 100, 4—96.

Saturday was the last day for qualifying for the October Handicap cup, but there were no contestants. On Saturday Frank O. Reinhart and J. A. Lane, who have each won a leg on the trophy, will play off for it.

There was a large field out at the Park Golf Club on Saturday and many scores were returned in the weekly competitions. Miss Lyda Loizeaux led the field with a net score of 83, which counts only for the Hollywood cup. Her's was the lowest net score for the day, but a fairly good handicap helped her considerable. However, she deserves much credit for such an excellent score.

L. R. Thurlow, J. L. Watson and A. W. Kenworthy won the points for the President's cup, while C. A. Reed, L. R. Thurlow and Rev. J. O. McKelvey won the points for the club trophy. These scores were returned for the President's, Club and Hydewood cups:

Miss Lyda Loizeaux, 102, 19—83; Leon R. Thurlow, 102, 12—90; John L. Watson, 108, 17—91; A. W. Kenworthy, 105, 13—92; Rev. L. R. Howard, 109, 27—92; Alexander Gilbert, 113, 20—93; Charles A. Reed, 101, 5—96; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 104, 7—97; Reuben Knox, 109, 10—99; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 102, 3—99; Charles B. Morse, 112, 12—100; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 117, 13—104.

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc.

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

XVII.

ANITA BEGINS TO BE HERSELF.

I had asked Sam Ellersly to dine with me; so preoccupied was I that not until ten minutes before the hour set did he come into my mind—he or any of his family, even his sister. My first impulse was to send word that I couldn't keep the engagement. "But I must dine somewhere," I reflected, "and there's no reason why I shouldn't dine with him, since I've done everything that can be done." In my office suite I had a bath and dressing-room, with a complete wardrobe. Thus, by hurrying a little over my toilet, and by making my chauffeur crowd the speed limit, I was at Delmonico's only twenty minutes late.

Sam, who had been late also, as usual, was having a cocktail and was ordering the dinner. I smoked a cigarette and watched him. At business or at anything serious his mind was all but useless; but at ordering dinner and things of that sort, he shone. Those small accomplishments of his had often moved me to a sort of pitying contempt, as if one saw a man of talent devoting himself to engraving the Lord's Prayer on gold dollars. That evening, however, as I saw how comfortable and contented he looked, with not a care in the world, since he was to have a good dinner and a good cigar afterward; as I saw how much genuine pleasure he was getting out of selecting the dishes and giving the waiter minute directions for the chef, I envied him.

"You must come over to my rooms after dinner, and give me some music," I said.

"Thanks," he replied, "but I've promised to go home and play bridge. Mother's got a few in to dinner, and more are coming afterward, I believe."

"Then I'll go with you, and talk to your sister—she doesn't play."

He glanced at me in a way that made me pass my hand over my face. I learned at least part of the reason for my feeling of disadvantage before him. I had forgotten to shave, and as my beard is heavy and black it has to be looked after twice a day. "Oh, I can stop at my rooms and get my face into condition in a few minutes," said I.

"And put on evening dress, too," he suggested. "You wouldn't want to go in a dinner jacket."

I can't say why this was the "last straw," but it was.

"Bother!" said I, my common sense smashing the spell of snobbishness that had begun to reassert itself as soon as I got into his unnatural, unhealthy atmosphere. "I'll go as I am, beard and all. I only make myself ridiculous, trying to be a sheep. I'm a goat, and a goat I'll stay."

That shut him into himself. When he remerged, it was to say: "Something doing down town to-day, eh?"

A sharpness in his voice and in his eyes, too, made me put my mind on him more closely, and then I saw what I should have seen before—that he was moody and slightly distant.

"Seen Tom Langdon this afternoon?" I asked carelessly.

He colored. "Yes—had lunch with him," was his answer.

I smiled—for his benefit. "Aha!" thought I. "So Tom Langdon has been fool enough to take this parroquet into his confidence." Then I said to him: "Is Tom making the rounds, warning the rats to leave the sinking ship?"

"What do you mean, Matt?" he demanded, as if I had accused him.

I looked steadily at him, and I imagine my unshaven jaw did not make my aspect alluring.

"What did Tom say about me?" I inquired.

"Oh, almost nothing. We were talking chiefly of—of club matters," he answered, in a fair imitation of his usual offhand manner.

"When does my name come up there?" I said.

He flushed and shifted. "I was just about to tell you," he stammered. "But perhaps you know?"

"Know what?"

"That—Hasn't Tom told you? He has withdrawn—and—you'll have to get another second—if you think—that is—unless you—I suppose you'd have told me, if you'd changed your mind?"

Since I had become so deeply interested in Anita, my ambition—ambition!—to join the Travelers had all but dropped out of my mind.

"I had forgotten about it," said I. "But, now that you remind me, I want my name withdrawn. It was a passing fancy. It was part and parcel of a lot of damn foolishness I've been indulging in for the last few months. But I've come to my senses—and it's me to the wild where I belong, Sammy, from this time on."

He looked tremendously relieved, and a little puzzled, too. I thought I was reading him like an illuminated sign. "He's eager to keep friends with me," thought I, "until he's absolutely sure there's nothing more in it for him and his people." And that guess was a pretty good one. It is not to the discredit of my shrewdness that I didn't see it was not hope, but fear that made him try to placate me then what the Langdons had done. But Sammy was saying, in his friendliest tone:

"What's the matter, old man? You're sour to-night."

"Never in a better humor," I assured him, and as I spoke the words they came true. What I had been saying about the Travelers and all it represented—all the snobbery, and skirking, and rotten pretense—my final and absolute renunciation of it all—acted on me as I've seen religion act on the fellows that used to go up to the mourners' bench at the revivals. I felt as if I had suddenly emerged from the parlor of a dive and its stench of sickening perfumes, into the pure air of God's heaven.

Stolen Paintings Arrested.

New York, Oct. 23.—Clews of the theft of valuable paintings, both from American and European galleries, are traced by the police in the arrest of a young Englishman in this city yesterday. He was negotiating for the sale of a small canvas by Meyer von Bremen which on October 6 was cut from its frame in the art museum in Eden Park, Cincinnati. The capture of Clarendon Henri, for that is the name the man gave, is considered of international importance. He talked glibly of men and incidents connected with the spiriting away of the famous "Duchess of Devonshire" painting of Gainsborough, and of the means used in disposing of canvases of uncertain ownership.

Fortune From Oil Gusher.

Franklin, Pa., Oct. 23.—By striking the largest oil well the Pennsylvania field has seen in twenty-five years, Andrew Rapp, of this city, has been transformed from a man scarcely able to pay his debts to an oil producer with wealth pouring in upon him at the rate of $95 an hour. When the Standard Oil Company completes its arrangements for handling the oil tomorrow the output may be increased from 1,700 barrels a day to 4,000 barrels and perhaps more. Oildom is shocked at this big strike in what was thought to be tried out territory.

Centenarian's Long Tramp.

New York, Oct. 23.—Police Sergeant Robinson was sitting at his desk at Pier A yesterday morning when an aged and stooped little woman, neatly clad in black, walked in. She said she was Mary Sherwood, that she was a hundred years old and that she was lost. In response to questions she said she had walked in from Ossining, N. Y., and that she was footsore and weary. She wanted to find her son, George, she said, adding that he was a hack driver, but she didn't know where he lived.

Y. M. C. A. Circus.

The annual circus at the Y. M. C. A. will be held on February 12. Preparation for it, which will involve a lot of work and many weeks of time, will begin shortly.

1,000,000 Tons of Coal.

There is a full store of coal in the Lehigh Valley Railroad reserve pile at South Plainfield. It is estimated that 1,000,000 tons is piled up.

—If enough men signify a desire for them, classes in wrestling and boxing will be formed at the Y. M. C. A.

—The open championship contest at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium will be held April 29. Prizes will be presented after the event.

By Tom Muir.

Have you noticed the red feathers?

John Taylor, a local colored celebrity, is once more in legitimate. He has joined forces with Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company and when not leading a bloodhound in the street parade, sings bass and does a buck and wing shuffle in the cotton field scene on the stage. John began his career as a member of Black Patti's Troubadours, and has a record of seven engagements in one season to his credit.

The New Plainfield will be "dark" the early part of the present week. "Way Down East" appears matinee and night Thursday, "Queen of the Convicts" Friday night and "Red Feather" Saturday afternoon and night.

Through Manager Henry B. Harris, Charles Klein has disposed of the rights of his play, "The Lion and the Mouse," production in Holland, Germany, France and Australia. In addition to the four companies presenting it in this country, two organizations are touring England with it.

The production of "Cymbeline" at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday night, was the heaviest the stage crew has yet handled but despite the fact several of the sets were placed in record time. The work was done under the supervision of Fred Bennett, the theatre's stage manager, and his men were so divided that not a second of time was lost. In one act, every drop and wing from the previous set was taken off and a new one put on in three minutes, just one minute better than any crew that has had the show since it opened in Washington on October 1. There were fourteen changes in all and they kept every employee busy for the entire evening. Stage Manager Bennett was personally complimented by Charles W. Allen, the producer, and members of his staff.

L. W. GAVETT HEAD OF COLLEGE CLASS.

Plainfielder Is Chosen President of Class In Cornell University.

At the annual election of the junior class at Cornell last week, Leonard Whitney Gavett, son of Street Commissioner and Mrs. Andrew J. Gavett, of West Fifth street, was elected president. Although there was no electioneering, Gavett received a majority of 178 votes over his competitor, E. T. Gibson, of Brooklyn.

Gavett has been closely connected with university activities throughout his college career. In his freshman year he rowed on the 1908 crew, which was victorious over Syracuse in the intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie. Last year he rowed No. 5 on the Cornell 'varsity eight, which won first place in the intercollegiate regatta, an dwhich also was victorious over the Harvard eight. Gavett has the typical build of an oasman, standing six feet and weighing 178 pounds.

Gavett is a junior in the Sibley College of Mechanical Engineering. He is a member of the Zodiac Club, the Sophomore Honorary Society Dunstan, the Junior Honorary Society Alep Samach and the 1908 Cornellian Board. He is also a member of the New Jersey Club. The choice of Gavett as president and leader of one of the upper classes gives evidence of his popularity among the faculty and students.

Asks Some Pertinent Questions.

Editor, The Daily Press:

It is understood that Mr. Martine is seeking complimentary votes from Plainfield Republicans.

Will Mr. Martine please inform us if he ever voted for a Republican for any office, National, State or local, stating when and for whom?

What was Mr. Martine doing during State and National crises when thousands of patriotic Democrats voted the Reublican ticket—especially during the race-track regime? Did he then vote for a Republican for any office and for whom? Will Mr. Martine please answer?

Yours truly,
CHAS. S. SMINCK.

SOME LIGHT SHED ON CRANFORD MYSTERY

VICTIM IS NEW ROCHELLE MAN—IDENTIFIED BY SON.

The body of the man killed on the P. S. C. trolley tracks at the B. and O. crossing near Cranford, Sunday night, was identified this afternoon as that of James M. Forbes, a printer, whose home was in New Rochelle, N. Y. The identification was made by the victim's son, Robert Lucas Forbes, a newspaper publisher, and a friend, who came to Plainfield this noon. They learned of the accident through newspaper accounts and the description tallied with that of Forbes, who had been away from home several months.

The son stated to a Press reporter that his father had been working at his trade in New York until last Wednesday when he suddenly left without telling anyone where he was going. He was at one time employed by the Marshon company, of Rahway, and it is presumed he took a notion to go back there, as the place where he was killed is but a short distance away. He was fifty-two years old and was a native of Woolwich, Eng. He was at one time a major in the English army and had influential relatives.

Miss Mauldin, from the South, is visiting at the home of her uncle, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue.

Daniel O'Day's Will.

New York, Oct. 23.—Daniel O'Day's fortune, which is estimated in the millions, with the exception of a few small bequests is left to his widow, Eliza O'Day, No. 128 West Seventy-second street, and his twelve children, four sons and eight daughters. The inheritance of Mrs. O'Day will be considerably lessened if she remarries, and it is directed that any beneficiary who may contest the will or prevent its probate shall forfeit all right to any share in the estate. Most of the estate will be tied up for years.

False Alarm in the Borough.

CUT IN LIGHTING RATES AND TROLLEY FARES

Public Service Corporation Makes Substantial Reductions to All Its Patrons.

EFFECTIVE ON JAN. 1

Schedule Applies to Five Year Contract for Gas and Electricity—Reasons for the Decrease In Price.

The Public Service Corporation makes an important announcement today of a reduction in electricity and gas rates and trolley fares, it being the result of the completion of extensions, betterment, rebuilding and consolidation of electric and gas plants and trolley lines. The changes relate to a reduction in public and commercial electric rates and in the price of gas to the $1 standard; also providing for the extension of the five cent fare zone and transfer system of the street railway department. The changes are to take effect January 1, 1908.

Resolutions have been adopted by the Board of Directors authorizing the president, Thomas N. McCarter, to announce that all biddings after January 1, 1908, on renewals of public arc lighting contracts shall be made according to the following schedule for five year contract:

In cities of the first-class, a maximum rate of $75 a year for each light of 2,000 candle power. In all other cities, including Plainfield, a maximum rate of $80 and in all municipalities other than cities, including North Plainfield, a maximum rate of $85. The base rate for commercial light and power shall be reduced to ten cents per killowatt hour throughout the territory served by the company and subsidiary companies, except Bergen county, where the rate shall be reduced to twelve cents and to ten cents in 1910. It has also been decided that in such municipalities where the price of gas exceeds $1 net per thousand cubic feet the price shall be reduced to that price, and in the meantime the annual reduction of five cents per thousand cubic feet shall continue.

The announcement is made at this time because of the approaching election when several municipalities will vote to authorize the adoption of municipal lighting plants. The company believes such action undesirable, as it considers the present rates perfectly fair and when the new schedule is put in effect, the company will challenge comparison of its rates with those of any other company.

The re-arrangement of the trolley fares provide for a five cent fare from any point in Hudson county to any point in that county reached by the lines of the company on a continuous trip, with a single transfer. From any point in Hudson county to any point in Essex county, (except Eagle Rock, Caldwell and Verona), reached by the lines, of the company on a continuous trip, with a single transfer in each county, and conversely, ten cents. From any point in Essex county, (except Eagle Rock, Caldwell and Verona,) on a continuous trip, with a single transfer, to any point in Union county, as far west as Cranford, and conversely, ten cents. From any point in Hudson county with a single transfer on a continuous trip, to any point in Union county, as far west as Cranford, and conversely, fifteen cents. At the time the acquisition by the Public Service Corporation of the nine different street railway companies, now comprising its street railway department, no company transferred with any other company; now all the companies transfer at all intersecting points. The change in rates of fare will go into effect November 1, 1906.

The company also declares that it is doing all that is possible to abate the smoke nuisance from the chimneys of its plants and pledges to abolish it as soon as practical.

Jury Case On.

Isaac Lockman's suit against Ann Kane, for $100, was started before Judge Swift and a jury in the District Court this forenoon. It was still on at 2 o'clock. Contract Case Settled.

The contract suit of William Kelvie against Charles Fulmer, which was to have come up in the District Court this morning, has been settled. Francis J. Blatz, for the plaintiff, and Charles A. McNabb, for the defendant, were the opposing lawyers.

HE IS SELECTED AS DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE IN SOMERSET COUNTY.

Former Prosecutor William V. Steele, of Somerville, was selected yesterday to take the place on the Democratic ticket of Somerset county made vacant by the refusal of R. L. Stevens, of Bernards, to accept the nomination for Assembly. Mr. Steele was chosen unanimously by Mr. Steele is one of the best known men in Somerset county. For years he has been active in the councils of his party and has always been loyal to the ticket. At present he is serving as Federal commissioner in bankruptcy for New Jersey. He has made warm friends throughout the State and particularly in Somerset county. It is said that Mr. Steele has a very good chance of election. His father was a Congressman.

KNACKER'S WAGON HIT.

Glaser Tumbled Off But Load Wasn't Injured.

On its way to the glue and fertilizer center with a subject, the dead horse wagon of Theodore Glaser, of Alton, was struck by a Bethlehem wood trolley car on Richmond street, near Sixth street, at 10:15 o'clock last night. Glaser, who was driving, was thrown off and buried, and the pole of his wagon was broken. The contents of the cart were not damaged.

Glaser complained of severe pains in his left leg, and a citizen rang up the police patrol. Glaser was removed to headquarters, where Dr. A. H. Dundon examined him. The doctor said there was nothing much the matter with him, and sent him home in a hack. One of Glaser's men removed the dead horse later.

H. Warman was the motorman of the car. He claims Glaser drew across the track in front of him.

Peddler's Misrepresent.

Alfonso Saranso, an Italian peddler, was arrested yesterday for selling without a license. When he was arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning, the latter suspended sentence, but he said that so much misrepresentation was being done by peddlers about town the time was fast approaching when fines would be the rule.

Fred Randolph Fined.

A fine of $3 was imposed on "talkative" Fred Randolph in the borough court, last night. He was also warned by Mayor Smalley to confine his ginfests and noisy orations to some other place beside North Plainfield, otherwise he might have to stand higher rates.

MISS SERRELL A BRIDE

Pretty Romance That Began in Hospital Culminates at the Altar.

WEDS A WESTERN MAN.

Ormsbee Briggs, of Milwaukee, the Groom—Ceremony at Home of Bride's Aunt.

Miss Ella Harold Serrell, of this city, and William Ormsbee Briggs, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, were married last evening at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Ella Serrell, of Plainfield avenue, in the presence of about one hundred guests from New York, Brooklyn, Milwaukee, Passaic and this city. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which the bride is a member, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her two sisters, Miss Minnie B. Serrell and Miss Josephine I. Serrell, as bridesmaids. Dr. Norman H. Probasco was the best man and the ushers were Edgar J. Skelle, of Passaic, and Chas. Burkett, of Milwaukee.

As the guests arrived they were received by Miss Serrell, the bride's aunt, and Miss May Serrell, a sister of the former. While the orchestra, seated in the inclosed porch, was playing the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin, the bridal party descended the stairway and entered the parlor. The bride was accompanied by her brother, Frederick E. Serrell. The ceremony was performed in front of a large bank of palms, where an improvised altar was placed. The Episcopal form of service was used, and the bride was given in marriage by her aunt, Miss Serrell.

The bride's gown was of white messaline satin, trimmed with a Duchesse lace Bertha, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilliesof-the-valley and bride roses. The bridesmaids were gowned in white silk chiffon and they carried chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony supper was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Briggs departed for a honeymoon trip, which will terminate at Milwaukee, where they will reside.

The home was very prettily decorated throughout with smilax and clematis, there being a profusion of the vine arranged along the main stairway and about the table in the dining room, as well as in the parlor.

The bride was the recipient of a wealth of gifts of great value, including silverware, cut-glass, linen and bric-a-brac. There were gifts from London, Paris, and Seattle, Washington, and many from nearby points. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond crescent. There were also favors for the bridesmaids, best man and ushers.

The marriage is the culmination of a romance, which began about a year ago, when the bride was a pupil nurse at Muhlenberg hospital. Mr. Briggs, who was obliged to undergo an operation, expressed a wish that his friend, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, perform it. He became a patient at the hospital and Miss Serrell was selected by the matron as his special nurse. Their acquaintance grew into friendship and led to their betrothal and marriage. Mr. Briggs after returning home, visited Miss Serrell several times and last summer she spent a number of weeks in Milwaukee.

Mr. Briggs is the general agent for the New York Life Insurance Company at Milwaukee, and occupies a high social position in that city. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Briggs, of Briggsville, Wis., and the family is wealthy and highly respected.

Bank Clerks' Bowling League.

The prospects are very bright for a busy season at the Casino. Already Major Maze Edwards is besieged with various bowling clubs and other societies for dates, while a number of private receptions will be given. It is likely that the bank clerks of the city will soon organize a bowling league and make arrangements to use the Casino alleys. Similar bowling clubs have been organized in the larger cities among the bank clerks and already plans are underway for an organization here. H. H. Coward, of the City National Bank, formerly a bowler, is at the head of the movement.

Letter-Carrier Resigns.

Owing to a gradually defective vision, Letter-Carrier Edward T. Dunn has tendered his resignation to Postmaster E. H. Bird to take effect within a short time. Mr. Dunn has been employed as a letter-carrier for a number of years and has always been regular and faithful to his duties. In rain or shine he has always been at his post and he will be greatly missed by his fellow-employes. He has been in poor health for some time and his eye-sight has given him considerable trouble.

RELIEF ASSOCIATION FOR CONSOLIDATION

VOTES TO MERGE ORGANIZATION WITH ORGANIZED AID ASSOCIATION.

The Plainfield Relief Association at its annual meeting held at the rooms on West Front street, unanimously decided to consolidate the association with that of the Organized Aid Association. The same question will be considered by the Organized Aid Association at its annual meeting the first week in November and if decided favorably then the two associations will arrange for a meeting to perfect the details of consolidation and election of officers.

The various reports were presented at the meeting this morning, Miss Pierson, the secretary, giving a review of the past year's work, showing the progress. The report of the visitor showed that 682 visits were made and eighty-two families assisted. Among those helped were eight nationalities, German, Polish, Jew, Swedes, Swiss, American, Italians and colored.

Through the courtesy of the Plainfield Retail Druggists' Association free drugs and medicines were supplied to the association, which was greatly appreciated. Another source of help was the distribution of useful articles and toys to 450 children and the entertainment of 500 children on December 23 at Reform Hall by the Plainfield Lodge of Elks.

FANWOOD COUNCIL WILL NOT SURRENDER CHARTER.

Fanwood Royal Arcanum Organization Votes to Continue Its Existence.

Fanwood Council, No. 744, Royal Arcanum, held an important meeting at Fanwood, last night, when the question of disbanding or continuing the lodge was thoroughly discussed. It was finally decided to continue and the old-time enthusiasm was shown by the large number of members out.

For two months it has been almost impossible for the Council to transact its regular business, owing to the non-attendance of the members. Finally, it was decided to issue a special call for a meeting last night to decide whether the Council should surrender its charter and the members join either Fireside Council, of Westfield; Plainfield or Greenbrook Councils, of Plainfield.

New interest was manifested, the financial condition was shown to be excellent and the only thing to bet met was the dues of non-attending members. Fanwood Council was hit very hard by the change in the rate and plan of insurance. It was enjoying an era of prosperity, the membership having increased 33 per cent. From a membership of 123 it dropped to sixty-seven, due to the change of rates and the attendance grew smaller each week. During the evening there was an address by Chairman Weeks, of the Grand Council good of the order committee.

Funeral of T. A. Oakley.

The funeral of Thomas Armitage Oakley, who died suddenly in New York, Saturday, was held at his late home on West Fourth street, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends, which included business associates. The pall-bearers were F. M. Robbins, John Sergeant, Herman Fritz and W. J. Ladd, all connected with the Sergeant Manufacturing Company, New York. Interment was made at Hillside.

Mr. Rose's Sad Mule.

Martin A. Rose, of Terrill road, is hunting for a mule. The mule he is looking for is the mate of one he bought at an auction at Lambert's Mills last week. The team had never been separated before, and Mr. Rose's purchase has been hee-hawing disconsolately, as is the way of mules, ever since, keeping Mr. Rose and all his neighbors on edge. He wants to buy the mule, but he can't locate the purchaser. Probably the other mule is carrying on in the same way, and its owner is longing for the relief Mr. Rose can offer.

Real Estate Agent Loses Suit.

William Jeffrey, the real estate agent, failed in an action to recover a commission alleged to be due on a real estate deal, from Rosa Frucht, in the District Court this morning. The case was tried before Judge Addison Swift, who sat in Judge Newcorn's place. Charles A. Reed, the defendant's lawyer, secured a non-suit.

WHEELER IS UNDER BAIL

Counsel Furnishes $1,000 Bond to Insure His Appearance Before Grand Jury.

CONFLICTING STORIES

Tale of Non-Union Men Makes Jacobson the Aggressor—In Mosher's Court.

Eugene Wheeler, who shot Alexander G. Aitken in the groin in a quarrel between union and non-union men on East Second street Saturday night, was held, yesterday afternoon, for the grand jury. Justice Mosher, before whom the examination took place, fixed bail at $1,000. It was furnished by the prisoner's counsel, G. W. V. Moy.

Wheeler and his witnesses told a story diametrically opposed to that told by the complainant and Arthur Jacobson, the special agent, after the shooting. Wheeler's witnesses were Charles Gordon, Geo. A. Nelson and F. W. Fenton, fellow-strike breakers at the Scott shop, who were with him when the row began. According to their account, in which all of them agreed in the essentials, Jacobson, Aitken and other union men halted them on East Second street. Jacobson is alleged to have attacked Gordon, who, as he admits himself, was drunk. Wheeler, it was sworn, protested against an assault on a drunken man, and was assailed himself. It was said that he was thrown down and kicked, and that only then, after warning his assailants to let him up, he drew his revolver. He swore that he fired into the ground, and that Aitken pulled the revolver toward himself in seizing it from him. Aitken, he testified, had a knife in his hand at the time.

Charles Beerman, seventeen years old, who works in Scott's and knows Wheeler, saw the fight from the lunch wagon, and he corroborated the story of the non-union men as to Jacobson's aggressions.

Jacobson and Aitken stuck to their original story of the trouble, laying all the blame for it on the non-union men. Francis J. Blatz appeared for them, opposing Mr. Moy, the counsel for the prisoner.

The warrants sworn out by Jacobson against Nelson and Gordon the day after the shooting, charging assault, were not served. It has been agreed by both sides that the whole matter, including Jacobson's alleged strong-arm tactics, be laid before the grand jury for action by that body.

WORKMEN'S NEGLIGENCE CAUSES BAD ACCIDENT.

Charles Geer's Rig Plunges Into Unguarded Gas Trench on Park Avenue.

Failure on the part of Public Service employees to place lights along the big gas ditch on Park avenue, Saturday night, caused an accident that all but resulted seriously for Charles Geer, the local horse and carriage dealer, who was driving toward Plainfield.

Turning out of the way for a large automobile, his horse plunged into the opening, dragging the carriage part way after him. Geer was thrown headlong and beside getting a severe shaking up and minor injuries, his costly artificial arm was broken. The horse was imprisoned in the trench and finding that it was impossible to get him out, he went to the nearest residence to telephone for assistance. Captain William Hand responded with a force of men, bringing block and tackle and the animal was finally lifted to the road. Though no bones were broken it is badly hurt and is unfit for service.

Mr. Geer also telephoned for Craig A. Marsh immediately after the accident and the lawyer was quickly on the scene. He saw that the trench had been left unguarded and was a menace to vehicles. While Geer's horse was being lifted out, one of the company's men came along with lanterns and placed them to warn other drivers. Mr. Marsh will commence suit against the Public Service Corporation in Mr. Geer's behalf.

Scarcity of Pipe May Delay Work.

Even though the Common Council awards the contract for the construction of the southside sanitary sewer within a short time, it will probably not be possible to begin work right away, as it will require some time to get pipe and prepare for the installation of a pumping station. There is scarcely any doubt but that the city will undertake the building of this extension.

Big Line Nearly Completed.

The Harrison Construction Co., of Newark, which has the contract for laying a large gas main for the Public Service Corporation between this city and Camden, has all but about two miles of main laid. There has been some delay owing to the trouble of getting pipe.

GRIGGS DENOUNCES THE AMERICAN SLANDERBUND

Statesman Fiercely Arraigns Hysteria Manufacturers and Eloquently Defends Party Leaders.

A MASTERLY SPEECH

Voorhees Talks for a Few Minutes —Senator Kean On Platform Ackerman Chairman.

The answering roar to the opening gun of the Democratic campaign in this city sounded at the New Plainfield theatre, last night. The artillery corps was more impressive than that of the Democrats, including, as it did, two ex-governors and a State Senator. And close to the firing line, where it is proper for field marshals occasionally to go, was United States Senator Kean.

Although this happened entirely by accident, the meeting was even more of a one-man affair than the Stevens rally. Practically but one speech was made, former Governor John W. Griggs being the orator. Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees spoke also, but he talked only about seven minutes.

Franklin Murphy sent a telegram of regret at the last moment. None of the party managers knew what had made it impossible for him to come. State Chairman F. O. Briggs, who was to have presided over the meeting, also sent his regrets at a late hour. City Chairman Charles J. Fisk said he knew nothing of Mr. Briggs' change of plans, excepting that he was called suddenly to Norfolk, Va.

The meeting was attended by an audience of about 800. Women were largely in evidence. The house was hung with bunting, and large pictures of Washington, Lincoln, McKinley and Roosevelt inspired the speakers as they looked toward the balcony and the boxes.

The audience was enthusiastic. It applauded the names of party leaders and heroes with warmth and spontaneity; the designation of President Roosevelt as the party leader evoked a sustained burst of applause that lasted for nearly a minute.

The meeting opened very promptly at 8 o'clock. Mr. Fisk introduced Senator Ernest R. Ackerman as chairman, in a brief speech. The people desired a clear and sane presentation of the arguments on the issues of the campaign, he said, and that was what it was intended to give them. If they felt that the aims and the promises of the Republican party were what they sympathized with, their ballots were to be cast for the candidates of that party. To give them a clear idea of the issues at stake, the party would lay its case before them frankly and plainly.

Mr. Ackerman introduced Mr. Griggs without loss of time, after the applause that greeted him had died away. Mr. Griggs caught the close attention of his hearers early in his speech, and held it all the way. He spoke for almost an hour and a half, and the audience showed no sign of weariness when he finished. He spoke, as is his custom, without notes, and with no attempt at oratorical flourish.

But one brief reference was made to Congressman Fowler's candidacy. His speech was a defense of the party in New Jersey against the charges of boss control and corporation domination, and a warning against what the speaker termed the national slanderbund. He used a very sharp stick wherewith to poke the muck-rakers, and whacked Senator La Follette with no pretense of gentleness.

The campaigns, this year, were entirely local, Mr. Griggs said in opening. There were no national platforms to which the local organizations could pin their faith, but the Kansas Republicans had evolved one, which struck him as a model for all communities, both as to brevity and wisdom. It was "Resolved, That we let well enough alone." That was sound sense both as a platform and maxim.

The Republican party had been criticised recently in this State by some of its own members with great severity. The criticisms had been made as suggestions of reform. The speaker said he liked the idea of advancement, of betterment, but he didn't like to be called a reformer at all times. Reform was the wrong word to apply to some strivings for betterment. There were cases where only imperfections were to be remedied, where the term "reform" was too strong in its implications.

SPLENDID CONCERT IN GRACE M. E. SERIES

HIGH-CLASS ARTISTS FURNISH AN ENJOYABLE PROGRAMME.

A large audience in Grace M. E. church, last night, heard a musical and literary concert of unusual excellence. It was the first in a series of three entertainments that have been planned and was keenly enjoyed by a large gathering of music lovers. The artists were Miss Caroline S. Doll, soprano, soloist at the Old First church, Elizabeth; Mrs. Elizabeth Lambert Von Neer, reader; William Nelson Searles, Jr., basso cantante, St. Paul's M. E. church, Newark; Otto Schill, concert violinist; John H. B. Conger, pianist, organist at St. Paul's M. E. church, Newark.

The programme had been arranged with diversity in view and comprised ten numbers in all. They were not sufficient for the audience and hearty applause resulted in numerous encores being given, the artists proving very liberal in this respect. A solo by Mr. Searles, "Blow, Blow Thou Winter Wind," (Cargent), and a violin solo, "Romance," of his own composition by Mr. Schill, were the favorites and proved the feature contributions of the evening.

Mr. Searles is a singer of power and range and he has the proper conception of expression, all combined making his vocal work a delight. Miss Doll is also an artist of ability, her voice possessing sweetness and strength, and her solos were all too few. Her hearers were loath to let her retire even after she had given unannounced numbers. A duet by her and Mr. Searles, "I Feel Thy Angel Spirit," (Graben-Hoffman), closed the programme and made a very fitting ending.

As a violinist, Mr. Schill has a wide reputation and it was sustained by his renditions last night. He has a technique claimed by few artists of his class and his selections were stamped with individuality. The readings of Mrs. Von Neer were delivered in a happy vein and caused plenty of spontaneous laughter. One of them, "The Hat in a London Theatre Pit," was the essence of humor and figuratively "brought down the house."

The artists at various times were presented with bouquets of flowers and they enjoyed the thoughtfulness of the donors. The platform had also been decorated tastefully with autumn foliage.

The next entertainment in the series will be given on December 13 and will be furnished by the Criterion Hand Bell Ringers and Concert Company.

ST. STEPHEN'S PARISH HOUSE ALMOST COMPLETED.

Various Contractors Putting the Last Touches on the Building.

The remodelling of the parish house at St. Stephen's church is nearing completion. The heating system is yet to be installed, but this work will be finished soon. The electricians and the painters have completed their work and the carpenters expect to get through this week. The contractors and the various prices for this work are as follows: Fred H. Bowe, the new auditorium, painting, plumbing, tinning, $2,200; John Leahy, steam-heating plant, $585; John Hensey, painting, $125; Henry H. Apgar, electric light, $100. Mr. Bowe sub-let the plumbing contract to Louis Morel, of Scotch Plains. Mr. Stuart, of Netherwood, had the contract for the mason work.

On the third floor of the house, two of the semi-circular windows have been changed to ordinary two-sash windows, thus adding to the attractiveness and utility of that part of the house. On the second floor, at the rear, two small windows have been cut in the pantry and kitchen of the rector's part of the house. Electricity has been introduced throughout the entire building.

Preparing for Revival.

Special services will be held at the First Baptist church tonight in preparation for the evangelistic services which begin Sunday morning under the direction of Rev. Dr. Wharton. Tonight there will be singing from the new revival hymn books and it is expected that many of those who are to sing in the large chorus choir will be present to learn the hymns. Another similar service will be held Friday night.

A FACT PROVEN.

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of Its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit innoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT BY PUBLIC SERVICE relating to a reduction in public and commercial electric rates, and in the price of gas to the $1.00 standard; and also providing for the extension of the 5c fare zone and transfer system of the Street Railway Department:

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of Public Service Corporation held on Tuesday, October 23, the following resolution was unanimously passed:

RESOLVED, That in the judgment of the Board of Directors the result of the extension, betterment, rebuilding and consolidation of the electric plants, which have been in progress ever since the formation of Public Service, and which will be largely completed by January 1st, 1908, will justify bids for public lighting made after that date at lower prices than have heretofore prevailed, particularly in view of the fact that existing contracts do not all fall in at one date, but their expiration extends over a period of about two years, and also that a very large increase in the commercial business will justify, at the same time, a further substantial reduction in the present base rate of commercial light and power, which now ranges from 12c to 14c per k. w. hour—except in Bergen County, where the base rate is 15c. per k. w. hour; and

RESOLVED, That the President be authorized to officially announce that all biddings after January 1st, 1908, on renewals of public arc lighting contracts shall be made according to the following schedule for a five-year contract, namely:

In cites of the first class, a mixiumum rate of $75.00 per annum per arc light of 2,000 candle power.
In all other cities a maximum rate of $80.00 per annum per arc light of 2,000 candle power.
In all municipalities other than cities a maximum rate of $85.00 per annum per arc light of 2,000 candle power.

And also that on and after January 1st, 1908, THE BASE RATE FOR COMMERCIAL LIGHT AND POWER SHALL BE REDUCED TO 10c. PER K. W. HOUR THROUGHOUT THE TERRITORY SERVED BY PUBLIC SERVICE AND ITS SUBSIDIARY COMPANIES, except Bergen County, where the rate shall then be reduced to 12c per k. w. hour, and on January 1st, 1910, to 10c. per k. w. hour.

RESOLVED, FURTHER, That in the few remaining municipalities where the price of gas now exceeds $1.00 net per thousand cubic feet, SAID PRICE SHALL BE REDUCED TO $1.00 NET PER THOUSAND CUBIC FEET ON JANUARY 1st, 1909, except in Bergen County, where the reduction to $1.00 net per thousand cubic feet shall be made simultaneously with the final electric reduction on January 1st, 1910, and that meanwhile the annual reduction already promised at 5c per thousand cubic feet shall be continued.

The above resolution, so far as it relates to a reduction in electric light and power in Essex, Hudson and a portion of Union and Morris counties, was concurred in by the Board of Directors of United Electric Company of New Jersey, at a meeting held on Tuesday, October 23.

This announcement is made at this time because the voters of certain cities are to decide at the forthcoming election whether they will authorize their respective municipal officers to construct a municipal electric station for both public and commercial use, and two other cities are considering the erection of an electric plant for public lighting. In view of the foregoing it is believed that any such action will be altogether undesirable.

The rates at present being charged for gas and electric service in the several municipalities are perfectly fair. Substantial reductions, both in the prices of gas and electricity, have already been made by Public Service since its formation in April, 1903. At the time of the acquisition of the gas properties of Public Service the price of gas ranged from $1.80 to $1 net per thousand cubic feet, the latter price prevailing only in parts of South Jersey, Newark and adjacent territory. The base rate for electricity ranged from 20 cents to 13 cents per k. w. hour.

The large further reduction herein provided for, as well as those already made, has only been made possible as a result of the consolidation of many properties into one company. If it were practicable from a financial standpoint to make reduction in rates earlier, it would be impossible to obtain the additional electrical apparatus which will be required to take care of the abnormal increase in business which will undoubtedly result from the large reduction in rates.

The reason for the prolongation of the date at which the ultimate base rate for both gas and electricity is reached in Bergen County is because of the widely scattered nature of the population, and of the consequent longer time involved in bringing that property into close relationship with the rest of the territory, which difficulty is accentuated by the fact that the Bergen County property was not acquired by Public Service until recently.

WHEN THE FOREGOING SCHEDULES SHALL HAVE BEEN PUT INTO EFFECT WE CHALLENGE COMPARISON OF OUR RATES WITH THOSE OF ANY OTHER COMPANY OR COMPANIES SERVING THE PEOPLE OF ANY OTHER COMMONWEALTH IN THE DISTRIBUTION OF GAS AND ELECTRICITY, UNDER SIMILAR CONDITIONS.

The company takes further pleasure in announceing that by a re-arrangement and reduction of fares on its street railway system on and after November 1, 1906, the fare will be:

1. From any point in Essex County (except Eagle Rock, Caldwell and Verona), to any point in Essex County reached by the lines of the company on a continuous trip, with a single transfer, 5 cents.

2. From any point in Hudson County to any point in Hudson County reached by the lines of the company on a continuous trip, with a single transfer, 5 cents.

3. From any point in Hudson County to any point in Essex County (except Eagle Rock, Caldwell and Verona), reached by the lines of the company on a continuous trip, with a single transfer in each county, and conversely, 10 cents.

4. From any point in Essex County (except Eagle Rock, Caldwell and Verona), on a continuous trip, with a single transfer, to any point in Union County, as far west as Cranford, and conversely, 10 cents.

5. From any point in Hudson County with single transfer on a continuous trip, to any point in Union County, as far west as Cranford, and conversely, 15 cents.

AT THE TIME OF THE ACQUISITION BY PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE NINE DIFFERENT STREET RAILWAY COMPANIES NOW COMPRISING ITS STREET RAILWAY DEPARTMENT, NO COMPANY TRANSFERRED WITH ANY OTHER COMPANY; NOW ALL THE COMPANIES TRANSFER AT ALL INTERSECTING POINTS.

The company is fully aware of the annoyance caused the public by the smoke issuing from the chimneys of its plants and those of other manufacturers, and from steam locomotives. To remedy this is a most difficult problem. For over a year past the company has been experimenting with various smoke-consuming devices, with only partial success. While frequently the smoke is lessened by their use, the efficiency of the plant is seriously interfered with. In the judgment of our engineers their success is by no means assured where the fluctuations in load exist as in an electric plant. The company pledges itself to the further and thorough investigation of this subject, and to the adoption of such smoke-consuming devices as shall be demonstrated to be commercially practicable for its business.

In the further prosecution of its vast business, and in the comprehensive upbuilding and development of the great properties committed to its care, upon which over $26,000,000 has already been expended by this company without financial return to stockholders upon their cash investment amounting to $12,500,000 at par, Public Service seeks the good will and consideration of the fairminded people of New Jersey, whose prosperity is so interwoven with the success of the company.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

"The time of year has come when, in accordance with the wise custom of our forefathers, it becomes my duty to set aside a special day of Thanksgiving and praise to the Almighty, because of the blessings we have received, and of prayer that these blessings may be continued. Yet another year of widespread well-being has passed. Never before in our history or in the history of any other nation, has a people enjoyed more abounding material prosperity than is ours; a prosperity so great that it should arouse in us no spirit of reckless pride, and least of all a spirit of heedless disregard of our responsibilities; but rather a sober sense of our many blessings, and a resolute purpose under Providence not to forfeit them by any action of our own.

"Material well-being, indispensiable though it is, can never be anything but the foundation of true national greatness and happiness. If we build nothing upon this foundation, then our national life will be as meaningless and empty as a house where only the foundation has been laid. Upon our material well-being must be built a superstructure of individual and national life, lived in accordance with the laws of the morality, or else our prosperity itself will in the long run turn out a curse instead of blessing. We should be both reverently thankful for what we have received and earnestly bent upon turning it into a means of grace and not of destruction.

"Accordingly I hereby set apart Thursday, the twenty-ninth day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and supplication, on which the people shall meet in their homes or their churches, devoutly acknowledge all that has been given them, and to pray that they may in addition receive the power to use these gifts aright.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington this twenty-second day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and six, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-first.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"By the President,

"Elihu Root, Secretary of State."

TROLLEY VICTIM'S BODY SENT TO NEW ROCHELLE.

Son Satisfied That It Was a Case of Accident and Not Foul Play.

Identification having been made complete, as told in yesterday's Daily Press, the body of James M. Forbes, who was killed by a trolley car at Cranford, Sunday night, was sent from this city to New Rochelle, N. Y., yesterday afternoon. It was accompanied by his son, Robert Lucas Forbes, and a friend, who had established the identity. The funeral was held in New Rochelle this morning.

The son is a well known newspaper publisher and is prominent in the New Rochelle section. He is exalted ruler of the Elks lodge at that place and when he first came to Plainfield he sought out members of the order. Alexander Findlay, John Dent and others conected with Plainfield lodge gave him what information they could about the matter and also accompanied him to Cole's undertaking rooms.

On leaving for New Rochelle, Mr. Forbes said he was satisfied in his own mind that his father had not been murdered and that his death was caused by getting in front of a trolley car. The authorities have also arrived at the same conclusion and have dropped the case.

DENOUNCES SLANDERBUND

It had been said the party had become subject to the domination of selfish and unprincipled bosses. If that was true the party needed a severe remedy. Whether it was true was to be determined by looking over the party leaders. If the statement was true only so far as it applied to certain localities, the charges should not have been made against the party generally. It was admitted that local bosses existed. They always grow up in great parties. But the remedy for them was to be applied locally.

Leaders, as leaders, were not hateful. The question was, What kind of leaders are they? If they were patriotic and heartwhole in the service of the party, he honored them and took off his hat to them (applause). But there he stopped. If the leader was bad and tried to advance himself or use the party to wreak vengeance or personal foes, he said, "Down with them." The boss was not self-constituted; the people made him and the people could unmake him. But the judgement must be by the people of the vicinage; not by outsiders who did not know the facts or understand the situation.

In the recent primary battle he believed a gross injustice had been done by the general denunciation of the party leaders, and he was of the opinion that that fact had led to the failure of the movement. The party managers, in the State, if judged by what had been done, were all right. There was nothing in the record to condemn. Take them by individuals. Would anyone, in the quiet and sane atmosphere of their own closet, charge Senator Ackerman with being the servitor of some bigger boss? Or would he be classed as a representative citizen, ready to stand by the party and uphold it, so long as it was right? He so classed him. Assemblyman Perkins had been put in the black category, improperly, he thought, because he walked and talked with people so designated and would not join the new movement. And there was Major Briggs. The speaker knew him, as the most untiring and unselfish State chairman the party had ever had; a man who would scorn to do an improper or unpatriotic act. The people knew Foster M. Voorhees, Franklin Murphy and Edward C. Stokes. Were they to be called bosses? (Applause.) From such men had the party received its impetus. Influence, yes? Power? Great power, yes. But always used as deemed best for the party and the State. He called that leadership to be desired. (Applause.)

Corporation domination, whatever that might mean, had been charged. So much had been said about corporations that the speaker had begun to wonder what sort of a disease the anti-corporation mania had become. It was to be understood that he did not believe improper corporations should be tolerated. One thing had come out clearly, and that was that corporations have got to obey the laws made for their regulation. Hereafter, they must not only respect, but render due obedience to the law. (Applause.) What he referred to was the constant, hysterical cry that went up from Democratic and Hearst platforms on the mere catchword of "corporation." Corporations were merely bands of individuals, who had their everyday characters to live up to. Republicans should not give way to the wave of hysteria, but should judge and recognize the good in corporations; recognizing that the country could not get along without them. They should not be classed as graft-seekers or robbers without evidence.

There was a spirit abroad in the land which the speaker deplored and believed dangerous. A spirit which was seeking to create in the minds of the people the idea that no public man, no man of influence or power was honest or true, but that all were corrupt and unworthy of confidence. There was a crew of newspaper and magazine writers, who for mere paltry pay, had been writing up such things. Nearly every member of the Senate had been charged with being under the domination of money. Such men as the venerable Senator Fry, of Maine, and Spooner, of Wisconsin, who was as high-minded as George Washington, were not spared. Muckrakers like Steffens and Phillips appeared to think that the only honest man in the Senate was La Follette, of Wisconsin. In which opinion La Follette heartily concurred (laughter) because, forsooth, the rest of the Senators would not rise up and vote for his crazy bill.

It was not a nice spirit to prevail. He classed it as a kind of hysteria. The readers did not all actually believe what they read. The spirit was like that of a lynching. "Lynch him! Lynch him!" came the cry, and the people rushed for the rope, and the stake, led by the slanderbund, to wreak vengeance on some victim, unknowing whether he was innocent or guilty.

It was true, as had been admitted, that there were corrupt men in public life. They always grew up out of the conditions surrounding political organizations. But the question was, Was the party as a party dominated by corrupt influences? Could the people's will be stifled? Results should form the basis of judgement. The speaker instanced the franchise limitation bill to indicate the independence of the Republicans where corporation influence was likely to be shown. The railroad taxation law had met the extremest demand of its advocates. Did that indicate corporation domination?

The demand for a legislative rule compelling the committees to report all bills within a certain time was the outcome, the speaker felt, of the hotheaded desire of young members in the legislature to have every bill they presented brought to light and enacted into law. It would be a foolish self-governing body that allowed itself to be flooded with a clogging rush of bills by such a rule. It was the business of the committees to sift the good and desirable bills out, to determine what ought to be considered.

For a picture of bad bosses the people could turn back to the days of Democratic supremacy, when conditions were so bad that if a clerk of a district could in a city like Plainfield was to be appointed, the applicant could not get the place until he had seen Allen McDermott at Trenton and promised to pay a percentage of his salary into the Democratic treasury. That was a government by bosses, for bosses, and it led to peculation, embezzlement and scandal, until the people, awakened by the Voorhees investigation, arose and said "No more of this!" And they put the Republicans in power and there had been "no more" of it ever since.

Since 1896 the Republican party in New Jersey had been as clean as a hound's tooth. It had not only been clean, it had been unselfish. It had filled the coffers of the State with corporation tax money, relieved the people of all State tax, and paid over $1,000,000 a year for public schools.

Well, should there be reform? By all means, but not reform when reform was not needed. The Republican party could not be extreme; it was compelled by its record to be sincere. It must carry out its promises, and it could not seize on every "ism" that arose. It was the party of deliberation, and tried out all things, holding fast only to those which were good.

The speaker urged his hearers to strengthen the hands of the administration, after he had said that the weakness of the opposition was to be deplored, and that the Republican party had become too big for peaceful and united existence. C. N. Fowler, he said, was an able man, and wielded much influence in the House in his specialties, finance and banking. His opinion on such subjects was always sought, and he was as highly regarded as any representative. Mr. Fowler's name was greeted with applause.

Mr. Griggs closed with an appeal for cautious consideration of the new problems that were arising. "Be loyal, be patriotic," he said. "Don't let your party do anything just to meet the cry of the demagogue."

Mr. Voorhees said he did not intend to speak at length, and he kept his word. He warned the people not to be mislead by the cries of "reformers." The party had always been administered; and the State had always been administered, fairly and decently. Step by step, it had gone on, responsive always to the people's will. The leaders today, Mr. Voorhees said in conclusion, were only advisors.

Prominent party men were on the platform. Former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean, of Elizabeth, sat with his brother, Senator Kean, in the distinguished visitors' row.

Out of Tune.

Foster M. Voorhees awoke to the discordant touch his speech gave to the meeting, last night, after the affair closed. On their way to the station, he turned to Mr. Griggs. "John, I think I struck a false note tonight," he said regretfully. "Foster," replied the former Attorney General impressively, "you went so far off the key you smashed the whole piano."

Dined the Orators.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman entertained John W. Griggs, Foster M. Voorhees and John Kean at dinner, last night, before the mass meeting. The affair was informal, the only other guests being Charles J. Fisk and Charles F. Abbott. Mr. Abbott's son and Mr. Griggs' son married sisters.

HAPGOODS (Inc.) Brain Brokers.

305-309 Broadway, New York

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The coming of "Way Down East" to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night will doubtless prove as pleasant a visitor as any attraction the present season. "Way Down East" has a clientele of its own. It is an enthusiastic clientele, that finds more genuine enjoyment in this really delightful old New England play, than in any other form of stage offering. It is hardly necessary to dwell upon the story. It is a sort of classic of its kind, and although several years old is still a welcome attraction to the best of theatres. It holds on like a good old-fashioned sermon, punctuated with frequent touches of comedy, with impersonations of rural folks that fit very close to one's recollections of boyhood in the country. The production and company are in keeping with the traditions of "Way Down East," and nothing has been left undone that would further a perfect evening's pleasure.

"Queen of the Convicts," in which Selma Herman is the star, will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, is a thoroughly original play founded on the assassination of the late King and Queen of Servia. The crime is so recent and was of such wide-spread importance that it is not necessary to dwell at length on all the details of this, the world's greatest monarchial murder. Theodore Kremer, the author, was probably the only living American interested to the extent of journeying all the way to far off Belgrade fast as steamer would get him there. He at once became deeply impressed with all the plots and counter plots then raging, for it is well known the revolution was then at its highest pitch. Mr. Kremer spent much time mingling among the natives, learning their ways and their customs; when in reading over all the data he had so carefully compiled the idea suggested itself to his ever fertile imaginative brain, what a grand play all this would make.

When Manager Joseph M. Gaites superb singing organization with Cheridah Simpson at the head of it, presents "Red Feather," the successful romantic comic opera, at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, those who enjoy good music, well sung, will have a treat. It is needless to compare Mr. DeKoven's work with some of his other operas, for the score of "Red Feather" is said to fit its place and sentiment admirably and stands upon its own merits despite the fact, that in "Robin Hood," the composer set a standard which in the opinion of many theatre-goers it would be impossible for him to duplicate. The story of the opera is located in the mythical kingdom of Romancia and the scenes of the ideal region suggest the Alps and the Venice of Italy, with a touch of the Orient. The costuming is elaborate, not dependent on tinsel and stage jewelry, but presenting a series of artistic creations, ingenious in design and rich in material.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the coming engagement of the new college musical frolic, "The Harvard Girl." It is to the clever work of the company and the specialties introduced by the clever comedians that "The Harvard Girl" owes its popularity. There is a merry jingle to it. The company which is a large one is uniformly strong and pleasing. "The Harvard Girl" on the whole is bright and funny enough to dispel a case of the blues or entertain the most blase theatre-goer. This funny comedy will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night.

Ainie's collar button was lost, and in the wonderful search for it whole cities full of people have become interested and excited over the different phases of the case. Detectives and scientists have tried to unravel its mysteries; preachers have studied and talked on it; mothers and fathers have discussed it at the fireside; the sons and daughters have laughed and applauded in delight as it was gradually unfolded to them; friends called upon friends for news of it, but in the end there was no solution. The whole story and revelation of the same will be given by the D. W. Roberts Moving Picture Company of New York City at the New Plainfield theatre on Wednesday, October 31.

UNION COUNTY ORPHAN'S COURT.

In Matter of the Application of Vincent W. Nash, Administrator of Amos Moffett, Deceased, For Sale of Land to Pay Debts. | Order to Show Cause.

Vincent W. Nash, administrator of Amos Moffett, deceased, having exhibited to this Court under oath, a just and true account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay his debts, and requested the aid of the Court in the premises: It is, on this twelfth day of September, nineteen hundred and six, ordered that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, and real estate of said Amos Moffett, deceased, appear before the Court, at the Court House, in the City of Elizabeth, on the fourteenth day of November next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause why so much of said lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said Amos Moffett, deceased, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his debts, or the residue thereof, as the case may require. And it is further ordered, that this order be set up and published in one of the newspapers of this State, as by the statute directed.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

I signed the bill, and we went afoot up the avenue. Sam, as I saw with a good deal of amusement, was trying to devise some subtle, tactful way of attaching his poor, clumsy little suction-pump to the well of my secret thoughts.

"What is it Sammy?" said I at last. "What do you want to know that you're afraid to ask me?"

"Nothing," he said hastily. "I'm only a bit worried about—about you and textile. Matt,"—this in the tone of deep emotion we reserve for the attempt to lure friends into confiding that about themselves which will give us the opportunity to pity them, and, if necessary, to sheer off from them—"Matt, I do hope you haven't been hard hit?"

"Not yet," said I easily. "Dry your tears and put away your black clothes. Your friend, Tom Langdon, was a little premature."

"I'm afraid I've given you a false impression," Sam continued, with an overeagerness to convince me that did not attract my attention at the time. "Tom merely said, 'I hear Blackiock is loaded up with textile shorts,'—that was all. A careless remark. I really didn't think of it again until I saw you looking so black and glum."

That seemed natural enough, so I changed the subject. As we entered his house, I said:

"I'll not go up to the drawing-room. Make my excuses to your mother, will you? I'll turn into the little smoking-room here. Tell your sister—and say I'm going to stop only a moment."

Sam had just left me when the butler came. "Mr. Ball—I think that was the name, sir—wishes to speak to you on the telephone."

I had given Ellerslay's as one of the places at which I might be found, should it be necessary to consult me. I followed the butler to the telephone closet under the main stairway. As soon as Ball made sure it was I, he began:

"I'll use the code words. I've just seen Fearless, as you told me to."

Fearless—that was Mitchell, my spy in the employ of Tavistock, who was my principal rival in the business of confidential brokerage for the high financiers. "Yes," said I. "What does he say?"

"There has been a great deal of heavy buying for a month past."

Then my dread was well founded—textiles were to be deliberately rocketed. "Who's been doing it?" I asked.

"He found out only this afternoon. It's been kept unusually dark. It—"

"Who? Who?" I demanded.

"Intrepid," he answered.

Intrepid—that is, Langdon—Mowbray Langdon!

"The whole thing was planned carefully," continued Ball, "and is coming off according to schedule. Fearless overheard a final message Intrepid's brother brought from him to-day."

So it was no mischance—it was an assassination. Mowbray Langdon had stabbed me in the back and fled.

"Did you hear what I said?" asked Ball. "Is that you."

"Yes," I replied.

"Oh," came in a relieved tone from the other end of the wire. "You were so long in answering that I thought I'd been cut off. Any instructions?"

"No," said I. "Good-by."

I heard him ring off, but I sat there for several minutes, the receiver still to my ear. I was muttering: "Langdon, Langdon — why — why—why?" again and again. Why had he turned against me? Why had he plotted to destroy me—one of those plots so frequent in Wall street—where the assassin steals up, delivers the mortal blow, and steals away without ever being detected or even suspected? I saw the whole plot now—I understood Tom Langdon's activities, I recalled Mowbray Langdon's curious phrases and looks and tones. But—why—why—why? How was I in his way?

It was all dark to me—pitch-dark. I returned to the smoking-room, lighted a cigar, sat fumbling at the new situation. I was in no worse plight than before—what did it matter who was attacking me? In the circumstances, a novice could now destroy me as easily as a Langdon. Still, Ball's news seemed to take away my courage. I reminded myself that I was used to treachery of this sort, that I deserved what I was getting because I had, like a fool, dropped my guard in the fight that is always on every-man-for-himself. But I reminded myself in vain. Langdon's smiling treachery made me heart-sick.

Soon Anita appeared—preceded and heralded by a faint rustling from soft and clinging skirts, that swept my nerves like a love-tune.

I think my torment must have somehow penetrated to her. For she was sweet and friendly—and she could not have hurt me worse! If I had followed my impulse I should have fallen at her feet and buried my face, scorching, in the folds of that pale blue, faintly-shimmering robe of hers.

"Do throw away that huge, hideous cigar," she said, laughing. And she took two cigarettes from the box, put both between her lips, lit them, held one toward me. I looked at her face, and along her smooth, bare, outstretched arm, and at the pink, slender fingers holding the cigarette. I took it as if I were afraid the spell would be broken, should my fingers touch hers. Afraid—that's it! That's why I didn't pour out all that was in my heart. I deserved to lose her.

"I TOOK IT AS THOUGH I WERE AFRAID THE SPELL WOULD BE BROKEN."

"I'm taking you away from the others," I said. We could hear the murmur of many voices and of music.

Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness—Profit by Plainfield People's Experiences.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time, but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swellings below the eyes, bloating of limbs or ankles, or any other part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old-time health and vigor will return. Cures in Plainfield prove the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Charles H. Lippencott, painter, of 107 Somerset street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "The statement made by me some years ago regarding what Doan's Kidney Pills had done for me was not only true at that time but now, four years later, I am glad to confirm it. I had dull, heavy pains around by groins, dreadful backache, dizzy spells and in damp weather or when I caught sold the trouble was so bad I could not get about. I tried my best to find some prescription or remedy to cure me, but without success. I was suffering intensely when I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy, but it only required a few doses to convince me that I had the right remedy. In a short time I was cured. I have used your remedy since then and with the same satisfactory result. I am glad to say anything in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Alec Smith, of the Nassau Country Club, added another title to his long list by winning the first annual championship tournament of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association over the links of the Forest Hill Field Club yesterday. The national and Western title holder returned a 36-hole score of 146, making a 73 each round. This total was good enough to win by a margin of three strokes from Alec Campbell, of the Country Club, Brookline, who returned 149. Dave Hunter, of the Essex County Country Club, and George Thompson, of the Roseville Golf Club, were tied for third and fourth moneys at 152 each.

There were forty-six starters, and of this number all save three returned cards. One of these was Will Gaudin, of Poughkeepsie, a high-class player, who, after taking an 81 in the morning, due chiefly to weak putting, beeame disgusted with his play in the afternoon and finally decided to give up.

There were a number of hard luck stories and "Marty" O'Loughlin's drew forth the most sympathy. After returning a 78 in the morning, the Plainfield home-bred got going at a pace in the afternoon that gave promise of landing him a second place. He was even 4s for fifteen holes, and then a drive, a trifle off the line, left his ball in an almost unplayable position. He had been figuring on getting a 3, but, under the circumstances, was lucky to hole out in 6. Another bit of hard luck made matters worse at the seventeenth, so that instead of finishing with about a 73, he had to be content with another 78.

Smith won first money, $125, and Campbell the second prize of $85, Hunter and Thompson divided $120, while fifth prize, amounting to $40, went to Orrin Terry. George Pearson and M. Brady divided sixth and seventh moneys, equal to $50. The last three moneys amounted to $30, for which the following seven tied: Stewart, Gardner, Horace Rawlins, "Jack" Pearson, "Marty" O'Loughlin, Herbert Strong, "Dave" Honeyman and "Bob" Peebles.

TRINITY ENDEAVORERS HEAR YEAR'S REPORT

TWENTY-FIRST YEAR OF SOCIETY FINDS IT IN GOOD SHAPE.

The last social this season under the auspices of the present social committee of the Christian Endeavor Society, was held at Trinity Reformed church, last night. An excellent programme was prepared, including progressive games, vocal and instrumental selections. All sorts of games were played, those participating being allowed five minutes at each table. At the sound of a bell the playing would cease and partners would change. This afforded lots of fun for the young people. During the evening Miss Elsie Dunavan, an accomplished young pianist, gave several selections and Miss Anna Randall sang several numbers.

After the programme, Miss Lucie Coriell, the retiring recording secretary, presented her annual report which completes the twenty-first year of the society. The report shows that during the first year the society numbered eighty-six active and six associate members, while at the beginning of last year the roll showed ninety-nine active and four associate members, a gain of seven new members during the year. Last year the gain was twelve. During the year fourteen members have transferred from the active to the absent list, one from the honorary to the active list, one from the associate to the active list and three have been dropped. The present enrollment is 77 active and six associate.

Forty-six meetings were held during the year, outside of business sessions. The total attendance was 1,630, an average of 36 at each meeting. Last year forty-eight meetings were held with a total attendance of 1,705 and an average of thirty-five. The largest number present at any one meeting was seventy-four on February 5, Christian Endeavor Day. The largest number of active members at a consecration meeting was thirty-four. One member was present at every consecration meeting and three sent verses when absent. Last year three members attended every consecration meeting.

In order to increase the attendance, it was decided to change the time of meeting from Monday to Sunday night before the evening preaching service. There has been a marked improvement in attendance as a result, and greater interest.

There have been expended for benevolent purposes $2 to the Station Christian Endeavor Union, $8 to the Board of Domestic Missions for Christion Endeavor church fund, half dozen dolls to be divided between Miss Curry's fresh air work and Mrs. Dassoris' Italian Mission; to the Board of Domestic Missions, $9.58; to the Board of Domestic Missions for the Indians, $10; to the Board of Foreign Missions, $9.57; to the Board of Foreign Missions for Arabia, $10, and to the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union, $1. The flower committee raised $3 for flowers which were sent to the funeral of a late member. The report also shows that all of the committees have been very busy and have accomplished much work during the year.

The committee in charge of the social consisted of Miss Harriet Randall, chairman; Miss Anna Randall, Mr. and Mrs. William Kriney, Miss Lucie Coriel and Henry Seader.

It was conducted by Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and Rev. J. W. COUNCIL OF EDUCATION

First Annual Meeting of Newly Made Body to Meet at Jersey City.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Dr. Maxson, Prof. Krebs and Principal Travell Will Probably Be Present at the Deliberations.

The first annual meeting of the State Council of Education, as provided by an act of the last Legislaturefi will be held at the city hall, Jersey City, on Friday and Saturday, November 9 and 10. Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools, and Ira W. Travell, principal of the Plainfield High School, and Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of North Plainfield, will probably attend.

Among the speakers at the council will be Superintendent Charles J. Baxter, of the State department of public instruction; J. Howard Hulsart, Ph. D., Superintendent H. Brewster Willis; Professor Louis Bevier, Jr., Dr. James M. Green, of the State schools; Professor A. C. Apgar, Randall Spalding, A. B., Superintendent A. B. Meredith and C. W. Evans, A. M.

Matters of vital importance to those interested in educational work will be discussed. The State Department of Public Instruction has announced the programme, which will include a discussion on the Teachers' County institute, and the necessity for standard work in partial high schools as well as in the approved high schools of this State. The council will also take up the nature work for schools, this being of special interest to agriculturalists and yet of general interest in school work.

The first day's work will be given over to a discussion of problems of school administration.

1. The Teachers' County institute, which will include the threshing out of the present need of maintaining these time honored institutions; the advisability of holding two Saturday institutions during the school year, instructors to be paid and all necessary incidental expenses to be provided for, as now, by State appropriation; the advantages of Saturday institutes, teachers not being surfeited with instruction as in a continuous two or three days' session, and school work not interfered with at a time of the year when it is usually most intense; the probable success of institutes depending upon voluntary attendants; and the compensation for such attendance.

2. The necessity for standard work in partial high schools as well as in approved high schools.

The nature work for schools will be taken up Saturday.

NETHERWOOD CLUB FORMALLY ORGANIZED.

Officers Chosen and Constitution Adopted by St. Stephen's Parish Club.

The members of the Netherwood Club, recently organized in the parish house of St. Stephen's church, met last night, adopted the constitution and elected these officers for the year: President, Dr. Dupuy; vice president, William R. Beale, Jr.; secretary and treasurer, William R. Townsend.

It was decided to hold a business meeting on the first Monday night in each month and there will be social gatherings on Monday and Thursday nights of each week. The club room at the parish house has been supplied with all kinds of games, including pool and billiards. On night other than Monday and Thursday the rector, Rev. A. S. Peck, will allow the use of the rooms as he thinks best. Any man is eligible to join the club, and must not necessarily be identified with St. Stephen's church.

Jury Disagreed.

The jury in the District Court case of Isaac Lockman against Ann Kane, for the recovery of $100 paid in a realty deal, were unable to agree yesterday afternoon. The action will be tried again before Judge Swift and a jury. F. J. Blatz is Lockman's lawyer and W. G. DeMeza represents the defendant.

Plans for Theatre Meeting.

The Religious Work Committee of the Y. M. C. A. will meet tonight to plan for the big theatre meeting to be held November 11. The speaker has already been secured. He is E. T. Colton, who is associated with John R. Mott in the effort to "evangelize the world in this generation."

John Street Undergoing Change.

Contractor C. M. Meeker has placed a large gang of men at work macadamizing John street from Fourth street to Seventh. The street has been in bad condition for years through the changing of grade, but it will now be made one of the best short thoroughfares in the West End.

BOBBY'S MISSING CLERK CAUGHT IN WESTFIELD

JOHN A. M'GILVRAY'S HOME COMING BROKEN UP BY PETIT LARCENY CHARGE

John A. McGilvray, the young man who is charged with having decamped with the proceeds of a week's business of Bobby Leach's lunch wagon, collected during Bobby's absence on a trip to New England, was captured in Westfield last night after a search of several weeks. Westfield is McKilvray's home.

After Leach returned to town and made complaint on his missing clerk, the police could find no trace of the young man. Chief of Police O'Neil, of Westfield, was asked to keep a lookout for him, however, and last night he telephoned Chief Kiely that the young man had returned home.

"Get him quick," said the chief, and O'Neil lost no time in breaking up McGilvray's home-coming.

The young man waived examination before Justice Mosher this morning, and furnished bail in $300 for his appearance before the Grand Jury. The bond was given by Robert Woodruff, of Westfield. The charge is petit larceny.

PREPARATIONS BEING MADE FOR EVANGELISTIC [illegible]

Volunteers at Rehearsal of Revival Hymns at the First Baptist Church.

The service held at the First Baptist church, last night, preparatory to the evangelistic meetings which begin on Sunday, was largely attended. The time was devoted to learning the hymns in the new revival book. A number of persons who will form part of the large chorus choir were present.

Dr. Chambliss was in charge of the meeting and spoke of the coming of Rev. Dr. Wharton, the evangelist. He said that he had received encouragement from the pastors and members of other churches that they would join in the special meetings.

Rev. Dr. Wharton, who will conduct the evangelistic meetings, was formerly pastor of a Baptist church at Baltimore, but has been engaged in revival work with great success for some time. When he gave up his pastorate his people regretted his departure to such an extent that they engaged an assistant pastor for a year or more, still retaining Dr. Wharton as pastor in the hope that he would return. He finally decided to remain in the special work. Recently, the Baltimore church extended a call to Dr. Wharton to resume his pastorate, but he has given no definite answer as yet.

One Hundred Years of Missions.

There will be an echo of the centennial of the founding of foreign missions at the Hope chapel midweek meeting tonight. Rev. L. B. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, was the only local minister in attendance at this unique celebration, where he saw and heard representatives of many races, and church workers from all over the world. The meeting tonight will be donated to a report of that occasion and all persons interested will be welcome.

Its Success Assured.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the Timbo Social Club ball, which will be given in Saengerbund hall a week from tomorrow night, has received assurance that many of its friends from Elizabeth, Newark, New Brunswick and other places will attend. The local sale of tickets has been large and from indications the ball will be the most successful the club has ever conducted.

Will Elect New Set of Officers.

In the proposed plan of consolidating the Plainfield Relief Association and the Organized Aid Association, there will be a whole set of new officers chosen from among the members of both organizations. It is believed that by the consolidation the charity work of the city can be attended to more satisfactorily and with less possibility of doubling up in giving aid

PUNISHMENT IN STORE FOR CONVIVIAL NEWARKER

THIRD OF TRIO WHO ABUSED HORSE TO BE BROUGHT TO TRIAL.

A convivial Newarker, who has been congratulating himself for a day or two on his clever escape from the Plainfield police at the time two of his companions were arrested for cruelly abusing a jaded horse, is to have an unpleasant awakening. A warrant has been sworn out against him by Chief of Police Kiely, and the same charge that resulted in fines of $25 apiece in the cases of his companions will be pressed.

He was with Thomas Ball and George Gay, both of Newark, when Patrolman Higgins, after a sharp chase on a bicycle, captured them on Monday. They were arrested in response to a telephone message from Chief O'Neil, of the Westfield police, whose attention was called to them as they drove through his town, lashing an almost exhausted horse without mercy. The trio was drunk. The horse they drove belonged to David Cody, a Newark liveryman.

When Higgins caught up with the buggy Ball and Gay fell into his grasp, but the third man leaped into the roadway and escaped. Ball and Gay protested steadfastly that they did not know his name. Chief Kelly felt that the man deserved all the punishment that the others had received, and he used all the resources at his command to trace him out. He succeeded yesterday afternoon, and this morning he had Justice Mosher prepare a warrant. The paper will be served in Newark this afternoon, and the man will be brought here for trial. The chief thought it best this morning to withhold his name from publication until he had been taken.

STATE ROAD COMMISSION MAKES IMPORTANT RULING

ALL ROADS MUST HEREAFTER BE INSPECTED BEFORE IMPROVED.

State Road Commissioner Hutchinson put out an important ruling in his department this week—not to approve the building of any road in any county until he had been over the proposed road and made a personal inspection of the highway, in company with the engineer of the county and the road committee of the Board of Freeholders. A modification to this rule will be that the Deputy State Road Commissioner, Engineer Meeker, of Plainfield, may go over the proposed road in lieu of the State Road Commissioner, only in this case Mr. Meeker's autograph must be affixed to the blue print of the final plans.

"I made this rule," said Mr. Hutchinson, "in order that saving may be made to the county in which the road is to be built. I find that engineers plan elegant roads on paper, but an inspection sometimes of the land on both sides of the road will show how a couple of thousand dollars may be saved. As the State pays one-third of these moneys, it is worth saving to the State, and doubly so to the county, which pays two-thirds of the construction. Also, in this way extras may be cut off. I do not like extras. They eat up money, and while in some cases they are unavoidable, I believe that boards of freeholders benefit themselves and their constituents when they see that there are no extras on any job.

"As to personal inspection of the land over which a road is to be built, there certainly can result a saving. For instance, had the department put its foot down hard when the Harlingen road was built in Somerset county there would have resulted a saving of two or three thousand dollars and one of the worst death traps in the roads avoided. Now it will pay to have inspection of roads before any work is done. I am doing this now."

Annual Reunion 11th Regiment.

The annual reunion of the 11th Regiment New Jersey Veterans' Volunteer Association will be held in the rooms of Lincoln Post, G. A. R., Newark, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. This will also be the forty-second anniversary of the battle of Boyndton Plank Road on Hatcher's Run, in which the regiment took a conspicuous part. The Plainfielders who are members of this association are William Hand, John Goodwin, T. O. Doane, T. B. Titsworth, Isaac Randolph, Henry Molleson and William Payne.

Delegates to Annual Meetings.

The State Federation of Women's Clubs will hold the annual meetings tomorrow and Saturday. The delegates appointed by the Monday Afternoon Club, of this city, are Mrs. Robert Lowry, Mrs. James R. Joy and Mrs. D. M. VanVliet; alternate, Mrs. James W. DeGraff.

"NEW IDEA" MEN TO ACT

Colbyite Central Committee Will Express Disapproval of Voorhees' Remarks.

"DISCORDANT NOTES"

Local Colby Leaders Consider That Elizabeth Man's Speech Was a Direct Insult to Them.

When former Governor Griggs told former Governor Voorhees that he had done more than struck a few discordant notes at the Republican mass meeting—he had smashed the whole piano—he proved himself a good prophet for official cognizance of the Elizabeth spellbinder's remarks will be taken by the Colbyites, at whom he aimed his shafts of oratory. The Central Committee of the "New Idea" men has called a special meeting for Tuesday night to take action on the alleged insults flung at them. The deliberations will be held in the Camera Club rooms and will probably be behind closed doors.

There has been harmony in big chunks within the party since the recent bitterly fought primaries, but Mr. Voorhees got woefully off the key Tuesday night when singing the praises of the G. O. P. None of the local leaders gave any endorsement to his remarks; in fact they were only too quick to disavow them. It is not supposed that the Colbyites will take any drastic action but they will probably assert their emphatic disapproval of the Governor's speech.

The main part of Mr. Voorhees speech was devoted to an attack on those who had opposed the regular Republican organization at the recent primaries. Among the statements that incensed the Colbyites was one to the effect that before any "New Idea" man could come out for public office he had to be baptized in the faith by Senator Colby.

COLORED MAN ATTACKS YOUNG WHITE WOMAN.

Driver Hears Her Cries and Chases Negro Who Makes Good His Escape.

The report of a bold attack on a young white woman by a colored man on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, has caused a sensation in the West End of the city. The young woman was walking along West Front street, going home from town, when she passed a negro near Plainfield avenue. He followed her some distance.

Suddenly the colored man is alleged to have grabbed her by the arm and dragged her into the vacant lot at West Front street and Giraud avenue. The driver of a grocery wagon passing at the time, it is said, heard the screams of the young woman, and the approach of the rig frightened the negro, who ran away. He was chased some distance but finally made his escape.

The young woman suffering from a nervous shock was just able to reach her home, where she related her experience. Chief Kiely, when asked about the matter today, said that he had heard nothing about it.

AN OIL MAGNATE.

Bonwell Struck It Rich and Will Settle Down Here.

C. E. Bonwell, who recently purchased F. W. Runyon's house on Madison avenue, has taken possession. Mr. Bonwell is an oil and gas speculator. While prospecting in the mountains of Virginia, where he purchased many acres of land, he struck a gusher, pronounced to be one of the best ever discovered in that State. The Standard Oil Company soon learned of the well and at once made arrangements to buy the oil from it.

Mr. Bonwell recently figured in two very important deals, whereby he disposed of some of his holdings for good round figures to Pittsburg capitalists. He is still interested in several natural gas wells in Virginia, from which he derives a princely sum. Mr. Bonwell is now in Virginia closing up some deals, preparatory to coming here to stay.

Planning for School Reception.

Principal Ira W. Travell, of the Plainfield High School, has called a meeting for tomorrow of the class presidents of the High School to arrange for a reception to be given in the assembly room of the school to the freshmen. The reception will be given Monday night, November 5, and will be the first affair of the kind held at the school. It is proposed to appoint a committee of ten pupils from each class to take care of the details.

S. pension department; Rev. I. W. L. Roundtree, of Trenton, and George Gregory. A brass band from Elizabeth will furnish the music.

REV. P. M. DOOLITTLE VICTIM OF HEART TROUBLE

WAS PASTOR OF NORTH BRANCH FOR FIFTY YEARS.

Rev. P. M. Doolittle, for fifty years pastor of the North Branch Reformed church, died suddenly at his home in that village last night. He was one of the best known ministers in this part of the State and had frequently addressed local congregations. He retired in his usual health last evening but his wife was awakened by his deep breathing in the night and before assistance could be summoned he had passed away. Heart trouble is ascribed as the cause.

Mr. Doolittle was seventy-five years old and was a graduate of Rutgers College. He was a classmate of Rev. DeWitt Talmadge, the noted divine and the two always maintained a warm friendship. The North Branch church was his first and only pastorate and he was always held in the highest esteem by the members. Because of his advanced age, he recently announced that he would retire from active work and he was to have preached his last sermon next Sunday.

Beside his wife, he leaves two married daughters, both of whim live in the North Branch vicinity.

WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGNING.

Somerset Democratic Candidates Start County Tour On Monday.

The Somerset Democratic candidates will start a week's whirlwind tour on Monday morning, the intention being to cover all parts of the county. Mass meetings will be held at North Plainfield, Bernards, Bound Brook and Somerville and short talks will be given in the rural districts.

In the party of spell binders will be W. V. Steele, Assembly candidate; J. Allen Southwick, congressional nominee, and former Assemblyman George E. Pace. David J. Carney will take the candidates in charge when they reach North Plainfield and will pilot them about among the party workers.

O. F. C. Preparing for Hard Work.

The Orange Field Club is getting down to good hard work. On Monday night there was a try-out for the eleven known as the champions of New Jersey. Each man on the team must weigh at least 150 pounds. John Lyness, formerly of the Plainfield High School eleven, and who has an excellent record, has been chosen to play right half back, which is his old position. Without doubt he will make good.

JOHN JONES LEAVES MUHLENBURG TODAY

FORMALITY OF HEARING TO BE GONE THROUGH BEFORE JUSTICE.

John L. Jones, the rigger who was shot by William Smith Terry, of New street, while climbing into the Terry bedroom under the impulse of a beautifully complete old jag, left Muhlenberg Hospital this forenoon to face a charge of attempted burglary before Justice Mosher. Although it has become plain beyond any doubt that Jones is not a crook, and that he didn't know what he was up to the night of the shooting, the charge that was made the morning after, when it was not known that he was only a simple rigger with a proclivity for toots, makes it necessary for him to go through the motions of a bad, bad man in the grip of the law.

Chief Kiely said this morning that the man would be held for the Grand Jury, without bail, as provided by law, but that his release under bond would probably follow very promtly at Elizabeth. It is pretty certain that the Grand Jury will take no further accounting from Jones. A bullet in the chest is regarded as ample punishment for a souse in police circles.

Jones was brought to police headquarters from the hospital, at noon, in the patrol wagon, in the custody of Patrolman Higgins. He has fully recovered from the effects of his wound.

HER GROANS SAVED YOUNG WOMAN'S LIFE.

No One Saw Her Slip Under Train at South Plainfield Station.

As the passengers were hurrying from the 6:20 train at South Plainfield, last night, they were startled by a groan from underneath one of the cars. The hurried investigation disclosed Miss Brick, a South Plainfield young woman, lying in a semi-conscious condition beneath one of the platforms.

She was not severely hurt, and revived under the care of her rescuers. She had jumped from the platform before the train came to a full stop, and fell, stunned and shaken, beneath the platform. No one saw her fall, and if her groans had not attracted attention the train would have crushed out her life when it started.

She was taken to her home on Front street in W. E. Smith's carriage.

RAIDED GROWLER PARTY.

Marshal Dooley Bogs Three Members of a Crowd Chasing the Pail.

Marshal Peter Dooley, of the borough police force, stumbled upon a large-sized growler party along the bank of Tier's lake, yesterday afternoon, and broke it up by merely approaching the members. They "twenty-threed" it to the city side and renewed the festivities until a member of Chief Kiely's staff "shooed" them back and they picked out another place on Chatham street.

The pail was being passed around with merry jest at the expense of the bluecoats when Marshal Dooley again hove in sight and bagged three of the party before they could get away. His prisoners were Barney Tracey, Charley Williams and Charles Tippett, all three showing the effects of a generous supply of German joy. Mayor Smalley will dispose of them tonight.

Newspaper Men Advance.

Allen E. Beals, a former member of The Daily Press staff who has been city editor of the Elizabeth Times for the past two years, has resigned his position to become a member of the editorial staff of the Star, Newark's new morning paper. He has always enjoyed the reputation of being a newspaper man of ability and resources and his promotion is well deserved. Mr. Beals' place as city editor will be taken by Francis K. Anderson, of this city, also a member of The Daily Press staff at one time. He has made rapid strides in newspaper work and is now one of the best known of the craft in the county. He is sure to make a valuable man in his new position.

Polk Miller Is Great.

The sale of tickets for the Y. M. C. A. Star Course has been rapid and large. The course will open with a rare amusement treat—Polk Miller and his Old South Quartette. A woman from Virginia told Mr. Robbie this morning that she would not miss Mr. Miller's performance for a good deal.

Mr. Mathewson's Treatise.

A treatise by Chester Arthur Mathewson entitled "The Behavior of the Pollen-tube in Houstonia (Bluets) Coerulea," has just been issued by the department of science of Columbia University. Mr. Matthewson is instructor of Biology in the Plainfield High School.

Y.M.C.A. BOYS TO MEET

New Jersey Conference to be Held at Montclair Beginning Tomorrow.

PLAINFIELD MEMBERS

Boys' Secretary Barrows to Attend—Programme for the Two Days' Sessions.

Preparations for the annual conference of the boys' departments of the Young Men's Christian Associations of New Jersey, which will be held in Montclair, tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday, are about completed. The greater part of the initiatory work on which the success of the conference depends has been done by Charles R. Scott, State secretary of boys' work, of Newark; Z. L. Wilcox, boys' secretary, of Montclair; Noble P. Randel, physical director, Montclair, and George H. Hall, chairman of the entertainment committee, also of Montclair.

Headed by Boys' Secretary Haydon W. Barrows, the following members of the Plainfield junior department will join in the conference: Fred Smith, G. Stanley Karner, Russell Morris, G. Stanley Robins, Walter Droll and Carl Strong. They will remain in Montclair until the conference ends.

The conference will be for the older boys of the association only, those over 14 years of age, and will include delegates from the following named towns, which will be represented by the number of delegates given: Belleville, 6; Camden, 8; Elizabeth, 7; Freehold, 6; Haddonfield, 2; Hightstown, 1; Jersey City, 3; Lakewood, 8; Montclair, 9; Madison, 7; Morristown, 9; New Brunswick, 5; Newark, 18; Orange, 13; Paterson, 9; Plainfield, 5; Passaic, 7; Rahway, 8; Riverton, 1; Red Bank, 5; Ridgewood, 8; Sterling, 4; Scotch Plains, 3; Summit, 8, and Trenton, 11. There will be twenty-eight or thirty Montclair boys who will take part in the conference, but only the number given above will be accredited delegates; the others will act as ushers and assistants to the secretaries. In addition to those taking part from the different associations of this State, there will be delegations present from New York, Brooklyn, Boston, Poughkeepsie, New Haven and Hartford.

When the boys' conferences were started in 1891 but forty-five boys took part. Last year, when the conference was held in Camden, over 400 boys, representing all sections of the State, participated. At this year's conference it was decided that more effective work could be done with a lesser number, and the delegations were cut down, so that there will be less than 200 boys at Montclair.

One of the primary objects of the conference is to interest boys in the work of the Y. M. C. A. and to plan to make the associations both interesting and helpful to the members. With this object in view Mr. Scott has written to principals of high schools all over the State for their co-operation.

The first session of the conference will be held at Association hall tomorrow evening, at which Rev. Allen A. Stockdale, of Berkeley temple, Boston, will address the boys on "The Man I Make." H. O. Kight, of Camden, will lead the singing, and Walter H. Wones, of Newark, will conduct the devotional eservices at this and all other sessions held in Montclair. The instrumental music will be furnished by the State Boys' orchestra, Mark Andrews, Montclair, leader. The sessions on Saturday will be held at the First Methodist church. At the afternoon meeting Rev. E. M. Fergusson, State secretary of the New Jersey Sunday-schools, will lead a discussion of "A Plan for Telling Stories." Rev. Dr. John Fulton Patterson, of Orange, will give an address at night. The delegates are requested to attend service with their hosts on Sunday morning. A preparatory service and conference, under the direction of Mr. Scott, will be held in the afternoon at 2:45 o'clock, and at 3:30 o'clock a mass meeting will be held at the High School auditorium, at which John T. Sproull, of Arlington, will speak. A farewell service, conducted by Charles T. Killborne, of Orange, will take place in Association hall at night.

Resignation Accepted.

At its meeting last night, Plainfield lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., accepted the resignation of Judge William N. Runyon, tendered last week. A committee was appointed to draw resolutions expressing regret at the officer's action. His successor will be elected next week.

Mr. De Koven's music is always satisfactory. There are at least a dozen musical numbers, all pleasing and many of them up to the very best work that De Koven has ever done. Possibly with the intention of surpassing his notable "Robin Hood" music, Mr. De Koven was most ambitious in his writing for the "Red Feather" score and the result is a glorious offering of solos, duets, madrigals, marches, chorruses and ensembles.

A very choice offering to the amusement seekers of Plainfield is the new college musical frolic, "The Harvard Girl."

Scene in "Queen of the Convicts," at New Plainfield Theatre Tomorrow Night.

Much that is wholesome in the comedy field has been packed into two hours and a half of invigorating fun centering about the actions of some of the cleverest of comedians and comediennes. The action of the play is fast and genuinely funny, never degenerating into horse-play. It is a laughable success, as gingery and effervescent as wine of ten years vintage. There has been no expense spared to make this one of the leading musical comedies in America at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night.

Those who like scenic display with their theatrical entertainment of the practical, feasible sort, should not miss going to see the new and sensational melodrama, "The Confessions of a Wife," by Owen Davis, which is to hold the boards at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. This play fairly bristles with well painted canvas effects and the best work of the stage carpenter. A. H. Woods, the popular theatrical manager, who owns the play, has spent $20,000 for scenery, costumes, etc.—no mean item, to be sure, in this progressive theatrical era. In the main the locale of this sensational play is in the country, far from the glamor and strife of the city.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 31, at the New Plainfield theatre, the D. W. Robertson's famous moving picture company will give anohter of their matchless moving picture entertainments on the very latest subjects. One of the many great features in moving picture art, will be "The Great Automobile Race for the Vanderbilt Cup." Another picture of great interest will be "The Futurity Race," "The Snap Shot Fiend," "The Man With the Ladder and the Hose," "The Wig Chase" and many others. All the latest illustrated songs will be presented with special entertainment by Will Davis, James J. Haack and others. One of the interesting features in this programme will be the description of all the moving pictures while in motion by Mr. Robertson, who will personally conduct the programme. This will be Mr. Robertson's tenth visit to Plainfield and from the present indications and the demand for seats, there will be another overflowing house to greet him and the return of D. W. Robertson's famous moving picture company to Plainfield.

—The Plainfield Board of Health will hold its regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon, November 6.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A spirit of improvement is visible along Lehigh avenue. The residents are vieing with each other in keeping the street in front of their places free of rubbish. An old tin wash boiler has been lying around the street for several months and credit is due to the party who removed it.

Two very dangerous places which demand the attention of the road master is a water tap which is high above the roadbed at the corner of Lehigh and Maple avenues, and a broken plank, leading from the sidewalk to the street, in front of Mrs. Van Nest's property.

A rehearsal of the plays to be given at Marconnier chapel tomorrow night will be held at the home of the Misses Johnson, this evening. This will be the last rehearsal and it is necessary that every one taking part should be present.

"Red Feather," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, is a reversion to straight comic opera, the music by Reginald De Koven, book by Charles Klein, author of David Warfield's success, "The Music Master" and of "The Lion and the Mouse," and the lyrics by Charles Emerson Cook. The story is interesting and the thread of the plot is more closely followed than has been usual of late. Mr. Cook's lyrics are singable and clever and

GOLF.

The event of especial interest in local golf circles will be the final play for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday. C. B. Morgan now holds the lead with 14½ points, but C. A. Stover and Arthur Murphy are so close to him that it is a toss up as to the probable winner, with all three having a fighting chance.

It is unusual for an outsider on a visiting team to establish a course record, yet on Saturday, when Montclair beat Essex county at the Hutton Park course by 14 to 12, Jerome D. Travers accomplished the feat. Travers put out C. W. O'Connor and established a new record with a score of 75.

Robert Abbott, Yale, and Dudley H. Barrows, Princeton, have concluded big tournament play for the season and returned to their studies at their respective colleges. All things considered both players made excellent records this year.

The last of a series of six competitions at medal play for the Governor's cup, finished at the Oakland Golf Club, Bayside, on Monday, resulted in a victory for Herbert R. Peck. He won with several strokes to spare, negotiating the round in 89, which, with a six handicap, gave him 83, six strokes better than J. Henry Haggerty, whose net score was 89.

That impetuosity that has so often won for "W. G." at cricket has followed him to the links. In a four-ball foursome on Friday, October 5, on the Mid-Surrey golf links, in which Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein, P. J. de Paravicini, Dr. W. G. Grace and G. W. Beldam were playing, the two latter, who were partners, when approaching the sixth green played simultaneously and their balls collided in the air. This was distinctly seen by Prince Albert and one of the caddies. It was further demonstrated, as G. W. Beldam was certain he would be hole high, but on getting up to the bunker found his ball in it, W. G. Grace's being on the green.

The second tricity matches for the Lesley cup will be played at the Merion Cricket Club, near Philadelphia, tomorrow and Saturday. The match, which has taken the place of the old semi-annual match between New York and Philadelphia, had its first decision last fall when the Metropolitan Golf Association team won. Walter Travis was the captain and the others on the team were Jerome Travers, Findlay Douglas, C. B. Macdonald, C. H. Seely, Devereaux Emmet, Harold Wilcox, Daniel Chauncey, John M. Ward, Archibald Graham and Percy R. Pyne, 2d. Travis is again to be the captain, and on Saturday he said the team had not as yet been fully decided on. There will be a number of new faces, but the list will comprise Travers and Douglas, who is back from a visit to his old home at St. Andrews. The Philadelphia and Boston teams will play on Friday and the winners will meet the M. G. A. team on Saturday.

A programme as full of sport as an egg is of meat is announced for the open fall tournament of the Atlantic City Country Club on November 8, 9 and 10. The qualifiers will keep on in sets if sixteen for the governors', president's, Atlantic City and Northfield cups and so on for as many sixteens as turn in scores, the last of the sixteens to play for the consolation cup. There will be beaten eight cups in each sixteen, so that all at the tournament will be kept in the game. There will be a low score prize in the thirty-six hole qualification round and for the best gross and net in an eighteen hole handicap on the last day. Except the low score prize, a player may not win two prizes at the tournament. Entries for the tournament close with the secretary, Walter E. Edge, on November 7, and for the handicap on November 10, at 10 a. m. Earlier entries, however, are requested by the committee.

Dates are already being announced for the winter golfing in southern California. The men's open championship tournament at the Coronado Country Club, for the cup won in 1905 by Walter Fairbanks, of Denver, and this year by James Gardner, of Chicago, will begin on February 4. The women's open tournament will begin on February 11. Pinehurst golfing will begin in December. A date of consequence for next summer is that the American Golf Association of Advertising Interests will hold its tournament at the Midlothian Country Club about July 15.

Although she has not been playing much golf this season, it was a remarkable showing that Miss Lyda Loizeaux made at the Park Golf Club Saturday, leading the field with a net score of 83.

It is the uncertain element in golf as in baseball that makes the game one of intense interest. The best "pro" or amateur golfer in the country cannot always drive his ball a certain distance or put it in the hole with a certain number of strokes, no matter how much he may practice. Those who have followed "Marty" O'Loughlin's playing were inclined to pick him for first or second place in the professional tournament at Forest Hill on Tuesday, but a poor drive or two was his downfall. However, the course is considered one of the hardest in this part of the country, and is pretty severe test for any player, especially a "pro." One thing that argues well for O'Loughlin's future in golf is that he is young and experience will be his best teacher.

Women golfers are now particularly interested in the match play for the individual championship of the Women's Golf Association, of Philadelphia, which began at the Haverford links on Tuesday. There were several surprises, Mrs. Theodore W. Reath, a former title holder, falling by the wayside, and Miss Lillian Biddle, the runner-up in last year's struggle, was easily put out. Another surprise was Miss Florence W. Ayres' victory over Mrs. H. Toulmin. The play will conclude today.

The Country Club of Lakewood will hold its annual open fall tournament on November 15, 16 and 17, in the week immediately following the similar competition at the Country Club, of Atlantic City.

The Middlebrook Country Club, of Finderne, has received a large number of entries for the Election Day tournament and it bids fair to exceed in size any previous tournament held there. The club will offer handsome prizes for the winners.

Frank O. Reinhart and J. A. Lane who will play for the October Handicap cup on Saturday should prove a lively match. Reinhart is looked upon as a winner as he has had more opportunity to follow the game while his opponent has only been able to play the game from week to week. However, surprises are always in order and there may be a reversal of form.

There is a revival of interest in the game of golf at New Brunswick, where the club is enjoying a season of prosperity. Each week an attractive programme is arranged and many players take part.

C. B. MORGAN STILL LEADS.

Close Finish for Golf Committee Cup at Plainfield Country Club.

As a result of the play for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, there is no change among the leaders. C. B. Morgan still holds first position with 14½ points, while C. A. Stover is second with 13¾ and Arthur Murphy third with 13½ points. The standing up to and including Saturday is as follows:

FOOTBALL.

A game of more than ordinary interest, and in fact the only big game to be played in New York this season, will be on Saturday between Princeton and Cornell. Edgar Wrightington, Harvard, and John Minds, Pennsylvania, will referee and umpire respectively the contest. The attendance promises to be one of the largest in recent years.

Orange Field Club and Alis will clash at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon and the supporters of each team are looking for a lively contest.

The faculty at Dartmouth College has announced that Heinie Bullock, the famous Andover half back, will not be allowed to play for Dartmouth this year. He is ineligible because he is a special student and has not yet met all his entrance requirements. His loss will be keenly felt by the eleven, as he is undoubtedly one of the fastest and surest half backs in the country.

Criticism of the ten-yard rule to the effect that it makes it very difficult to gain ground still crops out occasionally. What differences does it make if the game has been improved a hundred per cent. as a spectacle? The ten-yard rule and the neutral zone have wrought that improvement. Furthermore, the proportion of ground gained so far has been sufficient to quite fill the eye shifting action.

Football at West Point is not confined to the candidates for the main squad by a good deal. A bigger proportion of students at the Point play football than at any other institution. A series of class contests has been arranged and what with the candidates for these and for the academy team there are 120 boys who are playing the game, nearly a third of the whole number. With the large number of players the game is far from restricted to those who excel in physique. The 120 players include many sizes and weights. After the game with Williams and the varsity players had gone to their dressing rooms there was a rush of class players to the scrub gridiron, and they frolicked around on the field until after dark. They were there for the purpose of learning the game, but they were having fun. Football is encouraged at West Point, where the powers that be believe in it. The encouragement of athletic sports in the army is general, and there are football elevens of enlisted men in a good many army posts. The men to teach the privates are the officers who have learned it at West Point, and in order that the privates may get this teaching it is the idea at West Point to send out as many officers as possible from the academy with sufficient experience and knowledge of football to teach it. The teachers do not necessarily have to have made the academy team. What is wanted is that they have an intelligent knowledge of it. Not a little first class material is discovered among the enlisted men. In a post game last fall the centre on one side was a private and on the other Lieut. Tipton, who at West Point in 1904 was an All American centre. Tipton, doubtless, was not on edge for the playing as he was when at the Point, but in any event his opposite put it over him. There are two red heads on this year's West Point, one Erwin, a veteran who plays guard, and the other Pullen, a youth of a trifling 194 pounds. Pullen was appointed from Alaska, coming from nearer to the Arctic zone than any other football player extant, except Carlisle's Esquimau centre.

Borough High School Wins.

The North Plainfield High School football eleven defeated Westfield High School on the North Plainfield grounds yesterday afternoon by a score of 11 to 0. The local team made two touchdowns and brilliant plays were made by Burtis and Overton. Westfield kicked a great deal on decisions, but the rule book quickly settled these disputes. The elevens were about even weight, but it was plainly evident that Westfield was not playing its usual game. It gave a rather poor exhibition throughout. The borough boys showed much improvement in their playing. The lineup:

N. P. H. S.	W. H. S.
M. VanArsdale	Dallas
right end.
Burtis	Smith
left end.
Day	R. Brown
right tackle.
H. Smith	H. Carlson

C. Steiner	Marenghi
right guard.
A. Bailey	C. Brown

F. Becker	Saunders

L. Hamilton	S. Marsh

McClintock	G. Knight

FREE EDUCATION IN JERSEY.

The report of the State of Education for 1904-5, which has just been issued, is replete with interesting data and statistics. According to it, the total enrollment for New Jersey for the period covered was 369,402. Of this number 22,799 were in kindergartens, 227,245 in primary grades, 101,472 in grammar grades and 17,893 in high school grades. There was an increase of 463 in the number of teachers, and an increase of $.58 in the average annual salary paid to teachers. The number of teachers employed during the year under notice was 9,157, or one to forty pupils. The total increase in enrollment was 17,206.

The report also shows that the total increase in appropriations over the preceding year was $160,240.26. In building and repairing school houses $336,096.33 was spent. The total value of all school property was $22,094,076, an increase of $2,232,683. This makes an average value of $11,592, there being exactly 1,906 buildings. One hundred and seventy-three of these structures are each worth more than $40,000. In that year the school tax amounted to $2,772,178.18. For 1905-6 it was $2,902,292.31, and for 1906-7 it is $3,172,628.14.

M. E. CHURCH COMBINES EDUCATIONAL HOLDINGS.

Great Publishing Concerns Merge With Cincinnati Headquarters, Conference Indorsed.

Cincinnati, Oct. 25.—The merger of all the educational interests of the Methodist Episcopal church has been accomplished, headquarters being established in this city. After several sessions the national executive board of the Freedmans' Aid and Southern Educational Society concluded its labors by approving of the merger recommended by the general conference committee. By the terms of this merger the following great publishing and educational concerns of the Methodist Episcopal church are consolidated, with headquarters at Cincinnati:

Board of Education Society, Sunday-school Union, Tract Society and Freedmans' Aid Society. A new name will be adopted for the merged societies, and the removal of the present boards to Cincinnati will be made by January 1. The following general conference superintendents will by that time have their offices established in the Western Methodist Book Concern Building; Rev. Dr. J. T. McPharland, secretary of the Sunday-school Association and Tract Society, and Rev. Dr. W. F. Anderson, secretary of the Board of Education. A recommendation was made to the general conference, which meets two years hence, to solidify all the societies more thoroughly by electing one general secretary, with branch bureaus.

General Secretary—Dr. Mason was empowered to transact all the work of the Freeman's Aid Society, including that heretofore allotted to Rev. Dr. Thirkield, recently resigned.

Red Light Churchmen?

New York, Oct. 25.—"Landlords of the very places we are trying to reach—gambling houses and disreputable resorts—are among the shining lights in the Y. M. C. A. and your own society," said Third Deputy Police Commissioner Mathot to the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst and the latter's counsel, Frank Moss, yesterday. The occasion was the clergyman's presence in the Jefferson Market Police Court in response to a subpoena issued after the publication of the letter written by the Society for the Prevention of Crime to Mayor McClellan last week. Both Dr. Parkhurst and Mr. Moss jumped to their feet and heatedly denied the assertion. They demanded the proof, and this Mr. Mathot said he would supply.

Wings and Fins

By Tom Muir.

Miss Viola Allen and the revival of Shakespeare's "Cymbeline" which was presented to local theatre-goers Saturday night, passed through their New York premiere at the New Astor, Monday night, with flying colors. The critics gave Miss Allen praise that might turn the heads of other actresses and described the setting of the play as "the most artistic the city has seen in years." These words go to show what good things come to the New Plainfield and why Manager Counihan felt proud of his achievement in getting Mr. Allen to include this city in his list of six one-night stands.

Miss Cheridah Simpson, the prima donna, has a fad for Yorkshire terriers and at her kennels, near Morristown, are housed the most valuable specimens of this dog to be found outside of England. During her tour in "Red Feather" Miss Simpson carries with her "Spot," a three time blue ribbon winner.

Local theatre-goers will have an opportunity tonight to renew their acquaintance with stern old Squire Bartlett, who believes in "Livin' cordin' to the Scriptures," motherly Mrs. Bartlett, his typical wife; Anna Moore who was more sinned against than sinning; David Barlett, the farmer's only son; and other familiar characters in "Way Down East." They will have an opportunity to chuckle with Hi Holler and to smile with Rube Whipple, the eccentric town constable. These characters have become as familiar to the theatre-goer as the play in which they appear.

Carl Hubert Heuck, of the Lyric, Heuck's, People's and Lyceum theatres, Cincinnati, was married Monday night to Miss Mathilde Eisenlohn, the daughter of a clergyman. The bride's father performed the ceremony, and the pair left immediately for the East to spend their honeymoon. The new Mrs. Heuck, who is an ardent worker in the church of which her father is pastor, has never been inside of a theatre, and her friends do not expect her to change her views in this respect, even though she has been married to the manager of four playhouses.

Members of the Masonic fraternity of all parts of New Jersey have interested themselves in a movement which proposes that the grand lodge of New Jersey Masons buy the birthplace of Masonry in this State, on West Front street, Trenton. The property in question is on West Front street, at he foot of Water street. The old two-story rough cast building was erected in 1797, and was the first home of Trenton Lodge, which met in the building in 1797 and continued to hold its sessions there until a few years before the opening of the Civil War.

At the ninth annual session of the Great Council of the Degree of Pocahontas, held at Trenton yesterday, these officers were elected: Great Pocahontas, Jennie Hurley, Avon; great prophet, Isadore Spencer, Bridgeton; great wenonah, Bina Appleton, Atlantic City; great minehaha, Ida VanDyke, Long Branch; grand keeper of records, Sarah T. Reilstab, Trenton; grand keeper of wampum, Harriet Whitmore, Oceanic. The law making Trenton the permanent place of holding the annual session will be repealed, and the next session will be in Vineland in October, 1907. Past Great Pocahontas Ida M. Craig, of Jersey City, presented the Great Council with a set of tomahawks, the metal parts of which were made from the wrecked portion of the battleship Maine. The handles were made from a token pole owned by an Indian chief in Canada, who is said to be 100 years old.

It was announced at a meeting in Our Lady of Mercy church at Philadelphia, of the Catholic Federation that a wealthy Philadelphian has offered to subscribe sufficient funds to erect a large building in the central section of the city for the use of the organization. It is understood that the offer comes from Martin Mayoney, who has made many munificent donations to the Catholic Church in America. The purpose of the building, it was stated, would be to afford the Catholic young men of Philadelphia a place where they may gather, the project being along lines that are similar to the Young Men's Christian Association. If the Y. M. C. A. idea takes here it is planned to extend it to other American cities. At present there is a national association of Catholic young men's societies, but it does not attempt to centralize associations in the larger cities, confining itself to the advancement of individual parish organizations.

—The Physical Work Committee of the Y. M. C. A. will meet tomorrow night.

Mine Explosion Kills Seven.

Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 25.—By an explosion in the rolling mill mine of the Cambria Steel Company here last evening seven men were killed and two painfully injured but not fatally hurt. Up to the present only one of the dead has been identified. It is believed the other dead are all foreigners. The explosion took place in heading No. 29, a considerable distance from the ill-fated Klondike section, where one hundred and fourteen men lost their lives more than four years ago. The exact cause of the explosion is not known, but it is supposed that the gas was fired by the setting off of a blast.

Sculptor Flanagan's Panel.

New York, Oct. 25.—A beautiful marble panel depicting the goddess Aphrodite, is one of the many art features of the new Knickerbocker Hotel at Broadway and Forty-second street which opened today. The panel is the work of John Flanagan, of Newark, N. J., a young sculptor, who studied in Paris, and who is one of the best known and most promising pupils of Augustus St. Gaudens. Other features of the big building include a series of Pavanazza marble columns in the lobby, mural decorations of the flower room, and panels by Maxfield, Parrish and Frederic Remington.

Suicide In Blazing Barn.

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 25.—George Dockstader, a prominent farmer of Randolph, seventy-five years old, wealthy and one of the pioneers of that section, went into an abandoned building on his farm yesterday afternoon, set fire to it at each entrance, then went upstairs and hanged himself. When the fire was discovered a crowd collected and could see the old man's body swinging in the air, the windows of the building being opened. No one could enter the building and could only watch the body as the flames approached and consumed it.

Miller's Restaurant Fails.

New York, Oct. 25.—William F. Miller, better known as "520 per cent" Miller, of Franklin Syndicate fame, has closed his restaurant, at No. 160 Montague street, Brooklyn, because he could not make it pay. It was called the Standard Restaurant, but lost patronage when it became known that the proprietor was "Syndicate" Miller. Miller acted as cashier, and stood behind a cigar counter.

Insurance Forgery Charge.

New York, Oct. 25.—In the contest between the New York Life Insurance Company and the International Policy Holders' Committee for the election of their respective tickets a sensational charge was made yesterday against the company by Joseph A. Rock, of No. 840 East 138th street. Rock made affidavit that some one connected with the company had forged his name to a circular letter sent out in the interest of the administration ticket.

Hard After Bad Judge.

New York, Oct. 25.—After the Grand Jury had examined several witnesses in connection with the charge that a City Magistarte had taken $1,000 and dismissed a serious charge against a man it became evident yesterday that the evidence might not be sufficient to warrant an indictment against the Magistrate. Even if there is not enough evidence on which to base an indictment sufficient facts have been placed before the Grand Jury to convince them that the Magistrate should no longer be permitted to hold a place on the Bench. Armed with facts concerning his borrowing money from lawyers who defended prisoners before him and the giving of wothless checks, it is likely the District Attorney will use them as a basis for an application to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court to remove the Magistrate.

Autoist $300 Out.

Metuchen, Oct. 25.—In the suit of B. F. Craig, of Elizabeth, against Philip Westenfelder, of Westfield, the jury awarded a verdict of nearly $300 to Craig. The suit was before Judge Vail, at Elizabeth, and grew out of the automobile accident which occurred at the corner of Main street and Middlesex avenue, this borough, last summer. Craig claimed that Westenfelder lost control of his machine and ran into Craig, doing damage to the extent of nearly $300. Westenfelder's side was not defended.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 28.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Why every one should join the church.—Rom. x, 1-11.

That every one who has accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as his Saviour and is trusting in Him for eternal salvation should unite with the Christian church would seem to need no argument. The church is a divine institution. Christ Himself was its founder. Its mission is to carry forward the work of Christ in the world, and nothing seems more natural and reasonable than that those who are saved and are interested in the salvation of others should be openly identified with the church and actively engaged in its work. Yet in spite of these facts there are many to whom church membership does not appeal, and various excuses are offered for neglecting or refusing to join the church. The necessity, therefore, frequently arises of presenting reasons why this step should be taken.

1. The weakness of the arguments against church membership should convince us of its importance. If it were not necessary and desirable it would certainly be possible to produce some convincing reasons to this effect. But such is not the case. The excuses offered for neglecting this duty are weak and untenable. Some excuse themselves on the ground that they can live Christian lives out of the church as well as in it. If one Christian can do this all could, and therefore the church is not a necessity and its organization was a mistake. But it was divinely instituted, and who can accept a position that rests upon the intimation that God erred? Hypocrisy in the church is another excuse frequently given for not joining it. But we are not responsible for others. The faithlessness of others will never excuse us for failure to perform the obligations that rest upon us. Furthermore, if some are false this fact should stimulate the others to increased fidelity. Instead of shirking church membership we should desire it and be faithful to it in order that we may offset the harm done by false professors of Christianity. The expensiveness of church membership is often used as an argument against it. The church must, of course, be financially supported, and in our country this is done principally, as it should be, by the members of the church. But the church only expects its members to give in proportion to their ability. This principle makes it possible for all to support the church and at the same time not to burden themselves in so doing. No valid excuse was ever given for failure to join the church where the opportunity exists. The logical result is therefore that we should unite ourselves with it.

2. Church membership is a duty. Confession of Christ is one of the requirements in the salvation of the soul. "If thou wilt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus and shalt believe in thine heart that God raised Him from the dead thou shalt be saved." The place where this confession is made is in the church. It is undoubtedly the place where it should be made. To neglect to unite with the church, therefore, is to fail to perform the duty of confessing Christ.

3. Church membership is beneficial. It throws around us safeguards against evil; it brings to us the inspiration and joy of Christian fellowship; it provides the best and greatest opportunities for serving Christ; through membership in the church our influence for Christ is enlarged. The world decides whether we are Christians or not by our relation to the church. If we are not church members we are not usually looked upon as Christians, and the influence of our example is against Christ, no matter what we may think of Him in our hearts. Christ Himself loved the church dearly. It is His bride. His disciples should love it, be enrolled among its members and be faithful both to Christ and the church.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. lxvi, 1-15; lxxxiv, 1-12; lxxxvii, 1-7; c, 1-5; cvi, 17-19; cxxxv, 1-5; cxxxvii, 1-6; Matt. xiii, 16-20; Acts ii, 42-47; Eph. v, 25, 29; Heb. x, 23-25.

The Pledge a Bridge.

In itself or as a fetich it is no more than any other collection of 178 words. A bridge, apart from the stream it spans from bank to bank, is nothing but a pile of lumber. You couldn't live in it or do business there, but as a highway from where you are to where you want to go the bridge is immensely important. The pledge takes you from your weakness over to Christ's strength by putting you in that dependent, trustful relation which enables Him to work in you. The pledge is not so much something for you to keep as something to keep you. You could not keep it an hour in your own strength, but when you take it in all your weakness it not only commits you to Christ, but to the same extent commits Christ to you.—John F. Cowan, D. D.

An Egg Service.

The Endeavorers of the Circus Street Congregational Mission church, in Nottingham, England, hold annual egg services, to which they bring eggs for distribution among the poor and the sick and at the hospitals. They have held five of these services now and have given away in all about 30,000 eggs. There were brought this year more than 7,500 eggs.

It Gives Full Scope.

Bishop Hasse, in his president's address before the British Christian Endeavor union, quoted a remark made recently by Lord Radstock. "What I like about Christian Endeavor," he said, "is that it gives full scope for the working of the spirit of God."

Oct. 28: "A Christian's Friendships."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

The highest friendship.—John xv, 15; James ii, 23. Friendship used for salvation.—Acts x, 24. The best part of friendship.—Luke x, 38-42. Love the bond of perfectness.—Col. iii, 14. The value of friendship and how to maintain it.—Prov. xviii, 24.

"Have many wellwishers but few intimates" is excellent advice for most people to follow. There is much misunderstanding as to the nature of true friendship. So there is much which goes under the name of friendship which has no right to claim the title. In our study of this lesson it is well to begin with the consideration of what we call "the highest friendship." This is the relation Jesus sustains toward us. He says that He does not call us servants, for the servant does not know what the master does. He does not take such into intimate counsel and reveal his plans to them, asking their cooperation and giving them a part in the work he is doing. But he commands them and pays wages for work. The friend is taken into inner confidence and communion. Jesus declares that He has revealed to His friends all He has heard of His Father. He has no secrets concealed from us.

But there can be no friendship where there is not mutual confidence. If God confides in us, we must likewise confide in Him. If He tells us His plans and asks us to share His work, we must also make known to Him all our plans and desires. There must be nothing kept back on our part. Here is the failure of so many who never come to perfect oneness with God. They have much which they know will not bear the sight of God nor meet His approval. Some love or longing for unworthy things keeps them from confiding all to God's direction and control, and so they never come to full harmony with Him and so never find perfect peace in believing and utter rest of soul.

Here is found the greatness of Abraham. In an age when men had not learned God as we have been taught Him, this man took God into his confidence and trusted Him utterly in all affairs, and merited the title "Friend of God."

Here lies the beginning of all real fellowship. Whoever finds God an intimate and constant companion will find the clew to all other friendships of value.

There is another element of moment in real fraternity which needs attention. It costs. One must give, and that not stintedly. He must give all; all he has which the other can share. God gives us through Jesus Christ all He has which we can in anywise appropriate. So we must give to others the real affection and interest of intimates. When Cornelius hears of salvation through Christ he calls his friends together to share with him the instruction of an apostle, and the Holy Spirit falls on them because He did invite them to be there.

Martha falls below the highest ideal because she was cumbered with the attention to mere bodily needs and was lacking in appreciation of the more worthy needs of spirit. Jesus was in her house for a little while only. Soon He would be beyond the reach of hand and voice. He who had fasted forty days in preparation for his life work cared more for heart to heart talks than for the kind of supper He was to eat. Many make the same kind of mistake now. Some of those whom you are in the habit of meeting frequently have never heard a word from you as to your trust and hope in Christ. Their souls may be hungering for the encouragement of a kindred heart in their struggle with the trials and temptations of the world. They would give more for five minutes' genuine heart talk than for all the other benefits you could confer, yet you hesitate to broach the topic of religion to them.

How can this hesitancy be overcome? By sitting more at the Master's feet until you catch His spirit and learn His methods.

Sermons In Brief.

We prepare ourselves for sudden deeds by the reiterated choice of good or evil.—George Eliot.

Get to work! Get to work! Be sure 'tis better than what you work to get.—Browning.

The new man takes the old circumstances, and, bringing God to them, makes of them the new life.—Phillips Brooks.

Life is noble in proportion to the nobleness of faith. It is successful in proportion to the fixedness of faith.—Le Conte.

On every occasion of uneasiness we should retire to prayer, that we may give place to the grace and light of God.—John Wesley.

Never tell evil of a man if you do not know it for a certainty, and if you know it for a certainty then ask yourself, "Why should I tell it?"—Lavater.

Die when I may, I want it said of me by those who knew me best that I always plucked a thistle and planted a flower when I thought a flower would grow.—Lincoln.

Do today's duty, fight today's temptation and do not weaken and distract yourself by looking forward to things which you cannot see and could not understand if you saw them.—Charles Kingsley.

The humble, meek, merciful, just, pious and devout souls are everywhere of one religion, and when death has taken off the mask they will know one another though the diverse liveries they wear here make them strangers.—William Penn.

Not Unreasonable.

Congregations who borrow money for the building of a church do not seem to the idea that there should also have a church debt, and that is not unreasonable.—Jewish Tribune.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

"They're mamma's friends," Anita was answering. "Oldish and tiresome. When you leave I shall go straight on up to bed."

"I'd like to—to see your room—where you live," said I, more to myself than to her.

"I sleep in a bare little box," she replied with a laugh. "It's like a cell. A friend of ours who has the anti-germ fad insisted on it. But my sitting-room isn't so bad."

"Langdon has the anti-germ fad," said I.

She answered "Yes," after a pause, and in such a strained voice that I looked at her. A flush was just dying out of her face. "He was the friend I spoke of," she went on.

"You know him very well?" I asked.

"We've known him—always," said she. "I think he's one of my earliest recollections. His father's summer place and ours adjoin. And once—I guess it's the first time I remember seeing him—he was a freshman at Harvard, and he came along on a horse past the pony cart in which a groom was driving me. And I—I was very little then—I begged him to take me up, and he did. I thought he was the greatest, most wonderful man that ever lived." She laughed queerly. "When I say my prayers, I used to imagine a god that looked like him to say them to."

I echoed her laugh heartily. The idea of Mowbray Langdon as a god struck me as peculiarly funny, though natural enough, too.

"Absurd, wasn't it?" said she. But her face was grave, and she let her cigarette die out.

"I guess you know him better than that now?"

"Yes—better," she answered, slowly and absently. "He's—anything but a god!"

"And the more fascinating on that account," said I. "I wonder why women like best the really bad, dangerous sort of man, who hasn't any respect for them, or for anything."

I said this that she might protest, at least for herself. But her answer was a vague, musing, "I wonder—I wonder."

"I'm sure you wouldn't," I protested earnestly, for her.

She looked at me queerly.

"Can I never convince you that I'm just a woman?" said she mockingly. "Just a woman, and one a man with your ideas of women would fly from."

"I wish you were!" I exclaimed. "Then—I'd find it so—so impossible to give you up."

She rose and made a slow tour of the room, halting on the rug before the closed fireplace a few feet from me. I sat looking at her.

"I am going to give you up," I said at last.

Her eyes, staring into vacancy, grew larger and intenser with each long, deep breath she took.

"I didn't intend to say what I'm about to say—at least, not this evening," I went on, and to me it seemed to be some other than myself who was speaking. "Certain things happened down town to-day that have set me to thinking. And—I shall do whatever I can for your brother and your father. But you—you are free!"

She went to the table, stood there in profile to me, straight and slender as a sunflower stalk. She traced the silver chasings in the lid of the cigarette box with her forefinger; then she took a cigarette and began rolling it slowly and absently.

"Please don't scent and stain your fingers with that filthy tobacco," said I rather harshly.

"And only this afternoon you were saying you had become reconciled to my vice—that you had canonized it along with me—wasn't that your phrase?" This indifferently, without turning toward me, and as if she were thinking of something else.

"So I have," I retorted. "But my mood—please oblige me this once."

She let the cigarette fall into the box, closed the lid gently, leaned against the table, folded her arms upon her bosom and looked full at me. I was as acutely conscious of her every movement, of the very coming and going of the breath at her nostrils, as a man on the operating table is conscious of the slightest gesture of the surgeon.

"You are—suffering!" she said, and her voice was like the flow of oil upon a burn. "I have never seen you like this. I didn't believe you capable of—of much feeling."

I could not trust myself to speak. If Bob Corey could have looked in on that scene, could have understood it, how amazed he would have been!

"What happened down town to-day?" she went on. "Tell me, if I may know."

"I'll tell you what I didn't think, ten minutes ago, I'd tell any human being," said I. "They've got me strapped down in the press. At ten o'clock in the morning—precisely at ten—they're going to put on the screws." I laughed. "I guess they'll have me squeezed pretty dry before noon."

She shivered.

"So you see," I continued, "I don't deserve any credit for giving you up. I only anticipate you by about twenty-four hours. Mine's death-bed repentance."

"I'd thought of that," said she reflectively. Presently she added: "Then, it is true." And I knew Sammy had given her some hint that prepared her for my confession.

"Yes—I can't go blustering through the matrimonial market," replied I. "I've been thrown out. I'm a beggar at the gates."

"A beggar at the gates," she murmured.

I got up and stood looking down at her.

"Don't pity me!" I said. "My remark was a figure of speech. I want no alms. I wouldn't take even you as alms. They'll probably get me down, and stamp the life out of me—nearly. But not quite—don't you lose sight of that. They can't kill me, and they can't tame me. I'll recover, and I'll strew the street with their blood and broken bones."

She drew in her breath sharply.

"And a minute ago I was almost liking you!" she exclaimed.

I retreated to my chair and gave her a smile that must have been grim.

"Your ideas of life and of men are like a cloistered nun's," said I. "If there are any real men among your acquaintances, you may find out some day that they're not so much like lapdogs as they pretend—and that you wouldn't like them, if they were."

"What—just what—happened to you down town to-day—after you left me?"

COLLEGE MEN AND BUSINESS.

Commercial Life Draws Many of the Princeton University Alumni.

Princeton, Oct. 25.—Figures which have just been completed from the new directory of living graduates and former students of Princeton University show that the college graduate of today is more and more choosing a business rather than a professional career. These statistics show that nearly one-third of the living alumni of Princeton are in business.

Exclusive of the class of 1906, there are 7,190 living alumni of Princeton. Of the 6,522 classified according to their occupations, 2,285 are in business, 1,498 in the law, 924 in the ministry, 699 practising medicine, 433 teachers, 290 engineers, 104 journalists, 50 ranching and farming, 50 gentlemen of leisure, 41 students, 34 in the army, 31 civil service, 26 architecture, 19 chemists, 10 artists, 9 authors, 7 in the navy, 5 librarians, 4 musicians and 4 dentsits.

Among the living alumni of the classes prior to 1841, who number twenty-four, none is engaged in business; prior to 1850 only five per cent., and prior to 1870 only fifteen per cent. This percentage remains practically the same for the alumni in the nineties. In the classes which have been graduated since 1900 the increase is very marked, averaging fifty per cent.

To Ship Church to Panama.

New York, Oct. 25.—It is announced that the Home Missions Board of the Presbyterian Church in this city is having constructed for shipment in sections to the Panama Canal zone an entire church structure and parish house building for the use of the Presbyterian mission there. There are instances where missionaries have carried portable material of various kinds, but this is said to be the only instance in modern times where an entire structure has been erected hundreds of miles from the mission seat and shipped there in sections. The church structure is to cost $10,000 and will seat three hundred persons.

Rev. Geraud Velthuysen, of Haarlem, Holland, who has been visiting this country, sailed for home yesterday.

O'LOUGHLIN AND MORGAN PLAY GOOD GAME OF GOLF.

Four Teams Tied in Amateur and Professional Tournament at Forest Hill.

Four-ball competitions were the attraction for golfers on the links of the Forest Hill Field Club, yesterday. Practically all who competed in the championship tournament of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association on Tuesday took part. In the professional foursomes Jack Hutchinson, of St. Andrews, and Orrin Terry, of the Wykagyle Country Club, won with a best ball of 69. In the afternoon amateurs teamed with the "pros," and when the last pair holed out it was found that no less than four teams had tied for the lead with best ball scores of 72. The ties will be played off today.

The four pairs were F. J. Egner and Will Gaudin, Theodore Crane and Ben. Nicholls, Walter Kobbe and George Low, and J. D. Foot and Herbert Strong. Additional money was put up, so that the cash prizes today will be $50 to first and $25 to second. There are two cups for the amateurs.

In the morning "Marty" O'Loughlin and "Dave" Hunter paired and their card showed a 37 going out and a 38 coming in for a total of 75, three strokes higher than the lowest score. In the afternoon, the Plainfield "pro" was paired with C. B. Morgan, of the Plainfield Country Club, and their card showed a 39 going out, a 38 coming in for a total of 77, not quite low enough to capture any honors. Without doubt the two days' tournament, the first of the kind held in this country, was a pronounced success and will no doubt be an annual fixture in the professional ranks.

GAVE A "PONY DINNER."

Harry S. Ladew Had His Prize-Winning Horses at Table.

A "pony dinner," given by Harry S. Ladew, the millionaire, who exhibited horses at the local show, is today the subject of much discussion in New York society. Mr. Ladew's entries at the Piping Rock Horse Show won the majority of prizes, so he decided to celebrate at a dinner to his friends. The guests were assembled in a dining-room fitted like the interior of a coach. The saltcellars were in the form of feedboxes. The table was in horseshoe shape and the wine bottles took the form of whip sockets.

The greatest surprise of all, however, was when three of the Ladew horses were led into the dining-room and placed at the table with the guests. The equine guests were served with oats from silver buckets and they drank from gold-hooped pails. They were served with dainty favors of golden horse collars.

Fish from Hydrants.

New York, Oct. 25.—There was good fishing in parts of the Bronx yesterday morning, and fish dinners were served in many households there last evening. Employes of the Water Department went to 147th street and Third avenue yesterday to flush some of the water mains, opening several hydrants. Out with the water came many fish. Some were of a variety of perch, it is believed, and others, according to the chroniclers of the fish story, seemed to be small carp. Here and there an eel squirmed among them.

One Year For Threat.

New York, Oct. 25.—For threatening a witness with death if he testified in a police court, Nathan Blue, a private detective, was sent to the penitentiary for one year by the Judges of Special Sessions Court yesterday. POLITICAL NOTES.

The Democratic Congress committee is closing out its distribution of campaign literature, and by Wednesday 4,000,000 pamphlets will have been sent out from the Washington headquarters to enlighten the voters of the country. These figures do not include 20,000 or 25,000 campaign text books, which have been scattered broadcast, some of them being sold. About half of the speeches distributed relate to the tariff, some of them being by Representatives Williams, of Mississippi; Rainey, of Illinois; Clark, of Missouri, and Towne, of New York. A compilation of Democratic utterances on the labor question figured in the total to the extent of a million or so. Besides the speeches proper, about 500,000 special documents have been distributed.

CHARITIES CONFERENCE AT TRENTON TODAY.

Hugh F. Fox, Head of State Aid Society, Among Those in Attendance.

The New Jersey State Department of Charities and Corrections is holding its regular quarterly conference at the State House, Trenton, today. Hugh F. Fox, of this city, president of the State Charities' Aid Society, is among those in attendance.

Dr. George B. Wright, State commissioner of charities and corrections prepared an attractive programme, which included the reading of chapter 324 of the laws of 1906, relating to the insane, under which head these topics were discussed: "How to make the laws more effective," and "Does the law meet all the demands in the case?"

Other topics discussed were as follows: Is commitment to insane hospitals so easy as to be open to abuse? Are not many so-called insane merely drunks? Classification in State institutions—as to defectives—are they new in the proper institutions? Who classifies them now? Can there be a uniform rule for classification? What separation other then sex should be made As to criminals in prisons and reformatory—ought they be separated in classes? How separated? As to neglected and incorrigible children. How may they be separated?

Mrs. E. E. Williamson made remarks upon the State institutions, their improvement and conditionm Professor Johnstone presented a report of the committee on statistics and there was also considered the parole system in New Jersey—prison, reformatory, boys' home, girls' home, the probation system and the merit system.

The Indians refuse to return and declare their intention of fighting if interfered with. Three hundred braves, well armed and with a large supply of ammunition, attended the council.

ONE $65,000 ERROR IN ASSESSMENTS.

In Springfield Returns—Tax Rate Goes Higher.

It has been discovered that the Assessor for Springfield township had made a mistake of $65,000 in adding up his lists. Some of the township officials called at the office of the County Tax Board with the Assessor and stated that the deficiency of such an amount with the failure to insert in their tax budget an item of $820 for interest on school bonds had left them about $1,100 short of funds. The necessary corrections were made and a change in the tax rate from 1.23 to 1.45 was announced. The Springfield officials said that there would be no trouble over the change in the township, as most people there were already aware of the error.

ATTACKS ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

President of National Body Makes Bitter Remarks.

In a report submitted yesterday, at the second day's session of the National Liquor Dealers of the United States, in its annual convention in Newark, ex-Assemblyman Hugh Dolan, of New York, the president of the league, made a bitter attack upon the Anti-Saloon League for its action toward the liquor traffic throughout the country.

Mr. Dolan declared that the Anti-Saloon League had dragged the liquor question into politics and received and expended hundreds of thousands of dollars to exterminate the liquor stores. He said further that the temperance association had resources sufficient to permit the maintenance of a staff of lobbyists, with the sole aim of causing the enactment of laws detrimental to the liquor dealers.

SUNDAY QUESTION ONE OF COLD CASH.

Rev. Dr. James I. Vance So Characterizes Attitude of the Liberals.

The Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, of the North Reformed church, Newark, preached a sermon on "The Sunday Question" Sunday night of general interest. He took as his text Psalm cxix., 72: "The law of the mouth is better unto me than thousands of gold and silver." He said:

Te text is a strong statement, but none too strong. The people who shout personal liberty when they mean political license and whose notion of civilization is a state of society where vice has free rein and the whole road would call such a statement the platform of a fanatic.

It declares that it is better to stay poor than break God's law. It is better, because God's law is a bulwark to protect humanity. He is out for the people, and regards them as more precious than thousands of gold and silver.

The Sunday question is chiefly a money question. The people who are opposed to Sunday observance are the people who don't want their business interfered with by the enforcement of Sunday laws. Arrayed against the Sabbath is an avarice so rapacious that in its eager quest for money it does not hesitate to set at defiance not only the laws of man, but also the law of God.

For let it be understood that the Sunday question is not new legislation. The Sabbath is not an institution handed down from the Puritans when religious gloom commanded a premium, or from the ancient Pharisees, who made hypocrisy the favorite garb of piety. It comes from God. It is the fiat of omnipotence, and he who desecrates it is up against the Almighty.

The teaching of the Bible on this subject has never been repealed nor revised. God has not gotten out a new fourth commandment for the twentieth century of our foreign-born population.

However much men may differ as to how it should be kept, all must agree that the way to keep it holy is not to ignore it, much less to make it a day of trade and traffic, and certainly not to make it the day for a kind of traffic that is under suspicion on other days.

The Sabbath, notwithstanding the fact that it is one of the greatest blessings to mankind, has always had to fight for its existence. The old fight is on again in Newark.

The enemy proposes to revise the fourth commandment and make it read, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy in the forenoon."

They propose to do this in the interests of personal liberty. God save the mark! Was this the kind of liberty our forefathers had in mind when they fought to make America free?

Christian citizenship should have no sort of doubt as to its duty in this conflict. Our ballots must read with our prayers. God help us to be true to our convictions and to stand for principle. No fight for principle was ever lost.

I cannot believe that there will ever come upon New Jersey the infamy of placing upon its statute books a law that arrays the State against God. I cannot bring myself to believe that the citizens of this great commonwealth will send to Trenton a Legislature to enact into a statute the defamation of Him whom every coin of the nation declares "we trust."

Let us take up the battle cry of the invincible minority. Let us go into this fight with the sword of the Lord and of Gideon.

As soon as the bills are received by taxpayers it is expected, of course, that there will be complaints. All such persons wishing to register a kick will have to present their grievance to the Union County Board of Taxation at Elizabeth, in writing. Verbal kicks will not go this year. The taxation board takes the place of the commissions of appeal, which body was abolished by the new law.

SOCIETY FOLK FLOCK TO PARK CLUB OPENING

PROGRAM INCLUDED SOUTHERN SONGS AND RECITATIONS AND DANCING.

The opening reception, marking the resumption of the annual social season at the Park Club, last night, was a great success. There were about 300 society people from this city, the borough and out-of-town present. The clubhouse, always attractive, seemed even more so last night, with its pretty decorations of clematis and chrysanthemums, while an arrangement of large palms on the stage, behind which the orchestra was seated, was quite effective.

The patronesses for the affair were Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. B. VanD. Hedges, Mrs. J. B. Betts, Mrs. H. C. White, Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley, Mrs. Joseph B. Yerkes, Mrs. George D. Hallock, Mrs. Townsend Russmore and Mrs. John L. Watson.

During the early part of the evening there was a reception, during which the guests were received by the entertainment committee consisting of Mrs. Charles A. Reed, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Watson, Dr. and Mrs. B. VanD. Hedges, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Hallock, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. McCutchen and Charles A. Reed.

Additional pleasure was afforded during the reception by popular selections by the orchestra, and at 9 o'clock Miss Lucine Finch entertained the guests for an hour with southern dialect stories and songs. There was a peculiar charm about her for the reason that she is a southern woman, being a native of New Orleans, and she related many of the stories and sang many of the songs that were told and sung to her by her old "Mammy." Miss Finch won her audience from the first and she received a flattering ovation, being recalled again and again. Miss Finch is a friend of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Watson of the borough, and she is their guest.

After the entertainment dancing was enjoyed for the rest of the evening. Music was furnished by Van der Heide's orchestra, of Newark. It was noticed that many unable to come for the reception and entertainment arrived in time for the dance.

DUNELLENITE WEDS.

M. D. Worley Marries a Lebanon Girl In Elizabeth.

Matthias D. Worley, of Dunellen, and Miss Edna McLoughan, of Lebanon, were quietly married in Elizabeth Wednesday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. B. Cobb, at his home.

After the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Worley went directly to Jersey City Heights, where they will live for the present, at the Arlington Villa Hotel. Mr. Worley is an expert master mechanic, and holds a position of much responsibility in a big manufacturing plant in Newark.

His bride is well known in Dunellen, where she visited several times, and has a number of friends in this city.

Common Council to Award Contract.

While Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett has determined the lowest bidder for the proposed southside sanitary sewer, it being Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, no action can be taken until the Common Council meets in November to award the contract. There is also in dispute the bid of James Tusco, of Montclair, which was irregular and must be decided upon by Corporation Counsel Marsh. It is hardly possible that the other bidders would be willing to allow an irregular bid to stand and the chances are it will not be considered. It is understood that the irregularity consists of the failure of Tusco to submit a complete bid for the sewer work.

Revival at Rescue Mission.

Revival services are being held at the Rescue Mission on Grove street on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights and the attendance and interest are increasing steadily. These meetings will be continued for some time. A feature is the special music with a chorus choir.

Dime Savings Institution to Move.

The Dime Savings Institution will move tomorrow from its present place of business to the building formerly occupied by The Plainfield Trust Company, where it will remain pending the extensive improvements to its building. The work will be started next week.

CANDIDATE SMALLEY IS NON-COMMITTAL

ASSEMBLY NOMINEE EVADES MR. ROGERS' PERTINENT QUESTION.

In answer to George T. Rogers' open letter as to how he would stand on the Senatorial question, if elected, W. W. Smalley, the candidate of Somerset Republicans to the Assembly, has sent the following letter:

Bound Brook, N. J., Oct. 23, 1906.
Mr. George T. Rogers,
Plainfield, N. J.
Dear Sir:

Your letter of the 22d received, and I am very glad to get your views on the subject which is of such great interest.

I can but repeat the statement made before the convention when, after much urging, I accepted the nomination,—that I must be entirely unpledged to anyone or anything; if elected, be free to use my judgment on matters of interest to my constituents.

Trusting this will be satisfactory, I am,
(Signed) Very truly yours,
WM. W. SMALLEY.

This is the reply, Mr. Rogers has made:

Mr. W. W. Smalley,
Republican Candidate for Assembly,
Somerset County,
Bound Brook, New Jersey.
My dear sir:

Your esteemed favor of the 23d inst. in reply to mine of the 22d inst., duly received. I note that you do not state your position on Mr. Dryden for United States Senator. I believe that a very large majority of the Republicans in Somerset County are opposed to him. A candidate expecting the support of the voters ought to be willing to state his attitude in advance, on an issue of so much importance. At least it will be necessary for you to do so if you are to get my vote. After your election, you will have the power to vote for the United States Senator, but no better opportunity than your constituents have now, to judge of the merits of candidates.

(Signed) Yours very truly.
GEORGE T. ROGERS.

MURDERER BEGINS TWENTY YEARS' TERM

WILLIAM DITTMAR, OF SOMERVILLE, HAS BEEN TAKEN TO TRENTON.

William Dittmar, foreman of the Somerville Iron Works, who killed David Howard, one of his fellow-workmen, on June 10 last, was taken from the Somerset county jail at Somerville to the State prison at Trenton yesterday by Sheriff Edward Cooper to serve a sentence of twenty years. There was a pathetic parting between Dittmar and his wife and his twelve-year-old daughter at the county jail.

Mrs. Dittmar, who left her husband a few hours before he murdered Howard and returned to him shortly after the crime and has been devoted to him during his confinement in jail, is said to have sacrificed her own good name at his trial. Mrs. Dittmar and her daughter will give up their home at Somerville and live with Dittmar's brother, in Baltimore.

Rehearsing for the First Concert.

The Plainfield Operatic Association is now devoting some time to rehearsals for the first concert to be given in December. William Holmes, the director, has made a number of fine selections to be rendered at that time. Early in the new year the association will give "The Chimes of Normandy," to be followed later by a second concert and then another opera. The place for the first concert has not been decided upon yet.

Churches to Unite in Revival.

Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor, and the members of Faith chapel, have decided to join with the First Baptist church in the evangelistic meetings to be held next week. The members of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, First M. E. and Trinity Reformed churches will unite in the services to be held at the First Baptist church Sunday night.

Off for Boys' Conference.

Boys' Secretary Haydn W. Barrows left for the conference of Y. M. C. A. boys at Montclair, with the five Plainfield delegates this afternoon. They took the 2:31 train. They will return next Monday morning.

—We would call the attention to anyone interested in fine horses, to the advertisement in the "For Sale Column" of this issue. ***

MR. STAATS NOTIFIES MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT IT IS A TRESPASSER.

Objecting to paying taxes for property owned by him and over which the police have driven the patrol wagon from the department stable, J. A. Staats, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, notified Mayor Buckle and Chief of Police Kiely today that the city hereafter would be a trespasser if it used the strip of land in any way.

The right of way in question is through the alley between property owned by Mr. Staats and Roth & Co., of East Front street. The police department owns a brick barn on property, adjoining that of Mr. Staats, and owned by J. B. Coward and J. W. Murray, Sr. To drive in or out of the barn to Front street, it is necessary to cross the property owned by Mr. Staats.

Mr. Staats says that he gave the police department notice over a year ago that he intended closing this right of way, but the latter has done nothing about the matter. Now, he says that the city cannot use the land unless it makes special arrangements with him to do so. He says that he can see no good reason why he should give the city a free right of way over land upon which he is compelled to pay taxes and he does not propose to do it.

Mr. Staats owns the property on East Front street, extending from police headquarters to the alley which seperates Roth & Co.'s property, which is owned by Mr. Staats.

There has always been a question about this matter. At the time the city secured permission from Mr. Coward and Mr. Murray to erect a barn for the patrol wagon and horse, when the property was leased, there appeared to be a question as to how long it would have a right of way to Front street, but it was decided to build, believing that no trouble would arise.

If the city does not desire to enter into an agreement with Mr. Staats, it would lead to some trouble. It would be impossible to move the brick barn from its present location, there not being room enough and the structure would have to be torn down, or if this was thought inadvisable, the city could sell the barn and then build one elsewhere. Mr. Staats will give the city a reasonable length of time to act on his notice.

JONES ARRAIGNED.

Formality of a Hearing and Light Confinement.

John L. Jones, the man shot by William Smith Terry, was arraigned before Justice Mosher this morning. Jones left the hospital yesterday, in custody under a technical charge of breaking and entering.

His hearing was the merest formality. He pleaded not guilty and waived examination. He was committed, without bail, to await the action of the grand jury.

Arrangements have been made to have the grand jury dispose of Jones' case early next week. He will be kept here in the meanwhile. He is not in close confinement, and the officers, from Chief Kiely down, are trying to lighten his imprisonment as much as possible.

Public Hearing On Sewer Matter.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting on Monday night, November 12, to grant a public hearing to interested property-owners regarding the proposed action of purchasing land for the southside sewer pumping station. The land desired by the city is owned by Clifton & Campbell and is located on Randolph road, south of Arlington avenue.

MAC GILLIVRAY GETS INTO MORE TROUBLE

ARRESTED AND FINED FOR ROWING IN LEACH'S LUNCH WAGON.

Before Justice Mosher, yesterday morning, John A. Macgillivray, of Westfield, was held for the grand jury on a charge of petit larceny preferred by his former employer, Bobby Leach, the lunch wagon man. Last night Bobby and the man he had tracked down and arrested went out for a convivial time together. As a result of that unusual development to the case, Macgillivray—he spelled the name that way himself—found himself in fresh trouble, and was forced to pay $10 in the city court this morning to get out of it.

He was arrested last night at the lunch wagon by Patrolman Dennis Keeffe, for raising a disturbance and insulting Mrs. Leach. Macgillivray accompanied Leach to the lunch wagon after a pleasant time on the Small White Way of the neighborhood. Mrs. Leach vexed Macgillivray in some way and he said rude things. His arrest followed.

He might have stood some chance for leniency in court this morning, if his habits hadn't clung to him closely, but he was imprudent enough to say real cuss words to the officers after he was locked up. Some of the language he used, Judge Runyon was told, was really scandalous.

The magistrate marked his disapproval of it by making the sentence $10 or 20 days. Macgillivray said he went to the lunch wagon under the impression that he was to return to work.

REV. MR. DOOLITTLE FIFTY YEARS A PASTOR

DEAD MINISTER HAD SERVED ONE CONGREGATION FOR HALF A CENTURY.

Rev. Dr. Philip Melanchton Doolittle, who has been pastor of the Reformed church in North Branch for over fifty years, was found dead in bed at the parsonage yesterday morning by his wife. Heart disease was the cause.

On July 25 last Dr. Doolittle celebrated the semi-centennial of his pastorate with impressive ceremonies, and his resignation as pastor of the church he had served so long and well had been accepted with reluctance by the consistory, to take effect November 1, and he was to have preached his farewell sermon next Sunday.

Dr. Doolittle was the fourth pastor of the North Branch church. He began his duties in 1856. He was born in Springfield, Essex County, on January 20, 1831, and was a son of Rev. Horace Doolittle, then pastor of the Presbyterian church in Springfield. Dr. Doolittle prepared for college in the old Bloomfield Academy, and when eighteen years old entered Union College, from which he graduated in 1852. He graduated from the Theological Seminary in New Brunswick in 1856.

He was invited to preach as a candidate in the Reformed church at North Branch on the fourth Sunday in June, 1856. He accepted, and from that day, June 22, 1856, he had held to the pulpit and rendered pastoral duty. When Dr. Doolittle first went to North Branch he lived with the family of the late Samuel B. Little.

On December 2, 1856, he married Anna, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Gabriel Ludlow, who was for nearly fifty-seven years the pastor of the Reformed church at Neshanic. On February 3, 1857, they moved to the parsonage and were received by a large number of the members of the congregation. There, in their first home, they lived for more than forty-nine consecutive years. Three daughters were born to them. The eldest, Katie Skillman, died in 1874, when nearly seventeen years old. The second daughter, Mary Ludlow, is the wife of Dr. James Bloomfield Beekman, of Bedminster, and the youngest daughter, Susan Rapelje, married Rev. Dr. Edward Griffen Read, pastor the Second Reformed church in Somerville.

The average number of families in the North Branch congregation for the last fifty years has been 118 and a fraction. The territory over which Dr. Doolittle ministered covered a radius of about five miles.

During his fifty-year pastorate he solemnized 234 marriages. There were 400 baptisms of both infants and adults. Of funerals there were 513. Dr. Doolittle preached during his pastorate at home and abroad 5,399 times during the fifty years, mostly at home. This does not include numerous addresses of which no account was kept. He received into the church 664 persons, 352 by certificate and 312 on confession.

With Mrs. J. M. Whiton, of this city, in the chair, as president, the fiftieth annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Union of New Jersey opened yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Christian Union Congregational church, Upper Montclair. The meeting began with the singing of a hymn and devotional exercises led by Mrs. Edward H. Still, and the treasurer, Mrs. G. A. L. Merrifield, read the reports, which showed that the receipts were larger than last year. Miss Elizabeth White read a paper on Our Designated Work."

Mrs. Washington Choate, president Woman Home Missionary Union of Connecticut, made a short address on "Federated Unions."

Miss Lydia Singer, of Redfields College, South Dakota, also made an address.

Gordon, of East Orange, to the office of local vice president, to succeed Mrs. Harland P. Beach, of Montclair.

In the evening Miss Juliette Gilson, a missionary of East Central Africa, related her experiences in Rhodesia. Dr. F. K. Sanders made an address on the "Pressing Need of the Great West." Dr. Sanders advocated the home missions to send missionaries to the sparsely settled districts where it was impossible to have churches. The growth of religion should keep pace with the cultivation of the soil.

PLAN OYSTER SUPPER.

Trinity Men to Hold Elaborate Affair Next Week.

Final arrangements were made for the oyster supper to be held next week by the Men's Association of Trinity church, at a meeting last night. The meeting was held in the lecture room of the church, and refreshments were served after the session.

The supper will be an elaborte affair. It is the first one of its kind the Association has planned, and every effort will be made to reach the standard of entertainment set by Trinity's other organizations. A full orchestra will play throughout the supper. The proceeds will be added to the carpet fund of the church.

An informal social period was enjoyed after the meeting last night. R. A. Bohan was chairman of the committee in charge.

In the Borough Court.

Barney Tracey, one of the members of the growler party captured by Marshal Dooley, was given twenty days by Mayor Smalley, last night. Charley Williams, another member, has been on his good behavior in the borough for the past year and as a reward he was let go on suspended sentence. Charles Tippett, the only member who had any money, was fined $3 and paid it in preference to going to Somerville with Barney for ten days.

Storm Sewer Work Progressing.

The Harrison Construction Company, of Newark, is now well underway with the work of building the extension to the Richmond street storm sewer. When this is completed the sewer will be able to take care of a great deal of the surface water that formerly inundated the streets and properties in that part of the city. The street committee expects to build another extension to the sewer next year.

HARMONY THE KEYNOTE

City Committee By Resolution Disavows Responsibility For Some Campaign Talk.

PUTS ITSELF ON RECORD

Does Not Endorse Remarks Made by Ex-Governor Voorhees Aimed at Colbyites.

The Republican City Committee held another ante-election meeting, last night, and disposed of several matters relative to the present campaign. Variety was lent the gathering by a free and open discussion of former Governor Voorhees' remarks at the mass meeting last Tuesday night, when he indiscreetly said things about the Colbyites that they didn't relish. Chairman Charles J. Fisk made it plain to the New Idea men present that the committee did not sanction the remarks in any way and that the former governor spoke more of conditions outside of Plainfield than in it.

At Mr. Fisk's suggestion, the following resolution was framed up and passed:

Resolved, That the members of this committee are all working for a harmonious party in the city of Plainfield and success of the Republican ticket; and be it further

Resolved, That they do not countenance and unqualifiedly disapprove of any statement tending to disturb this harmony or reflections in any manner, upon the action or remarks of any members of the party during the recent primary campaign; be it further

Resolved, That they urge every voter to go to the polls and vote on Election Day.

The passing of the resolution overcame what prejudice the New Idea members entertained over the occurrence and the discussion ended with harmony predominating. There had been some strong feeling expressed but the committee's action showed beyond all shadow of a doubt where the members stood.

In the regular order of business, Joseph M. Shellabarger and George J. Tobin, of the Third ward, and Robert A. Meeker and Marion S. Ackerman, of the Second ward, resigned as members of the committee, other matters engaging their attention and making it impossible for them to attend to the duties. George W. V. Moy and J. Stephen Higham were elected in place of Messrs. Shellabarger and Tobin and Howard C. Tracy and E. E. Iremonger to succeed Mr. Meeker and Mr. Ackerman. All four new members were affiliated with the New Idea movement.

C. W. Jackson and E. B. Maynard, colored, attended the meeting in the interests of the colored voters and with the committee arranged the details for the colored mass meeting to be held next Tuesday night in Reform Hall. It was stated that Eugene W. Gregory, who is in the Supreme Court clerk's office at Trenton, Judson W. Lyon and Jesse Lawson would be present as speakers. The colored men also made the request that the committee make an attempt to secure ex-Congressman White (colored), who is considered one of the foremost men of his race in the country. He was the last colored man to sit in Congress and is the developer of Whiteboro in Cape May County, this State. County Chairman Frank H. Smith stated that every effort would be made to get him. The meeting will be enlivened by a band of music and graced by leaders of the local Republicans.

It was decided to issue a call for volunteers to work about the polls on Election Day, the statement being made that twenty-five would be needed for each district. Instructions were given about the securing of vice presidents for the next big mass meeting in the New Plainfield theatre and the secretary was instructed to get out the usual election circulars.

Adjournment was taken until a week from tomorrow night, when final campaign reports will be heard.

Liszt Going Home.

The small town of Dovorjan (formerly known as Raiding), where Franz Liszt first saw the light of day, is about to build a new church. In another five years' time the great Hungarian musician's birth anniversary will have reached its centenary, and now the church and local authorities, having called a meeting, have formed a committee, headed by Prince Nicolaus Esterhazy and Count Johann iZchy, in order to arrange that the auspicious day—which is to coincide with the home-bringing of the master's mortal remains—shall be in every way suitably honored. Franz Liszt, who died in the year 1886 at Bayreuth, lies at present beside his great friend and illustrious son-in-law, Richard Wagner.—Pall Mall Gazette.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Mrs. Ronald H. Bartow, the present title-holder, meets Miss Florence Condon, of Bala, and Mrs. Caleb F. Fox, former champion, is opposed to Miss Frances C. Griscom in the semi-final round for the individual championship of the Women's Golf Association, of Philadelphia, and the finals will be played today.

The final competition for the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club will be the event of special interest tomorrow. The competition has been in progress every Saturday throughout the season and has attracted a large number of contestants. Tomorrow's competition will settle the question as to whether C. B. Morgan, who now holds the lead with 14½ points, will get the cup, or Arthur Murphy or C. A. Stover, both of whom are very near first position.

Another event at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow will be the play-off for the October Handicap cup, between Frank O. Reinhart and J. A. Lane, each having won a leg on the trophy.

The weekly play for the President's and Hydewood cups is sure to attract a large field to the Park Golf Club tomorrow. The contest for the Hydewood cup, October competition, has stimulated the members of the club and now instead of the small number on the course, the members turn out in large numbers. The final competition for the Hydewood cup will be held tomorrow.

"Marty" O'Loughlin and C. B. Morgan have returned from Forest Hill, where they took part in the golf tournament held under the auspices of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association. While neither player was successful in winning high honors, they played a good game, coming within a very few strokes of being among the low score men.

Charles Kirchener, of this city, who was chairman of the committee having in charge the arrangements for the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association tournament, is being complimented for the way in which the tournament was conducted. It was the first ever held and was so successful that it will be an annual event in golf circles of the East.

R. G. Shaw, Harvard, won the first cup in the eleventh semi-annual thirty-six hole handicap of the University Club, at St. Andrews, on Wednesday, and A. P. Alvord, of Amherst, was second.

FOOTBALL.

The one game of interest in Plainfield tomorrow will be that on Crescent Oval between the Orange Field Club and Alis. Both teams have been putting in lots of practice this week in preparation for the contest and opinion is pretty evenly divided as to the relative merits of the teams, both as to the individual and team strength.

John Lyness, formerly of the Plainfield High School eleven, who has joined the Orange Field Club team, should be a valuable acquisition to that club. He always puts up a strong game.

Many local football enthusiasts will go to New York tomorrow to see the Princeton-Cornell game. Sentiment is evenly divided here among the supporters of both teams.

Among the unbeaten teams that will clash tomorrow will be Lafayette and Colgate, and this bids fair to be as hot an encounter as any billed for Saturday. Neither team knows just what to expect of the other. The Colgate eleven has a tie game with Cornell to its credit, while Lafayette worsted North Carolina by a much bigger score than Pennsylvania did.

One who signs himself "Faculty" writes to the New Haven Register and says the Yale faculty is not opposed to secret practice. "Unless gates are closed and secret work taken," he observes, "all teams will be nearly alike at the end of the season and the brains and originality of old Yale's coaches will be lost." Yale has held off from secret practice longer than any of her rivals this season, and where others have put up the barriers more than once, the practice at New Haven has been free and open as the air every day. It may be doubted whether any team plays a particle better for secret practice. Certainly it does its developing on a padlocked field, in the privacy of a dungeon or out o na lot where the whole world may see. There are of course formations and manoeuvres which a team might want to keep hidden until the time to spring them in competition, but precious few plays worked out and practiced in secret have cut any figure in really winning games. Of the "trick plays" that yearly are told of as being developed in secret practice an exceedingly slim number ever come to light in competition. The more substantial qualities of speed, team work, material, etc., which can be developed in ordinary open practice are what win football games. The plays which have done most to bring success to a team are those which have been tried in scheduled games, where anybody that had the price could see them, and elaborated on for the bigger games to come. The fundamentals and the foundation of winning form are for the most part taught and built in the open, and with all the secret practice and the stress laid thereon it does not often disclose anything worth while. Secret practice is at least overdone. "No game of football was ever won this way," says the Harvard Bulletin. "Yale has beaten Harvard in football pretty regularly, but the defeats were not due to trick plays that Yale had prepared in secret practice; on the contrary, almost every one of them can be traced to Harvard's lack of some of the essential fundamentals of the game, which can be learned in the sight of everybody just as well as behind the fence. If secret practice has never brought victory it might as well be abandoned."

AREA OF UNITED STATES.

Geological Survey Bulletin Gives It as 3,026,789 Square Miles.

The United States geological survey at Washington recently issued bulletin 302, by Henry Gannett, which represents the result of conference and co-operation of the land office, census bureau and geological survey in an effort to agree on what constitutes "the area of the United States." The absence of a standard of measurement for determining the area led to a discrepancy between the tables of the census bureau made in 1887 and those of the general land office prepared in 1899.

The result of the co-operation of the departments is that the area of the United States proper, which is given as 3,026,789 square miles, has been increased over the census figures by 1,188 square miles. The bulletin gives the area of Alaska as 590,884, the Philippines 115,026, Hawaii 6,449, Porto Rico 3,435, Guam 210, Samoa 77 and the Panama canal strip 474 square miles. All of the detached territory is subject to change as the limits become more correctly defined.

Relatives of "Skiddoo."

How the passions will stimulate the growth of language is an interesting study.

One of the most curious examples of this is in the everyday desire to get rid of some unwelcome visitor.

No philologist will ever trace the origin of many of these grotesque expressions nor fashion how they were ever made susceptible of expressing an idea. "Skiddoo" is a modern example that is just as expressive as "Get out," but where it came from and who were its sponsors is not clear, to say nothing of its development into a full rounded word.

Following is a partial list of other phrases and words:

Absquatulate. Vamoose the ranch. Shake your dusties. Light out. Shunt off. Beat it. Retire. Get out. Go away. Leave. Hit the trial. Hike. Skedaddle. Make your escape. Twenty-three for you. Scoot. 'Raus mit 'em. Blow. On your way. Trot along. Back to the mines. To the tall timber. Get a move on. To the grass. Take a run for yourself. Clear out. Go along. Get. Ta-ta. So long. Brush by. Shut the door from the outside. Dig.—Chicago Journal.

WAR ON WHITE PLAGUE.

In the organization of the New Jersey Association for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis, which was effected yesterday at Trenton, a great work in the interest of humanity has been undertaken. A systematic and intelligent warfare against the "Great White Plague" is the duty of the hour. There is an alarming proportion of tuberculosis cases in the State despite the efforts of the various boards of health to combat the origin and growth of the terrible wasting disease. No complete cure has ever been found and doubtless none ever will be. All that can be done is to prevent its spreading. The suggestions issued sometime ago by the local board of health concerning methods of prevention and treatment are valuable for this purpose, but what is needed is an united effort on the part of the whole people of New Jersey. The time for it has arrived and it is quite certain that in the formation of the New Jersey association the first step towards the desired end has been taken. The co-operation of every citizen is required and no doubt it will be given.

CANDIDATE DODGES QUESTION.

The question put by George T. Rogers to W. W. Smalley, the Somerset Republican nominee for the Assembly, is one that should be answered. The Bound Brook man knows now whether he should vote for John F. Dryden and it is only fair for him to say so. One of the chief responsibilities and at the same time privileges of the successful candidate will be to cast a vote in the legislative joint caucus for United States Senator. His vote should represent the wishes of his constituents and therefore the right thing for him to do at this time is to tell the voters of Somerset county frankly how he stands on the senatorial fight.

To Close Orphans' Home.

Rahway, Oct. 26.—The Rahway Children's Home and Orphan Asylum will close November 1 for want of funds. The institutiin has been in existence since November 23, 1883, at which time it was an auxiliary to the Children's Home at New Brunswick. The Home Reading Club of Rahway took up the matter in 1885, and proceeded to organize the society. The home opened here at first at 24 Essex street, removing eventually to its present establishment. The Union County Roadsters gave the home $250 two years ago, the proceeds of an entertainment. A meeting of the trustees and directors will be held previous to November 1.

Magistrate Would Explain.

New York, Oct. 26.—One City Magistrate who has been perturbed since the Grand Jury began to inquire into an accusation that for $1,000 one of the magistrates had dismissed a charge against a man who might have been sent to State prison has expressed a desire to be permitted to appear before the Grand Jury and make any explanation of his official conduct that the situation might make necessary before any action was taken by that body. It was said the official who made the request was Magistrate Charles G. F. Wahle, who is president of the Board of City Magistrate, but he denied having done so.

35,000 Birds On One Ship.

New York, Oct. 26.—On the Graf Waldersee, of the Hamburg-American line, arrived yesterday one of the largest importations of feathered live freight that ever came to this port. According to Mr. Engel, the ship's purser, there were 35,000 birds in the lot and they kept the region about the after hold lively all the way from Hamburg to Hobeken. Japanese singing birds and parrots made up part of the number, but the greater portion were canaries.

By Tom Mair.

"His Honor, the Mayor," the big musical production that ran all summer at the New York and Wallack theatres, is booked for the New Plainfield theatre two weeks from tomorrow. It comprises a company of eighty people with a cast of unusual excellence.

The members of the Galvin family, of this city, are again touring Canada this season with their production, "A Bell Boy." Johnny Galvin and his sister, Miss Irene, are taking the leading parts and are getting splendid press notices everywhere. They travel in their own car and are booked solid until late next spring.

Miss Anna Day, the talented young emotional actress who appeared here recently in "When Knighthood was in Flower," is coming back to Plainfield on Election day. She will be seen in the same play and from the impression she made before will undoubtedly be greeted by large audiences.

Residents of the River Road, between Bound Brook and New Brunswick, are just a little bit taken aback by some new neighbors—four big elephants that arrived on the Vermeule farm near Riverside Park, Tuesday. Leon W. Washburn, the circus and theatrical man, recently bought this farm for winter quarters for some of his stock, and the elephants were the first to arrive, accompanied by about forty ponies. From respectful distances people of that section have been taking much interest in watching the elephants, which are trained ones, go through their daily performances to keep in trim for their next season. They go out to the watering trough in procession, the largest first and so on down to the smallest. They are kept in a shed, and the first night they were on the place they distinguished themselves by tearing down a partition and eating two or three barrels of potatoes. Mr. Washburn intends to make extensive improvements on the grounds and buildings of his new purchase, and will greatly increase the amount of stock which he will keep there. He also expects to live there with his family.

"Ine one of the reviews of 'The Love Letter,'" says Virginia Harned, "the writer remarked that the play was a rare comic delight 'until you stopped to think!' Imagine an audience made up of people who, in the midst of an hilarious comedy situation, 'stop to think!' It would be like sprinkling salt on ice cream or the sudden appearance of a bill collector at a wedding.

"Here, I believe, is revealed the dividing line between a sense of humor and the absence of it. The individual with a funny bone doesn't 'stop to think, of the realities, of course, of what he is hearing: it is sufficient that he is entertained and that he is having a good time. The man who continually 'stops to think' can not enjoy: he is like a torrid sun, which dries up the springs of enjoyment and blisters the fields of delight!

"Lately, I loaned Ellis Parker Butler's famous 'Pigs is Pigs' to such a one and after reading it she remarked: 'Nonsense! Of course this is not true. It is not real. I see the point; but I could not resist stopping to think!' Here we have again the curse of 'stopping to think!'—of refusing to unbend and have a good time! Think of playing to an audience of guinea pigs! That would be all very well if they multiplied laughter!"

Three Die in Funeral Coach.

The driver of the carriage, Edgar J. Griffin, was held responsible by the police and was arrested. Japan Protests.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—Ambassador Aoki, of Japan, was at the State Department yesterday, and his call had more than usual significance. He discussed with Secretary Root the status of Japanese subjects in this country, and particularly the situation in San Francisco, where Japanese children are required by the authorities to attend the public schools set aside for Chinese children. The government of Japan takes exception to this regulation and asserts that it is a violation of rights under the treaty signed in this city on November 22, 1894, and proclaimed on March 21, 1895.

HOLY CROSS WOMEN PLAN BIG BAZAAR.

Affair to Be Held in Parish House on November 21 and 22.

Active preparations for a bazaar to be held on November 21 and 22 are being made by the women of the Church of the Holy Cross. For several weeks, under the leadership of the Guild officers, preparations have been going on quietly for this parish event. The auditorium of the parish house and the rooms adjoining are all to be utilized in order to give plenty of scope for variety of booths and originality in decoration.

The committees in charge give out that the date was selected with a view to meeting the wants of Christmas shoppers,—the aim being to provide for such. Not fancy articles alone, but every kind of suitable gift of a practical sort will be on sale. There will be all sorts of housewifely articles, towels, linen, dust cloths, aprons, groceries and various needed appliances for fighting dust and germs and keeping the home in order.

That good cooking of the old New England order will be in evidence is to be expected. During the two evenings of the bazaar the women will serve dinner at the usual hour and charge the accustomed price.

One part of the parish house will be transformed into a Japanese tea room with Miss Virginia Hegeman in charge; that the booth will be a work of art and the tea of the real quality is assured by the selection of the chairman and her many efficient helpers.

One of the business women of the Guild who knows how to sell groceries as well as to manage choir boys will be in charge of the booth where necessities of life are dispensed. She has a large corps of clerks who promise to keep the sugar free from sand and to give a good generous weight of all goods sold.

A highly gifted palm reader will unfold the future by the marks and mounts found on the palms presented for her inspection. The children will not be overlooked or forgotten; a special booth is to be prepared for them and that which delights childhood can be found there.

Mrs. Emil Larsson is chairman of the fancy booth. The beautiful articles of embroidery and fancy work gathered by her committee promise much for those who are seeking suitable gifts.

A well known member of a New York art league is chairman of the art booth and art lovers may expect to find many articles gathered together by her and her committee that will satisfy their artistic desires. As chairman of the candy booth, Miss Laura Long, and the committee working with her, has provided for all kinds of home-made sweets as well as the best brands of well known candy manufacturers.

Gorgeous chrysanthemums and beautiful flowers of all sorts will surround the committee in charge of the flower booth with Miss Iola Moore as chairman.

Miss Pearson as chairman and her committee of helpers will endeavor to slake the thirst of those who like to have a lemon handed to them. The lemonade well, it is said, will be not only beautiful but deep and inexhaustible.

The jolly little waiters who appeared in the spring at the annual choir concert will don their caps and white aprons and show that the boys can wait on tables as well as sing—a considerable camp experience making them very nimble in attending to the wants of impatient and clamorous table folks.

The fair will be held two afternoons and evening, November 21 and 22. The proceeds for parish house improvements.

Chauffeurs on Strike.

New York, Oct. 26.—Electric hansoms were at a premium yesterday because at six o'clock in the morning three hundred chauffeurs, members of the Electric Automobile Operators' Union, Local No. 267, feeling they were inadequately reimbursed for twelve hours and more of labor each day, went on strike. Persons who employ these electric hansoms by the month, for which they pay $250, had to resort to street cars or other lines to reach their places of business.

Not Oil Trust's Rival.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—From inquiries of an authoriative source regarding the recent oil combination formed by Baron Rothschild, of Paris, the Deutscher Bank and the Nobles, it is stated that the combination in no way constitutes a menace against the Standard Oil Company's European position. The sole object of the new company is said to be to gain complete control of the Russian, Galician and Roumanian oil wells for the consolidation of interests, the regulation of output and the economy of administration.

Policeman Must Stand Up.

Trenton, Oct. 26.—Every policeman in this city was angry yesterday when their captains read orders which forbid them to lean up against any post or building in the future. Chief Hines says Trenton has outgrown village ways, and he will not have any more policemen who can not stand on their feet. The policemen declare that the order is one of hardship, especially in the outlying districts, but the chief says "Stand up or be broken."

Spanish War Veterans' Reception.

Elizabeth, Oct. 26.—Camp William J. Sewell No. 10, Spanish-American War Veterans, held its first reception and ball Wednesday night at Turn Hall here. Park and Captain Robert L. Patterson, who is commander of Camp Sewell.

Ocean Tragedy Indicated.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 26.—Evidence of an ocean tragedy in the shape of more than four hundred life preservers was received yesterday, when the cork jackets washed ashore between Cape Hatteras and Big Kinnakeet, on the North Carolina coast. Some of the life preservers were plain and others bore in stenciled letters, "Caswitz Rettunysyurcer, G. R. P., No. 108,314." The preservers were apparently in good condition.

Making British Marksmen.

London, Oct. 26.—Rifle shooting will hereafter be included in the curriculum o fthe elementary schools of this country. Mr. Birrell, president of the Board of Education, who made the announcement in the House of Commons yesterday, said that the educational authorities had been given permission, under certain ages to be taught to shoot at miniature ranges, the instruction to be paid out of the public funds.

Girl Sleeps Four Days.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 26.—The trance like condition of Gertrude Coleman, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Coleman, of Manchester, puzzles the physicians. At church last Sunday she was seized with a fainting spell, and has been sleeping soundly ever since. Efforts to awaken her yesterday were partly successful, and a stimulant was administered, but she immediately relapsed into deep sleep.

Bryan Attacks Ohio Senators.

Wooster, Ohio, Oct. 26.—Bitter attacks on Joseph Foraker and Charles Dick, United States Senators from Ohio, who were termed political bushwhackers and enemies of President Roosevelt, were made by William J. A Marrying Cook.

New York, Oct. 26.—In the Tombs Court, yesterday, a cook, who was Miss Augusta Brunning before she admitted marrying four men, appeared before Magistrate Steinert, charged with bigamy, and was held in $500 bail for the Grand Jury after waiving examination. Her husbands, in the order in which she married them, are: Henry Koehler, Waterbury, Conn.; Frank Newman, painter, No. 406 East Seventh-second street; Philip Spitzenberger, janitor at No. 131 avenue B, and Otto T. Miller, gilder, No. 206 East Thirteenth street. "I didn't know I was doing wrong by marrying these men. They were all so nice and sweet, and I loved them all. Besides, they worried me to marry them so much," said the woman.

Hydrophobia Victim.

Meriden, Conn., Oct. 26.—In great agony, John Wrenn, a hostler, thirty-five years old, who was bitten in the arm by a dog on September 20, died at the Town Farm yesterday afternoon of hydrophobia. Since Wednesday he had been in a straightjacket. He had frequent spasms and barked and snapped like a dog. Efforts to give him medicine were futile.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Manager Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, realizing many a person, man, woman or child, may never get an opportunity to read up or become familiar with the tragic ending of Servia's King and Queen, therefore announces Theodore Kremer's strongest play, "Queen of the Convicts," dealing with the Servian Revolution; and be it known to all that Mr. Kremer has endeavored to faithfully portray the more important episodes of their eventful lives, in "Queen of the Convicts." It is a well known fact that an actual historical event interestingly told with tears and laughter, never fails to elicit the approval of all classes of theatre-goers. Miss Selma Herman, as the ill-fated queen, will have a splendid chance to rise to the highest point of the strong emotional power she has shown she possesses. At the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

Scene in "Red Feather," at New Plainfield Theatre, Tomorrow Afternoon and Evening.

In writing for "Red Feather," Reginald De Koven's efforts must have been guided by the same touch of genius that inspired the splendid music of "Robin Hood." The score of "Red Feather" is expressive, containing nerve and spirit and no lack of brightness, brilliancy, color and sparkle. Some of the more important of the numbers are "Conspirators," "The Little Milliner," "Song of the Guard," "Prince of Good Fellows," "Lessons in Verse," "To Call Thee Mine," "The Humorous Ghost," "The Merry Cavalier," "The Highborn Rooster," "A Madrigal," "The Rose and the Breeze," and "The Garden of Dreams." To give proper interpretation to the music Manager Joseph M. Gaites supplies a special orchestra. "Red Feather" will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night.

In gathering the people together, for the production of "The Harvard Girl," Messrs. Spitz and Nathanson, the well known theatrical concern, have used every precaution to make it an ensemble far out of the ordinary, and how well they have succeeded is shown by the reception accorded the company wherever they have appeared. "The Harvard Girl" is not a Hodge-podge, by any means, but one of those effervescent and up-to-date musical oddities that never fail to please even the most fastidious of audiences, from the rise of the curtain until the rattling grand finale. In "The Harvard Girl" there are thirty-five active people and the changes of costume are various and pleasing. This big musical company will invade here at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night.

One of the scenes in the new A. H. Woods sensational melodrama, "The Confessions of a Wife," from the pen of Owen Davis, and which is underlined at the New Plainfield theatre Tuesday night, is a ragtime blizzard, one of those typical Western affairs which the public often hears about through the columns of the newspapers. There are plenty of other equally fine scenes, but it would be unfair to speak of them at length beforehand. Suffice it to say that those who visit the New Plainfield theatre to witness "The Confessions of a Wife" will be more than amply repaid. There is not a dull period in the whole play. Action, and plenty of it, keeps the spectator interested from the rise of the first curtain to the end of the show.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 31, at the New Plainfield theatre the D. W. Robertson's famous moving picture company will give another of their matchless moving picture entertainments on the very latest subjects. One of the many great features in moving picture art will be "The Great Automobile Race for the Vanderbilt Cup." Another picture of great interest will be "The Futurity Race," "The Snap Shot Fiend," "The Man With the Ladder and Hose," "The Wig Chase" and many others. All the latest illustrated songs will be presented with special entertainment by Will Davis, James J. Haack and others. One of the interesting features in this programme will be the description of all the moving pictures while in motion by Mr. Robertson, who will personally conduct the programme. This will be Mr. Robertson's tenth visit to Plainfield and from the present indications and the demand for seats, there will be another overflowing house to greet him and the return of D. W. Robertson's famous moving picture company to Plainfield.

FRUITS AS MEDICINE.

Bananas are beneficial to sufferers from chest complaints.

Dates are exceedingly nourishing and also prevent constipation.

Apples, carrots and Brazil nuts are excellent for sufferers from constipation.

The juice of grapes is laxative, but the skin and seeds are likely to cause constitpation.

The juice of a lemon is excellent as a gargle for sore throat, but should not be swallowed.

Cranberries are astringent and correct the liver when it is suffering from inaction caused by overeating.

Learned, Lazy Guam.

The island of Guam, a possession of the United States in mid-Pacific, has an area of 200 square miles on which are 9,000 people. Statistics give eighteen schools on the island and state that nine-tenths of the islanders can read and write. Ye the people will not work. The shipments of merchandise from the States to Guam amounted in value to $101,900 in 1904 and only $610 in 1905.

The only farming implement used in Guam is a hoe, used like the scuffling hoe in the States, ploughs being unknown. Guam is said to be thickly wooded, well watered and fertile, producing tropical fruits abundantly. There is also a good harbor. If the American people wish to help Guam they can do it quickly and efficiently by teaching the people improved agriculture. If the agricultural possibilities of Guam were developed the people would not have to depend upon Japanese traders for their sustenance. —Letter to Charlotte (N. C.) Chronicle.

All Well Again in Greenville.

The "Little Spy" has been seriously afflicted with appendicitis, and thus far escaped the surgeon's knife, we are now able to walk around in our room, and will endeavor to keep in line with correspondents and friends.

It is gratifying to know, and a pleasure to inform our many readers of the prosperous condition of our place and people who have a bountiful supply of all things necessary for comfort and pleasure in this life.

We wish to extend our many thanks to Drs. Milburn and Hays, who attended us during our severe illness, and would say to those who that take the dreaded disease, call Drs. Milburn and Hays.—Greenville (Tenn.) Sun.

Graft in the Name of the Lord.

A young kid with a white face like a cow, and delicate, soft, little hands too nice to "earn his bread by the sweat of his brow," blowed into town Wednesday afternoon, and in the "name of the Lord" proceeded to do some read up-to-date grafting. From the way he pulled in the shekels in his house to house canvass one would think he had been taking personal lessons from pious old John D. His preach efforts are of about as much value to humanity as a brass band to the condemned of the bottomless pit. Such individuals, along with other tramps and hoboes, should go to work and earn an honest living.—Yoncalla (Wash.) Courier.

FOREIGN HUMOR.

Wit of the World From England, Italy and Austria.

In an Australian crowd on some patriotic occasion the name of England was loudly cheered by a dark visaged person, and an English visitor next to him said in surprise, "Surely you've no English blood in your veins?" "No English blood in my veins!" shouted the other. "Why, my great-great-grandfather helped to eat Captain Cook!"—Morning Post.

Languid Luke—There's one thing about a clay pipe wot makes it better than a cigar.

Agile Algernon—What's that?

Languid Luke—Why, when yer drops it on the pavement yer don't 'ave to trouble to stoop and pick it up.—Ally Sloper.

"You told us, boy," the tourist said to the urchin who was fishing in the lake, "that the boat always left here at 4, and we have waited now till past 5."

"Oh," said the boy, "it doesn't begin to run til next month!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Servant Maid—The signora will be sorry. She has gone out for the whole day, but she left a message for you.

Visitor—Really? What was it?

Maid—I am so sorry I have forgotten. I will go up and ask here.—La Caricaturista.

A celebrated actress, fresh and youthful looking, was in the habit of invariably taking eighteen years from her age. She was called once in a law case and gave the usual response. Her son was called immediately after, and, on being asked his age, he replied promptly, "Six months older than my mother."—Il Riso.

Friend—Do you know that the grocery man opposite uses your poems as wrapping paper?

Poet—Yes, but under our arrangement he only puts up his very best groceries in them.—Floh.

Max (who is talking over the telephone with a man who stutters)—Papa, come here. There must be a knot in the telephone wire.—Bombe.

Wednesday next is the date set aside by Mr. Michael Heumann for his annual opening ball and high-call vaudeville entertainment. This is one of the formal annual events in Harlem, and Mr. Heumann's Harlem casino, at One hundred and Twenty-fourth street and Seventh avenue, New York, is doing unprecedented business this year through the popularity of Rigo, the gypsy fiddler, and his Royal Imperial Court Tzigane orchestra. They play each night and twice on Sundays at the casino to crowded houses. The vaudeville bill preceding the ball will be of unusual variety and merit, and it is probable that the affair will be the most successful one ever held in the resort on the drive.

LITERARY.

In the midst of the multitudinous assaults being made on our politicians by the "muck-rakers," it is refreshing to read of the exploits of Senator Broderick, the foremost character in a story by Wm. Hamilton Osborne in The Red Book Magazine for November.

As usual, this most charming of outdoor magazines is fairly bursting its handsome cover with seasonable articles and stories, this month mostly of wildfowl shootinfi Easily the best of all articles ever published on the subjects is "Duck-Shooting with Gun and Camera," by C. S. Cummings, showing some most ermarkable pictures of the author shooting ducks. The camera caught the dead ducks dropping through the air, and the man is clearly shown simultaneously firing the gun and operating the camera.

"The Conflict," by Emma Wolf, which is the novelette opening the November number of The Smart Set, is a story remarkably new in plot and treatment. It concerns the two distinct personalities which the heroine, a young married woman, discovers that she possesses. Her wonderful alter ego is encouraged and developed by her, and the strange complication which results is logically and skilfully brought about. Miss Wolf, through this novelette, will find herself occupying a very high place among the younger American writers.

In addition to A. E. W. Mason's compellingly interesting "Running Water," The Century's present serial, and Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's new novel, "The Shuttle," which will begin in the November issue, The Century in 1907 will publish a new novel by Elizabeth Robins, to be titled "Come and Find Me!" In this story Miss Robins has returned to the scenes of probably her chief success in fiction, "The Magnetic North," and has made the magnetic attraction of the far North the chief motive of an unusual narrative. The illustrations will be Blumenschein's work.

President Roosevelt's articles on "Hunting Big Game" pale into insignificance before the account in Appleton's Magazine for November of the hunting of perhistoric animals. The capture of a fossil brontosaurus in Wyoming and the mounting of him in New York constituted sport of a wholesome kind. This brontosaurus is 67 feet long. It could wade in water 20 feet deep and browse in a treetop 30 feet high. It was longer than three elephants in line, and weighed more.

George Madden Martin, the author of "Emmy Lou," has thrown in her lot with John S. Phillips, Ida M. Tarbell, William Allen White, F. P. Dunne, Ray Stannard Baker, Lincoln Steffens and the others who have taken hold of The American Magazine. Mrs. Martin, in the December number of The American Magazine, will begin a series of stories of a new little girl of fiction—Lettit, who is an army child. The new series is to be called "Letitia, Army Corps, U. S. A."

"The Hint," by Alice Duer Miller, is a bit of doggerel which everybody is going to talk about. It apepars in the November number of The Metropolitan Magazine, and suggests to Mr. Roosevelt a new outlet for his energies should he persist in not running for the Presidency of these United States again. It is the best bit of its kind which has appeared since Mr. Roosevelt's election.

Eight special articles, each of actual importance to the American reading public, and nine short stories of the highest quality are contained in the November Everybody's. It is a number that should make a strong appeal to the widest possible variety of American readers. "Soldiers of the Common Good," by Charles Edward Russell, deals with the remarkable achievements of the labor government of Australia—on the firing-line of political progress. It is a report vital to the interests of good government of all the people.

"The people ought to be educated on the point of piano maintenance," said Col. Hollenberg, a prominent music man of Little Rock, Ark., to The Musical Age recently. "When a man buys a piano for $500 he ought to be prepared to spend $15 or $20 a year to keep it in first-class condition, just as he spends five or ten cents a day to keep a pair of $5 shoes in good shape. Pianos need regular attention and unless they get it deterioration is rapid."

Marshall & Ball Clothing
The Highest Type of Ready-to-Wear.

No Clothing Desire Overlooked.

Some men are particular about one thing and some about another in their apparel. With some men quality and fit are about all that is demanded, while with others style and smart appearance are the first consideration.

There are plenty of clothing stores where good materials and a fit that will pass muster are generally provided. They appeal to men who are not particular.

But in Marshall & Ball Clothing, whether for the conservative or the extremely stylish dresser, there isn't a single element that discerning men desire which has been overlooked, from the quality of the materials to the smallest detail of finishing.

That something which has been referred to as "ginger" in cloths is eminently present in our Fall Suits and Overcoats for young men. There is a degree of style and individuality worked into them which can result only from superior tailoring skill and which is often absent in the product of even high-priced custom shops.

"Londoncut" Suits, $12 to $25. Sack Suits, $10 to $30. Fall Overcoats, $12 to $35.

MOHAMMED'S BLOODY HAND.

History of the Imprint on a Pillar in the Church of St. Sophia.

In the course of our exploration in Constantinople we visited a building in an obscure and poor quarter of Stamboul inhabited solely by Mohammedans.

It is called the Mosque Kahrie, but it is or was a church dedicated to the Blessed Virgin. The beauty of the mosque ceiling and walls not even centuries of neglect have been able to obliterate.

When we returned to the great Church of St. Sophia, now a mosque, and saw again the print of the bloody hand of Mohammed, which is pointed out high up on the wall of that once Christian church, we understand its significance better than we had at first sight.

Mohammed II. after advancing his outposts gradually and stealthily had finally, as if in a night, crossed the Bosporus from Asia and raised his forts on the European side of the stream. Just the day before, on a trip up the Bosporus, we had seen the ruins of those fortifications.

The rulers of the city had protested in vain against this encroachment. When the Moslems finally attacked the city the Christians fled in terror to St. Sophia. An ancient legend, firmly believed, promised that this sanctuary was absolutely safe.

Mohammed proved the fallacy of their trust by breaking down the doors, murdering those who had sought safety there, men, women and children—so many of them that finally, forcing his horse over the great pile of dead bodies, away up on the side of a pillar he planted his bloody hand on the clear wall in token of his victory over the Christians. That gory hand still overshadows the fairest portion of southeastern Europe.—Rosary Magazine.

NEWSPAPER SCRIBES IN BOWLING TOURNEY.

Newark News—Plainfield Reporters to Try Conclusions.

A red-hot pin smashing exhibition is billed to take place on Snedeker's alleys tomorrow night, when the Newark Evening News bowling combination will meet the Plainfield newspaper team in three match games. The bowling tournament between the scribes of both cities is but a continuation of the athletic relations which was established during the past summer in the intercity baseball series. In this branch of sport the Newarkers proved their superiority over Plainfield, but the locals hope to even matters up by taking the long end of the bowling series.

The locals will present the following players: John "Somerset" Gaffney, Billy "Tribune" Lambert, Chauncey "Depew" Stout, George Washington Nicholls, Archibald Hacquer, Harry Knowles and "Prest." Millard Fillmore Elderton.

The Newark combination will include Joseph P. Norton, the "candy kid" of the bunch, Harry Hughes, William Bedell, Joseph Gunn, George E. Firstbrook, Steve Flarity, Frank Higgins.

The game will be started at 6 o'clock and will be followed by a banquet at Timbo's.

NOT TO ORGANIZE CITY BOWLING LEAGUE.

Decision Made at Promoters' Meeting at Hotel Iroquois Last Night.

The representatives of the proposed city bowling league met at the Hotel Iroquois, last night, and decided not to perfect an organization for the present. The difficulty met is the inability of securing players for the various teams. It appears that so many good bowlers belong to so many organizations that they cannot decide just now which team to identify themselves with. Until this is done it has been decided not to attempt to organize.

There was some discussion as to the advisability of organizing a league among the lodges, including the Elks, Knights of Columbus, Knights of Pythias, Workmen and Juniors, and then organize an independent league from among other clubs. This plan may be decided upon later.

Clubs represented last night included the Elks, the Somerset A. C., Saengerbunds, Juniors, Red Feather, Plainfield Social Club and Somerville. After a lengthy discussion pro and con, the meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

FIRST BASKETBALL GAME.

High School and Y. M. C. A. Fives to Meet November 12.

The first basketball team of the Y. M. C. A. will play its initial game of the season Monday night, November 12, against the Plainfield High School first five. The second teams of the two organizations will play the same night.

The Y. M. C. A. teams which will probably be totally different to last year's in make-up, have not yet been selected. It is expected that the first team will be picked tonight, when the candidates meet.

TWO WESTFIELD NINES.

Both Want to Come Into the Amateur League.

The amateur baseball league will meet November 9 to consider applications from two Westfield teams. The news that not one, but two teams, from Westfield are ready to join the league will surprise the fans. Westfield was supposed to be down and out as far as baseball went.

Both teams are said to be passing fair and strong of men. One is headed by Albert Snyder and the other by R. B. Cross. They are new names to the fans in this vicinity, but both are said to be budding Denmans.

GETTING READY FOR A CROSS COUNTRY RUN.

Y. M. C. A. Athletes Have Practice Jog at Night, Along Mountain Road.

Cross country running is to be a feature of Y. M. C. A. athletics hereafter. The members have taken enthusiastically to the manly old sport under the impulse of Physical Director Listman's advocacy, and a hardy, fast team will probably be organized before the fall is much older.

Preparations for a run have already been made. It will be held Election Day morning. The course has not yet been fixed, but it will be laid out in ample time to give the entrants time for practice runs. Ten of the gym members went out for a short practice run last night, after the class session. They covered two and one-half miles up Watchung avenue and along the mountain road to Scotch Plains at a smart jog.

Planning Bowling Season.

Within a short time the various clubs composing the Central Journal Bowling League will hold a meeting to perfect a schedule for the season which will begin next month. There will be the usual number of clubs in the league, including the Park Club, the Roselle Casino, Cranford Casino, Westfield Club, Elizabeth Club and the Bayonne Club. During the past two years Westfield has been successful in winning the trophy, the club having a very strong team. The Park Club promises to have an unusually strong five this season and it is likely will make the other clubs hustle to win.

Verdella Dunham Struck by a Brick.

Verdella Dunham, colored, employed as a hod-carrier at the new building being erected by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, in East Fourth street, was struck on the head by a brick today noon, and rendered unconscious. Dr. G. W. Endicott was in the vicnity at the time and he gave temporary treatment, after which the man was taken to the hospital. Dunham has a deep and painful lacerated wound on the head, but there is no fracture and his condition is not serious. Dunham was working inside the building on the first floor, when one of the fireproof bricks was jarred off the second floor, falling directly on top of the workman's head.

There was the largest attendance of members in over a year.

A Dark Man With a Bundle.

An unidentified negro, with a fearful and wondering jag, was taken from a Central Railroad train at the North avenue station this morning by Patrolman Charles Flynn. The cop was asked to take the drunk in charge by the conductor. The negro was dead to all sound and sensation, and he showed no signs of an awakening at noon.

P. H. S. DEBATING SOCIETY CHOOSES NEW OFFICERS.

Miss Mary Lock, Instructor in English, Makes an Address.

The Plainfield High School Debating Society held a meeting yesterday at which nine new members were elected and these officers were chosen: President, George H. Fisher; vice-president, F. R. Williams; secretary, Adelbert VanBrakle; treasurer, Joseph Osgood. More interest than usual was shown and a successful year is anticipated.

Miss Mary Lock, instructor in English, who has consented to act as critic again, made a short address in which she made a number of excellent suggestions, showing where improvement can be made over the work of the society last year. She suggested that he whole school be invited to attend the debates, thus interesting a greater number and giving the debaters better training in public speaking. Special emphasis was made by Miss Lock regarding the importance of regular attendance and keeping all appointments in connection with the debates.

The society will meet in the high school every Thursday. Next week the members will vote on the amendments to the constituion, which are being prepared by a special committee composed of George H. Fisher, Jr., Adelbert VanBrakle and Arthur Titsworth. At this meeting subjects for debate will be discussed.

His Refusal Cost Him $1,000.

New Brunswick, Oct. 26.—It cost Contractor John J. Hurley, of Trenton, $1,000 to decide that he did not want to take the contract for macadamizing the Cheesequakes road, in South Amboy and Madison townships. He had been the lowest bidder, the price being $23,987.40, and the contract was awarded him in July last. Much of the road must be built over marshy ground, and considerable filling was required. Yesterday he notified the freeholders that the work would require much more filling than he had been led to suppose from the plans, and he thought allowance should be made for the extra fill. He had done no work on the road. The board conceled the award of the contract and declared forfeited the $1,000 certified check which Hurley had put up as a guarantee that if awarded the contract he would take the work.

Gave "Spinsters' Convention."

Members of the Mount Zion A. M. E. church gave a "spinsters' convention," last night, for the benefit of the church fund. It was attended by a large gathering and the entertainment was greatly enjoyed. Among those who appeared were J. Alberta Thomas, A. P. White, Catherine Washington, Henrietta Jones, L. Brown, A. M. Holmes, Sarah E. Riley, C. Venable, Sarah Hardaway, Jennie Marsh, Alletta Maynard, Fannie Olden, M. Barnes, J. Floyd, Mabel Cray, Anna Jones, Mary Lane, Carrie Hemmans, E. Ellsworth Thomas and Clark Wilson. Refreshments were served at the close.

No Cash to Influence Voters.

William J. Keyes, chairman of the Democratic county committee of Somerset county, has sent a letter to the committeemen throughout the county to the effect that no money will be used by the Democratic party in the interest of any candidate on election day. The ordinary expenses, such as poll workers and carriage hire, will, of course, be paid, but the local committeemen, it is given out, will have no money for the purpose of trying to influence votes for the party candidates.

Painters' Annual Ball.

Local Union, No. 480, Brotherhood of Painters, Paperhangers and Decorators, of this city, held its fourth annual ball in Saengerbund Hall, last night. It was attended by a large crowd of dancers and was one of the most successful affairs of this kind the union has ever conducted. The committee which had charge consisted of John E. Mathews, chairman; Fred Hale, secretary; Charles J. Trotter, Edward Thomas and C. M. Huff.

Sold Thirty Lots.

The Plainfield Land and Building Company disposed of thirty of its lots in the vicinity of Rock avenue and West Third street, yesterday afternoon, at auction. There was a large crowd of bidders in attendance and the lots as a rule brought good prices. The properties are located on Rock, Hazelwood and Poplar avenues, South Second and West Third streets. Albert Cheshire & Sons, of Syosett, L. I., were the auctioneers.

Who Owns This Spaniel?

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc

(COPYRIGHT, 1905, by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

"A friend of mine has been luring me into a trap—why, I can't quite fathom. To-day he sprang the trap and ran away."

"A friend of yours?"

"The man we were talking about—your ex-god—Langdon."

"Langdon," she repeated, and her tone told me that Sammy knew and had hinted to her more than I suspected him of knowing. And, with her arms still folded, she paced up and down the room. I watched her slender feet in pale blue slippers appear and disappear—first one, then the other—at the edge of her trailing skirt. Presently she stopped in front of me. Her eyes were gazing past me.

"You are sure it was he?" she asked.

I could not answer immediately, so amazed was I at her expression. I had been regarding her as a being above and apart, an incarnation of youth and innocence; with a shock it occurred to me that she was experienced—that she understood the whole of life, the dark as fully as the light, and that she was capable to live it, too. It was not a girl that was questioning me there; it was a woman.

"Yes—Langdon," I replied. "But I've no quarrel with him. My reverse is nothing but the fortune of war. I assure you, when I see him again, I'll be as friendly as ever—only a bit less of a trusting ass, I fancy. We're a lot of free lances down in the street. We change sides whenever it's expedient; and under the code it's not necessary to give warning. To-day, before I knew he was the assassin, I had made my plans to try to save myself at his expense, though I believed him to be the best friend I had down town. No doubt he's got some good reason for creeping up on me in the dark."

"You are sure it was he?" she repeated.

"He, and nobody else," replied I. "He decided to do me up—and I guess he'll succeed. He's not the man to lift his gun unless he's sure the bird will fall."

"Do you really not care any more than you show?" she asked. "Or is your manner only bravado—to show off before me?"

"I don't care a damn, since I'm to lose you," said I. "It'll be a godsend to have a hard row to hoe the next few months or years."

She went back to leaning against the table, her arms folded as before. I saw she was thinking out something. Finally she said:

"I have decided not to accept your release."

I sprang to my feet.

"Anita!" I cried, my arms stretched toward her.

But she only looked coldly at me, folded her arms the more tightly and said:

"Do not misunderstand me. The bargain is the same as before. If you want me on those terms, I must—give myself."

"Why?" I asked.

A faint smile, with no mirth in it, drifted round the corners of her mouth.

"An impulse," she said. "I don't quite understand it myself. An impulse from—from——" Her eyes and her thoughts were far away, and her expression was the one that made it hardest for me to believe she was a child of those parents of hers. "An impulse from a sense of justice—of decency. I am the cause of your trouble, and I daren't be a coward and a cheat." She repeated the last words. "A coward—a cheat! We—I—have taken much from you, more than you know. It must be repaid. If you still wish, I will—will keep to my bargain."

"It's true, I'd not have got into the mess," said I, "if I'd been attending to business instead of dangling after you. But you're not responsible for that folly."

She tried to speak several times, before she finally succeeded in saying:

"It's my fault. I mustn't shirk."

I studied her, but I couldn't puzzle her out.

"I've been thinking all along that you were simple and transparent," I said. "Now, I see you are a mystery. What are you hiding from me?"

Her smile was almost coquettish as she replied:

"When a woman makes a mystery of herself to a man, it's for the man's good."

I took her hand—almost timidly.

"Anita," I said, "do you still—dislike me?"

"I do not—and shall not—love you," she answered. "But you are——"

"More endurable?" I suggested, as she hesitated.

"Less unendurable," she said with raillery. Then she added, "Less unendurable than profiting by a—creeping up in the dark."

I thought I understood her better than she understood herself. And suddenly my passion melted in a tenderness I would have said was so foreign to me as rain to a desert. I noticed that she had a haggard look. "You are very tired, child," said I. "Good night. I am a different man from what I was when I came in here."

"And I a different woman," said she, a beauty shining from her that was as far beyond her physical beauty as—as love is beyond passion.

"A nobler, better woman," I exclaimed, kissing her hand.

She snatched it away.

"If you only knew!" she cried. "It seems to me, as I realize what sort of woman I am, that I am almost worthy of you!" And she blazed a look at me that left me rooted there, astounded.

But I went down the avenue with a light heart. "Just like a woman," I was saying to myself cheerfully, "not to know her own mind."

A few blocks, and I stopped and laughed outright—at Langdon's treachery, at my own credulity. "What an ass I've been making of myself!" said I to myself. And I could see myself as I really had been during those months of social struggling—an ass, braying and gamboling in a lion's skin—to impress the ladies!

But not wholly to no purpose," I reflected, again all in a glow at thought of Anita.

A WINDFALL FROM "GENTLEMAN" JOE.

I went to my rooms, purposing to go straight to bed, and get a good sleep. I did make a start toward undressing; then I realized that I should only lie awake with my brain wearing me out, spinning crazy thoughts and schemes hour after hour—for my imagination rarely lets it do any effective thinking after the lights are out and the limitations of material things are wiped away by the darkness.

I dressed myself again and went out—went up to Joe Healey's gambling place in Forty-fourth street. Most of the well-known gamblers up town, as well as their "respectable" down town fellow members of the fraternity, were old acquaintances of mine; Joe Healey was as close a friend as I had. He had great fame for squareness—and, in a sense, deserved it. With his fellow gamblers he was as straight as a string at all times—to be otherwise would have meant that when he went broke he would stay broke, because none of the fraternity would "stake" him. But with his patrons—being regarded by them as a pariah, he acted toward them like a pariah—a prudent pariah. He fooled them with a frank show of gentlemanliness, of honesty to his own hurt; under that cover he fleeced them well, but always judiciously.

That night, I recall, Joe's guests were several young fellows of the fashionable set, rich men's sons and their parasites, a few of the big down town operators who hadn't yet got hipped on "respectability—they playing poker in a private room—and a couple of flush-faced, flush-purse chaps from out of town, for whom one of Joe's men was dealing faro. From what looked to my experienced and accurate eye like a "brace" box.

"SHE BLAZED A LOOK AT ME THAT LEFT ME ROOTED THERE, ASTOUNDED."

The Wooing of Woman

Began in the Garden of Eden and has been going on with all its delicious consequences ever since. It is the starting point of a woman's life, the hour in which the sun really begins to shine.

Be she savage or civilized it is the dawning of the great light for which every woman longs. The story of how the world in every clime has done its wooing is the most fascinating that can be told the children of men and women.

THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.

There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vigors may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?

No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.

Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."

It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

H. B. Irving and Dorothea Baird will end their run at the New Amsterdam theatre Saturday evening, and on Tuesday, the 30th inst., will be followed by Forbes Robertsan and Gertrude Elliott in George Bernard Shaw's play, "Caesar and Cleopatra," which he calls "a history." Mr. Robertson will play "Caesar" and Miss Elliott "Cleopatra." They will be supported by a large company made up of English and American actors. The production will be a very elaborate one. Mr. Robertson's performance of "Caesar" will undoubtedly prove as capitvating as his "Hamlet."

Notwithstanding that Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Prince of India" has made the greatest hit scored in New York since the presentation of its companion play, "Ben Hur," it will remain at the Broadway theatre but a few weeks longer. Its original booking was for nine weeks. This time will terminate November 24th, when it will be transferred to another city to fill another contract and give way to Anna Held and her great company in "A Parisian Model." Klaw & Erlanger's policy of always transferring a play to fill a contract, no matter how great its success, will be followed in this instance as in the past, although "The Prince of India" could undoubtedly remain at the Broadway till the coming spring, playing to capacity. Too much can never be said in praise of this production. It tells a great story and is superbly mounted and acted. A better cast has never been seen on Broadway, and every personality of General Wallace's story is realized in the principal players. In the tragic scene of the third act where "The Prince of India" predicts the downfall of the Empire of the Greeks and the capture of Constantinople by the Turks under Mahommed, Emmett Corrigan carries one of the most powerful dramatic scenes ever presented on the stage with wonderful realistic effect.

Lovers of good drama have the pleasure of witnessing "The Measure of a Man," Cora Maynard's great play, which is to be seen at Weber's theatre, New York. "The greatest play of its kind now before the public" is the verdict of Augustus Thomas, the well known dramatist who was present at the dress rehearsal. The production under the management of Daniel V. Arthur and J. Fred Zimmerman, Jr., enlists the services of such prominent players as E. M. Holland, Percy Haswell, Mary Hall, Robert Drouet and George Holland, supported by a strong company. Miss Maynard, known heretofore only as a magazine writer, wrote "The Measure of a Man" expressly for amateur production, and so pronounced was its success that immediately all the best theatrical producers of New York sought the play, which finally fell to Messrs. Arthur and Zimmerman. When Mr. Thomas saw the production, he declared not only that it was the greates play of its kind, but that it was the best play ever written by a woman. This is a significant statement coming as it does from one of the best dramatists of the day. The play has been produced at the Garrick theatre, Philadelphia, where it was received in such a way as to indicate that it is one of the greatest plays of the decade.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

OLD FASHIONED.

What has become of the old fashioned man who wore bedticking suspenders?

A real old fashioned woman never uses the word "mattress;" she always calls it a tick.

What has become of teh old fashioned country church that gave "Mrs. Jarley's Waxworks?"

What has become of teh old fashioned child that had to go to "meeting" twice every Sunday?

We suppose that if ever a real old fashioned woman travels she makes up her bed when she leaves her berth in the Pullman in the morning.—Atchison Globe.

What has become of the old fashioned man who said, "You can go to grass!"

When a man puts on a new suit of clothes old fashioned men say, "Where was the fire?"

What has become of the old fashioned woman who called her masculine kin "the men folks?"

When a child asks an old fashioned woman a question the woman is liable to sa, "Curiosity killed a cat."

What has become of the old fashioned curly haired boy who put "clabber" on his hair to straighten it?

What has become of the old fashioned woman who could tell whether a shoe would fit or not by putting her hand in first?

What has become of the old fashioned woman who when she tried to get her husband "up" in the morning said, "Get up, lazy bones?"—Atchison Globe.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

The Channel islands are the oldest appanage of the British crown. They have been British since 1066.

The first woolen cloth made in England was manufactured about 1330, though it was not dyed and dressed by the English until 1667.

Frederick Townsend, charged in a London court with maliciously wounding James Ridley, pleaded in justification that Ridley had caled him a "Glasgow Irishman."

In a London police court the other day a woman, testifying to bad language used to her by another woman, stated that her next door neighbor came out to see what the trouble was, and when she heard the language she dropped dead.

Sixty per cent. of the London police are on the night service, which they prefer to day service because there is less to do. One of their main duties at night is to see that doors and windows are barred and to notify the occupants of houses when they are not.

HOME REMEDIES.

Arnica diluted with warm water acts like magic in soothing tired, swollen feet.

Camphor is very soothing in cases of chilblains and should always be kept in the house. It is simply rubbed on.

A simple and effective ointment for cold sores or fever blisters: Five grains of camphor, one-half dram of powdered arrowroot, one-half dram of subnitrate of bismuth, one-half ounce of ointment of rosewater. Apply to the blemish.

Onion sirup made in the following manner will relieve the congestion in cases of croup. Cut several raw onions into slices, sprinkle the slices with granulated sugar and squeeze out the juice. The dose is a teaspoonful every fifteen minutes until relief is obtained. This sirup is also much used in cases of bronchitis.

PHOTO DON'TS.

Don't wear black. It gives a hard, dense tone.

Don't smile unless it comes naturally or the result will be annoying.

Don't expect to get a photograph that will please you if you are fatigued when sitting.

Don't be afraid of wearing lace. The line between the flesh and dress will be softened by it.

Don't take a full faced picture if the nose is crooked or the eyes weak. Try a three-quarter view.

Don't choose a day when the sunshine is very bright or every imperfection will be developed. A well lighted cloudy day is best.

THE GARDENER.

To promote the formation of buds and flowers on geraniums let the plants become pot-bound and kept in a sunny place, water sparingly and avoid pruning.

If snails trouble your pansy bed dust over the plants a little carbolic powder and there will be no more trouble with the leaves and blossoms being eaten. This powder is put up in cans and is not destructive to plant life.

When Jack Frost visits your garden and kisses all the tender plants, do not forget to rescue a few sweet alyssum roots. Cut back the tops to two inches and place in the large pots or in the window boxes as border plants. They will trail from the sides in clusters of dainty white.

Have a saucer of sand always ready in a sunny window for plant cuttings. Some one gives you a bouquet of choice flowers. Look it over before it withers and you may find a valuable cutting. Place it in the sand, keep it moist and in a few days you have a plant ready for potting.

Pansies, pinks and carnations, though mostly hardy when well rooted in the garden, should be given some protection by placing a frame of boards around the bed and when extreme cold weather comes place a covering of boughs of evergreen over the plants, or boards may be used if they can be so arranged as to let in the sunshine on warm days.

The narcissus blooms best in a bright but rather cool room. The room should be frost-proof, but unheated, to get the best results.

HINTS FOR WOMEN.

Please tell me how to clean a purpre Panama skirt that has butter stains on it. They are on the front breadth, and I am afraid to use gasoline, as rings mght form or the color of the goods might be changed in cleaning. Also what can I use to make my handbag black and glossy again? It is growing rusty in appearance. Thanking you in advance.

U. L. M.

You will be running more or less of a risk if you try to clean the skirt at home, as almost any cleaning fluid is apt to change the color. Touch the spot lightly with diluted ammonia water. Warm water and soap or cold water and soapsuds are sometimes effective, if followed with a touch of a cloth dipped in diluted ammonia. This usually prevents the color from fading.

Another way is to cover the spot with powdered French chalk and hold over a hot iron. The heat will melt the grease and the chalk will absorb it. Rub the chalk off with a linen rag. If this is not successful try rubbing the spots with spirits of turpentine.

Would advise you to take the skirt to a professional cleaner. Inquire at almost any store for a preparation to blacken your bag. We do not give names in this column.

Kindly inform me through your question column, which is proper, for the hostess or the guests to cut a birthday cake. Also what games can be played by a party of young ladies and gentlemen. And oblige, BIRTHDAY.

The hostess usually cuts the cake.

As it is so near Hallowe'en I think some sort of "mystery" party would prove more enjoyable than anything else. In one corner of the room make a cave of boughs and draperies. Have one of the young ladies dress as a witch, hide herself in the cave, and hand out sealed envelopes to each guest. The envelopes should contain the future destinies of every one present. From time to time we have published a great many Hallowe'en games. If you desire more I will be glad to help you.

When supper is served, have for the centre piece a large surprise pie, with streamers of ribbon going to the plate of each guest. At a given signal they are to pull the ribbons, when they will find a Hallowe'en favor attached.

Please publish in your paper a recipe for making popoveds, and oblige, A READER.

Popovers—Two well beaten eggs, one cup of milk, a pinch of salt, one tablespoonful of melted butter, two cups of flour; mix, and then add another cup of milk. Bake in a quick oven, in gem pans.

Please let me know how to make jelly roll, and oblige, JANE.

Jelly Roll—Three eggs, one cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one cup of flour; mix, and pour into a baking pan, in a very thin layer, spread jelly over it and roll it up. Wrap in a cloth and bake.

STAIN REMOVERS.

Grass Stains.—Alcohol or molasses.

Blood Stains.—Soak in cold soapsuds to which a little kerosene has been added.

Fresh Paint.—Try kerosene, vaseline or machine oil; then wash with soap and cold water.

Ink Stains.—Dip into boiling water, spread over a basin, rub well with salts of sorrel; then rinse thoroughly.

Wine Stains.—Sprinkle thickly with salt while still wet. If dried wet with boiling water, rub thoroughly with salt and pour boiling water through.

Rust.—Wet in cold water, spread on the grass; then apply to each spot ordinary table salt wet with lemon juice. As fast as it dries renew the application. As soon as the stain is removed rinse thoroughly.

Indelible Ink.—Soak in a solution of common salt ;then wash with diluted ammonia. Rinse well. Javelle water and a solution of oxalic acid will also remove indelible ink. Ringing must follow immediately and thoroughly.

WISDOM'S WHISPERS.

Forgetfulness has saved many from the making of serious errors.

When honors come unexpectedly there follows a feeling of airy satisfaction.

The telling of a truth will sometimes bring the severest condemnation.

Happiness often is the result of the most common-place incident.

There is merit in frankness even if it occasionally is a cause of annoyance.

Consistency may be regarded as a virtue which is open to question.

Money madness is a weakness sure to be felt by everyone at times.

An over-plus of gratitude is apt to be regarded as sycophancy.

Dreams of future greatness may induce neglect of present opportunities.

"Of course," said Newitt, "she's not very pretty, but she seems like a nice girl."

BIG PROFITS FROM FAIR

St. Mary's Undertaking Netted $4,660 For Sister's Home Fund.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Peter Flynn, Sr., Mayor of Parish—John Donnolly Most Popular Coachman.

Greatly to the surprise of even the most liberal guessers, it was made known last night that the net receipts of the recent St. Mary fair and bazaar had reached the grand total of $4,660. The fact was announced at a gathering of the parish workers in the school hall by Father Bogan, who stated that the figures were much higher than he had dreamed of and that the sum would be adequate for the purpose specified.

Another announcement made by Father Bogan that caused almost as much enthusiasm was the fact that Peter Flynn, Sr., one of the original members of St. Mary's parish, had won the "mayoralty" contest conducted during the fair. In all 6,830 votes had been cast and of this number the successful candidate received 4,567. Mr. Flynn is eighty-six years old and for thirty-four years has been connected with the T. A. B. Society. He was supported by the entire parish and the result was satisfactory even to those who had voted against him. His opponents were Dr. W. C. Boone, who was nominated by the Knights of Columbus; J. W. Graham, from the Holy Name Society, and Patrick Casey, from the T. A. B. Society. Mr. Flynn was at the gathering last night and he was accorded one of the greatest demonstrations the hall has ever witnessed.

A second contest that attracted much attention was for the most popular coachman in the parish and there was more cheering when it was stated that John Donnolly had won. In this contest, 3,864 votes had been cast, the winner receiving 2,560. Young women of the parish had collected money from individuals during the fair and following the other awards it was announced that Miss Margaret Kenney had forged ahead of all other contestants with $127 to her credit. For this she was presented with a gold watch and one of those encouraging addresses from Father Bogan that is a reward in itself.

When all the winners had been made known, members of the various societies that had taken part in the fair secured a fife and drum corps and paraded the streets in the immediate vicinity of the hall. The homes of the successful contestants were visited and they were serenaded in a noisy manner. Afterward a social time and refreshments were enjoyed at the hall.

The proceeds from the fair are to be used in building a home for the sisters of the parish. Where it will be located and what sort of a building it will be are matters still under consideration. Father Bogan and his assistants are busy on the plans, however, and will make the facts known in a short time.

Papers on Missions.

The monthly meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Shreve, of Grove street. The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. B. Probasco. Miss Kinsman read a paper on "Settlement Work in Large Cities," and Mrs. Kenneth Robbie read a paper entitled "A Glimpse of the Island World," telling of their groupings of the isles and describing their people. Tea was served at the close of the exercises and the meeting adjourned to the church to pack some boxes of clothing for needy white people in the mountains of Kentucky.

J. H. C., Jr.

There was much excitement in banking circles this morning but not until J. Herbert Case, secretary and treasurer of the Plainfield Trust Company, was approached could the cause be learned. The expression on Mr. Case's face led the reporter to believe that fresh good fortune had come to the trust company within a day or two. What was the matter? Oh, nothing, 'cept it's a boy.

Approaching Wedding.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Laura Rupert and Isaac Hoagland, both of East Millstone, which will take place at the home of the bride Wednesday night, November 7. The couple are well known here, where they have many friends.

Arranging for Hallowe'en Social.

MOTHER RESCUES CHILD WHOSE DRESS IS ABLAZE

SMALL JERRY CASH FOUND MATCHES WITH USUAL RESULT.

Playing with matches taken from his father's vest, two-year-old Jeremiah Cash, Jr., son of Special Policeman Jeremiah Cash, set fire to his dress yesterday afternoon, and was severely burned. His mother suffered painful burns in rescuing him.

Little Jerry found the vest with the matches in it hanging on the fence in the yard of the Cash home at 717 South avenue, at 3 o'clock. Cash placed it there before starting to work about the place. Little Jerry, turned into the yard under his mother's eye, to play, gravitated toward it almost as if he was a small piece of iron and the vest a magnet. The matches were about the first thing Jerry found in the pockets and he promptly fished them out and started the ever-popular juvenile game. The usual result happened very quickly.

Before Mrs. Cash, who saw the flames burst out, could reach the child, Jerry's dress was all ablaze. Mrs. Cash, without regard for her own safety, seized the child and beat out the flames. Her hands and arms suffered severely.

Jerry was burned on one side under his arm, and about his face. Dr. Zeglio, summoned hurriedly, said the condition of neither mother nor child was serious. He dressed the burns and made them comfortable.

BIG REVIVAL WILL BEGIN TOMORROW NIGHT

SIX CONGREGATIONS TO JOIN WITH FIRST BAPTIST'S MOVEMENT.

There was a large attendance at the special prayer and conference meeting at the First Baptist church, last night, in preparation for the evangelistic services which begin tomorrow under the direction of Rev. Dr. Wharton. About half the time was occupied in singing the hymns from the new revival book, "Songs of Love Divine," and Charles L. Lewis, who has been engaged to lead the large chorus during the revival, was present and took charge of the music. There were fully one hundred singers present, who were massed in one part of the room, and they quickly learned the new hymns.

The remaining part of the service was devoted to prayer and short remarks. The outcome of the special services is exceedingly promising. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss was in charge last night, making a few remarks appropos the services which begin tomorrow.

Rev. Dr. Wharton will preach at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning at the usual hour, 10:30, and in the afternoon at the Sunday-school hour, 2:30 o'clock, he will address a special meeting for young people. About 4:30 o'clock he will go to the Y. M. C. A. and make an address at the men's meeting there.

Tomorrow night at 7:45 o'clock evangelistic services will begin at the First Baptist church. The chorus choir of one hundred voices will occupy seats on an enlarged platform arranged for the occasion. The chorus will assist the regular choir of the church, which will render the usual anthems. There have been procurred 500 copies of the new hymn book "Songs of Love Divine," and they will be distributed throughout the pews for use during the special meetings.

Continuing Monday night and every night next week at 7:45 evangelistic services will be held at the First Baptist church, when Dr. Wharton will speak. The first fifteen minutes of the meeting will be devoted to song service.

Among the churches which will unite in these services commencing tomorrow night will be Trinity Reformed, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist, Grace M. E., First M. E., and Faith chapel, and their houses of worship will be closed tomorrow night, allowing the members to attend the special services.

President's Address to Women.

In her annual address before the Women's Federation of New Jersey, assembled at Asbury Park yesterday, Mrs. Newbury, the president, declared the women's clubs of the State should pledge themselves to stand for a national pure food law, better school laws and for municipal sanitation. She also denounced child labor. Miss Alice Lakey, of Cranford, gave a talk on pure foods.

For Foreign Missions.

The annual offering for foreign missions will be taken tomorrow morning in Trinity Reformed and Congregational churches.

STEVENS HITS CRITICS

Minority Senatorial Candidate Trying to "Reform Incurably Insane Democracy."

REPLIES TO EDITORIALS

Says He Doesn't See Why Dryden Should Worry Over His Running in New Jersey.

Colonel E. A. Stevens, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, has given out the following interview in reference to editorial attacks made upon him, and also seizes the opportunity to take a fling at Senator Dryden.

"I really had no idea," said the colonel, "that my poor little boom had become so dangerous as to draw such a terrific attack. My ignorance of all State and national matters as set forth by partizan newspapers is really a very serious drawback. It is lamentable to contemplate the mere possibility of New Jersey being represented in the Senate of the United States by other than a great statesman, such as we have had of late.

"And to think that I should insist upon the passage of a real corrupt practise act, not knowing of that measure called by that name, passed by the last Republican Assembly; still I must persist in my purpose, in spite of my ignorance.

"Like the other shams which the Republican party has foisted upon the State, the corrupt practise act of last winter deserves no notice, unless it be to condemn it. As the present campaign is abundantly showing, it is not preventing corrupt practises, and was not intended to stop them, and I have no doubt that it will not reveal anything of interest to the voters after the election.

"As I have never made a secret of my object in accepting what seemed at first a forlorn hope, my newspaper critics must be so kind as to overlook the fact that I am going to push my corrupt practice ideas on my own party. I don't see why Senator Dryden should worry over my voting to ruin the State of New Jersey, myself included.

"If I am elected, I may apply to my critics for instruction in national affairs. With such an instructor and guide I will probably be safe.

"In view of my well-known love for society and its influences, I trust that Senator Dryden will not tremble at the prospective loss of his modest savings, however he may dread the loss of that social position with which, it is said, a United States Senator is clothed. That would be too bad.

"But as I am only trying to reform the horrible and incurably insane Democracy, and am not going outside of the fold, I trust I will be allowed to pursue my way in peace. I am going to pursue it, anyway, provided all my time shall not be required, to the neglect of personal and political business, by attending 'pink teas.'"

VETERAN MACHINIST DEAD.

Jacob Grieb Succumbs to Long Illness at the Age of 70.

After ten weeks of severe illness, Jacob Grieb, seventy years old, one of the best known older machinists of this vicinity, died at his home in Dunellen last night, at eleven o'clock. He is survived by a widow and six grown children.

Mr. Grieb liven in this city for twenty-five years before he moved to Dunellen, about eighteen months ago. He is a native of Germany. For thirteen or fourteen years he was an employee of the Potter shop. His last year of work was in the aluminum plate and press plant at Dewey Park. The family liver on West Third street and Sponer avenue for nearly twenty years in a house built for them.

The children are George Grieb, of Newark; Alfred Grieb, of Elizabeth; Charles Grieb, of Newark; Albert Grieb, of Brooklyn; Miss Ella Grieb, who lives at home, and a married daughter in England.

The funeral will be held Monday afternoon. The service will be private.

Jones Taken to Elizabeth.

Chief Kiely decided yesterday afternoon that John L. Jones, held under a technical charge of burglary, would be better off in the county jail than at the station house, so he took him to Elizabeth. Jones' rib, which was shattered by Terry's bullet, is still sore, a few days more of simple regimen will do the rigger good. The grand jury will reach his case Tuesday.

At Christian Church.

The subject of the dicourse at the Christian church tomorrow night will be "Getting Together." At the close of the service there will be an "after meeting" of the members and friends of the church, to which anyone interested in the work is cordially invited.

ANGRY MOTHER BROKE UP WEST END POOLROOM

COLORED PROPRIETOR GOES TO FIND POLICE FOR PROTECTION.

Samuel L. Thornton, colored, who runs a poolroom at Muhlenberg place and South Second street, told Patrolman Stillwell last night that Mrs. Mary Jaeger, of 204 Spooner avenue, had rough-housed his place early in the evening to express her displeasure over the presence of her fourteen-year-old son, Charles Jaeger, there.

According to Thornton, the boy came into the poolroom at 6:15 o'clock in company with Ernest Mann, a colored man. Mrs. Jaeger came in shortly afterward, he alleged, and got busy immediately. Thornton said she broke three cues and four pool balls—how she broke the balls he didn't explain—then went outside and threw seven stones through the windows. She broke five panes of glass and a lamp, it was alleged.

Thornton was advised to see Chief Kiely, and he repeated his story at headquarters this morning. The Chief told him to swear out a complaint of disorderly conduct. The case will probably be heard Monday morning.

REVIVAL INTEREST GROWS.

Many Young Men Are Attracted to West End Meetings.

The revival meetings at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church are gaining in interest every night, and especially among the young men. Despite the bad weather the main room has been about full every night. The song services are very popular and enliven the services considerable. At each service some one has expressed a desire to lead a better life. The influence of the meetings is extending to the surrounding community and many are working for their success.

Tomorrow will be a red letter day at the church, with special music and special services all day. Rev. E. E. Roberson, the pastor, will preach both morning and night. The subject of the morning discourse will be "The New Birth," and that of the evening, "The Refuge of Lies."

FAST DRIVER FINED.

Stonewall Jackson Caught By Bike Cop on Park Avenue.

Stonewall Jackson was fined $5 in the city court this morning for fast driving on upper Park avenue yesterday. Bicycle Policeman McGinley had a chase before he overhauled Jackson.

The horseman was said by the police to have been racing. He collided with a rig coming in the opposite direction, just before McGinley got him. The other man's wagon was damaged. Jackson has agreed to pay for the repairs.

Chief Doane's Slight Accident.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, had a narrow escape a few days ago from breaking his ankle, and although he has not been off duty, he still suffers considerable pain. He was inspecting one of the new houses being erected in the East End of town by L. W. Spear & Co., and was walking across a beam on the floor, when it suddenly tipped. The Chief's ankle was severely scratched and wrenched, but fortunately he caught himself quick enough to prevent more serious injury.

Men's Club Entertainments.

The entertainment committee from the Men's Club of the Congregational church has arranged for the following well-known professional entertainers for the club meeting nights: November 13, Ernest W. Bogert, conjurer and wonder-worker; December 4, Charles F. Laggart, "The Man from Vermont;" February 5, Joseph Lorrain, entertainer and music; March 5, Judge W. B. Green, reciter and story-teller; April 2, Frank G. Raynolds, of Boston, an entertainer who entertains.

Drank to Prevent Bends.

John Wilson, the colored man who was taken from a train at the North avenue station yesterday morning in a very drunken state, appeared before Judge Runyon this morning and pleaded his work as extermination for the condition in which he was picked up. He is a worker in one of the Pennsylvania tunnels under the North river, and he told the magistrate he had "to keep a little somthin' on his stomach to keep away the bends." Sentence was suspended.

Visit from State President.

State President William Reynolds, of the National Association of Stationary Engineers, visited New Jersey lodge, No. 12, of this city, last night. He was accompanied by several members of the order from Hoboken and Newark. Carroll T. Runyon, of New Jersey lodge, who was made State deputy last week, received the guests.

AUTOIST'S NOSE BROKEN

Big Machine Crashes Into a Load of Iron Pipes.

UPSET AND SMASHED

Theodore F. Reynolds, of Orange, Struck in the Face By One of the Pipes, and Only One Hurt.

Theodore F. Reynolds, of Orange, has his nose broken in an automobile accident at Park avenue and Ninth street, at noon today, and four other occupants of his touring car had narrow escapes from injury. The auto was thrown on one side by a collision with the projecting ends of a load of water pipes on a wagon driven by C. W. Krausse, of the borough.

The automobile party, consisting of Theodore F. Reynolds, of Orange; W. G. Currie, Harry Sadler, T. E. Day, of New York, and Herman Washeim, the driver. They were on their way from Orange to Lakewood. Krausse was driving in the same direction with a load of water pipes. He intended to turn off of Park avenue into Prospect avenue, and the chauffeur thought he would have no trouble in passing the wagon on the right side.

Krausse was driving rather slowly, but it is said that the automobile was going at a pretty lively pace, and in his effort to go around the wagon, the chauffeur run into the water pipes. The end of one struck Mr. Reynolds, who was on the front seat, on the nose, breaking it. The roadway was slippery with mud and the auto swung completely around, upset and was ditched, throwing the occupants into the road. Only Reynolds was hurt in any way. He was taken into O. T. Waring's house, where Dr. A. F. VanHorn dressed his injury.

The automobile was badly damaged. The front was ripped and torn, and one of the hind wheels collapsed.

On the seat wagon with Krausse were two small boys and one of them was struck in the head with some pipe, and slightly hurt. The pipe was thrown out of the wagon, which was almost upset by the collision. The pipes were carted away later.

Chief of Police Kiely was among the first to arrive at the scene of the accident and at once started an investigation of it. He told the autoists that he did not want to work any hardship on them, but as there was a difference of opinion as to the speed of the machine, he felt compelled to hold them for further examination. A half-hour later he released them and they drove back to Orange in a car furnished by F. L. C. Martin.

The most frightened members of the party was Harry Sadler. He and his wife were passengers on the Steamboat Adirondacks, last week, when it was run into by the Steamboat Saratoga, and Mr. Sadler has scarcely gotten over the effects of that accident.

Fish Were Scarce.

Local fish dealers were at their wits' end, yesterday, to furnish their patrons with the usual Friday orders and something like a famine existed until last night. Heavy storms along the coast had prevented fishermen getting any large catches and as a result inland dealers got little or none. Fred Ivamy, the West Second street dealer, adopted all sorts of extremes to meet demands but only partially succeeded. The pressure was relieved today by new consignments and no further trouble is expected.

Perth Amboy to Vote On Increase.

Perth Amboy is said to have taken advantage of the new law which grants the policemen and firemen an increase of salary. This is the same law which the Common Council of this city has declined to adopt for the benefit of the firemen and policemen. However, it is believed that the Council will grant an increase of pay to these men commensurate with that provided in the new law.

Dr. Johnson at the Hospital.

Dr. S. H. Johnson, of Califon, who was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital last week suffering with paralysis of the lower part of the body, appears to be improving. He was first afflicted with what was supposed to be rheumatism and this was followed by paralysis. Dr. Johnson is a well known physician at Califon.

VENERABLE FRIEND ENDOWED OLD LADIES' HOME

By Her Will, Catherine Webster Left Big Part of Estate For Institution.

BEQUESTS TO RELATIVES

Muhlenberg Hospital Gets $1,000 and Friends Meeting $1,400—Grandfather's Estate Disposed of.

By the provisions of the will of the late Catharine Webster, Plainfield is to have a home for aged and infirmed ladies. The probable cost and the plans for the institution can not be told at this time for the trustees named by the venerable Friend are first directed to distribute certain bequests among relatives and friends. It is roughly estimated, however, by one intimate with her affairs that there will be at least $75,000 to be used for the object.

Joseph B. Coward and John H. VanWinkle, the executors appointed by her in her last will, are designated as trustees for the proposed institution. The will was placed on file in the office of the Surrogate in Union county at Elizabeth today. By its provisions all of Miss Webster's relatives and many of her friends will receive bequests either in the shape of realty or money. The Friends Meeting and Muhlenberg hospital are also objects of her benefaction.

To Muhlenberg hospital Miss Webster gives $1,000. To the trustees of the Friends Meeting, in Watchung avenue, where she was a life-long member, $900 is donated. The sum is to be placed in trust and the income to be used for the care of the burial ground in East Third street. An additional $500 is bequeathed to the same trustees for the purchase of books for the First Day school of the Meeting. This sum will be available after the payment of her debts.

Among the larger bequests to relatives is one of $2,000 to Agnes Vail. A similar amount, $2,000, is given Lizzie H. Vail. Mary E. Carey, her housekeeper, is remembered, $1,000 being left to her for faithful services. Atheal Vail and Mary Vail are each bequeathed $200.

After making these bequests, Miss Webster in her will directs the disposition of her personal effects, such as household furniture, heirlooms, wearing apparel, books and the like be distributed among friends and relatives. The list of those whom she remembers in this way includes about fifty Plainfielders.

She then directs that all the rest, residue and remainder of her estate, real, personal and mixed, be used for the establishment of a home for aged and infirmed ladies. The residue of the real estate is to be sold for this purpose and the proceeds used to buy a piece of ground as a site for the home and for its erection and maintenance. After the home is erected, the remaining fund will be placed in trust, the income to be used in running the proposed institution. She does not direct where the home shall be located but in any event a site either in Plainfield or North Plainfield will be selected. The affairs of the home will be in the hands of the executors, Messrs. Van Winkle and Coward, who are the trustees of the estate.

Miss Websters will also disposes of the estate of her grandfather, Joseph Webster. His will was drawn long before Union county was created; when the territory now within its confines was a part of Essex county. Joseph Webster left his granddaughter a life estate in his property; almost entirely real estate. The remainder was given to his relatives, nearly a hundred in number, and Miss Webster in her last testament directs her executors to have these lands divided among the intended objects of his benefactions and their heirs. Some are left as much as an eighth and other a sixteenth of the estate. Joseph Webster's property, it is said, is worth about $50,000.

Same Old Story.

John T. Baker, of Stelle avenue, lost a fine lap robe on Wednesday and advertised in The Daily Press for its return. It was found by a Press reader who upon returning it to the owner received a reward.

SAYS TEACHER PULLED HIS PUPIL'S HAIR

WARRANT OUT FOR ARREST OF PRINCIPAL OF BOUND BROOK SCHOOL.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Professor Gaius Hoffman, principal of the Bound Brook public school, on complaint of John Trumball, manager of the Home Telephone Company, of that place, who charges the professor with pulling the hair of his ten-year-old daughter in a fit of anger.

Trumball is greatly wrought up over the alleged assault, and asserts tha he will prosecute the professor to the bitter end. Trumball says that his daughter was marching with other children in the school and accidentally got out of line, when she was roughly handled by Professor Hoffman, who finished off his punishment by pulling her hair.

Professor Hoffman says that the whole matter has been greatly exaggerated, and that he was justified in reprimanding the Trumball child.

Justice Brompton issued the warrant for Professor Hoffman's arrest, but up to the present time it had not been served.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Don't mind the spelling used on the automobile warning sign recently erected at the junction of Park avenue and Front street. The painter evidently thought the township was paying for the sign and should have its money's worth, so all the letters that could possibly be put in were used.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be as usual; Sunday-school, 9:30 o'clock; morning preaching, 10:45 o'clock; B. Y. P. U., 7:15 o'clock; followed by the evening sermon at 8 o'clock.

The auction sale of household goods at the Marsh homestead, Front street and Park avenue, will be held Monday. The sale will commence at 1 o'clock.

There will be skating tonight at Deegan's roller skating rink.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Dick Geary, who was left quite a sum of money recently, purchased an automobile, which was very short-lived; it was seen yesterday being towed into the blacksmith's shop in a dilapidated condition; in fact too much out of repair to receive in that "hospital" the least bit of help. It will have to go to a garage to be made whole.

Services tomorrow in the Baptist church as usual; Rev. C. W. F. Attlee in the pulpit. The morning subject will be one of the series on "The World and the Church," and the evening subject, "The Story of the Bible." The Christian Endeavor service before the evening service will be led by the pastor; topic, "Africa and Her Thraldom."

A large number of Catholics reside here and have members of their families buried in St. Mary's cemetery, and tomorrow they will be well represented at the exercises there. Father Bogan has invited a number of priests to participate and the day will be one long to be remembered.

Quite an event transpired in the Hungarian district, and brought many from distant towns here, when the marriage of John Phillips took place at the home of his brother, Anthony Phillips. After a short honeymoon the couple will return and reside here.

The Young People Club's next social affair will be the dance and oyster supper in Monroe Pyatt's barn on Hallowe'en night. A lively time is anticipated as all kinds of Hallowe'en pranks will be participated in.

The dancing class which met last evening was a great success and several new members were enrolled.

Alfred Foote, who has lived here for thirty years, lies critically ill in Muhlenberg Hospital.

It is reported that Robert Morgan is confined to his home with an attack of diphtheria.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Sewing School of Warren chapel held its first meeting at the chapel today. The school will meet weekly during the winter and make useful articles.

All the services scheduled for next week at the First M. E. church will be set aside on account of the evangelistic meetings to be held at the First Baptist church.

In June last a little monthly paper called The Somerset Church News was started, up in Somerset county, under unique conditions. It was published for the Reformed churches of Harlingen, Griggstown, Millstone, East Millstone, Middlebush and Franklin Park. The pastor of the latter church was its editor-in-chief, the East Millstone pastor was its business manager, and all the other pastors, including once at Belle Mede, were associate editors. How such a paper could be expected to flourish under such weighty auspices was a mystery at the time, but it has prospered thus far and has improved in size, make-up, advertising patronage, illustrations and reading matter. It is what few of the regulation church papers are—bright, attractive and newsy, if the latter word is applied strictly to church affairs in the towns named. The reverend business manager must be a hustler, for he has obtained nearly ten columns of advertisements for the October number, and will probably have more for Thanksgiving and holiday issues. The composite style of journalism adopted in the publication of The Church News is evidently destined to be successful in rural sections where there are a number of churches none of which could support a paper devoted solely to its own interests. The current number has sixteen pages and contains a good quantity of excellent reading matter.—Newark News.

LITERARY NOTES.

Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle," gives in Success Magazine for November his impressions of another phase of life in Packingtown—the children, who have been kept out of the factories by the child-labor law, and deprived of school facilities, have been left to roam about the lots and dig in the dump heaps. The child-labor law is being fairly well enforced, he says. But what is to become of these children? A few years ago there were 9,500 children in the two wards of Chicago commonly known as Packingtown who were attending no school whatever, their lives spent among the most sordid and debasing conditions, while their mothers worked in the factories. The only remedy, Mr. Sinclair insists, is the payment of a decent living wage to the father of the family.

The November McClure's is a striking number and will be remembered long beyond the usual term of magazine literature. The leading article is a brilliant challenge to the advocates of Spelling Reform, coming from no less an authority than Professor Hugo Munsterberg, Harvard's noted psychologist. In a manner sometimes satirical and again full of impressive gravity, he delivers some of the most crushing blows the Spelling Reform movement has had to meet. Carl Schurz's American reminiscences ouen in this number with Mr. Schurz's first impressions of this country—impressions so freshly received and so delightfully narrated that they awaken one picture after another of the stirring years before the Civil War.

PRIESTS VISITS PRESIDENT.

Full-Blooded Indian and Filipino in the Delegation.

Washington, Dec. 27.—An interesting delegation of Catholic missionaries called on the President at the White House Wednesday to pay their respects. They were introduced by the Rev. William H. Ketcham, director of the Bureau of Catholic Indian missions in Washington.

The delegation included Father Albert Negahaquet, a full-blooded Pottawatomie Indian from Oklahoma, a student at the Apostolic Mission House, near the Catholic University; Domingo Dikit, a Filipino from Pililla, Luzon, who is about to return to the Philippines after having completed a course of four years study in Maryland and Pennsylvania; the Rev. J. O'Hara, of Kingfisher, Okla., and the Rev. Father Vincent, a Benedictine monk from Sacred Heart Abbey, Okla. Fathers O'Hara, Van Der Aa and Vincent are also students at the Apostolic Mission House, which trains missionaries for the conversion of non-Catholics to Roman Catholicism.

Other interesting members of the delegation were three young Belgian brothers, who have become Catholic priests.

Negro Twins Go Back to Jail.

Somerville, Oct. 27.—George and Irving Blaney, negro twins, nine years old, known as the "Infant Crooks," were brought up to plead to a charge of larceny before Judge John L. Connet in the Somerset Court yesterday. It was understood that the diminutive negroes, who had already been imprisoned for petty thefts in two counties, would plead guilty and be sentenced to the Reform School. Irving expressed his willingness to confess to theft of an oil stove, but George said, "I jes guess I'll give dem a good run for dere money. If dey's got anything against dis chicken they's got to prove it." The reasoning powers of the county prosecutor and the pleadings of the mother failed to move the obdurate twin, and as the court did not care to separate the pair, they were marched back to the county jail, where they will remain until their case again comes before the court next week.

The Conspirators in the Comic Opera, "Red Feather," at New Plainfield Theatre This Afternoon and Evening.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Now for a real comic opera with a score of superior worth, artists who can sing, and a conductor to bring out the beauties of the composition. For librettto, a story that is tangible and meriting consideration has been supplied by the author. It is "Red Feather," the gorgeous Ziegfeld Opera Co. production of Reginald DeKoven and Charles Klein's romantic comic opera that will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. The company that Manager Jos. M. Gaites has organized with Cheridah Simpson at the head, numbers seventy-five people.

"The Harvard Girl," the new musical college frolic, will make a powerful bid for cordial approval at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. It is to these important factors that the management as well as the amusement public owe a profound debt of gratitude, especially is this due to the ingenious brain that conceived the stringly beautiful gowns worn by the pretty chorus, which sing and dance with such fine descretion in this big musical comedy.

There are any amount of thrills and sensations in A. H. Woods' powerful and up-to-date melodrama, "The Confessions of a Wife," which is slated to hold the boards at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. One, in particular, occurs in the first act of this sterling play, which is certain to stir the blood of the most exacting and fastidious play-goer.

The management of the New Plainfield theatre has contracted with D. W. Robertson, the pioneer in moving picture art, to present for the tenth time in Plainfield another of his wonderful moving picture entertainments. Moving pictures in colors will be a special feature of this program. One of the most beautiful will be "The Fairy at the Well" conceded by all to be the most astonishing revelation ever presented. Among the other thrilling pictures will be the "100 to 1 Shot," "The Snap Shot Fiend," "The Great Automobile Race for the Vanderbilt Cup," "The Man with the Ladder and the Hose," are a few of the new moving pictures that will be given on this occasion. Wednesday evening, Oct. 31, will be a memorable day in the history of Plainfield. It will be the reappearance of this famous company of entertainers who have been receiving the highest praises for its work all over the United States. The sale of tickets is now going on at the box office.

"His Honor, the Mayor," the musical play which has run for four months in New York will come to the New Plainfield theatre on Saturday afternoon and night, November 10. "His Honor, the Mayor," is in many respects the most successful entertainment of its kind, having broken all records both at the New York theatre and Wallack's theatre, during its run at these houses during the past summer. Added to this is its record of six months in Chicago. The production in its entirety with many new features added will be brought to the local playhouse.

Martine's Position.

Editor, The Daily Press:

A few days ago Mr. Martine was asked if he had ever voted for a Republican for any office. As we are without a reply is it not fair to assume that he has always voted the straight Democratic ticket? If so, is it fair to class him as an independent? If so, why should he appeal to Republicans for a complimentary vote when it is known in advance that his influence will be thrown, if elected to Congress, strictly in favor of Democratic party measures, and hence, in opposition to Republican policies? Why should a Republican give a complimentary vote to Mr. Martine, who holds the most radical of views, and to a gentleman never having political independence enough during his career to vote for a Republican for any office?

Yours truly,
CHARLES S. SMINCK.

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Speaking of genuine dumb luck in playing the game of golf, "Marty" O'Loughlin's experience at Forest Hill, this week, furnishes a good example. Twice while playing in the tournaments arranged his ball struck a coal wagon, costing him many strokes and on another occasion his ball landed between two trees in a position from which it was exceedingly difficult to play from. In making one of his long drives, that brought applause from a large gallery, the ball struck the branch of a tree again costing him extra strokes. Jerome Travers and Walter Travis both agreed that the young "pro" was having unusual hard luck.

There were thirty-five amateurs who played in the tournament at Forest Hill, this week on Tuesday, including the M. G. A. amateur champion, and the field was the largest ever to tee up in such a competition in this country. Many of the amateurs made long journeys to play the eighteen holes and to show their sympathy with the objects of the league. The success of the professional and amateur best ball match was particularly gratifying to those who had the tournament in charge.

Golfing members of the Transportation Club gathered at the St. Andrews Golf Club on Thursday for a series of cup contests. The best gross and net score honors were won by H. B. Duryea, with 91, 0—91.

Miss Mabel E. Rowe won the women's approaching and putting contest on Thursday at the Forest Hill Club with ten points. Miss Day won the driving contest. Harry Allsopp presented the prizes.

Today the final competition for the Golf Committee cup will be played at the Plainfield Country Club, and the event outshines for the day. C. B. Morgan will make a determined effort to hold and increase his lead for the trophy, while Arthur Murphy and C. A. Stover will endeavor to wrest the honors from Mr. Morgan.

There will be the concluding play at the Park Golf Club today for the Hydewood cup, October competition. This trophy was offered by Mrs. Chas. Hyde and the winner will be determined this afternoon.

Another Golf event to be decided today will be the winner of the October Handicap cup at the Plainfield Country Club. Frank O. Reinhart and J. A. Lane are in the final play.

FOOTBALL.

By deciding to play teams in its class the North Plainfield High School eleven is putting up a good exhibition. The borough boys have an excellent team this year and there is every prospect of a good record. Its contest this week with Westfield High School was very satisfactory, although the visiting team did not play up to its usual standard. Later Westfield will play here.

Yale is having a hard time tinkering with that left wing to make it strong enough. The right wing from the centre out, made up of Erwin, Biglow and Alcott is steadier, but on the other extremity there must be great need for improvement at end when a splendid tackle like Forbes is moved from his home position to the outpost. Also Paige, who is being tried in the tackle position vacated by Forbes, must be pretty promising if Forbes can be spared from the place. Forbes is a natural player, who can attend to any position well, and there is not much cause to worry about him, wherever he is. He is a sprinter and a deadly tackler. His case is parallel with that of Tom Shevlin. In 1902—Shevlin's freshman year—Yale was confronted with the necessity of finding an end, and Shevlin was suddenly switched from tackle to end, and two weeks later in the season than Forbes was moved this year. Shevlin played end for the first time in the West Point game and made good from the start. It was perhaps easier to spare him from tackle that year than this, for Yale had Kinney and Hogan for tackles in 1902—a wonderful rush line from tip to tip, in fact.

Expert opinion on the relative strength of Harvard and Yale is somewhat confusing. Before the Harvard-Springfield game last week there appeared an interview with Capt. Wright, of Springfield, that Harvard was stronger than Yale. But now that the game has been played the opinion is credited to Capt. Wright that Yale will prove the victor when the Crimson and Blue meet. Dr. McCurdy, of the training school, said Harvard played a better all around game against Springfield than did Yale, that Harvard ran up a big score because Springfield could not cope with Harvard's outside kick and forward pass, but that he agreed with the prediction of Wright. The Springfield folks say that Harvard will be compelled to play straight football against Yale and that the training school found it easier to gain through Harvard than the Yale line.

VICTIM OF BURGLAR MAKES GENEROUS OFFER.

Will Give $10 and a Drink to the Man that Robbed Him.

Chatham, Oct. 27.—It is seldom that the victim of a burglary has cause to feel grateful to the burglar, but that is the position Councilman Frederic A. Boyle feels regarding the burglar who broke into his house Wednesday night and robbed the place of articles valued at about $50, or perhaps more. Mr. Boyle says, furthermore, that if he can ever find the thief, or if he will call at his house during the day, he will give him a "ten spot" and a drink and call it square. The reason for this unusual attitude on Mr. Boyle's part is that the burglar went about his eman business so quietly that no one in the house was disturbed. Mrs. Boyle is dangerously ill and Mr. Boyle fears that any shock might do her great damage, if not cost her her life. To this end the dogs have been taken away from the premises where their barking will not be heard, and every precaution taken to insure absolute quiet. Is it to this fact that the burglar owes his easy task. Mr. Bole says that Wednesday was the first night in three weeks that he has been able to sleep all night, but he was completely tired out and slept like a log all night. His man heard some one walking around, but took no notice, thinking it was either one of the nurses moving around or else Mr. Boyle. The burglar made his entrance by forcing one of the front windows. He took a revolver, a watch, a locket, some money, tableware and other things, but Mr. Boyle says he can keep them all—although he would like the locket returned on account of the associations connected with it—and the thief can have a $10 bill and a drink if he will go back and make himself known. He refuses to take any steps toward the arrest and punishment of the offender.

Youthful Elopers Parted.

New York, Oct. 27.—"He's my Spizzy," wailed thirteen-year-old Charlotte Francis, of No. 509 West 140th street, when asked why she was so much interested in Albert Spizzuoco, fourteen, of No. 1.650 Amsterdam avenue, from whom she was parted, forever, it may be, in Children's Court yesterday. The two have just finished their fourth elopement. The others took place on August 28, October 4 and October 15. Charlotte is in the House of Mercy and Albert is on his way to an institution of reformaion. It is said they eloped with seven cents, but that was their rst experience. After that Albert got work, so the second time they had money and went to Philadelphia on half fare tickets. Albert wanted to spend his money on a state room, but Charlotte said she would rather eat.

Beef Company Heavily Fined.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 27.—Because of the refusal of the Hammond Packing Company to produce witnesses and records before Special Commissioner Lyle D. Taylor, in Chicago recently, Judge Winfield, in the Pulaski Circuit Court, on motion of Attorney General Rogers, has ordered the answers of the company stricken from the record. Judgment is entered against the company for $10,000 for violating the Arkansas anti-trust law.

School Drops Football.

New York, Oct. 27.—Football has been dropped by Pratt Institute, following a decision of directors that the lives of students are endangered by the game. The institute's eleven will play the Hotchkiss School team in Lakeville, Conn., today and will then drop its schedule, defaulting to many old rivals, including Stevens Institute and a team from West Point.

By Tom Muir.

William Kregar, formerly a member of the stage crew of the New Plainfield theatre, who went on the road with "The Marriage of Kitty" company, has returned to the city.

Manager Counihan has selected "The New Majestic" as the name for the theatre which he will build shortly at Perth Amboy. The plans are now being drawn and they will be modelled after those of the New Plainfield theatre, with the exception that the new house will be somewhat wider. The seating capacity will be between 1,200 and 1,400.

In "Red Feather," the romantic comic opera which will be given at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and evening, the second act represents a ballroom and in order to accurately portray the rich ideas of the artist eight solid columns are used instead of the frail canvas substitutes, which do duty in other productions where palace hall scenes are in order.

FEELS GRATEFUL TO BURGLAR.

Councilman Boyle, of South Orange, Glad Sick Wife Was Not Disturbed.

It is seldom that the victim of a burglary has cause to feel grateful to the burglar, but that is the position Councilman Frederick A. Boyle takes toward the burglar who broke into his house at South Orange Wednesday night and stole articles valued at $50.

The reason for this unusual attitude on Mr. Boyle's part is that the burglar went about his business so quietly that no one in the house was disturbed. Mrs. Boyle is dangerously ill, and Mr. Boyle feared that any shock might result seriously.

To this end the dogs have been kept away from the house and every precaution has been taken to insure absolute quiet. It is to this fact that the burglar owes his easy task. The burglar stole a revolver, a watch, a locket, some money, tableware and other things, but Mr. Boyle says he can keep them all. He refuses to take steps toward the arrest and punishment of the offender.

Clever German Crooks Caught.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—The pretended captain of Grenadiers of the Guard who on October 16 produced a forged order authorizing him to take command of a detachment of twelve men he met on the streets in this city and proceeded to Coepenick, a small town near here, where he arrested the burgomaster and the treasurer and took possession of the cash, amounting to about $1,000, turns out to have been a shoemaker of Tilsit, named William Voight. He was arrested this morning by four commissaries of police at his lodging place in a quiet, respectable quarter of Berlin. Voight, although working at the trade of shoemaker, has committed a long series of felonies, principally robberies by means of forged documents. He has served five terms in prison, finishing a fifteen years' sentence in February, and is nearly sixty years old.

Wardmen Get Big Jolt.

New York, Oct. 27.—By one of the most sweeping general orders ever issued to the Police Department Commissioner Bingham yesterday ordered every policeman in the city into uniform. The order, General Order No. 83, takes effect this evening at six o'clock. The order limits the power of the police captains in assigning men to any form of work in civilian clothes and puts the responsibility up to the inspectors. Many retirements from the force are looked for on account of the order. Many men have been on duty in citizen's clothes for six or more years, and some of them will have grown, it is feared, entirely out of their uniforms. The order threatens to do away with men in civilian clothing, who are known as ward men.

Silk Mill Busy.

Among the many industrial plants throughout this part of the country which are enjoying a great era of prosperity is the Watchung Silk Mills, of North Plainfield. The mills have been running full time for a long while and recently it was found necessary to put in several extra looms. The company has been endeavoring to secure additional weavers and has been scouring the country for them. Heretofore the company has not devoted much time to the manufacture of plaid silks, but the great demand for them has compelled the company to make this kind of silk for the trade. The company ships its silk to all parts of the country and great quantities of it are sold in New York.

Mrs. John Van Fleet.

Mrs. Abby Van Fleet a resident of this city until one month ago, died at her home in Scotch Plains at 8 o'clock this morning. FACTS ABOUT COINS

MANY MISTAKEN IMPRESSIONS HELD BY THE PUBLIC.

Impossible to Test Genuineness by the Ring — "Reeding" Prevents" Any of the Metal Being Scraped Off.

"Many persons have a mistaken idea about throwing a coin to test its genuineness," says Captain Tom Halls of the secret service in the Indianapolis News. "Throwing a coin is not an absolute test for the reason that a great deal of our good money will not ring at all, while some of the bad will. There are several things that will take the ring out of a genuine coin. One of these is a possible flaw in the metal.

"It sometimes happens that in cutting out the disks of metal from which the coins are made there will be a flaw or a crack in the sheet. If this is true, it matters not where the flaw is, whether it be unseen or along the edge, where it may be discovered by close inspection, it will destroy the ring of the piece. This ring is caused by the small crystals or globules on the inside of the metal, the vibrations of which cause the sound we so like to hear in our money.

"If there is any flaw or small fissure which destroys the connection between these globules the ring will cease. There are also other reasons for a coin's losing its sound. Should a quantity of coin be left in a safe during a fire and become heated the crystals will melt and the rhythm will be stopped. A hearty blow on the face of the coin will have the same effect.

"As is generally known, our coin is not absolutely pure and does not contain the amount of silver represented by it. Should there be a dollar's worth of silver put in the standard dollar it would be almost as large again as it is now and most inconvenient to carry, especially in a large quantity. There are 412.5 grains of silver in our standard dollar, which is 900 per cent pure. The rest is alloy and is put in to harden the coin.

"The marks around the edge of the coin called the 'reeding' are put there to keep persons from removing any of the metal. Should any attempt be made to scrape off the silver it could be detected immediately from the scarred 'reeding.' It will also be observed that around the edge of a coin on both faces there is a narrow, raised rim somewhat higher than the engraving. This is to protect the inscription from being destroyed by the friction of one coin on another.

"The main mint of the United States is in Philadelphia, there being branches at San Francisco, New Orleans and Denver, the last having begun operations in February, 1906. There was formerly one at Carson City, but that has been discontinued. By examining a coin and looking under the center of the wreath below the eagle a small letter will be found, which will be either S, O or D. This letter indicates at which mint the coin was made. Where there is no such letter the coin has been made at the main mint in Philadelphia.

"A 50-cent coin of the present issue should weigh 192.9 grains. The weight of a genuine 25-cent piece of the present issue is 96.45 grains. The weight of our present dime is 38.58 grains. These coins are all of the same degree of fineness—900 per cent pure. Much care is taken to insure the accurate weight of a coin. As soon as the disk is stamped from the sheet of metal it passes through the hands of several experienced women, who examine and weigh it. Should the disk be too heavy it is filed away until the required weight is reached. By this detailed care the coins are kept from varying the slightest fraction from the standard."

"God Save the Mark."

When the phrase "God save the mark," more common in writing than in oral speech, is used, the reference is to an old superstition developed in Ireland. It was believed that if a person telling of an accident or injury to some one who had been hurt in a fight touched the like part of his own body or that of his hearer, there was danger that it would be an evil omen of similar injury. So it became the practice to ward off such consequences by exclaiming "God save the mark"; that is, avert the harm threatened.

For Self-Protection.

"Nature gives up her secrets with great reluctance," observed the doctor.

"Well," commented the professor, "if she has any secrets that reflect on the family she'd better lose no time in killing off the whole human race, for we're finding out lots of them these days."

Preparing His "Trousseau."

Sam Bernard, the well-known comedian, said at a wedding breakfast in New York:

"I am glad to see here a luxury to which we brides and bridesgrooms are not accustomed.

"I, for instance, called one day in June upon the dear old lady who did my washing and ironing.

"'Where is your son this morning, Mrs. Smith?' I said. 'I don't see him around. I hope he isn't ill.'

"'Oh, no,' said the old lady. 'He's to be married to-morrow, and he's upstairs in bed while I wash out his trousseau.'

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

Joe, very elegant, too elegant in fact, in evening dress, was showing a new piece of statuary to the oldest son of Melville, of the National Industrial bank. Joe knew a little something about art—he was much like the art dealers who, as a matter of business, learn the difference between good things and bad, but in their hearts wonder and laugh at people willing to part with large sums of money for a little paint or marble or the like.

As soon as Joe thought he had sufficiently impressed young Melville, he drifted him to a roulette table, left him there and joined me.

"Come to my office," said he. "I want to see you."

He led the way down the richly-carpeted marble stairway as far as the landing at the turn. There, on a sort of mezzanine, he had a gorgeous little suit. The principal object in the sitting-room or office was a huge safe. He closed and locked the outside door behind us.

"Take a seat," said he. "You'll like the cigars in the second box on my desk—the long one." And he began turning the combination lock. "You haven't dropped in on us for the past three or four months," he went on.

"No," said I, getting a great deal of pleasure out of seeing again, and thus intimately, his round, ruddy face—like a yachtman's, not like a drinker's—and his shifty, laughing brown eyes. "The game down town has given me enough excitement. I haven't had to continue it up town to keep my hand in."

"I've noticed that you are getting too swell to patronize us fellows," said he, his shrewd smile showing that my polite excuse had not fooled him. "Well, Matt, you're right—you always did have good sound sense and a steady eye for the main chance. I used to think the women'd ruin you, they were so crazy about that handsome mug and figure of yours. But when I saw you knew exactly when to let go, I knew nothing could stop you."

By this time he had the safe open, disclosing several compartments and a small, inside safe. He worked away at the second combination lock, and presently exposed the interior of the little safe. It was filled with a great roll of bills. He pried this out, brought it over to the desk and began wrapping it up. "I want you to take this with you when you go," said he. "I've made several big killings lately, and I'm going to get you to invest the proceeds."

"I can't take that big bundle along with me, Joe," said I. "Besides, it ain't safe. Put it in the bank and send me a check."

"Not on your life," replied Healey with a laugh. "The suckers we trimmed gave checks, and I turned 'em into cash as soon as the banks opened. I wasn't any too spry, either. Two of the damned sneaks consulted lawyers as soon as they sobered off, and tried to stop payment on their checks. They're threatening proceedings. You must take the dough away with you, and I don't want a receipt."

"Trimming suckers, eh?" said I, not able to decide what to do.

"Their fathers stole it from the public," he explained. "They're drunken little snobs, not fit to have money. I'm doing a public service by relieving them of it. If I'd a got more, I'd feel that much more"—he vented his light, cool, sarcastic laugh—"more patriotic."

"I can't take it," said I, feeling that, in my present condition, to take it would be very near to betraying the confidence of my old friend.

"They lost it in a straight game," he hastened to assure me. "I haven't had a 'brace' box or crooked wheel for four years." This with a sober face and a twinkle in his eye. "But even if I had helped chance to do the good work of teaching them to take care of their money, you'd not refuse me. Up town and down town, and all over the place, what's business, when you come to look at it sensibly, but trading stolen goods? Do you know a man who could honestly earn more than ten or twenty thousand a year—good clean money by good clean work?"

"Oh, for that matter, your money's as clean as anybody's," said I. "But you know I'm a speculator, Joe. I have my downs—and this happens to be a stormy time for me. If I take your money, I mayn't be able to account for it or even to pay dividends on it for—maybe a year or so."

"It's all right, old man. I'll never give it a thought till you remind me of it. Use it as you'd use your own. I've got to put it behind somebody's luck—why not yours?"

He finished doing up the package, then he seated himself, and we both looked at it through the smoke of our cigars.

"It's just as easy to deal in big sums as in little, in large matters as in small, isn't it, Joe," said I, "once one gets in the way of it?"

"Do you remember—away back there—the morning," he asked musingly—"the last morning—you and I got up from the straw in the stables over at Jerome Park—the stables they let us sleep in?"

"And went out in the dawn to roost on the rails and spy on the speed trials of old Revell's horses?"

"Exactly," said Joe, and we looked at each other and laughed. We in rags—gosh, how chilly it was that morning! Do you remember what we talked about?"

"No," said I, though I did.

"I was proposing to turn a crooked trick—and you wouldn't have it. You persuaded me to keep straight, Matt. I've never forgotten it. You kept me straight—showed me what a fool a man was to load himself down with a petty larceny record. You made a man of me, Matt. And then those good looks of yours caught the eye of that bookmaker's girl, and he gave you a job at writing sheet—and you worked me in with you."

So long ago it seemed, yet near and real, too, as I sat there, conscious of every sound and motion, even of the fantastic shapes taken by our upcurling smoke. How far I was from the "rail bird" of those happy-go-lucky years, when a meal meant quite as much to me as does a million now—how far from all that, yet how near, too. For was I not still facing life with the same careless courage, forgetting each yesterday in the eager excitement of each new day, with its new deal? We went on in our reminiscences for a while; then, as Joe had a little work to do, I drifted out into the house, took a bite of supper with young Melville, had a little fun at the tiger, and toward five in the clear June morning emerged into the broad day of the streets, with the precious bundle under my arms and a five hundred dollar bill in my waistcoat pocket.

"Give my win to me in a single bill," I said to the banker, "and blow yourself off with the change."

Joe walked down the street with me—for companionship and a little air before turning in, he said, but I imagine a desire to keep his eye on his treasure a while longer had something to do with his taking that early morning stroll. We passed several of those forlorn figures that hurry through the slowly-awakening streets to bed or to work. Finally, there came by an old, old woman—a scrubwoman, I guess, on her way home from cleaning some office building. Beside her was a thin little boy, hopping along on a crutch. I stopped them.

"Hold out your hand," said I to the boy, and he did. I laid the five hundred dollar bill in it. "Now, shut your fingers tight over that," said I, "and don't open them till you get home. Then tell your mother to do what she likes with it." And we left them gaping after us, speechless before this fairy story come true.

"You must be looking hard for luck to-day," said Joe, who understood this transaction where another might have thought it a showy and not very wise charity. "They'll stop in at the church and pray for you, and burn a candle."

"I hope so," said I, "for God knows I need it."

XIX.

A BREATHING SPELL.

Langdon, after several years of effort, had got recognition for textile in London, but that was about all. He hadn't succeeded in unloading any great amount of it on the English. So it was rather because I neglected nothing than because I was hopeful of results that I had made a point of telegraphing to London news of my proposed suit. The result was a little trading in textiles over there and a slight decline in the price. This fact was telegraphed to all the financial centers on this side of the water, and reinforced the impression my lawyers' announcement and my own "bear" letter were making.

Still, this was nothing, or next to it. What could I hope to avail against Langdon's agents with almost unlimited capital, putting their whole energy under the stock to raise it? In the same newspapers that published my bear attack, in the same columns and under the same head-lines, were official denials from the textile trust and the figures of enormous increase of business as proof positive that the denials were honest. If the public had not been burned so many times by "industrials," if it had not learned by bitter experience that practically none of the leaders of finance and industry were above lying to make or save a few dollars, if textiles had not been manipulated so often first by Dumont and since his death by his brother-in-law and successor, this suave and cynical Langdon, my desperate attack would have been without effect. As it was——

Four months before, in the same situation, had I seen textiles stagger as they staggered in the first hour of business on the stock exchange that morning, I'd have sounded the charge, clapped spurs to my charger, and borne down upon them. But—I had my new-born yearning for respectability;" I had my new-born squeamishness, which led me to fear risking Bob Corey and his bank and the money of my old friend Healey; finally, there was Anita—the longing for her that made me prefer a narrow and uncertain foothold to the bold leap that would land me either in wealth and power or in the bottomless abyss.

Instead of continuing to sell textiles, I covered as far as I could; and I bought so eagerly and so heavily that, more than Langdon's corps of rocketers, I was responsible for the stock's rally and start upward. When I say "eagerly" and "heavily" I do not mean that I acted openly or without regard to common sense. I mean simply that I made no attempt to back up my followers in the selling campaign I had urged them into; on the contrary, I bought as they sold. That does not sound well, and it is no better than it sounds. I shall not dispute any one who finds this action of mine a betrayal of my clients to save myself. All I shall say is that it was business, that in such extreme and dire compulsion as was mine, it was—and is—right under the code, the private and real Wall street code.

You can imagine the confused mass of transactions in which I was involved before the stock exchange had been open long. There was the stock we had been able to buy or get options on at various prices, between the closing of the exchange the previous day and that morning's opening—stock from all parts of this country and in England. There was the stock I had been buying since the exchange opened—buying at figures ranging from one-eighth above last night's closing price to fourteen points above it. And, on the debit side, there were over a period of nearly two months—"sellings" of blocks large and small at a hundred different prices.

An inextricable tangle, you will say, one it would be impossible for a man to unravel quickly and in the frantic chaos of a wild stock exchange day. Yet the influence of the mysterious state of my nerves, which I have described above, was so marvelous that, incredible though it seems, the moment the exchange closed, I knew exactly where I stood.

Like a mechanical lightning calculator, my mind threw up before me the net result of these selling and buying transactions. Textile common closed eighteen points above the closing quotation of the previous day; if Langdon's brother had not been just a little indiscreet, I should have been as hopeless a bankrupt in reputation and in fortune as ever was ripped up by the bulls of Wall street.

As it was, I believed that, by keeping a bold front, I might extricate and free myself when the coal reorganization was announced. The rise of coal stocks would square my debts—and, as I was apparently untouched by the textile flurry, so far as even Ball, my nominal partner and chief lieutenant, knew, I need not fear pressure from creditors that I could not withstand.

I could not breathe freely, but I could breathe.

FOOTBALL.

The football game of local interest today will be played on Crescent Oval between Orange Field Club and Alis. Both teams are in the best of condition and nothing should prevent a fine exhibition of football. The Orange Field Club will be strengthened by several players from the late P. H. S. eleven.

Place kicks from scrimmage, which are engaging attention just now, are not new devices by any means. Most of the goals kicked from placement, however, are from a fair catch or from touchdowns. It is innumerable times easier to kick a goal from placement on a fair catch, when there is nothing to hamper the kicker, than to kick one from scrimmage. Only the best of protection will enable the latter to be successful. The centre has to pass the ball to the man who holds it, and he, in turn, must adjust it and poise it properly on the round all before the opposing players come rushing down on the play, intent on blocking the ball. There really is more time consumed in a place kick for scrimmage than in a drop kick. Three men handle the ball in the former method and only two in the latter, and the pass has to be more accurate for the former. The slickest sort of handling and a stonewall protection are essentials in the place kick from scrimmage, not to mention the trifling factor of a skilfull application of the toe.

At New Haven they are looking for a satisfactory centre, and at Michigan they are doing the same thing. But at Michigan they have one good centre in Loell, while at Yale they haven't any as yet. Yost wants to shift Loell to left tackle, so that Curtis can be moved from tackle to end. That is what he will do if he can find a pivot sufficiently gifted to take Loell's place. The Michigan team plays Illinois today and the "Illini" rooters have an idea that they are going to take a fall out of the Wolverines. The Illinois team runs the gamut of avoirdupois. Van Hook and Wyatt, the guards, weigh, respectively, 248 and 225 pounds. Pettigrew and Hodge, the halfbacks, weigh 150 and 140 pounds, respectively, while Sinnott, the quarterback, is an out and out liliput. He is a football featherweight of only 130 pounds. He is said to be a snaky dodger and immune to fierce tackles. But his great advantage lies in the fact that when his side has the ball the mountains in front of him obscure him entirely and the other side cannot see him. This thing of playing against an invisible quarterback is bound to be disconcerting.

BOWLING.

The probable bowing team at the Park Club this year will be composed of William Barlow, Walter Long, Edwin M. Daniel, 2d, and Captain F. O. Ball. Thus far this season Barlow holds the record for the highest score, 257.

Among the promising bowlers of this city is Alfred Dunavan, of East Second street, who has been rolling some high scores this season. In one game he put up a score of 185.

BOWLING ON GREEN SPORT AT PARK CLUB.

J. B. Betts Will Be Instrumental in Introducing Game Next Summer.

Largely through the efforts of J. B. Betts, of the Park Club, the game of bowling on the green will be introduced at the club next summer. Workmen have been engaged for sometime in preparing a fine green on the clubhouse grounds, and when completed it will be one of the best in the State. Mr. Betts is a member of the Middlesex Green Club, and has interested several Park Club members in the game. It requires a great amount of work to lay out a green and to establish the proper drainage, but Mr. Betts hopes to have it ready during the early part of next season.

In explaining his purpose in establishing a bowling green Mr. Betts says that he and many members of the club who cannot always find time to play golf and other games, but who can devote a few hours to bowling, even though they are a little late in coming home from New York, and they get the advantage of the exercise. No doubt club tournaments will be arranged later.

Handicap Bowling Tournament.

Arrangements are being perfected by the bowling committee of the Park Club, of which J. B. Betts is the chairman, to hold a bowling tournament at the club this winter. It will be conducted along a little different lines than heretofore. A system of handicapping similar to that used at the Park Golf Club in the competition for the President's cup will rule. This will increase the interest and will prevent the crack bowlers of the club walking off with all the prizes. All the bowlers will be handicapped according to their play. This will give the poor bowlers an equal chance with the best ones and maintain the interest throughout the tournament.

Short Line Trolley Across the State.

Work is being rushed on the New Jersey short line trolley which is to run from Trenton to Elizabeth. The new steel bridge over the Rahway river just north of East Rahway is now nearing completion. The new line will cross the county road to Roosevelt and Port Reading, and will run under the Port Reading railroad south of the county road.

SENATOR COLBY AND WIFE ENTERTAINED BY PRESIDENT.

New Idea Leader Went to Washington to Look After "People's Lobby."

Senator Everett Colby is back from Washington, enthusiastic over the People's lobby, which he went to the National Capitol to help organize. Plans for the work of the lobby, Mr. Colby said, were fairly well laid, and the scheme would be in good working order by the time Congress meets.

The idea of the People's lobby, as it is to be worked out, is to keep careful men at the Capitol during each session of Congress, to watch the progress of legislation, keep tabs on the votes and actions of members and through the newspapers, magazines and other medium, keep the public informed on how their Representatives and Senators vote on various subjects.

The Senator was accompanied by Mrs. Colby, who was formerly Miss Hyde, of this city, on the trip. During their stay in Washington they were entertained at the White House by the President, and the latter and Mr. Colby talked over, in a general way, the situation in the country and in New Jersey. Thet Senator also talked politics with Secretary of War Taft and Secretary of State Root during his stay in the Capitol. He declined to divulge anything that was said.

Whitehouse Couple Celebrate.

Whitehouse, Oct. 27.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Harsel, in this place, was the scene of a merry gathering yesterday, when the aged couple entertained about sixty friends from Easton, Newark, Lehighton, banon, Readington, South Branch, Lamington and Whitehouse. The occasion was the celebration of their golden wedding. The guests were mostly children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Harsel. A dinner was served. The hostess was the recipient of many pretty and valuable gifts. John B. Harsel and Miss Matilda Park, daughter of the late Samuel Park, of Stanton, were married at the parsonage of the Reformed church at Lebanon by the late Rev. Dr. Van Amburgh. The couple have five children, Samuel P. Harsel, of Stanton; William Harsel, of Bedminster; Mrs. John B. Smith, of Stanton; Mrs. David Perrine, of Lamington, and Charles A. Harsel, of Westfield. There are twelve grandchildren.

Big Simian Breaks Loose.

New York, Oct. 27.—Losing his temper evidently by the grimaces made by a crowd of women and children in the primate house in the Zoological Park yesterday afternoon, Dohong, a large orang-outang, pulled two iron bars of his cage from their fastenings and sprang through the opening, armed with one of the bars. In a moment all was confusion, and in the panic which followed women and children fought each other to get through the narrow entrances to the walk. Nobody was injured in the rush, and Dohong made no attempt to assail anyone. After the building had been cleared Keeper Riley opened one of the doors and looked in. Dohong was standing with his legs crossed leaning on the iron bar. He looked peaceful and extended his arm to the keeper. Riley walked in and, locking arms with Dohong, led the orang-outang back to his cage.

To Attack Oil Trust.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—On very high authority it is announced that Attorney General Moody will within a month bring proceedings against prominent members of the Standard Oil Company under the terms of the Sherman Anti-Trust law, which provides penalties of fine and imprisonment for its violation. This action, which will be the most notable of all ever undertaken by the government against a commercial organization, will be Mr. Moody's valedictory as a Cabinet member. For the trust prosecuting services he has already rendered President Roosevelt has decided to appoint him to the Supreme Court Bench. The fight against the Oil Trust will devolve upon Charles J. Bonaparte, now Secretary of the Navy, but who has been decided upon as the next Attorney General.

No Teachers' Institute.

There will be no teachers' institute held in Union county this year, and from present indications several other counties in the State will have to do without these educational gatherings. It seems that ever since the amount formerly appropriated for institutes exclusively has been used both for institutes and High school inspectors, the annual appropriation has been far from sufficient to meet the needs which an institute in every county would require.

Dime Sociable.

The young people of the Dunellen Presbyterian church held a successful dime sociable last night at their chapel. The proceeds will be added to the Trustees' Fund. A feature of the programme was the singing of Miss Louise Saunders, of Dunellen.

Dominick Lalette Injured.

Dominick Lalette, an Italian employed at Bartle's stone yard, fell yesterday afternoon while at work, receiving a lacerated wound of the scalp. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance, and today is reported as doing well.

Rev. Dr. W. I. Steans, of the Westfield Presbyterian church, will preach in the First Presbyterian church tomorrow morning.

MORE PAY PROBABLE FOR THE P. O. CLERKS.

Hitchcock's Plan Includes $3,000,000 Extra for Next Year.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Hitchcock intends to ask Congress to increase the salaries of the great majority of the clerks in first- and second-class postoffices. He has issued a statement explaining his estimates covering the compensation of clerks for the next fiscal year. The sum recommended will permit the promotion of about 75 per cent. of the clerks in the grades below $900, 50 per cent. of the clerks receiving $900 and $1,000, 40 per cent. of those receiving from $1,100 to $1,200, and about 30 per cent. of those receiving over $1.200

The appropriation of $25,700,000 is urged for the compensation of clerks in first- and second-class offices. This is an increase of $3,000,000 over that for the current year. Of the $3,000,000 increase, $1,370,000 is for the employment of additional clerks, and $1,630,000 for the promotion of clerks now in the service, the latter being more than three times that provided for the current year.

There are at present 28,500 clerks in first- and second-class postoffices. As the estimates provide for 16,300 promtions, it will be possible to raise the salaries of more than half of the clerks now employed. While the department plans to increase very generally the salaries of clerks in the lower grades in order to establish a more liberal scale of compensation for the great army of postoffice employes throughout the country, the appropriation will be ample to promote also the most efficient clerks in the higher grades.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Hitchcock has had under consideration for several months the plan of proposing an increase of salaries for postal clerks.

In explaining his purposes Mr. Hitchcock said:

"The large increase carried by the present estimate was decided upon only after a careful inquiry regarding the adequacy of the salaries paid postoffice employes. For several months the department has been accumulating evidence on this subject, and the information obtained showed clearly the necessity of a radical advance in compensation. The frequent resignations of trained clerks and the appointments in their places of inexperienced men have seriously hampered the service. The department is convcinced that a higher scale of salaries must be paid postoffice employes in order to ensure the efficient conduct of the postal business."

The department also has under consideration an amendment to the present law covering the salaries of letter-carriers that will permit the payment of a higher rate of compensation. This is a matter now regulated by statute, and relief can be had only by securing from Congress the necessary amendment to existing law.

Ice Box Miser's Bedroom.

New York, Oct. 27.—In the police court in Long Island City it came out yesterday that John Vepreke, although worth more than $70,000, was living in an abandoned butcher shop, and that an old icebox in the ramshackle building served as the sleeping room for his six children. This condition of affairs was reported by John Luduke, an agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and it was on his complaint that Vepreke was brought into court. Vepreke's wife was also arraigned. They were charged with improper guardianship of their children.

Rabies In New York.

New York, Oct. 27.—Twice the usual number of persons suffering from the bites of mad dogs are now under treatment in this city, and the experts report that there is an epidemic of rabies. The bacteriological laboratory of the Department of Helath, which normally cares for only fourteen cases a day, now administers serum to thirty persons daily, of whom half are residents of this city. This average has been maintained for the last month.

A SERVICE FOR THE DEAD

Members of St. Mary's Church Observe the Annual Custom at Their Burial Grounds.

A SOLEMN CEREMONY

Sermon Preached by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan in Presence of a Large Gathering.

According to the annual custom, the members of St. Mary's parish conducted the celebration of Catholic devotional services for the dead, yesterday afternoon. Four hundred communicants participated and fully 1,000 others viewed the ceremony.

Members of the various societies connected with the church first assembled at the Parochial school hall at 2 o'clock and then, headed by Rev. Father Frederici and a surpliced choir, marched to St. Mary's cemetery. There were about 350 men in the procession and at the burial grounds they were met by delegations from the women's societies of the parish. The march was continued through the pathways, Father Frederici being joined in the lead by Fathers Bogan and Delehanty, of St. Mary's; Father Miller, of St. Joseph's, and Father Dunphy, of Dunellen.

As the procession moved through the cemetery, Father Bogan read the Rosary and it was repeated by the men and women in line, thus adding deep solemnity to the scene. The mourners halted at the graves of former St. Mary priests and the memorial prayer for the dead was offered. At its conclusion, Father Bogan addressed the gathering on "Prayers for the dead," and in part spoke as follows:

"There is just one thing on earth that is absolutely universal, and that one thing is death. There is one sorrow that finds a home, at some time or other in every human heart, and that one sorrow is sorrow for the dead. 'It hath been appointed unto all men once to die'—and neither human prudence nor human power can stay the execution of that dread decree. Though our life-path may be strewn with the fairest flowers that a fallen world hath ever preserved, some place on that way, a grave is dug by the decree of God, and that grave shall one day claim us.

"Who of us looking around can fail to perceive the awful universality of death? The throne is not hedged around so securely, but that death at the appointed time breaks in and leaves it vacent. Riches cannot bribe it, poverty is not too lowly to claim its notice,—and so it comes that all men die. But by some strange perversity the very commonness of death robs it of its awful significance. But when those we loved have come to die; when the parting hath taken place that gives to death a bitterness, which else it would not have; when we long in vain for the well-remembered greeting of the now cold hand, and the music of a silenced voice, can we bring ourselves to believe that all is over between uor dead and us?

"Can we bury our dead out of our sight; stand sorrow-stricken before the lifeless form; wait till the last sod has been heaped upon the grave; shed one, the saddest tear of final parting, and then go back to work again with the busy world, and believe that we have no more to do with the departed? Oh, surely not. There is something in our hearts that protests against such a conclusion. It would be doing violence to the very nature that God has given us, to believe that human friendship and human love can reach out to the grave, and cannot pass beyond its shadow; that they are flowers so frail that death's cold touch can wither them forever; to believe that even the power of death can break the mystic bond, that in the first and greatest of the commandments, binds the love of our fellow creatures with the love of God Himself. Our very instincts,—and after al these are but divine foreshadowings of mighty truths—our very instincts compel us to look beyond the grave, to see through all its shadows the traces of another world.

"The Holy Ghost hath declared that even the "Just Man falls seven times a day.' We are naturally led to ask what is the lot of such as these in the world to come. Again we know that though mortal sin may be remitted, as to its guilt and eternal punishment, yet there remains a temporal penalty, and we can easily conceive a man passing out of this world before complete penance has blotted out the debt.

"Hence there are two classes; what shall be the lot of these when death has claimed them; shall they go into the glorious presence of their God? Surely not, they are not yet purified. Shall they go into everlasting fire? No, God is faithful to His word, and only to deadly sins has He

YOUNG WOMAN ON TRIAL FOR HER LIFE

FLORINDO ILLARIO, WHO KILLED HER DESERTER, IN COURT TODAY.

Miss Florindo Illario was placed on trial before Justice Carretson in the Somerville Court at Somerville today for the murder of Alexander Di Polo on June 4 last.

Di Polo was a prominent hotel man and contractor of Raritan, who deserted his wife and six children and eloped with his wife's pretty consin, Miss Illario. When Miss Illario returned to her home, her family refused to receive her.

Di Polo boasted of a spell with the authorities, but Prosecutor Reger had him indicted for deserting his wife. His trial was pending and Miss Illario was to appear at as witness against him when he went to her boarding-house and tried to make up with her. Just what led up to the murder no one but Miss Illaro knows. She was in the house alone. She says she repulsed Di Polo and told him of her wrongs after which she asked him if she should kill herself. She says Di Polo told her it was the best thing she could do and handed her his revolver. She kept the weapon and as Di Polo was about to leave the house by a rear entrance she pointed it at him through a screen door and sent a bullet in his brain. Then she gave herself up to the authorities.

The jury quickly drawn this morning consists of W. J. Rickett, North Plainfield; Jefferson B. Day, William Schure, W. B. Acken, William Miller, George Carr, John H. Sayms, Andrew M. Workman, W. F. Way, Silas W. Innas, M. M. Conkling, Edward H. Casterline. Defense challenged sixteen. State Prosecutor Reger opened his address at noon.

COUGHING FIT SAVED JOHN AUTEN'S SILVER.

Thieves Frightened Away From House Just As They Were Getting Spoil.

John F. Auten, clerk at the Hotel Kensington, was awakened in bed at his house on West Fifth street, last night, shortly after 10 o'clock, by a coughing spell. When he finished, he heard a noise like a door slamming from downstairs. He thought the wind was at work and turned over to sleep again. This morning he discovered the kitchen door wide open, a window pried up and the family silverware scattered all around the room.

Nothing was missing. It was evident that the thieves had been frightened off by his coughing. The case was reported to the police.

TICKET AGENT WEDS.

Mason F. Behney Takes Clinton Girl for Bride.

Miss Elizabeth S. Stires, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield L. Stires, of Clinton, Hunterdon county, and Mason F. Behney, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Behney, of Greenpoint, Pa., were married Saturday night by Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, at the parsonage on Central avenue. The ceremony was witnessed by members of Mr. McCrea's family.

Both the bride and groom are members of the M. E. church. The latter is the ticket agent at the Lehigh Valley Railroad station at Roselle Park, where the couple will reside, and both he and his wife have many friends here.

Auto Inspector in Bad Wreck.

George Thompson, of Somerville, a traveling auto license inspector, is laid up for repairs at the Belmont hotel at Freehold as the result of an accident caused by his motor cycle coming in contact with a large bird dog lying in the road near Brakeley's canning factory. He was thrown from his wheel and dragged 25 feet. His face and head were badly cut and a wrist sprained. A passerby picked him up and took him in a carriage to Freehold where a physician dressed his wounds. The auto cycle was wrecked and the dog's back broken.

WINDING UP CAMPAIGN

Martine and Fowler Start on Final Week With Much Hard Work Ahead.

THEIR ITINERARIES

Congressman Speaks Here Thursdays Night—Martine Censures Mr. Sminck.

James E. Martine, the Democratic Congressional nominee, returned from his tour of Warren county late Saturday night, and has now arranged to devote this week to Union and Morris counties. Tomorrow night he speaks at a mass meeting to be held at Madison and another one to take place at Whippeny. He is scheduled to appear at a mass meeting in Dover on Wednesday night and big preparations are being made for his reception. On Thursday night, he will speak at Elizabeth and again at Rahway. The following night he is booked for Summit and he will wind up the week with a speech at Boonton on Saturday night.

The following letter has been sent by the "farmer-orator" to C. S. Sminck:

Editor, The Daily Press:

My attention has just been drawn to a letter in your paper, signed Charles Sminck, and my answer to it is that I am a Democrat from honest convictions. I am prompted from principle to vote my party ticket except when I deem the candidates named by my party are politically, morally or socially unfit. Concerning Mr. Sminck's query regarding the race track gambling, I want to say that I have never been on a race track in my life except to witness a race at a farmers' county fair.

I am and always have been strenuously opposed to the vice of gambling. I can say that I have never won or lost a penny in a game of chance in my life; studiously abstraining even from a game in a grab bag at a church faid. I have been in politics since I was eighteen years old and during all that time I have refused to bet or gamble even in the most modest degree. I very much question whether my friend, Mr. Schminck, can show a record so clear.

In the words of Senator LaFollette, I say "Cut in again."

Yours truly,
JAMES E. MARTINE.
Cedar Brook Farm, Oct. 29.

The Democratic candidate is "hot under the collar" today. He says that the cause of his unruffled spirits are some remarks made by his opponent at Washington, N. J., on Friday night. Mr. Fowler, according to his statement, declared "Which will you have, Roosevelt and Prosperity, or the Democratic party and Hearst. The Democratic party and Hearst are fit associates in hell." "That is a blackguardly statement," was the comment of Martine, "and one that I resent."

Congressman Fowler will put in a week of hard work. He has already covered Warren county and has devoted much time to Morris. This week he will devote his attention in the main to Union county. He will also make a few speeches in Morris, although he appears to have that section solidly with him already. He is booked to appear at the big meeting here Thursday night and it is quite sure that the theatre will be crowded to the doors as a tribute to the man who ohas represented the district for the last twelve years. The vice presidents for this meeting have not been announced as yet. City Chairman Fisk is still in Boston, but he is due to return tomorrow and it is likely that the list will then be given out.

Among Mr. Fowler's dates are these: Tonight and tomorrow night, Morris county, speaking at Morristown Tuesday night; Wednesday, Rahway and Westfield; Thursday night; Friday and Saturday, two meetings at Elizabeth.

Borough Couple Wed.

Miss Jennie Baldwin, of Watchung avenue, the borough, and Lawrence Scheelein, also of the borough, were married at 6 o'clock last night by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, at his home on West Front street. The couple was attended by Miss Lillian Reutsch, of Dunellen, and Harry Bush, a brother-in-law of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Scheelein will reside on Prospect place, the borough. The groom is engaged in business as a harness maker.

School Girl's Wheel Stolen.

A new Banner wheel, 1906 model, belonging to Miss Mary Radford, of Grant avenue, was stolen from the grounds of the Plainfield High School Friday. The matter was reported to the police but so far no trace of the machine has been discovered. The students at the school haave no set place to put their wheels and it is an easy matter for a thief to appropriate one.

AN ELECTION FORECAST

Probable Results in Congressional Fights Figured by a Republican.

PICK FOWLER TO WIN

G. O. P. Will Surely Elect Its Assembly Ticket In Union and Somerset Counties.

The liveliest days of the political campaign in New Jersey began today. Leaders of all the parties will put in their hardest work until next Saturday evening when the campaign will be practically closed. There will be little done the following Monday, and Tuesday, November 6, will be election day.

Indications at this time, it is said by Republicans, point strongly to a Republican victory. Inside reports received from all of the counties tend to show that the administration party is in good shape and that there is no change in public sentiment towards the men now in power. The election is an important one for an off year., because of the fact that ten Congressmen and a United States Senator will be chosen, the latter by the Legislature comprising several hold-over Senators.

The Congressional campaign is interesting because the people of New Jersey are greatly concerned in sending to Washington men who are to be relied upon in the matter of tariff. The people are in favor of the "stand pat" policy of Senator Dryden and other Republican leaders.

Republican Forecast.

In the First District Henry C. Loudenslager will be re-elected for the eighth time. His Democratic opponent is Daaniel V. Summerhill.

In the Second District, "Old Brains," John J. Gardner, will also be re-elected over the Democratic nominee, Samuel E. Perry.

The Third District will re-elect Benjamin V. Howell over David Harvey, Jr., the Democrat.

Ira W. Wood will win again in the Fourth District, although the Democrats are making a strong fight for the success of Allan Southwick.

In the Fifth District the candidates are the same as in 1904, Charles N. Fowler, Republican, and James E. Martine, Democrat. Mr. Fowler will win by a greatly reduced majority over his last campaign. The labor vote appears to be for Martine.

The Sixth District will probably re-elect the Democrat now holding the office, William Hughes, although the Republican nominee, George H. Burke, is making a strong fight.

The Seventh District will return Congressman R. Wayne Parker for another term. His Democratic opponent is Dr. Charles F. Kramer.

Henry J. Gottlob, a strong labor man, has been nominated by the Republicans of the Eighth District and he will win there over Le Gage Pratt, the Democratic nominee.

The Ninth District is very close and no one is taking any chances on predicting either the success of Eugene W. Leake, the Democratic nominee, or of Charles E. Prickett, the Republican.

In the Tenth District Howard B. Cruse, the Republican nominee, is lively to lose to James Hamill, the Democratic candidate. Mr. Hamill is immensely popular in the district. He was Democratic leader in the House of Assembly two years ago and made a good record for himself in other Legislatures.

Senator Dryden Safe.

Senator John F. Dryden is sure to be elected as his own successor unless the entirely unexpected happens and a Democratic majority is elected to the Legislature. Democratic control of the Legislature, however, cannot be figured out at this time. The party is badly disorganized in all parts of the State, while on the other hand the Republicans are in good shape everywhere and have behind them the pledges of support of the Colbyites who were so overwhelmingly defeated at the late primaries.

Six State Senators and sixty Assemblymen are to be elected to the Legislature. Fifteen Senators hold over. There are eighty-one members of the Legislature. Forty-one votes in a joint meeting are a majority and will elect the United States Senator.

The Republicans are practically certain of electing three, and in all probability, four new Senators. This will leave the present political complexion of the upper house unchanged.

The Republicans will also elect the following Assemblymen, unless all signs fail: Atlantic, 1; Bergen, 2; Burlington, 3; Camden, 3; Cape May, 1; Cumberland, 2; Gloucester, 1; Mercer, 3; Middlesex, 3; Morris, 2; Ocean, 1; Salem, 1; Somerset, 1; Union, 3; total of 27; and unless the Colbyites are treacherous, 11 in Essex County, thus giving the party 54 votes on the joint ballot. Even without Essex the party would have a joint vote of 43.

GOMPERS TO UNION MEN

Labor Leader Addresses Local Typos on the Congressional Fight.

HE OPPOSES FOWLER

President of American Federation of Labor Practically Advises Union Labor to Support Martine.

The following letter has been received by the secretary of Typographical Union, No. 399, of this city, from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor:

Washington, D. C., Oct. 23, 1906.

Mr. James Kermode,
Secretary Typographical Union, No. 399,
Plainfield, N. J.:

Dear Sir:

Your favor of October 18th to hand and contents noted.

The only opportunity that Congressman Fowler had to express his friendliness to labor in the last session of Congress was on the bill which nullified the Eight-Hour Law in the construction of the Panama Canal, and on this bill be voted to nullify the Eight-Hour Law in the construction of that work.

Shortly after the adjournment of Congress a document known as Labor's Bill of Grievances was submitted to the Members of Congress with a request for a reply. The answers of those who replied were published in the September issue of the American Federationist. Those members who did not reply to the first communication were again sent a copy of the document, together with a similar request, and up to the time of writing, no reply has been received from Congressman Fowler to either of the two documents which wesubmitted to him. Together with his vote nullifying the Eight-Hour Law in the construction of the Panama Canal, and his neglect or failure to reply to the documents above mentioned, does it not indicate that if he is not hostile, he is at least indifferent?

Let the slogan go forth to our fellow workers and friends and we urge that they act intelligently, unitedly and practically to accomplish the purposes they have set for themselves—the enactment of their lawful demands.

Wherever opportunity affords let labor secure the election of intelligent, faithful, honest, earnest trade unionists, with clear, unblemished paid up union cards in their possession.

Labor men often underestimate their own ability, and look up to those who are members of Congress as mortals of greatly superior qualities. It is true that many of our congressmen are brilliantly brainy, but their brilliancy too often consists of trickery devices by which the people are hoodwinked, cajoled and cheated out of their rights. Some of the most brilliant speeches that are made in Congress have their beginning and ending for, of and by the dollar.

A number of workmen from the factory, workshop, farm, mill and mine would give a healthy tone to our congressional and legislative halls, and their sterling common sense, honesty of purpose and experience would surely inaugurate an era of plain, but honest legislation in the interest of the people.

Wherever possible let labor elect its own men, but wisdom and foresight forbid the nomination of a labor man in a hopeless district, particularly when that action may result in the election of a man who is a known and persistent opponent to the cause of labor, of justice and right.

Let us stand by our friends, our true friends, not those who simply mouth their pretended friendship now, and whose past course has given their pretensions the lie.

Let us administer a stinging defeat to all men or parties who are either indifferent, negligent or hostile.

With kind regards, I am,
Yours fraternally,
SAMUEL GOMPERS,
President American Federation of Labor.

Social Events at Christian Church.

After the services in the Christian church, last night, an enthusiastic meeting of the women and friends of the church was held. Various plans for the winter's work were discussed. It was decided to begin a series of social events covering the winter months with a local talent entertainment at the church, Friday night, November 9. Mrs. E. E. Townley was made chairman of the committee and she requested that all interested attend a meeting to be held at the church Thursday night. The report that revival meetings are in progress at the church Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights is in error. There will be no such services.

POLICE TO INVESTIGATE POOLROOM WRECKING.

Young Jaeger Says He Was Allowed to Play and Judge Adjourns Hearing.

Samuel Thornton, colored, whose poolroom was partially wrecked by Mrs. Mary Jaeger Friday evening, in protest against his alleged encouragement of her fourteen-year-old son in his visits to the place, faced the angry mother in the city court this morning as complainant in a disorderly conduct charge. After the woman and her son had testified, Judge Runyon laid the case over until Saturday morning to enable the police to discover something more about the place and the circumstances leading up to Mrs. Jaeger's visit.

Mrs. Jaeger said she found her boy playing pool. She denied throwing stone threw the windows. She acknowledged throw some of the pool balls about.

Thornton denied that the boy, who is under the age set by the law governing the appearance of minors in poolrooms, was allowed to play. The boy, himself, testified that he played pool, and was in the habit of playing there. He said Thornton stood outside while he was at the table to look for the approach of policemen.

Ministers and Their Flocks Join Heartily in Big Revival Services.

BEGUN LAST NIGHT

Rev. Dr. Wharton Preaches, His Topis Being "Does It Pay"—Pastors Take Part—Chorus of 100.

Faced by a congregation that packed the auditorium to the limit of its capacity, Rev. Dr. Henry M. V. Wharton opened the week of revival at the First Baptist church last night. Seven churches joined with Dr. Chambliss' charge in launching the revival, and the congregation was splendidly representative the evangelistic denominations in the city. Dr. Wharton did not preach long, and his discourse was, in the main, only preliminary to the determined assault that is to be made on the spirit of worldliness to be found in the congregation and community.

Several minutes before the service opened, at 7:45 o'clock, the church was filled, and a very few minutes after the first hymn, it was packed. Not less than 1,300 people were present, and probably more. There were rows of standing late-comers back of the nave and at the rear of the galleries, and numbers of others turned away for lack of room. The congregation was swelled by members of the Crescent Avenue, First M. E., Park Avenue Baptist, Grace M. E. and Trinity churches, and Faith and Warren chapels, all of which were closed to lend force to the initial demonstration of the revival spirit.

On the platform about Dr. Chambliss and Dr. Wharton were Rev. Dr. Cornelius D. Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church; Rev. A. C. McCrea, First M. E. church; Rev. Dr. Charles W. Parsons, Grace M. E. church, and Revs. A. E. Finn, Park Avenue Baptist church; J. W. Musson, Faith chapel. Moved by a desire to worship in the ranks, Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church, sat in a front seat throughout the service.

The choir was augmented to nearly 100 voices, and led the singing spiritedly. The organist, Howard Case, conducted the singing. To accommodate the enlarged choir the platform was extended at the sides.

Dr. Schenck offered the opening prayer. Dr. Wharton read portions of the first and second chapters of the Acts, and in expounding them briefly, he said the Christian needed more power, more power to live right, to do right and be strong.

Dr. Chambliss welcomed the visiting congregations. It was a great joy, he said, to see the multitude before him. It was representative, he felt sure, of the community. It gave promise for the success of the services, and he felt that the people were on the threshold of a great blessing from God. The congregation told of a people all in accord, their hearts beating as one heart.

Dr. McCrea offered a prayer, remembering in particular two men, a petition for whose spiritual awakening was requested by their sister. In reading the request, Rev. Dr. Chambliss announced that all similar ones would be welcomed and remembered.

Dr. Wharton fulfilled the expectations of those who attended the service to hear a winning speaker. His platform presence is attractive, and the effect of his magnetism and oratorical skill were felt last night with his openeing sentence. His gospel is one of gladness and the spirit of brightness in which he works was evidenced by the pleasantries he introduced in his discourse.

The sermon began with a smile. Dr. Chambliss introduced the evangelist as a man's man. "Wherever he has spoken," said the pastor, "the men have flocked to hear him." Dr. Wharton's eyes twinkled as he stepped to the front of the platform.

"Without detracting in the least from what Dr. Chambliss has said, I want to say that I am a great ladies' man also," he said, and the congregation smiled back at him.

"Does It Pay?" was the subject of the sermon. It was not so tagged, but that is the query it answered. The text was from Acts 3:22, 23: Whether Paul, or Appollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours; and ye are Christ's * * * *."

Almost everything, Dr. Wharton said in opening, is, nowadays, calculated on a basis of profit and loss. He wished to look at religion from the same point of view. Did it pay to become a Christian? Was it profit-

"The Harvard Girl" attraction, booked at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is one continuous laughing fit, a comedy which brings laughter to people, who have not laughed for years. It is noted for its singers, dancers and comedians. It is pure and wholesome fun without one dull moment.

One of the most lovable characters in the new melodrama, "The Confessions of a Wife," by Owen Davis, which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, is the role of Simon Rutherford, the village blacksmith. Simon is a simple old man of enormous height and vast strength, with a heart of gold, and the very soul of honor. He loves his only motherless daughter, Alice, and stands by her in all her troubles and sufferings. In his own humble home sorrow has often darkened the door, but of the vice of the great world—the world of sin, deception and artifice, he knows little. But when his child comes to him and tells him that she has sinned because she was deceived, he takes her to his bosom, and loves her all the more. With a father's pride, he protects her from the slander and machinations of those who would see his flesh and blood writhe in the dust of perdition, to accomplish their own ends.

The management of the New Plainfield theatre has contracted with D. W. Robertson, the pioneer in moving picture art, to present for the tenth time in Plainfield another of his wonderful moving picture entertainments. Moving pictures in colors will be a special feature of this programme. One of the most beautiful will be "The Fairy at the Well," conceded by all to be the most astonishing revelation ever presented. Among the other thrilling pictures will be the "100 to 1 Shot," "The Star Snap Shot Fiend," "The Great Automobile Race for the Vanderbilt Cup," "The Man With the Ladder and the Hose" are a few of the new moving pictures that will be given on this occasion. Wednesday evening, October 31, will be a memorable day in the history of Plainfield. It will be the reappearance of this famous company of entertainers who have been receiving the highest praises for its work all over the United States.

Manager Counihan has closed negotiations with Ernest Shipman to again present his magnificent production of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," at the New Plainfield theatre Election Day, afternoon and night, and every assurance is given that it bids fair to eclipse anything yet booked. Anna Day will be seen as "Mary Tudor," supported by a capable company, with entirely new scenery, and all accessories being made from the original models.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The old building on Park avenue, which has been occupied for many years as the village candy store and barber shop, is to be razed to the ground this week. Mrs. Cook will build a more modern building in place of it. During the change, Joseph Perette's barber shop will be located in the Cook store, while Frank Ianson will store his goods until the new building is ready for occupancy. The change will make a decided improvement in town, as the building has been an eye-sore for many years. John Bornman has the contract for the new building as well as the tearing down of the old one.

The barber shop of Joseph Perette was entered some time during Friday night and $15 worth of tools and supplies taken. Entrance was gained by breaking one of the large window glasses. No clue has been obtained as to who the guilty ones are, but ever since Mr. Perette took possession of the shop three months ago, when he purchased the business from Conrad Peltz, some one has been trying to make life interesting for him by petty annoyances, breaking glass in the windows and stealing his barber pole.

The roller skating craze which was revived several months ago seems to be dying out. The usual large crowd that attended Deegan's rink during the first few weeks the rink was opened has dwindled down to such a small number that the rink has not been opened.

Funeral services of Mrs. Abby Van Fleet, who died at her home on Front street Saturday morning, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from Mount Bethel church. Mrs. Van Fleet has resided here about two months, coming from Mount Bethel.

Tomorrow is the last chance to get registered for the election Tuesday, November 6. The registry board meets in the town rooms from 1 to 9 p. m. The borough board meets in the borough rooms at the same hour.

The contract case of Brown vs. Geinello in Justice Clark's court has been adjourned until Friday, November 2, at the same hour.

Mrs. Norman Dunn spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. William T. Banks, of East Second street, Plainfield.

Daniel T. Hendrickson spent Saturday and Sunday at his home at Port Monmouth, N. J.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held last night in the parlors of the church.

Miss Hogan has returned from a stay of several days with friends in Elizabeth.

Mrs. L. B. Coddington was the guest yesterday of out of town friends.

Miss Sadie Lee entertained several friends from out of town yesterday.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

The Holy Cross football eleven defeated the freshmen from the Bound Brook High School, Saturday morning, by a score of 20 to 0, and not the reverse as stated on Saturday.

There is a great cry being raised in New York by lovers of football that it is about time that the Army and Navy football game should be played in the metropolis. They say that there is no reason why Philadelphia should continue to have the preference over New York, when the latter place offers just as good accommodations and is just as easily reached as the Quaker City. The game on Saturday between Princeton and Cornell is the only one of importance scheduled for New York this season, Columbia having given up the game, and the football enthusiasts are hungry for big games.

A large number of Princeton and Cornell admirers witnessed the football game in New York, Saturday, between the elevens from these colleges. It was very difficult to find any Cornell money in Plainfield on Saturday.

The N. P. H. S. football eleven and the Rahway High School team will play on the Westervelt avenue grounds in the borough on Wednesday. The borough boys are putting up a good game and an interesting contest should result.

The Holy Cross football eleven wants to schedule games and teams looking for such can be accommodated by communicating with William Little, of 417 West Fifth street.

It is learned that because the Plainfield High School eleven has disbanded for the season, teams which had games scheduled with the local eleven are finding great difficulty in filling their schedules. The P. H. S. management had arranged a particularly strong list of contests and the disbandment of the team is a source of disappointment.

Lovers of football will have to depend upon the Orange Field Club, Alis and North Plainfield High School to furnish the sport for them, while the Holy Cross eleven is not to be forgotten among the minor teams.

Rev. George A. Warner, of Holy Cross church, is greatly interested in athletics of all kinds and is now devoting considerable time to developing a strong football eleven. Thus far the team has made a cerditable record, all things considered.

GOLF.

While the season's competition for the Golf Committee cup was concluded at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, there will be play for several weeks for consolation cups. Next Saturday afternoon there will be the initial play for the Golf Committee consolation cup, preliminary round; November 6, Election Day morning, there will be play all day for the Election Day cup, and the first and second rounds for the consolation cup and the inconsolables cup. On November 10 there will be the semi-final rounds for both cups and the final rounds on November 17, while on November 29, Thanksgiving Day, the active season will end.

The final competition for the Hydewood cup was held at the Park Golf Club on Saturday, but the play for the President's and club cups will continue for several more Saturdays. There appears to be more interest in the play at the club now than at any time during the season. Every Saturday there is a large field out and the course was never in better condition than now.

All things considered the Plainfield Country Club has never had such a successful season as the present. The scheduled events have attracted many competitors every week and the rivalry has been intense. Several special competitions have been arranged from time to time which has brought out the best talent.

The next social event of interest at the Plainfield Country Club will be on Election Day, when several dinner parties and luncheons will be given by the members.

A freak of golf that is probably unprecedented has developed in the tournament of the Chevy Chase Club. Allan Lard, Columbia, Samuel Dalzell, Chevy Chase and A. S. Mattingly, Columbia, all tied at 175 for the low score qualifying prize. The total medal score of all three players in the first round match play was again the same, 91. In the second round match play the tie for the prize remained broken, as Lard and Dalzell each turned in a score of 89, while Mattingly was only one stroke behind. All three of these players were beaten in match play. In the second round match play for the cup J. C. Davidson, Columbia, defeated Samuel Dalzell, Chevy Chase, 1 up; L. W. Weaver, Columbia, defeated A. E. Mattingly, Columbia, 1 up; E. S. Duvall, Jr., defeated C. A. Spofford, New York, 2 up; L. L. Harban, Columbia, defeated Allan Lard, Columbia, 4 up and 3 to play.

Although two down at one time, Mrs. R. H. Barlow, of the Huntingdon Valley Country Club, beat Miss F. C. Griscom, Merion, by 1 up in the final of the Women's Golf Association of Philadelphia's championship. Both played a strong game. Miss Griscom drove the bunker guarding the thirteenth green, and but for some poor luck in putting would have retained her lead. Mrs. Barlow's best shot was with the brassy from the top of a cop bunker that reached the green and enabled her to win the critical hole. The women started before the intercity team players and they had a large gallery throughout.

The series of matches played by the women of the Morris County Golf Club for the cup presented by President Thomas have been brought to a finish. The winner of each match received three points, the second two points and the third one point. The contestants and their scores are as follows: Mrs. Shippen, 12; Miss Hurlbut, 14; Miss Foster, 11; Miss Whitney, 8; Mrs. Billings, 7; Mrs. Phipps, 1; Miss Bryce, 1.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

VANITY

From time immemorial moralists have railed at the vanity of woman. Here is a woman, and a beautiful one at that, who says that vanity is an imperishable instinct; that vanity, like love, is one of the great forces that makes the world go round; that to be vain is a duty to humanity and an essential of success.

It's an original view; what is your opinion? This defense of an old time sin is set forth in our new magazine—

IT IS A STORE FOR MEN

Because in it is carried everything a man wears—we can equip men from head to foot; because we sell practically everything a man uses in his workshop, in his office, or while recreating; because we provide foodstuffs and even cigars; because here are gathered things useful and ornamental, the necessities and the luxuries, from all over the world, making of the store a show place interesting to every man in any way engaged in the production of articles or wares of any sort; it is a store to which a man can bring visitors and point to its magnitude and beauty as an example of what Newark brains and energy can accomplish.

IT IS A STORE FOR WOMEN

Because it is stockt with everything that woman wears and everything that she uses at home, in kitchen, dining-room, bedroom, library or parlor, with furniture, draperies, pictures, chinaware, glass ware, metal and wooden utensils; then here are art goods, artists' materials, music, musical instruments, books to read, candies and toys for the children, baby things in general; above all, because the store is a permanent exposition of beautiful, interesting objects—a place for sightseeing, a place for entertainment, a place in which to shop and a place to rest; a store planned for the edification and comfort of its patrons.

Put not your trust in candidates' promises.

Farmer Orator Martine is out with his biennial slogan, "Beware of the snare of the Fowler."—West Hudson Press.

James E. Martine took part in a boil up in Warren county the other night, but that was not the first occasion that Charles N. Fowler made the "farmer-orator" dance.

The Newark Call points out that both speakers at the Republican mass meeting here last Tuesday night made records as reformers before they become Governors of New Jersey. Griggs stood out against corporation tyranny and Voorhees in the Senate defied the bosses.

For the good name of the Episcopal church, Bishop Lines should use his offices to persuade Rev. Dr. E. A. Wasson that he has missed his calling. Wasson's fierce denunciations of the Bishops' law would make him out of place in a convention of law-abiding saloon-keepers. He's no man to preach the Gospel—that's certain.

The benefaction of the late Miss Catherine Webster will add another benevolent institution to Plainfield, which is already well endowed in that respect. This venerable and noble woman left a large share of her estate, as told exclusively in the Daily Press on Saturday, for the erection of a Home for Aged and Infirmed Ladies. Such an institution has long been needed in this community and it remained for a woman whose whole life was devoted to the doing of good deeds to supply the means.

The size of the congregation at the opening service of the great revival being conducted by Dr. Wharton surprised even the most sanguine ones, but past efforts have demonstrated that the people of Plainfield join heartily in movements of this kind. Dr. Wharton may feel assured that the attendance at every meeting he holds here will be just as largely attended as the one last night. When he finally takes his departure he will leave with the satisfaction that his services have done much good for the community.

SERVICE FOR THE DEAD

attached the awful penalty of hell. Where then shall their lot be cast? The Church, borne out by reason as well as by revelation, the Church answers at once, they shall go into a place of temporary punishment, where they may have their venal sins wiped out, and may pay the debt which they owe the Infinite Justice of God.

"Such briefly is the doctrine of Purgatory; a doctrine so consoling in itself, and so much in accordance with what the nature of the case might have been expected to demand, that when those who deny it refuse to acknowledge the authority of the Inspired Word, that declares that 'It is a holy and a wholesome thought to pray for the dead that they may be loosed from their sins,' I can only wonder at their blindness—not judging individuals among them,—but leaving them to their conscience and their God."

As Father Bogan concluded, the customary benediction was pronounced and the gathering was dismissed.

Charles W. McCutchen and family, who have spent the past six months in Europe and at their camp in the the Adirondacks, have returned to their home on Rockview avenue.

By Tom Muir.

The company which presents "Custer's Last Fight," booked for appearance here Saturday, carries a band of full-blooded Indians, almost every one of whom can show wounds or scars received in battle. They were secured through Pawnee Bill, the well-known circus man, who is interpreter for the Pawnee tribe. The roster of "Custer's Last Fight" company also carries an Indian brass band, the members of which learned to play at the government schools.

The romantic comic opera "Red Feather" drew two large audiences to the New Plainfield theatre Saturday. It has lots of tuneful music and being handsomely staged and costumed made a decidedly favorable impression. Miss Cheridah Simpson, who has been seen by Plainfielders in "Woodland" and "The Prince of Pilsen," was capital in the lead role of "Countess Hilda Von Drage" and "Red Feather."

Plainfield's favorite comedians, Yorke and Adams, are at present travelling through Alabama with "Bankers and Brokers" and are "standing 'em up" nightly. A correspondent at Montgomery, writing to a New York paper, states that the theatre was packed nightly during their stay of one week in that city. This team is the only one that has appeared three times in the New Plainfield and did so to capacity audiences on each occasion.

The members of George Primrose minstrel company, which includes three Plainfielders in the working force, were entertained by the Elks Club at Richmond, Va., a few days ago. At a social period which followed an excellent dinner the blackface artists contributed an excellent programme. The Plainfielders were included to take part and Peter Winn gave his famous monologue, "Reading the Banners;" Henry Ackerman sang a tenor solo and Peter Fleming passed out a clog dance that "brought down the house."

Manager Counihan has made arrangements to have election returns read from the stage of the New Plainfield theatre on the night of November 6, when Miss Anna Day will again be seen in "When Knighthood was in Flower."

ELEPHANTS AND PONIES ON WASHBURN FARM.

Circus Man Is Building Big Training Stable on River Road for Education of His Animals.

Leon W. Washburn, the circus man who has bought the Vermeule farm near Riverside Park, has soce extensive plans under way for his new place. In a few days he will move to the farm house and make it his permanent residence. Already he has started work on an 80 by 30 foot building on the ground which will be used as a training stable.

The animals already on the grounds include four elephants. They are known as "small," but compared to ordinary animals they aren't so diminutive. The biggest one stands higher than a man, while the smallest has the dimensions of a fair-sized cow. "Jumbo" is the smallest one and is believed to be the smallest in captivity. He was brought from the jungle last year. The four elephants, Mr. Washburn says, represent an investment of $6,000. They are trained to walk about holding each other's tails in their trunks, and when the training stable gets in operation they will be instructed how to do numerous other tricks.

Mr. Washburn also has fifty ponies on the farm. They are select breed and are all trained. There is also a big array of vehicles of various kinds, used in the show. The ponies have a regularly equipped fire department which they operate during their performances.

"Next year," Mr. Washburn told a Daily Press reporter, who visited his farm yesterday, "I am going to take out a wagon show exclusively and drive from one town to another instead of depending upon the railroads. I shall cover only the East, where I can get from one town to another over night."

The 105 acres of the Vermeule farm are to be used entirely as pasture for the ponies. The elephants live principally upon hay, of which each consumes 100 pounds a day. A pack of trained dogs will soon be added to the establishment.

USED HIS 1904 SPEECH.

So Declare Hearers of Chas. N. Fowler—Same Old Jokes Recognized.

Washington, N. J., Oct. 29.—Representative Charles N. Fowler, who is seeking re-election in the Fifth District, addressed a meeting in the opera house Friday night. There were sixty-eight spectators present, according to actual count. Postmaster Oscar Jeffery presided, and J. C. Perdoe, the candidate for Assembly, also made a few remarks and made a favorable impression upon the voters.

Although the Representative spoke for more than an hour he did not advance any new ideas and his speech was almost the same as delivered in other plans in this campaign, and some of his hearers declare that it was the same campaign speech of 1904 revised to date. The jokes were the same ones the speaker delivered on his visit during the former campaign. Mr. Fowler aroused considerable enthusiasm by his appeal to the patriotism of the young voters.

FAVORS SUNDAY SALOONS

Newark Clergyman Holds the Bishops' Law to Be Clerical Blunder.

REV. WASSON'S RETORT

Minister Replies to His Sober-Minded Critics, Both Lay and Clerical—His Address.

Dr. E. A. Wasson, rector of the Episcopal Church of St. Stephens, of Newark, who has championed the Sunday saloon and criticised the Bishops' law, replied yesterday to his clerical and lay critics, saying:

"I have learned to assimilate impartially both bouquets and brickbats. The taste for the former is indeed natural, but the taste for brickbats has to be acquired. All that is needed for it, however, is a little philosophy and a little practice. It is really not so bad when you once get used to it.

"For my position on the Bishops' law only one layman wrote me a condemnatory letter. From the clergy not one approving letter was received, but many were of courteous remonstrance, and many, though not so many, violently abusive and scurrilous.

"It is a mistaken idea that it is only working people who are strongly in favor of the Sunday saloon. My experience would lead me to think otherwise. Men in all walks of life except the ministerial have written me in the same strain. In fact, it would appear that most men who wear their eyes in front of their heads approve of the Sunday saloon in Newark, whether as a question of their own personal comfort or of public policy. Men that never drink a drop tell me they believe, under the conditions, in the legalized sale of these things on Sunday.

"The Real Question."

"The real question is not whether beer or liquors are to be sold on Sunday. There really never was such a question. The sole question is whether they shall be sold legally or illegally.

"It is not for the rigorist to decide whether the saloon shall be open on Sunday, but it may be for the rigorist to decide whether in addition to an open saloon he shall have a law violated and trampled in the dust of contempt.

"The unpardonable sin is for a member of the 'cloth' to intimate that the 'cloth' is not always all wool and a yard wide. Now I don't think that the clergy are as black as they are sometimes painted; neither do I think they are of that dazzling white that they are fain to paint themselves withal. I should say they are a lightish gray. Strip us of our holy duds and our holy lugs and we run about the average. A dollar looks as big to us as to the next one. The biggest salaries get the biggest men in the ministry, as elsewhere. One of the great weaknesses of the ministry is this continual assumption of the superior holiness of ministers. It gives us an air of unreality that weakens us with a practical world.

"It is hard for us ministers to appreciate that for some generations back the people have been out of their swaddling clothes and have been administering their morals themselves, and it really makes little difference to the masses of the people what the clergy think of them and their ways."

"A Clerical Blunder."

Dr. Wasson expressed the belief that the introduction of the Bishops' bill into the Legislature last winter was a clerical blunder, from which the church and clergy have greatly suffered.

"It is generally believed," he said, "that they were tricked and used by cunning politicians. It has killed the new idea movement; as Blaine met his Burchard, so Colby met his bishops.

"The Bishops' law is opposed by the great bulk of those who do oppose it in the interest of liberty, in the interest of impartial justice as between class and class. Let us have legislation dealing with the evils of the saloon business, with drunkenness, with the back-room, with lawlessness. And let that legislation be of such a character that, conditions being what they are, it can be enforced. Encourage the liquor men who try to conduct their business in a respectable, lawabiding way; discourage the others. Let us have done with hysterics; let us apply common sense to facts."

THRONG GREETS EVANGELIST

able in a plain, everyday light?

The text answered the queries. It was like an inventory of the Christian's possessions. The ministry—"Whether of Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas"—belonged to the people to begin with. The ministers were the servants of the people, and they were what the people made them.

The world was theirs. Satan was only an intruder. Jesus Christ was trying to win it back to where it belonged. The world did not seem the same to the child of God and the child of the devil. Eat, drink and be merry, was the creed and aim of the worldling. It was a narrow selfish view—as though the world were an orange, to be sucked dry and dropped. God never intended men to be sponges, the evangelist said ringingly, or they would have been for sale that moment on strings in a drug-store. "Let me help someone," was the ambition of God's child. The world didn't look the same to the child of God and the child of the devil. The Christian saw a bright, happy world. The religion of Christ was one of joy, and the world reflected their brightness.

Life was theirs. They had life eternal, and nothing could take it from them. Death was theirs, for Jesus Christ had conquered death. It could only come to the Christian as a servant, saying, "Child, your Father wants you."

"Things present are yours." The brightest people on earth should be the Christian people. The sad ones should be the sinful ones. Those whose sins had been forgiven ought to be happy. They should enjoy home, family, and any pleasant circumstances in their lives. God did not wish his children to be sad. He wished them to lead a happy, joyous life; sin, of course, was not included in that. Dr. Wharton said uncomplimentary things of the sad-faced churchmen, who cast gloom on all with whom they came into contact.

"Things to come." Who could tell what was wrapped up in that expression? One thing it certainly meant was freedom from sin; the best of living ones had not enjoyed that on earth. Other things it meant were no more care and sorrow, reunion with loved ones who had gone before, and a meeting with Christ, the best friend the Christian had ever had.

All things were the Christian's, but one. The Christian did not belong to himself. "Ye are Christ's." Nothing belonged to anyone who does not belong to Christ.

Dr. Wharton closed with an appeal for constant effort to upbuild God's kingdom. Whatever the Christian could do, even the smallest of services, would be accounted well and noted on eternal records. He urged his hearers to strive and pray for the success of the revival.

"In your silent prayer," said the evangelist in conclusion, "ask God to send a great blessing to these meetings."

Rev. A. E. Finn offered the closing prayer.

The musical features of the service included an anthem, "Wideness of God's Blessing," by the First Baptist church choir, and a solo, "Face to Face," by Miss Louella Harris, the leading soprano of the choir.

The meetings will continue at the First Baptist church every night this week excepting Saturday, beginning at 7:45 o'clock. Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., Dr. Wharton will speak at two noon-day shop meetings, tomorrow and Thursday. Tomorrow he will speak at the Potter plant, and will probably go to Scott's Thursday. Friday afternoon he will speak at a boys' meeting at the Y. M. C. A., and will address a men's meeting at the theatre, under Y. M. C. A. auspices, at the theatre Sunday afternoon.

CORNER-STONES LAID AT NEWARK YESTERDAY.

Catholics Start Formally a New Building and Hebrews Also a Hospital.

Nearly one hundred clergymen and full ten thousand members of Catholic societies took part in laying the cornerstone of the new building of the Father Matthew T. A. B. Society, attached to St. Joseph's church, at Hudson and Hartford streets, Newark, N. J., yesterday afternoon. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Bishop O'Connor, the stone was laid by the Rev. George N. Corrigan, pastor of St. Joseph's. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Edward F. Quirk.

Prior to the laying of the stone there was a demonstration in the streets of the locality, in which the members of the various men's societies to the number of several thousand took part. Among them were the Father Matthew T. A. B. Society, Young Men's Catholic Associations of Newark, Orange, Elizabeth and Harrison, Knights of Columbus and Holy Name Societies.

The Hebrews of the city laid the cornerstone for a fine big hospital.

WILL TRY TO CHECK AUTOMOBILE BAND.

Frequent Bold Burglaries in Chatham May Lead to Organization of Vigilance Committee.

Chatham, Oct. 29.—Prevalence of robberies in this section has aroused talk of forming a protective organization on the order of the old time vigilance committees, an idea that has been found to work well in other parts of the State. The police force used in this neighborhood consists of marshals, whose duties heretofore have not gone further than arresting speeding automobilists and piloting intoxicated persons on their homeward path.

Need of further protection was shown a few weeks ago, when the residence of Jacob Ward was robbed of several thousand dollars worth of jewelry. A few nights ago the house of Frederick A. Boyle was entered and ransacked, and on the same evening the home of the Misses Bruen was robbed of silverware and jewelry. A valuable art work, Sir Peter Lely's "Portrait of a Lady," was undisturbed, but the publicity given to this fact has caused its removal to a place of safety.

From the size of the articles stolen and the quickness with which they have moved from one place to another, it is believed that the burglars are using an automobile. The town is located on the Morris county turnpike, one of the chief automobile highways of the State, and the presence of an automobile late at night would not attract attention. It is probable the Vigilantes, if organization is made, will work on this belief.

HALLOWE'EN AT SOMERVILLE.

Citizens Will Celebrate It With Variety of Events.

Somerville, Oct. 29.—Arrangements are now being made to have the first annual parade of Hallowe'en Masqueraders next Wednesday night, former Prosecutor Nelson Y. Dungan will be the marshal, and the parade will start at eight o'clock from the fountain on West Main street.

This will make a fitting close of the annual firemen's inspection and parade, which will be at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. A band of music has been engaged, and it is the intention of the committee to have a large, grotesque and fanciful turnout. There will be allegorical figures and the exemplification of fairy tales, etc., represented in the line of parade.

A number of prizes will be offered, so there will be an incentive for young people putting forth exceptional efforts to make the affair a success.

Members of the Somerville Athletic Club, Company M, West End Baseball Club and the Fire Department will vie with each other in their efforts to be rewarded with the club prize.

A committee of the Board of Commissioners will act as judges and award prizes.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

It is decreed that the separate blouse shall not leave us for yet another seoson at least.

Lightweight silks—that is, the soft taffetas, chines anr oriental weaves—are enjoying a vogue of unusual popularity.

The newest craze is the pinafore, an exact duplicate of that worn by children and donned usually over a lace or lingerie blouse.

For dressy occasions the Dolly Varden hat will continue the same popularity in felt that it has had during the past season in straw.

Embroidered silk roses are appliqued on the revers of many of the dressiest suits. The roses are worked on taffeta and are usually of the color contrasting with that of the suit.

Trimmings are important features of fashions this season—unusually so—stitched bands of silk or velvet of the color of the gown material being first in favor. Ribbon ruffles are frequently used to border them and are also used by themselves in place of circular flounces.—New York Post.

GERMAN GLEANINGS.

Germany's consul service consists of 26 professional consuls and 621 merchant consuls.

Mattresses made of paper shavings are in use in Germany for soldiers' beds. They are said to be more comfortable than straw.

A fire alarm was turned in recently in Berlin for a swallow caught by the leg on the edge of the roof of a high building. The firemen reared a ladder and released the bird.

The German reichstag proposes to raise more revenue by taxing picture post cards sent through the mails one-half cent each. Consul Brittain, of Kehl, writes that 500,000,000 of these cards are sent through the mails annually, which would produce $2,500,000 revenue.

The most astonishing recent outbreak in all Germany was the wrath of the tradespeople of Essen and of Berlin at the Krupp girls and their wedding garments. The richest heiresses in Germany are blamed for taking the bread from the poor man's mouth. They made their own wedding clothes.

BABY CRIES.

Hunger—Usually a continuous, frettful cry, rarely strong and lusty.

Normal—Loud and strong and the nature of a scream. Baby gets red in the face with it.

Temper—Loud and strong and unusually violent, accompanied by kicking and stiffening of the body.

Illness—Usually more of fretfulness and moaning than real crying, although real crying is excited by very slight causes.

Indulgence of Habit—Stops short when the baby gets what he wants, only to begin again when the object is withdrawn.

Pain—Usually strong and sharp, but not generally continuous. It is accompanied by contortions of the features, drawing up of the legs and other symptoms of distress.—Frank Barkley Copley in Outing.

FACTS FROM FRANCE.

Esperanto is to be taught to the cadets at the French military college of St. Cyr.

In consequence of the increasing abuse of opium its sale in France harbor cities has been forbidden.

The French people are the greatest consumers of cheap wine in the world. It is used more generally than milk in the United States. Even the little children drink it. The public schools give it to the pupils. The servants insist on the daily allowance for wine.

Yellow spectacles for weak eyes were recommended by Dr. Motals in a paper he read before the Academy of Medicine at Paris. The doctor declares that yellow is very soothing to weak eyes and that for fifteen years he has prescribed glasses of this color with excellent results.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

London has 1,028 postoffices and 2,435 public telephone stations.

Dartmoor, which occupies one-fifth of the area of the county of Devon, is the largest tract of uncultivated land in England.

Neither male nor female convicts in English prisons are permitted to see a mirror during the period of their incarceration.

The New regulations in the British army that "no relaxation of the eyesight test can ever be allowed" is regarded as marking the disappearance of the eyeglass among the officers.

A widow living in the Brightlingsea almshouse, England, celebrated her ninetieth birthday by inviting to tea two old sweethearts. One of them was ninety, the other ninety-three years of age.

Shakespeare and Servian Politics.

A striking scene was witnessed, our correspondent says, at the performance of "King Richard III," at Galgrade. In the ghost scene a whisper ran round the house that the presentment of Hastings resembled the late General Petrovit, wh owas murdered together with King Alexander. And in the monologue of the affrighted Richard the words, "I am a villain," were hailed with such frantic applause that the actor was unable to proceed. The whole audience from pit to gallery was in a state of indescribable emotion, and it was rumored that the piece will not be allowed to be given again.—St. James' Gazette.

MOST UNLADYLIKE.

When I saw I was to have a respite of a month or so, I went over to the National Industrial bank with Healey's roll, which my tellers had counted and prepared for deposit. I finished my business with the receiving teller of the National Industrial, and dropped in on my friend Lewis, the first vice-president. I did not need to pretend coolness and confidence; my nerves were still in that curious state of tranquil exhilaration, and I felt master of myself and of the situation. Just as I was leaving, in came Tom Langdon with Sam Ellersly.

Tom's face was a laughable exhibit of embarrassment. Sam—really, I felt sorry for him. There was no reason on earth why he shouldn't be with Tom Langdon; yet he acted as if I had caught him "with the goods on him." He stammered and stuttered, clasped my hand eagerly, dropped it as if it had stung him; he jerked out a string of hysterical nonsense, ending with a laugh so crazy that the sound of it disconcerted him. Drink was the explanation that drifted through my mind; but in fact I thought little about it, so full was I of other matters.

"When is your brother returning?" said I to Tom.

"On the next steamer, I believe," he replied. "He went only for the rest and the bath of sea air." With an effort he collected himself, drew me aside and said: "I owe you an apology, Mr. Blacklock. I went to the steamer with Mowbray to see him off, and he asked me to tell you about our new dividend rate—though it was not to be made public for some time. Anyhow, he told me to go straight to you—and I—frankly I forgot it." Then, with the winning, candid Langdon smile, he added, ingenuously: "The best excuse in the world—yet the one nobody ever accepts."

"No apology necessary," said I with the utmost good nature. "I've no personal interest in textile. My house deals on commission only, you know—never on margins for myself. I'm a banker and broker, not a gambler. Some of our customers were alarmed by the news of the big increase, and insisted on bringing suit to stop it. But I'm going to urge them now to let the matter drop."

Tom tried to look natural, and as he is an apt pupil of his brother's, he succeeded fairly well. His glance, however, wouldn't fix steadily on my gaze, but circled round and round it like a bee at an electric light. "To tell you the truth," said he, "I'm extremely nervous as to what my brother will say—and do—to me, when I tell him. I hope no harm came to you through my forgetfulness."

"None in the world," I assured him. Then I turned on Sam. "What are you doing down town to-day?" said I. "Are you on your way to see me?"

"Oh, I was just calling on Tom," he replied rather haughtily.

Then Melville himself came in, brushing back his white tufted burnsides and licking his lips and blinking his eyes—looking for all the world like a cat at its toilet.

"Oh! ah! Blacklock!" he exclaimed, with purring cordiality—and I knew he had heard of the big deposit I was making. "Come into my office on your way out—nothing special—only because it is always a pleasure to talk with you."

I saw that his effusive friendliness confirmed Tom Langdon's fear that I had escaped from his brother's toils. He stared sullenly at the carpet until he caught me looking at him with twinkling eyes. He made a valiant effort to return my smile and succeeded in twisting his face into a knot that seemed to hurt him as much as it amused me.

"Well, good-by, Tom," said I. "Give my regards to your brother when he lands, and tell him his going away was a mistake. A man can't afford to trust his important business to under-strappers." This with a face free from any suggestion of intending a shot at him. Then to Sam: "See you to-night, old man," and I went away, leaving Lewis looking from one to the other as if he felt that there was dynamite about, but couldn't locate it. I stopped with Melville to talk coal for a few minutes—at my ease, and the last man on earth to be suspected of hanging by the crook of one finger from the edge of the precipice.

I rang the Ellersly's bell at half-past nine that evening. The butler faced me with eyes not down, as they should have been, but on mine, and full of servile insolence to which he had been prompted by what he had overheard in the family.

"Not at home, sir," he said, though I had not spoken.

I was preoccupied and not expecting that statement; neither had I skill, nor desire to acquire skill, in reading family barometers in the faces of servants. So I was for brushing past him and entering where I felt I had as much right as in my own places. He barred the way.

"Beg pardon, sir. Mr. Ellersly instructed me to say no one was at home."

I halted, but only like an oncoming bear at the prick of an arrow.

"What does this mean?" I exclaimed, waving him aside. At that instant Anita appeared from the little reception-room a few feet away.

"Oh—come in!" she said cordially. "I was expecting you. Burroughes please take Mr. Blacklock's hat."

I followed her into the reception room, thinking the butler had made some sort of mistake.

"How did you come out?" she asked eagerly, facing me. "You look your natural self—not tired or worried—as it must have been not so bad as you feared."

"If our friend Langdon hadn't slipped away, I might not look and feel so comfortable," said I. "His brother blundered, and there was no one to checkmate my moves." She seemed nearer to me, more in sympathy with me than ever before.

"I can't tell you how glad I am!"

Her eyes were wide and bright, as from some great excitement, and her color was high. Once my attention was on it, I knew instantly that only some extraordinary upheaval in that household could have produced the fever that was blazing in her. Never had I seen her in any such mood as this.

"What is it?" I asked. "What has happened?".

"If anything disagreeable should be said or done this evening here," she said, "I want you to promise me that you'll restrain yourself, and not say or do any of those things that make me—that jar on me. You understand?"

"I am always myself," replied I. "I can't be anybody else."

"But you are—several different kinds of self," she insisted. "And please—this evening don't be that kind. It's coming into your eyes and chin now."

I had lifted my head and looked round, probably much like the leader of a horned herd at the scent of danger.

"Is this better?" said I, trying to look the thoughts I had no difficulty in getting to the fore whenever my eyes were on her.

Her smile rewarded me. But it disappeared, gave place to a look of nervous alarm, of terror even, at the rustling, or, rather, bustling, of skirts in the hall—there was war in the very sound, and I felt it. Mrs. Ellersly appeared, bearing her husband as a dejected trailer invisibly but firmly coupled. She acknowledged my salutation with a stiff-necked nod, ignored my extended hand. I saw that she wished to impress upon me that she was a very grand lady indeed; but, while my ideas of what constitutes a lady were at that time somewhat befogged by my snobbishness, she failed dismally. She looked just what she was—a mean, bad-tempered woman, in a towering rage.

POSTAL SERVICE COST.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—Postmaster-General Cortelyou's estimates for the postal service for the coming fiscal year aggregate $206,662,190, a net increase over the present appropriation of $15,000,000.

The principal items of increase are: Pay of postmasters, $1,500,000; pay to clerks in first and second class offices, $3,000,000; clerk hire, third class, $150,000; letter-carriers, $1,156,700; pneumatic tube service, $350,000; railroad transportation, $4,600,000; railway mail clerks, $978,360; foreign mail service, $268,000; manufacture of stamped envelopes, $227,000; rural delivery, $1,475,000.

A new item of $300,000 for freight on supplies is incorporated under the law passed at the last session.

Charming Millinery.

The height of quality at these prices, the acme of style and perfect refinement are attained by L. S. Plaut & Co., of Newark, in their trimmed hats at $5, $7.50 and $10. This store's position in the fashion centers of Europe and America, its enterprise in retaining foremost millinery experts and its vast output—all go hand in hand to give the "Bee Hive" millinery supremacy. And what also holds its patrons with ties of satisfaction is the care bestowed on and the facilities for special order work. Women are sure in receiving what they desire in style and workmanship; at the time they want it and at a cost that gives L. S. Plaut & Co. prestige for low prices also.

To Operate New Ferry.

New Brunswick, Oct. 29.—Articles of incorporation have been filed here of the Perth Amboy and Staten Island Ferry Company, which plans to run a ferry between Perth Amboy and Tottenville, in competition with that of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company. The company has purchased land in Tottenville for a landing and is negotiating for wharf privileges in Perth Amboy. George S. Silzer, of New Brunswick, is the agent of the company. The capital stock is $125,000 and the incorporators are Frederick W. O. Schmitz, M. F. Humphries, Edward White, Harry Loewenstein and John J. Nicholson, of New York, and John W. Humphries, of Bayonne.

Elizabeth Lawyer Goes West.

Elizabeth, Oct. 29.—Former Alderman John F. Brown, a young lawyer of this city, has left it for good and intends seeking his fortune in the West. He started Wednesday night for Reno, Nev., after bidding farewell to his family and a number of friends, several of whom accompanied him to Jersey City to see him off. Mr. Brown is the oldest son of the late Michael C. Brown, who, likewise, was an Elizabeth alderman and who died several years ago. He was a Democrat, while his son is a Republican. John F. Brown was graduated from St. Patrick's Parochial School and studied law under Frank Berger.

This Boy a Storm Signal.

Cleveland, Ohio. Oct. 29.—Dale Canfield, a ten-year-old boy, has become a human barometer. For more than a year he has been peculiarly susceptible to changes in the weather. Every time a storm approaches the boy disappears from home. Dozens of times his disappearance has been reported to the police. They are looking for his now. Dale ran away from home many times last lear, each time immediately before a heavy storm. His father declares a fall from a street car has rendered the boy extremely susceptible to weather conditions.

Youngest Cival War Soldier.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29.—The controversy as to who is the youngest soldier of the civil war probably has been settled in favor of Perry Byan, of Seattle, Wash. He enlisted as a drummer boy in Company D, Twenty-fourth Iowa Volunteers, on August 22, 1862, at the age of nine years and ten months. After serving nearly a year he was honorably discharged on a surgeon's certificate of disability. The Pension Office has investigated Byan's papers and found that his representations are correct. He will receive a tidy sum as back pension.

C. B. MORGAN WINS CUP

Captures Golf Committee Trophy at the Plainfield Country Club.

CHAS. A. STOVER SECOND

Charles A. Reed Gets the Hydewood Cup at the Park Golf Club—The Scores.

C. B. Morgan won the Golf Committee cup at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday, although he failed to score any additional points for the trophy. His total number of points, 14½, held him safe and neither Charles A. Stover and Arthur Murphy, who were a close second and third were able to overtake him, in fact they did not get among the low scores in the final competition for this cup. This is Mr. Morgan's first win for the cup, although last year he finished almost near first place. He has played a steady and consistent game throughout the season and improved over last year's work.

The competition for the Golf Committee cup has excited more than the usual interest this season and each Saturday there has been an increased number of contestants. On Saturday, Edward T. Wilson won the first three points with a score of 66. He had the fat handicap of 24 to help him. Henry D. Hibbard finished second with an 83, while five players tied for third place with a score of 84 giving each one fifth of a point. The best scores:

Edward T. Wilson, 90, 24—66; Henry D. Hibbard, 88, 5—83; Alexander Gilbert, 111, 27—84; L. A. Chase, 93, 9—84; S. D. Lounsbery, 91, 7—84; J. A. Lane, 95, 11—84; Morris J. Dumont, 91, 7—84.

In the playoff for the October Handicap cup, between J. A. Lane and Frank O. Reinhart, the former won with a score of 84. Reinhart did not play his usual strong game, while Lane was in the best of form.

There was reat rivalry at the Park Golf Club on Saturday when the final play for the Hydewood cup, October competition, was scheduled. Charles A. Reed was the winner with a net score of 85, scoring five points which gave him a total of ten. He won five points in the opening play and failed to secure any additional ones until the final play. There were three players tied for second place with nine points—John L. Watson, Leon R. Thurlow and Miss Lyda Loizeaux.

These scores were returned from the President's, Club and Hydewood cups:

Charles A. Reed, 92, 7—85; Miss Lyda Loizeaux, 105, 14—91; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 108, 16—92; Geo. A. Chapman, 110, 18—92; Leon R. Thurlow, 103, 9—94; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 106, 9—97; Alexander Gilbert, 119, 21—98; A. W. Kenworthy, 112, 13—99; John L. Watson, 115, 15—100; D. H. Rowland, 110, 10—100.

Mr. Reed also scored three points for the President's cup and an equal number of points for the club trophy, while Dr. Carroll and Mr. Chapman divided second honors for the handicap cup, and Mr. Thurlow won second honors and Mr. Goodrich third honors for the scratch trophy. The play for the President's and Club cups will be concluded with the competition on Saturday and Election day.

ORANGE FIELD CLUB DEFEATS ALIS ELEVEN.

Score 10 to 5 in a Fast and Brilliant Contest on Crescent Oval.

The Orange Field Club defeated Alis at Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon by a score of 10 to 5, in a football game filled with many brilliant plays. The Orange Field Club made its first touchdown within the first ten minutes of play in the first half, Embleton doing the trick and kicking the goal. The ball was see-sawed back and forth considerable throughout the game, but the O. F. C. team was never in danger of losing the contest. Brilliant plays were made by McVoy, Banks and Emmons for O. F. C.

In the second half Embleton kicked a safety for a distance of forty-five yards during the last two minutes of play. For Alis Taylor's punting and the work of Percy Phillips were features. The lineup:

O. F. C.	ALIS.
Hillyer	Lake and Manning right end.
Joseph	Eckhart right tackle.
J. McCullough	Fountain & Bird right guard.
McLoughlin	Bogert centre.
W. McCullough	Bentley left tackle.
F. Emmons	Tice left end.
McVoy	Phillips quarterback.
Lyness, Brown	Marsh right half.
Sheppard	Phayle left half.
Banks, Embleton	Taylor full back.

NEWARK MEN WON.

Local Scribes' Reputation As Pin-Smashers Not Upheld.

A bowling aggregation culled from the ranks of local newspapermen matched pin-smashing proclivities with the Newark News team, Saturday night, and went down in defeat. The Essex county scribes were not in exceptionally good form but they capped two games with comfortable majorities. The contest took place on Snedeker's alleys and was witnessed by a large gallery. At its close the vanquished stood for a turkey dinner for all hands at Timbo's. A return match will be played at Newark next week. The scores:

PARK BOWLERS WILL ROLL PRINCETON FIVE.

At Park Club Next Saturday Night; Roselle Coming For Return Match.

The Park Club bowling team will meet a Princeton University team on the Club alleys next Saturday night. The Princeton five is not a regular college team, because Princeton is not in the intercollegiate league. She may enter later, but there is no formally representative five at the university yet.

The Park's regular five will roll: Barlow, Daniel, Walter Long, Monroe Long, Ball. The match will be two games out of three. After the bowling the Princeton rollers will be entertained at the usual Saturday night dance and supped.

Some night this week the Parks will bowl a return match game here with Roselle Casino. The borough bowlers defeated the Casino team two weeks ago on their own alleys.

Bowling League to Meet.

The Central Journal Bowling League will meet at the Roselle Casino tonight, when officers will be elected for the season 1906-7 and a schedule committee appointed to arrange for the coming season's games. It is expected that the league will start playing early in December. The club members of the league are Park Club, Newark Bay, Elizabeth Club, Roselle Casino, Crawford Casino and Westfield Club. The trophy rolled for is a handsome silver loving cup, offered by the Elizabeth Journal, which must be won three times to become the permanent property of any one club. There are also team and individual prizes. Westfield won the trophy last year, and Roselle the first year.

Toronto Wants "Willie" Deegan.

An enthusiastic and large crowd of fans witnessed a fine game of ball at Elizabethport yesterday afternoon between the Stars and Hobokens. The Stars won by a score of 1 to 0. It was a pitcher's battle between "Willie" Deegan for Hoboken and "Flick" Luyster, for the Stars. Luyster and Ross, his catcher, won the game. The pitcher made a safe hit in the seventh inning, stole second and came home on a single by Ross. A representative of the Toronto, Eastern League Club, was at the game and he made "Willie" Deegan a flattering offer to join that team. The Scotch Plains twirler has the offer under consideration.

Cross Country Practice.

Good practice work was done by some of the cross-country runners of the Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon, in a practice jog preparatory to the big run Election Day morning. Three of the runners, Odell, Miller and Douglass, covered the whole course, five miles, in forty-four minutes. That is good going for new men.

Robert Whittaker, the well known local circus man, accompanied by Fred S. Whittaker, sailed from New York, yesterday, for Jacksonville, Fla., where he will put on a big circus carnival for the city. He took with him one of the most expensive aggregations that has ever gone so far South for this purpose, representing a weekly salary of $4,000. It includes Mme. Rossi, the equestrienne, who was at the Hippodrome last winter; Mons. Vinella and his trained stallions, featured all this summer with Ringling's circus; Ella Zuila, the Berlin high wire artist who was with Barnum & Bailey, and many others.

The company will exhibit at Jacksonville for ten days and then go to Tampa and other cities. In addition to giving his act with his horse, "Dahl," "Bob" Whittaker will be equestrian director and Fred Whittaker will be his assistant.

It has been mounted by Mr. Brady regardless of expense and for the cast he has secured such well known artists as Frederick Perry, Joseph E. Wilson, John Flood, Mark MacVivkars, Geo. Fawcett, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Steadman, Geoffrey C. Stein, Lillian Kemble, Diva Marolda and Harriett O. Dellenbaugh.

SEEKING THE DEAD.

55 Bodies Are Found—List May Reach 70.

Atlantic City, Oct., 29.—A count of the bodies in the temporary morgue in the Marine building, the undertaking establishments and the hospital shows that at least fifty-five persons are dead as the result of the wreck when the electric train plunged from the tracks on the drawbridge over the Thoroughfare near here yesterday afternoon. Divers were still searching for more bodies through the day and they said they expected that some would be found pinned under the wreckage that had not been thoroughly examined. The dead in two of the cars have been accounted for. The rear car, which was only partly submerged, was dragged out on the beach early this morning and the first car was raised shortly before noon.

Executors Have Not Yet Formed Plans for Discharging It.

It has been learned on good authority that the home will most likely be established in the old Webster home on Watchung avenue. The executors will arrange to carry out the dead woman's wishes regarding it without delay.

NOTE STIRS POLITICIANS IN WARREN COUNTY.

Suit Against ex-County Clerk Firth Regarded as Result of Political Deal.

Belvidere, Oct. 29.—Politicians of Warren county are much exercised over the furthcoming suit instituted by Mrs. Charles E. Harris, of this place, against Rowland Firth, former county clerk of Warren county, for the amount of a note which, it is said, was given to her husband during his lifetime.

The note in dispute reads as follows:

"On the day after my nomination for county clerk, in the year 1900, for value received, I hereby promise and agree to pay to Charles Harris the sum of $500.

"ROWLAND FIRTH.

"Dated, Phillipsburg, N. J., Oct. 18, 1900."

Some person see some connection between the idea conveyed by the note and Harris' withdrawal from the contest for the clerkship in 1900. Friends of Firth, however, say that Harris, five years prior to 1900, when he ran for clerk, paid $500 to Firth, in consideration of his keeping out of the fight, and that the $500 note given by Firth to Harris was nothing more than an offset to the account.

The sheriff has served the necessary papers on Firth, and the case will be called at the December term of Warren county court.

Mrs. Harris as administratrix of her husbands estate, has employed as counsel John H. Dahlke, of Belvidere.

CHILD QUIZZES GOVERNOR.

Asks Him About Babies He Hasn't Got and Offers to be Kind.

Trenton, Oct. 29.—A sweet-faced little child was playing about the steps of the Mechanics' National Bank Saturday when Gov. Stokes, who is the president of the institution, came along. The Governor noticed her and stopped to ask her name. She said she was Catherine Johnson, daughter of Frank Johnson, of South Warren street. The Governor followed this up with a question as to her age. She said she was 8 years old. After answering him, the child began to interrogate the Governor:

"What's your name?"

"Mr. Stokes," was the reply.

"Do I know your little girls?" was the next question.

"No, I don't think you do," answered Gov. Stokes, with a smile. "I have none."

"No babies. Never had any?" came from the child, with surprise.

"Never had any," answered his Excellency.

"Babies are so cute," said Catharine as the Governor moved toward the bank doors.

"You are not much more than a baby yourself," replied Gov. Stokes, backing into the bank, while the child told him she was old enough to take care of a baby, and if ever he had any at his house she would come around daily and play with them.

Gov. Stokes is a bachelor.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Abram L. Cadmus Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

DANCE VIRGINIA REEL

Sixty Friends Surprise Aged Couple, Bringing Gifts—Married in 1856 by Rev. Lewis Bond.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Lenox Cadmus, of 114 Plainfield avenue, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, yesterday, were given a delightful surprise at their home last night by a company of sixty relatives and friends. A pleasant reminder of the olden times was the dancing of the Virginia reel, which was led by Mr. and Mrs. Cadmus, while their pastor, Rev. C. E. Herring, presided at the piano.

The bride received many presents, including a solid gold watch and chain from the groom. There were also gifts of goldware and a silk bag containing fifty new pennies. During the evening there were several violin selections by Martin A. Korff, accompanied on the piano by Rev. Mr. Herring, and at a late hour supper was served.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cadmus are natives of Plainfield, Mr. Cadmus being born on the Cadmus Estate, which was in the family since 1748 and which was purchased over a year ago by a syndicate. The couple was married on October 30, 1856, at the home of the bride's father, Edmund Shotwell, in Plainfield. Mrs. Cadmus was Miss Martha Shotwell. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Lewis Bond, one of the first pastors of the First Presbyterian church, where the couple have been members and regular attendants ever since. Some of Mr. Bond's grandchildren were present last night, and Joel Randolph, of East Front street, was the only one at the celebration who was at the wedding ceremony fifty years ago. Rev. and Mrs. George E. Karner, of Brooklyn, the latter being the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cadmus, attended, and Mr. Karner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Karner, of West Front street, who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary January 1, last.

A feature of last night's celebration was a wedding cake, bearing the dates, "1856-1906," and many Hallowe'en mementoes were displayed on the table.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Cadmus will be entertained in Brooklyn at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, and tomorrow they will go to Trenton and be entertained at the Windsor Hotel by Rev. Dr. Studdiford, the well-known Presbyterian minister of that city. It was at the Windsor Hotel that Mr. and Mrs. Cadmus spent a portion of their honeymoon, driving from Plainfield to Trenton with a horse and buggy after their marriage. From Trenton the couple will go to Atlantic City to remain a week or so.

PICTURES IDEAL CLUB.

Mrs. B. J. Shreve's Subject at Monday Afternoon Club.

Reports of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, held last week at Asbury Park, at the meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club, yesterday, at the Casino, by the delegates, Miss Susan Hubbell, Mrs. James W. DeGraff and Mrs. James R. Joy.

A lively discussion followed the presentation of a paper on "The Ideal Club," by Mrs. Benjamin J. Shreve. Some points suggested by Mrs. Shreve were a good constitution, allowing of growth and development, freedom of discussion, the consideration of up-to-date subjects, teaching its members to think, teaching them to speak and giving them a high and broad outlook on life and its work. Tea was served at the conclusion of the discussion.

Stolen Wheel Recovered.

Through a mention of the theft made in yesterday's Daily Press, Miss Mary Radford, of Grant avenue, today had a bicycle returned to her that was stolen from the Plainfield High School, Friday morning. The report of the theft was read by Harry Allen, janitor of the Public Library, who had noticed a wheel standing against the building since Saturday. He looked at the name plate and found that it corresponded with the one given in The Press while the description fitted otherwise. He took the machine to the school today and it was at once identified by the owner. The police are looking for the person who appropriated it.

STAR COURSE OPENS WELL AT THE Y. M. C. A.

POLK MILLER AND OLD SOUTH QUARTETTE PLEASES AUDIENCE.

The Y. M. C. A. Star Course for 1906-07 made a pleasing start last night. Pleasing to the audience because the entertainment was delightful, and pleasing to the management and entertainers because the audience was of good size and cordial.

Polk Miller, who, with his Old South Quartette, presented a programme illustrative of the lighter nature of the ante-bellum plantation darky, was received with much applause. His stories were delightfully humorous, and his songs and banjo picking were no less entertaining. His quartette, led by Anderson Hopes, his old playmate on the Virginia plantation where both were born, sang old-time shout songs and latter-day ballads of sentiment with equal skill as entertainers.

Mr. Miller made the interesting announcement that this might be his last season. It was hard, he said, to get the old-time negro with the ability to reproduce the songs of the early days, and the young niggros could not do it.

After the entertainment, several Southerners in the audience met Mr. Miller at an informal levee at the front of the platform. A Virginia woman greeted him with especial warmth.

BOROUGH SCHOOL BOARD HAS MONTHLY MEETING

ORDINARY MATTERS OCCUPY THE GREATER PART OF THE SESSION.

The Borough Board of Education held its regular monthly meeting, last night, but disposed of nothing particularly beyond ordinary business. The Somerset school received a good share of the evening's attention, and a number of improvements were ordered for the betterment of the pupils' comfort.

Complaint has been made of the heat in the building, the same being decidedly poor in several of the rooms while in others it is provided in too voluminous quantities when it is least needed. The buildings and grounds committee was instructed to make a studied investigation and adopt the necessary measures to remedy the trouble. The same committee was invested with power to decide what sort of material should be placed on the playground of the Somerset school. A short time ago it was thought cracked stone would serve the purpose best and a resolution was passed to this effect, but since then there has been a change of sentiment. The cracked stone decision was reconsidered and something else will be used.

It was reported that the borough's share of State school money, amounting to $3,278.36, had been received, and Superintendent Krebs asked the Board to confirm the following school calendar: September 11, school opens; November 6, Election holiday; November 29-30, Thanksgiving holiday; December 21 to January 7, Christmas vacation; February 12, Lincoln's birthday; February 22, Washington's birthday; March 29 to April 5, Easter vacation; May 30, Memorial Day; June 21, Commencement. This gives 180 actual school days for the year, a gain of two over last year. Mr. Krebs also announced that there are now 1,038 pupils on the active roll of the borough schools and that for pupils attending from North Plainfield township the following rates of tuition her quarter have been fixed by the finance committee: Primary pupils, $10; grammar, $15; High School, $40.

It was announced by the teachers' committee that Miss Mabel Bogardus, who has been teaching the "special" class in the Somerset school, has resigned in order to take a new position at Jersey City, and that Miss Anna Holcomb had been secured to take her place. Miss Holcomb formerly taught in the building but retired a year or more ago to spend some time in rest and travel. The buildings and grounds committee was empowered to engage an assistant janitor for the Somerset building at not more than $35 per month and also to purchase a flag for the same school. It will be placed on the main cupola for the present while some decision is reached as to where a pole to carry it should be placed permanently.

16 YR. OLD GIRL ELOPES

While Parents are Off Their Guard Miss Jeter Flees Away With Lover.

WEDDED IN NEW YORK

Mrs. Crow Refuses to Return to Parental Home and Shows Marriage Certificate—Living in Cranford.

Disregarding the pleadings of her parents, sixteen-year-old Helen Aurelia Jeter Crow clings to her husband, William Crow, with whom she eloped from Faith chapel Sunday morning. The mother, Mrs. Charles L. Jeter, of Belmont avenue, is heartbroken over the affair. Despairing of her ability to have the marriage annulled, Mrs. Jeter has turned her thoughts to vengeance on the young man, and she announced this morning without attempting to conceal her bitterness, that she would take steps to make Crow rue his action within twenty-four hours.

The elopement is a story of an employee's love for his employer's daughter and the implacable opposition of the parents. Crow, who is twenty-four years old, entered the employ of Mr. Jeter, of the Willswood Farms Dairy, Belmont avenue, nine months ago, as a driver. He and the sixteen-year-old daughter promptly fell in love. Three months ago Mr. Jeter discovered that Crow was paying attention to his daughter, and the oung man was discharged. He was forbidden to see or hold communication with the girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeter though that ended the affair, but the young man and his sweetheart, using resourcefulness with which lovers are endowed, managed to meet secretly and plan the elopement. Sunday morning, Mr. Jeter drove his daughter to Faith chapel, where he was to play at the children's service. Her mother was to meet her after the service. She was not at the chapel when Mrs. Jeter arrived, and the latter learned that Helen had waited only until her father drove away to leave the place. Mrs. Jeter started search for her with at once. When Helen failed to come home in time for dinner, Mr. and Mrs. eJter started search for her with feverish energy. No trace of her was found that day, but yesterday morning the parents located her in Cranford. They knew that Crow worked there, and lost no time, after daylight dawned, in carrying the search to that place. Crow and Helen were found in furnished rooms. They were armed against separation by a marriage certificate dated the day before. The marriage took place in New York Sunday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Fulpin, Mrs. Jeter said this morning, performed the ceremony. She did not know the church to which he was attached.

Mrs. Jeter spoke to The Daily Press reporter of the elopement with her eyes brimming.

"I am afraid we cannot have the marriage made void," she said. "My daughter went of her own free will, and she will not leave him. When we asked her, she said she would think over it, but I am afraid—I am afraid. We will do something besides entering the legal maze that lies about attempts at annulment. My objections to that man's attentions to my daughter were not based on her youth. There were other reasons. I cannot say now what they were and are, but they will be made public in due time."

Mrs. Jeter's bitterness extends to a neighbor. She charges the latter with harboring Crow, and giving countenance to his clandestine meetings with Helen. "They were our enemies," she said, "and helped that man just to bring disgrace on us and break up our home."

Crow came here from Somerville. He is the son of Manning Crow, a police officer of that town.

JEALOUSY THE MOTIVE

Prosecutor Declares That Reason For Slaying of Raritan Italian.

THE TRIAL CONTINUES

Florindo Illario, the Girl on Trial for Her Life, an Attractive Young Woman.

Florindo Illario was placed on trial yesterday for the murder last June 4 of Alexander Dipaolo, a hotel man and contractor of Raritan, before Justice Garretson and Judge Schenck in the Somerset Court at Somerville. The accused woman entered the court room in custody of Sheriff Cooper. She turned a look of sympathy on Dipaolo's widow and four small children, who were seated near the front of the court room.

The prisoner, an attractive young woman, was neatly attired in a brown tailor made suit set off with embroidery, which she had made during her imprisonment in the county jail.

Prosecutor John F. Reger, assisted by Nelson Y. Dungan and E. P. Johnson, appeared for the State, and the accused was defended by former Congressman Alvah A. Clark and Clifford P. Case. The jury was empanelled after both sides had made several challenges.

In opening for the State Prosecutor Reger recited the story of the crime. He told the jury of the elopement of the prisoner and Dipaolo and of their subsequent return to this place, where they lived apart until the day of the murder, when Dipaolo went to the woman's boarding-house and found her alone.

He said Dipaolo was found on the rear portico of the boarding-house and the accused confessed she had killed him.

The most damaging evidence was by three girls, Francesco Alicio, Jessafino Dipaolo and Leonara Sariano, who were friends of the accused. When she had returned from her clandestine trip to Washington with Dipaolo, these friends met her at the house of Filimino Conde. They asked why she had gone with a married man and she replied that he had promised her that he would get a divorce from his wife and marry her.

"But," she continued, "I do not want any one to mix up in this matter. He has done this thing to me and I will kill him. I do not want any one to interfere."

The defense endeavored to show that the word used by the defendant in this conversation meant "ruin" and not "kill," but the witnesses held to their statement.

A number of witnesses testified to seeing Dipaolo and the accused woman together a number of times on the street and other places for several weeks previous to the shooting, and Miss Jessamine Burd, a clerk in the Somerville postoffice, described an agitated conversation between the two in the postoffice the day previous to the killing.

Dipaolo entered the postoffice first and was followed by the woman. They remained there about twenty minutes in earnest conversation.

Prosecutor John F. Reger asserted in his opening that the motive of the killing was jealousy of Dipaolo's wife, which engendered hatred. The testimony of the witnesses, showing the relations of Dipaolo and the prisoner, evidently was to bring out this phase of the case.

Several testified to hearing the shots, and Policeman Robert Henderson told how he found the dying man on the porch of the Warwick house, on Mechanic street. He went after the defendant, and when he took her into custody she told him that she had shot the man and gave the policeman the revolver with which she shot him. She carried it in the bosom of her waist.

THIEVES FIRE A BARN

Men Stealing Chickens Supposed to Be Responsible For Building's Destruction.

ONE HORSE BURNED

Loss $2,000, With Partial Insurance—Vail & Co. and Robert Appleton Are the Losers.

A large barn on the former Pete Field property on Plainfield avenue just over the city line, caught fire early this morning, presumably from matches dropped by chicken thieves, and was entirely destroyed. It was rented by Vail & Co., the grocery firm which has a store at Fourth street and Park avenue, and one of their horses was so badly burned it had to be shot. They also lost a carriage and a surrey, sets of harness and a large quantity of hay, straw and other material. The structure was worth about $1,000 and was owned by Robert Appleton, of New York, who had practically no insurance on it. Vail & Co.'s loss will reach a similar figure with a partial insurance.

The house on the property is occupied by Edward Vail and his mother and they were entirely in ignorance that the barn was on fire until Capt. Townley, of the city department, roused them from their slumbers. When the flames broke out the reflection cast a glare over the city and it was seen by Patrolman Dan McDonald, who turned in an alarm from box 84 at Grant avenue and Fourth street at 12:30 o'clock. The firemen responded and from that point proceeded to the scene of the blaze, not learning that it was over the line until directly to it.

When they arrived on the premises, the structure was beyond saving and the efforts of the men were devoted to getting out some of the contents. Two delivery wagons, standing near a door, were saved, and some farming utensils, but nothing else of any consequence. No water was thrown on the flames as the nearest hydrant was too far away to be of any service. The department remained on the scene, however, and did everything possible to lessen the danger from sparks, the house standing but a short distance away.

While Chief Doane and Edward Vail were looking over the premises, the found three bags filled with chickens. From this it was concluded that thieves had been working about the place and in seeking the hens had dropped a lighted match, starting a fire that got beyond them. It must also have been their intention to take away a horse, as another of Vail & Co.'s animals was found wandering in a nearby field with a bridle on. No one could be found who had seen it brought out and it confirms the opinion that thieves were at the bottom of the trouble.

Among the smaller losses from the fire were a lot of chickens and prize pigeons belonging to Edward Vail. The latter were in a nearby cote and were smothered by smoke before they could escape.

ICE-CUTTING CASE.

S. W. Lambert's Action Against D. R. Dunn In District Court.

The contract case of Simeon W. Lambert against David R. Dunn, of Alton, for $300, on contract, claimed in the cuse of ice-cutting tools and salt hay for the storage of the crop, took up practically all the session of the District Court this morning, and was still on when Judge Newcorn adjourned the court at 1:45 o'clock for lunch. The action was before a jury.

The defence was well in its case when adjournment was taken, and it is expected the case will go to the jury soon after the court recovenes at 2:30 o'clock. W. L. Hetfield, Sr., is the plaintiff's lawyer and S. S. Swackhamer is the defendant's counsel.

Herbert Shipman, assistant rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York city. Mr. Shipman was for many years chaplain of the U. S. Arm at West Point.

HAROLD HANSEN INJURED IN AUTO-WAGON COLLISON

THROWN FROM HIS SEAT WHEN MACHINE RAMS HIS RIG.

An automobile belonging to the Morris Brothers garage, in charge of John Thornton, and a delivery wagon owned and driven by Harold Hansen, the painter, collided at Seventh street and Plainfield avenue at noon, yesterday. Hansen was hurled from his seat and was quite badly hurt while the wagon was put out of commission. The horse tore loose from the harness and ran away but was captured later before it had harmed itself.

Hansen struck on his head and though retaining consciousness, was badly dazed. He was taken to his home on West Front street by Walter Apgar and Dr. Endicott was summoned. The physician found him suffering from a severe blow in the chest, causing him to raise blood, a badly sprained arm and several cuts about the face. He was in a weak and nervous state today but it is thought no serious consequences will follow.

Hansen was going east on Seventh street and Thornton north on Plainfield avenue when the accident occurred. Each man claims the other to be responsible for the collision and that is as near as it can be explained. The brake rod of the auto was broken and one side was somewhat banged up.

SEVERELY INJURED BY FALL FROM A TROLLEY

SOME MYSTERY ABOUT ACCIDENT IN WHICH TWO WERE HURT.

James Conway, of East Second street, and Stephen Fitzgerald, of Somerset place, fell off a main westbound trolley between Terrill road and Scotch Plains, shortly after 11 o'clock, last night, receiving severe injuries. Dr. A. Pettis, who was sent to the scene of the accident on a special trolley, gave the injured men temporary treatment and had them removed to the hospital. Conway was suffering from a dislocated ankle, a scalp wound and cuts about the elbow. Fitzgerald was cut about the right and left knee and also received a scalp wound. Their condition is not considered serious.

The two men boarded the car at Forest road, two women also getting on the trolley at that point. The men remained on the rear platform and it was while Conductor Cornell was inside collecting fares from Scotch Plains passengers that the men fell off or were thrown off. They were missed by the conductor when he returned to the platform.

The car was stopped and run back some distance to where Conway and Fitzgerald were found lying in the roadway alongside the tracks. Word of the accident was telephoned to the trolley officers on Watchung avenue and Inspector Harry Milligan, who was on duty, summoned a special car, notified Dr. Pittis and made a trip to the scene of the accident.

Fitzgerald is employed in New York as a telegraph operator, while Conway is a butcher. As near as can be learned the two men had been to Scotch Plains and were returning to their homes in this city.

Charles Battell Loomis and Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith will be among the other entertainers.

Alfred M. Foote's Funeral.

The funeral of Alfred M. Foote, who died at his home on Plainfield avenue, Sunday, was held at the residence this morning. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends, many of the latter being newspapermen from the staff of the Jersey City Journal, where Mr. Foote was employed for a long time Interment was made in Cypress Hills ceemtery, New York.

Workmen and Jags.

"I think a man who works for a living has more excuse for getting his skin full than a professional," said Judge Runyon in the city court this morning, as he suspended sentence on James Cassidy, a tinner who was arrested last night for accumulating an immense load. He said it was the first time he had been arrested. "I was awful surprised when I woke up to find myself in there," he said earnestly.

EVANGELIST IMPRESSIVE

Rev. Dr. Wharton Moves Congregation at the First Baptist Church.

PASTORS TAKE PART

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck and Rev. A. C. McCrea Offer Prayers—Dr. Wharton Preaches.

The evangelistic services inaugurated at the First Baptist church Sunday night by Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton under such favorable circumstances, were continued last night, when the edifice was well filled with worshippers in spite of the fact that there were a number of counter attractions which had a tendency to keep many away. There was the same interest and hearty spirit in the service as was evidenced on Sunday, indicating that the people are heart and soul for a religious awakening.

The first fifteen minutes were devoted to a song service by the large chorus choir, under the direction of Charles L. Lewis, and all entered heartily into the singing of the new hymns. There were also two fervent prayers by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church. Mr. Lewis sang a solo, "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown?" the choir and congregation joining in the chorus.

Dr. Wharton, who has already won the hearts of those who have heard him by his pleasant and impressive way of telling the story of the Gospel, read some appropriate passages of Scripture, commenting upon them, after which he gave an informal talk, holding the close attention of everyone throughout.

"I have taken for our consideration tonight a most remarkable text," said Dr. Wharton, "which will be found in the eighteenth and nineteenth verses of the fourth chapter of St. Luke: 'The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised,' and 'to preach the acceptable year of the Lord.'

"I have wished many times that we knew the sermon Christ preached on that occasion to his old home folks," continued Dr. Wharton, "but for reasons best known to Himself he did not give it to us. The first important thing we learn about this text is that we see Christ trying to save His own home folks. He saw the old men and women, the young men and women and the children of His friends all about him and He longed to for their salvation.

"Am I doing what I can to save my home people, is a question that should come to us tonight. I wonder if we are doing what we can to bring our boys and girls to Christ? This must have been an interesting and entertaining sermon for we are told that all eyes were fixed on Him. How seldom we preachers are able to hold such attention. Even if we have something unusual to give them it is hard for them to concentrate their minds on the preacher. I remember an incident when a man told a friend that if when he prayed he would think of nothing but his prayer he would give him a saddle horse. Afterward he was asked if he had thought of nothing else when he prayed, and he replied that he was sorry, but that he had thought how he might get a saddle for the horse.

"That must have been a cutting sermon that Christ preached, for we are told that some of those present wanted to kill Him. Human nature loves faithfulness on the part of everyone and no matter how it may hurt, we want our friends to tell us the truth. The secret of the power

Election is only one week from today but neither one of the local parties have started in with any campaign work. The election for local offices would prove very tame were it not for the State and county nominations, as the local nominations have been divided between the two parties, so that there is hardly a contest on with the exception of the election of an assessor. Charles H. French, the present incumbent, being pitted against George H. Johnston, the Republican nominee.

An important meeting of the baseball club will be held tonight in the parlors of the Central Hotel. The thieves forced their way into the Grantwood firehouse and the robbery was not discovered for several days afterward. The thieves got twelve silver jewels, one twenty-four inch gage, five or six silver and bronze squares and compasses, one trowel, a dozen lambs in aprons and broke the heads off the staves. Thus far they have not been located.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Canthrarides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

OIL PAINTINGS

for This Greatest of Our Picture Sales.

This is a time for jubilation. A time for joyous congratulation amongst those who love beautiful pictures. We have gathered what we think is the largest collection of Oil Paintings ever brought to Newark at one time for a sale which is bound to eclipse any that have gone before.

Paris & other art centers have been drawn on for the material for this event. Budding, ambitious young artists striving for a reputation, eager for representation in the salon—hoping some day to be paid extravagant prices for their work, have produced the paintings we are going to offer you this week.

The names attacht to these pictures add little or nothing to their value. Unlike the works of those who have achieved distinction in the art world, these pictures stand solely on their merits. Our connoisseur gathered them in lots of two, three & four in the studios of French artists, picking them only because they were good pictures.

Nothing was paid for the name of the artist.

Every dollar went for art.

Thus, for once, at least, you will be able to buy meritorious paintings at half the price you are usually askt for pictures so large & fine.

But there's more to the story. This sale, at the prices we quote, would not be possible had we not bought a big lot of fine gold-burnisht frames at much less than usual cost—frames in shadow boxes that give these charming pictures an appropriate environment. By purchasing the paintings direct from the artists themselves & by getting these frames already made & framing the pictures ourselves, we have brought the prices down to surprising figures.

The sale offers a fine opportunity to those seeking wedding gifts & comes at a time when wise folks will look ahead to Christmas & have some of these laid away for gifts.

There will be five groups of paintings offered, beginning Tuesday morning—classified according to size & character of subjects.

Collection No. 1 includes a large variety of subjects, among them charming landscapes & beautiful marines in both upright & oblong shapes; tastefully mounted; rich & heavy gilt frames in shadow boxes; size of canvas 12x18; values $35 to $50; to be sold at the remarkable price of $20

Collection No. 2 embraces a wide variety of subjects, including scenes in Switzerland, Italy & Holland, as well as Arabs of the plains, framed in various designs in rich, heavy gilt frames in shadow boxes; sizes of canvas 12x18 & 16x20; actual value of paintings $50; priced for this event at $25

Collection No. 3—a fine assortment of interesting figure studies—fishermen at the seashore; children at play in the field; flocks of sheep; harvest scenes; fields of daisies—all of them framed to harmonize with the subject; rich, heavy gilt mouldings in shadow boxes; size of canvas 16x20; real selling price $60; choice of any of the lot at $30

Collection No. 4 embraces a generous assortment of figure studies—interior groups representing the Italian, German & French school of painting; some pictures of simple peasants; others of richly gowned nobility—fine enough for any collection; size of canvas 16x20; real value $75; in this sale at only $35

Collection No. 5—finest of all the groups, embracing magnificent landscapes, summer & autumn scenes, beautiful marines—pictures that would be an ornament to the finest home; exquisitely executed; the work of artists whose names & fame in the years to come may make them worth thousands; size of canvas 20x30 in heavy 7-inch gilt frames with shadow boxes; actual value $125; priced for this event at only $50

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

The North Plainfield High School eleven will meet the Rahway High School team on the Westervelt avenue grounds tomorrow afternoon, and a lively game is expected.

The Alis football eleven, despite the fact that it was strengthened for its first game on Saturday with the Orange Field Club, showed that it is hardly as strong as its opponent. Several out-of-town players were seen in the lineup, while the O. F. C. had nothing but local players on its side. The game was lively from start to finish and afforded fine sport for the spectators. There were many brilliant plays throughout and the new rules proved a benefit.

The Orange Field Club squad will go out tonight for hard practice in preparation for approaching games. Captain McVoy is determined to keep his men up to the top notch of proficiency and thereby win games.

On Saturday the Orange Field Club will play the Crescent Field Club, of Elizabeth, at the latter place. The county seat team is rated as one of the best and will probably keep the Plainfield men busy.

Election Day morning Alis will meet the Orange Field Club in the second game of the season on Crescent Oval. Alis hopes to turn the tables at that time and score a victory.

The Orange Field Club's management has scheduled a game with Cranford to be played on Crescent Oval on Saturday, November 10.

Comment after the Princeton-Cornell football game last Saturday by those who saw it was almost universally to the effect that the new rules had improved the game immensely as a spectacle. Nearly everybody was delighted with the variety of the play, the sudden changes in the complexion of the game, the dashes and flights and stirring happenings in the open and the increased opportunites for seeing the movements of the ball. So far as this one contest was concerned the new rules made a hit in New York, and thanks are due to Princeton and Cornell for so managing their game as to bring out the good points of the new rules, which calls attention to the fact that when dull games are played under the new rules the same is due largely to the fact that the teams involved are to blame for clinging to that sort of a game. The new rules mean more interesting football if the contenders will fall in with the spirit of them. A team that goes on the field convinced that it cannot make ground under the ten yard rule is much less likely to do so than one that is resolved to keep abreast with the times, feels that it can gain ground and sets about to construct its plan of campaign with that end in view. In the Princeton-Cornell game there was ground gaining by straight rushing when such tactics were the best course to pursue and sufficient sustained ground gaining to cross the goal line. There was none of this everlasting smash, smash for fifty, sixty and seventy yards in short advances, but there were sustained advances of thirty yards—one of thirty-five by Cornell and one of thirty-two by Princeton—for touchdowns. It was shown that when teams are of anything like equal strength it is not impossible to make the necessary ten yards. It was shown that the thing can be done by a strong, self-reliant and versatile team, even with stiff opposition against it. Of course it is harder to gain the distance than formerly, and continuous advances will be less lengthy and less frequent than heretofore, but in the game at the Polo Grounds the length and frequency of the sustained gains were just in the proper proportion to fit in with the elements of skill, power, variety and uncertainty.

GOLF.

From now until Thanksgiving Day, when the active season will close, those who failed to win high honors for the Golf Committee cup, will have a tournament for the consolation and inconsolables' cups. This will afford much interest and pleasure for the defeated ones, giving them all another chance to win.

The active season will close at the Park Golf Club on Election Day with play for the President's and club cups, and several special events. The members are quite well satisfied with the success of the season, and although the attendance has not always been as large as hoped for, there has been an increasing interest in the events each week. The club's course is one of the sporty kind and members from the Plainfield Country Club frequently play there and enjoy the course.

Although Rev. L. R. Howard, one of the latest golf enthusiasts, got in the game late in the season, playing only a few weeks, he managed to score a point and a half for the Hydewood cup.

in Christ was not in his wealth or money, neither was it influence among the people. I doubt if Christ had little more influence than any preacher who goes out and preaches the gospel from a street corner.

"The secret of His power was in the fact that the Spirit of the Lord was upon Him. Mr. Moody was once told that he ought never to preach again because he had no talent, whereupon the great evangelist declared: 'Yes I have. I have one talent—I love God and the souls of men,' and Mr. Moody went on winning many precious souls to Christ. If you wish to work and rescue your friends Christ will give you the power. It is 'not by might or power, but by my Spirit saith the Lord.'

"Christ said 'I have come to preach the gospel to the poor.' The poor need, receive and spread the gospel. It is not often that you hear of the rich spreading the gospel, they generally take too much time spreading themselves. Two of the mightest preachers in Virginia, Dr. Broadhurst and Dr. Pointdexter, were poor men. While in college they planned to go out and preach the gospel, one taking Virginia and the other Kentucky. It was arranged that upon the completion of their tour they should divide equally between themselves whatever they received. It so happened that the only thing received was a pair of socks and each took one.

"Again Christ said, 'I have come to comfort those who mourn and to set the captive free.' We can't set people free, but we can tell them of Christ's and His love."

Dr. Wharton then related a pathetic incident of a brilliant young man who lived in Virginia, whose oratory was so great that he could hold the largest audience spell bound, but who was addicted to the drink habit and when filled with liquor acted like a demon. While on one of his escapades, riding a horse wildly through the streets of his town he narrowly escaped killing two children. The incident was related to him afterward and he was so depressed that he sought a vial of laudanum and tried to kill himself. He was rescued and decided then he would never touch liquor again. He went to Baltimore in search of employment, but failed and again took to drink. While in this state a kind-hearted Christian man met him on the street, counsel him, gave him some money and told him to go home to his friends. As he was leaving the stranger remarked: "Don't forget that Christ died for you."

The man sought a secluded spot, offered up a prayer to God and was converted. He then walked 150 miles to his home, broke the good news to his wife and he is now preaching the Gospel of Christ.

Following Dr. Wharton's talk and a short prayer, the meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market. The meetings will be continued at the church tonight. Today noon Dr. Wharton conducted a meeting at the Potter Press Works, addressing a large number of men.

District Court.

Six cases were disposed of at the morning session of the District Court this morning, before the long Lambert-Dunn action was called for trial. J. S. Darby was awarded $41.20, on contract, against G. H. Kenyon; Ira N. West and A. M. Griffen were awarded $25 and $21 respectively, on contract, against William G. Osgoodby; S. W. Rushmore secured an attachment for $25 against Sachs & Co.; the case of Joseph Dr. Maree against Donatti Giarino was settled; the action of the Highland Park Realty Company against M. A. Rose was discontinued.

THE FORUM.

Mr. Sminck Addresses Mr. Martine.

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 29, 1906.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Mr. Martine's letter has been noted. The gentleman was asked, "What was Mr. Martine doing during State and national crises when thousands of patriotic Democrats voted the Republican ticket—especially during the race-track regime? Did he then vote for a Republican for any office and for whom?" We did not ask Mr. Martine if he went to the races or gambled. It was entirely gratuitous for him to portray his private virtues and by a broad insinuation question the private record of the writer of this letter who has never gambled in any form, but his defence will go no further than that for the public are adverse to self-praise.

Mr. Martine says, "I am prompted from principle to vote my party ticket when I deem the candidates named by my party are politically morally or socially unfit. Has Mr. Martine ever carried that into practice and cut the Democratic nominees? What year? Were the names on a State or a local ticket? Who were they? Would it not be interesting to have Mr. Martine name them? Would former United States Senator James Smith enjoy the spectacle? Did Mr. Martine ever vote for a Republican for any office and for whom?

To quote Mr. Martine, "In the words of Senator LaFollette, I say, 'cut in again.'"

Mr. Martine shook hands with and congratulated Mr. LaFollette and therefore must be in favor of "cutting in two" the value of all railroad bonds and securities and to have the national government confiscate $7,000,000,000.00 worth of property held in trust for widows and orphans, life insurance societies, savings banks besides those held in good faith abroad. A serious threat of that character of legislation would make everybody a seller and cause a fearful panic. Does Mr. Martine want a panic? Is he the fore-runner of soup-houses? Is this what his friendship for the people means?

Mr. Martine's lack of poise prompts this question—Would he be guided by reason or passion and which would control him when handling the people's business. Like Senator La Follette he answers a question regarding political views by a burst of self-praise. Would his position in Congress be as illogical?

Yours truly,

CHARLES S. SMINCK.

Hallowe'en Police Warning.

Chief Kiely issued a warning this morning to the small boys who intend to celebate Hallowe'en tomorrow. He will increase the police farce by a number of specials, and every act of disorder will, as soon as detected, be followed by arrest. Fines are to be the order in the city court the morning after, this year. Harmless low jinks will be winked at, but the high variety will be suppressed.

Smokestack Fell.

A large iron smokestack being raised at the Netherwood water station this morning, slipped the guy ropes and fell. It struck a fire alarm wire as it went down and caused the gong to blow. The stack was uninjured and was afterward raised successfully.

FIREMEN IN SESSION AT ATLANTIC CITY

STATE NUTRAL BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION OPENED ITS SESSION TODAY.

Atlantic City, Oct. 30.—The New Jersey State Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association opened its tenth annual convention here yesterday.

The convention, which is being held in Turner hall, on New York avenue, was called to order at 11 a. m. It is expected the session will be an important once, as numerous matters of live interest to firemen are to come up. After adjournment boating and automobile riding will be in order, the Atlantic City association having laid its plan with the object of insuring for every delegate a thoroughly good time. Special arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the wives of the visitors and all other women guests.

In the evening there will be a banquet in honor of the visiting firemen, their wives and friends. Many invited guests from various parts of the State are to be present, including men prominent as fire fighters years ago.

The members of the New Jersey State Firemen's Mutual Benevolent Association are known as the blue shirts, as the active voting membership is made up entirely of men in the ranks. No officer, unless promoted from the ranks, is eligible to membership. If promoted thus, he may be a member, but he cannot vote. The State organization is made up of associations from municipalities where paid fire departments exist, as follows: Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken, Camden, Trenton, Plainfield, Atlantic City, Elizabeth, Orange, East Orange, West Orange and Montclair.

Board Appoints Challengers.

The Union County Board of Registry and Election met at Elizabeth yesterday and appointed the challengers for the various election districts throughout the county. Two challengers are appointed for each election district, Plainfield having twelve. The board will be in session on Thursday from 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon and all names of challengers not in by that time will fail of appointment for the approaching election.

—A rehearsal of the mock trial to be held by Y. M. C. A. boys in December will be held Friday night.

—The Charity Organized Aid Association will meet next week to consider the question of consolidating with the Plainfield Relief Association, as proposed by the latter body last week. There is scarcely any doubt but that the union will be effected and new officers will be elected.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will have initiation at the meeting Thursday night.

SOMERSET REPUBLICANS FEELING CONFIDENT.

Leaders Expect Majorities in Most Sections of County—Steele Thought Dangerous.

The Somerset County Republican committee has re-elected Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen as chairman, and it is well organized for the campaign. At a meeting held on Saturday afternoon the reports from the various districts showed a pretty certain Republican majority, according to the views of most of the leaders. The only danger they have to fear, it is said, is a general indifference among Republicans all over the county as to the result. The organization is endeavoring to overcome this. A meeting of the Somerville Republican Club was held Saturday evening, and addresses were made by Clarence E. Case, and others. The candidates for Assembly, William W. Smalley, spoke.

On Thursday evening a big mass-meeting will be held in Somerset Hall, when there will be addresses by Governor E. C. Stokes and Congressman Ira W. Wood.

The Democratic candidate, William V. Steele, is regarded as a strong candidate. He will make an excellent run if he receives the support of his party workers. The county committee has as yet no effective organization. William J. Keys, who has been the chairman, was defeated for committeeman at the recent primaries, and a new leader is to be chosen. Up ti the present time the situation in the county is favorable to the election of a Republican Assemblyman.

HOW HUGHEY LAMB FELL BEFORE CITY TEMPTATIONS.

Witness Who Boozed and Was Chucked Out of Court, Then Pinched.

Hughey Lamb came down from Alton this morning to testify on Dave Dunn's side in the case Sim Lambert brought against him in the District Court for money Sim says Dave owes for the hire of ice-cutting tools and salt hay last winter. Hughey visited all the taverns and renewed old acquaintances with overbalancing results. But Hughey held fast to his duty by Dave and he was in court when the case opened, and responded loyally to his name.

Counsellor Swackhamer, Dave's lawyer, asked Hughey two questions and then he guessed he wouldn't bother with him any more. Hughey couldn't understand the briefness of his service for Dave, and he wondered, out loud, until the court ordered him suppressed. Hughey kept quiet for a time, but a question aroused him and he cried his protests.

When Sergeant at Arms Hand fell on Hughey and the noise of his descent down the stairs leading to the street broke up the court. The Sergeant at Arms telephoned for a policeman and Patrolman Charles Flynn tried to shoo Hughey back to Alton. Hughey pleaded pathetically for a nickel. "Will you beat it or do you want to go with me?" sternly asked the bluecoat.

"'Ca' beat it 'zout nickel," said Hughey with a lovely smile. "'Sides, do' wan' leave, cons'ble."

The cons'ble took him along.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The big scenic melodrama, "The Confessions of a Wife," will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. It is presented by one of the strongest companies ever traveling under the A. H. Woods' banner.

On Wednesday evening at the New Plainfield theatre the D. W. Robertson famous Moving Picture Company will give another of their matchless moving picture entertainments. All the very latest subjects will be presented. One of the many great features will be "The Great Automobile Race for the Vanderbilt Cup." Other pictures of great interest will be "The Futurity Race," "The Snap Shot Fiend," "The Man with the Ladder and the Hose," "The Wig Chase," and many others. All the latest illustrated songs will be presented with special entertainment by Will Davis, James J. Haack and others. One of the interesting features in this programme will be the description of all the moving pictures while in motion by Mr. Robertson, who will personally conduct the programme. This will be Mr. Robertson's tenth visit to Plainfield, and from present indications and the demand for seats, there will be another over-flowing house to greet him and the return of D. W. Robertson's famous Moving Picture Co. to Plainfield.

A play that will be seen in Plainfield next Saturday afternoon and night and one that has caused a sensation in other cities, is "Custer's Last Fight," a historical melodrama from the pen of Hal Reid. Written around one of the most romantic battles in the history of the United States, and embodying in its story the heroes of our Indian wars, it must assuredly prove interesting and instructive to all classes. The management has provided a grand production and an excellent company including a band of full-blooded Indians. The leading part is a strong character, the famous war scout "Buffalo Bill."

"Clear the stage." Not a particle of your house stuff is needed. We carry two car loads of scenery, which includes everything." This is the order given by the advance agent of "When Knighthood Was in Flower" with Anna Day as "Mary Tudor," which will be given in all its original splendor at the New Plainfield theatre on Election Day afternoon and night. This certainly portends good. When a play with five acts of elaborate stage settings can afford to issue the above, the scenic part is surely O. K., and the production under the direction of Ernest Shipman is a guarantee that everything else will be in proportion.

The New Plainfield theatre will have for its attraction on Saturday afternoon and night, November 10, one of the most successful musical plays that has been presented in New York in many years, for on that occasion Alfred E. Aarons will bring his production of "His Honor, the Mayor," to the local playhouse from its all summer run at the New York theatre and Wallack's in New York where it enjoyed a season of success unprecented in the theatrical history of the metropolis. In many respects the production will be given more elaborately than when seen in New York as several new features are to be added, while all the principals who have done so much to assure its success will be retained.

A few days ago it was reported in our columns that Rudolf Rissland, of the New York Symphony Orchestra, was being prevailed upon to devote a day here each week to the teaching of violin and theory of music. The idea was evolved by Charles Suhr, of the local theatre orchestra, and Mr. Rissland has accepted. Apply to Mr. Suhr for particulars.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE CASTE," etc

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

"You have forced me, Mr. Blacklock," said she, and then I knew for just what purpose that voice of hers was best adapted—"to say to you what I should have preferred to write. Mr. Ellersly has had brought to his ears matters in connection with your private life that make it imperative that you discontinue your calls here."

"My private life, ma'am?" I repeated. "I was not aware that I had a private life."

"Anita, leave us alone with Mr. Blacklock," commanded her mother.

The girl hesitated, bent her head, and with a cowed look went slowly toward the door. There she paused, and, with what seemed a great effort, lifted her head and gazed at me. How I ever came rightly to interpret her look I don't know, but I said: "Miss Ellerisly, I've the right to insist that you stay." I saw she was going to obey me, and before Mrs. Ellersly could repeat her order I said: "Now, madam, if any one accuses me of having done anything that would cause you to exclude a man from your house, I am ready for the liar and his lie."

As I spoke I was searching the weak, bad old face of her husband for an explanation. Their pretense of outraged morality I rejected at once—it was absurd. Neither up town nor down, nor anywhere else, had I done anything that any one could regard as a breach of the code of a man of the world. Then, reasoned I, they must have found some one else to help them out of their financial troubles—some one who, perhaps, has made this insult to me the price, or part of the price, of his generosity. Who? Who hates me? In instant answer, up before my mind flashed a picture of Tom Langdon and Sam Ellersly arm in arm entering Lewis' office. Tom Langdon wishes to marry her; and her parents wish it, too; he is the man she was confessing to me about—these were my swift conclusions.

"We do not care to discuss the matter, sir," Mrs. Ellersly was replying, her tone indicating that it was not fit to discuss. And this was the woman I had hardly been able to treat civilly, so nauseating were her fawnings and flatterings!

"So!" I said, ignoring her and opening my batteries full upon the old man. "You are taking orders from Mowbray Langdon. Why?"

As I spoke, I was conscious that there had been some change in Anita. I looked at her. With startled eyes and lips apart, she was advancing toward me.

"Anita, leave the room!" cried Mrs. Ellersly harshly, panic under the command in her tones.

I felt rather than saw my advantage, and pressed it.

"You see what they are doing, Miss Ellersly," said I.

She passed her hand over her eyes, let her face appear again. In it there was an energy of repulsion that ought to have seemed exaggerated to me then, knowing really nothing of the true situation. "I understand now!" said she. "Oh—it is—loathsome!" And her eyes blazed upon her mother.

"Loathsome," I echoed, dashing at my opportunity. "If you are not merely a chattel and a decoy, if there is any womanhood, any self-respect in you, you will keep faith with me."

"Anita!" cried Mrs. Ellersly. "Go to your room!"

I had, once or twice before, heard a tone as repulsive—a female dive-keeper hectoring her wretchd white slaves. I looked at Anita. I expected to see her erect, defiant. Instead, she was again wearing that cowed look.

"Don't judge me too harshly," she said pleadingly to me. "I know what is right and decent—God planted that too deep in me for them to be able to uproot it. But—oh, they have broken my will! They have broken my will! They have made me a coward, a thing!" And she hid her face in her hands and sobbed.

Mrs. Ellersly was about to speak. I could not offer better proof of my own strength of will than the fact that I, with a look and a gesture, put her down. Then I said to the girl:

"You must choose now! Woman or thing—which shall it be? If it is woman, then you have me behind you and in front of you and around you if it is thing—God have mercy on you! Your self-respect, your pride are gone—for ever. You will be like the carpet under his feet to the man whose creature you become."

She came and stood by me, with her back to them.

"If you will take me with you now," she said, "I will go. If I delay, I am lost. I shall not have the courage. And I am sick, sick to death of this life here, of this hideous wait for the highest bidder."

Her voice gained strength and her manner courage as she spoke; at the end she was meeting her mother's gaze without flinching. My eyes had followed hers, and my look was taking in both her mother and her father. I had long since measured them, yet I could scarcely credit the confirmation of my judgment. Had life been smooth and comfortable for that odd couple, as it was for most of their acquaintances and friends, they would have lived and died regarding themselves, and regarded, as well-bred, kindly people, of the finest instincts and tastes. But calamity was putting to the test the system on which they had molded their apparently elegant, graceful lives. The storm had ripped off the attractive covering; the framework, the reality of that system, was revealed, naked and frightful.

"Anita, go to your room!" almost screamed the old woman, her fury tearing away the last shreds of her cloak of manners.

"Your daughter is of age, madam," said I. "She will go where she pleases. And I warn you that you are deceived by the Langdons. I am not powerless, and"—here I let her have a full look into my red-hot furnaces of wrath—"I stop at nothing in pursuing those who oppose me—at nothing!"

Anita, staring at her mother's awful face, was shrinking and trembling as if before the wicked, pale-yellow eyes and quivering, outstretched tentacles of a devil-fish. Clinging to my arm, she let me guide her to the door. Her mother recovered speech. "Anita!" she cried. "What are you doing? Are you mad?"

"I think I must be out of my mind," said Anita. "But, if you try to keep me here, I shall tell him all—all."

Her voice suggested that she was about to go into hysterics. I gently urged her forward. There was some sort of woman's wrap in the hall. I put it around her. Before she—or I—realized it, she was in my waiting electric.

"Up town," I said to my man.

She tried to get out.

"Oh, what have I done! What am I doing!" she cried, her courage oozing away. "Let me out—please!"

"You are going with me," said I, entering and closing the door. I saw the door of the Ellersly mansion opening, saw old Ellersly, bareheaded and distracted, scuttling down the steps.

"Go ahead—fast!" I called to my man.

And the electric was rushing up the avenue, with the bell ringing for crossings incessantly. She huddled away from me into the corner of the seat, sobbing hysterically. I knew that to touch her would be fatal—or to speak. So I waited.

COLORED G. O. P. RALLY

Dryden, Fowler and Other Party Chieftains Lauded By Colored Speakers.

A BANQUET FOLLOWS

Everything Moved Smoothly—Local Leaders Much Pleased—Colored Men Had a Fine Time.

With an impressive array of speakers, the colored voters held their big mass meeting of the campaign at Reform Hall, last night. The audience filled the floor of the auditorium, and applauded Republican sentiments and candidates ardently. Also it manifested unbounded delight at every jab at the Southern Democracy, which was denounced vigorously as the arch enemy of the colored race. Women were much in evidence, and swelled the applause.

The distinguished politicians on the platform were former Congressman George H. White, of North Carolina; former Register of the Treasury Judson W. Lyons, of Washington; Jesse Lawson, of the Pension Department; Eugene Gregory, of the Chancery Court clerk's office, Trenton; A. C. Hewlett, Cranford; F. R. Moore, of New York, editor of the Colored-American Magazine; and C. B. H. Hawkins, of Elizabeth. Also, there was a brass band—an Elizabeth contribution. William T. Vernon, register of the treasury, was to have been present, but he sent a telegram of regret from Canada.

C. W. Jackson was chairman of the meeting. The speakers were Jesse Lawson, who is a Plainfield resident at election time; J. W. Lyons, Eugene Gregory, G. H. White and C. B. H. Hawkins. Mr. Lawson began the speechmaking with a eulogistic roll of the distinguished visitors. The glad hand was not so readily thrust out to the colored race, nowadays, as it was in the years immediately following the Civil War, he said, and J. W. Lyons was now the only member of the race on the Republican National Committee.

The speaker said the party represented the State in Trenton and at Washington as it had not been represented before. In the Senate at Washington, the dignity of the State was strikingly upheld, Senator Kean often presiding over the deliberations of the body and Senator Dryden, being consulted very often as to business methods by his colleagues. Among the several chairmanships conferred on Jersey Congressmen, that of Charles N. Fowler, on the Banking and Currency Committee, was pre-eminent.

The Legislature was the best on record in New Jersey. The speaker urged his hearers to return Randolph Perkins, leader in all the good works, to his post, and to send the other candidates to keep him company. He believed that by that time next Tuesday they would have done it.

Mr. Lyons made an appeal to the loyalty of his people. The enemies of their party and their race were active throughout the country, he said, and he urged them to stand together to defeat the foe. Colored disfranchisement was a Democratic scheme, he said.

New Jersey had good Senators at Washington, he continued. Senator Dryden was the first man in the Upper House, he said, to give him an unequivocal pledge of support in his fight against a Jim Crow car amendment to a railroad bill. The speaker said he had known C. N. Fowler for several years. His defeat would be a distinct loss to the nation.

The speaker begged the voters to keep their tickets straight. If they sent a Democratic Congressman to Washington he would be compelled to respond to the lash of the Southern Democracy, and support measures against the negro.

Mr. Gregory warned the colored voters to remember that this was not an off year. It was never an off year, he said, when there was the remotest chance of Democratic success. The Democrats, controlled by the arch enemies of the negro in the South, was the party of anti-colored legislation. All Democrats would come under the pernicious influence if they were sent to Washington. The only way t okeep good Northern Democrats good was to keep their home.

Congressman Fowler did not leave his post of duty, Mr. Gregory declared. The business of Congress was done mainly in committee rooms and not on the floor of Congress, and in his committee room, arduously at work, Mr. Fowler would doubtless have been found by visitors to the Capitol during the session.

Mr. White was the humorist of the orators. The Northern Democracy was only the tail of the dog. The snapping, snarling, vicious portion of the animal was in the South. "Kill it dead," he said, "kill it and bury it face downward, so that if it should revive and start to scratch its way

SENATOR KEAN IS DOUBTFUL OF ESSEX

"IF WE GET THE VOTERS TO THE POLLS WE'LL SCORE USUAL VICTORY."

United States Senator Kean declared yesterday that the Republicans will have a sweeping victory in New Jersey next Tuesday. He was among the group of State leaders who met at Trenton yesterday at the last "Governor's Day" before the battle of the polls.

When asked for his opinion concerning Republican prospects, he said he was confident that the party would carry the State as usual, and that the only danger was in the "off year" apathy of the rank and file.

"If we can get the voters to the polls, we will score our usual victory. We are certain to win, anyway, in a general way, but it would be better if we could get out the full vote and have an old-time victory," he said.

Senator Kean said he thought the Republicans were sure to win in all the Republican counties, with the possible exception of Essex, where the result would be close. It was his opinion that possibly Newark would go Democratic and the county Republican. He was confident that the Republicans would have a safe majority in the Legislature and that United States Senator John Dryden would be his own successor.

MUTUAL AID ELECTS.

Beneficial Society at Potter Press Works Holds Annual Meeting.

At the annual meeting of the Potter Press Works' Mutual Aid Society held a few days ago, reports were read by the secretary and treasurer, showing the society to be in a prosperous condition, numerically and financially. These officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, George Dufford; vice president, William St. John; secretary, F. L. Burke; treasurer, T. C. Smith. Finance committee, Joseph Brown, Frank Whitley, Harry Shirley; auditing committee, Albert E. Matthews, Thomas Force.

After the election of officers a social time was had. Songs were given by Thomas Roddy, Signor Taglero, John Bishop, George Zeisz and others. The newly-elected officers will be installed at the first meeting in January, 1907, when a banquet and vaudeville will be enjoyed by the members.

LODGE SUPPER.

Knights of Golden Eagle Enjoy Results of German Cuisine.

One of the pleasantly informal suppers for which Freedom Castle, K. G. E., is noted in local lodgedom, was enjoyed by the members last night, after the meeting, in the lodge banquet room in the Babcock building. The menu was German, sauerkraut, sausage and coffee, with long-stemmed pipes to follow with soothing effect on overtaxed digestive apparatus.

Songs and stories, and music by members of the lodge orchestra, M. A. Korff, Dr. J. H. Buchanan and De Witt C. Frazee, were features of the social hour. The committee was made up of Albert Vail, Arthur Colleen, John Gaub, L. A. Hummer, Jr., and John Bicknell. W. E. Day was toastmaster.

CHAMBER CONCERTS.

First of McIntyre Annual Musicales at Casino November 16.

Within a day or so the regular announcements will be made of the McIntyre chamber music concerts to be given at the Casino this winter. Four concerts will constitute the series, the first coming on Friday, November 16, and the other three on the following Friday evenings, Dec. 7, Jan. 11, Feb. 8. Mr. McIntyre's excellent trio will be assisted at each concert by vocal artists of the highest merit.

The first concert will be the young French tenor, Paul Dufault, who needs no introduction to the musically well informed. The list of patronesses to these concerts is long and includes everybody prominent in social and musical circles in Plainfield.

COLBYITES REBUKE HIM

Ex-Governor Voorhees Remarks Meet With "New Idea" Men's Protest.

FORMAL ACTION TAKEN

Address to the Voters of Plainfield Issued—Signed by Colbyite Ward Chairmen.

Still smarting from the remarks made by former Governor Voorhees at the mass meeting in this city on October 23, the Central Committee of the local Colbyites met in the Babcock building, last night, and discussed the matter for three hours. The entire ground was thoroughly threshed over and it resulted in a resolution being passed, authorizing the issuance of the following statement:

To the Voters of the City of Plainfield:

At the mass meeting held on Tuesday evening, the 23d instant, ostensibly in support of the Republican as opposed to the Democratic ticket, the speakers made use of the opportunity to indulge in slurring remarks concerning the movement represented in the recent primary campaign by the Union County Republican League for Equal Taxation. One of the speakers was particularly offensive, making some deliberate misrepresentations of the principles advocated by the League, and some statements which were absolutely false.

As representatives of the Plainfield Branches of the League and in justice to the large body of citizens who supported us at the polls, we feel it our duty to express publicly our sentiment of the course followed by these speakers. We deem their conduct a gratuitous affront to those voters of Plainfield who supported our ticket, the more so as we had, since the primary election, in fulfillment of our pledges made during the primary campaign and as a token of the sincerity of those pledges co-operated in every way with the Republican City Executive Committee in the present campaign, certain of our supporters even having consented to act as vice presidents of last Tuesday's meeting and a number of them having occupied seats upon the platform.

We realize that under such circumstances the course adopted by the speakers at the meeting referred to was not calculated to increase party harmony or to attract voters to the support of the kepublican ticket from the ranks of those so unwisely and severely criticized. We have no apology to make for the principles which we supported during the primary campaign. On the contrary we reaffirm our adherence to those principles and our determination to renew at the proper time the struggle which we feel sure will be ultimately crowned with success. We are not unwilling to endure such criticism and attacks as are naturally incident to an active campaign. Our resentment is directed against attacks made after the close of a campaign with the party, when all members are expected to unite as against the opposing party, and we particularly deprecate the remarks which were directed against Senator Everett Colby and by inference against Judge William N. Runyon. For the results of all such attacks and the feelings thereby engendered we desire to make it evident that the responsibility does not rest upon us.

Dated, Plainfield, N. J., October 30, 1906.

Plainfield Branches of the Union County Republican League for Equal Taxation.

Stephen H. Tugwell, Chairman, 1st Ward Branch; Howard C. Tracy, Chairman, 2d Ward Branch; F. E. Kinsman, Chairman, 3d Ward Branch; Angus Allen, Chairman, 4th Ward Branch.

But little else of consequence was taken up during the meeting. A legislative committee of four, comprised of one member from each ward, was appointed to watch the proceedings of the city council and also the State Legislature. The New Idea men believe that the people of the various municipalities should know fully all that their representatives do and the best way to secure the information is by "keeping tabs." There was a full representation of the committee present.

Thrown From Breaking-Cart.

Mrs. Edward Wilcox, of Somerville, was slightly injured on West Front street, late yesterday afternoon, through the wheels of her breaking-cart catching in the car switch opposite Pruden's alley. She was pitched headlong to the street and was picked up partially dazed by Patrolman Charles Flynn. The officer had her assisted to Randolph's drug store, where she received temporary treatment. She was afterward taken home by her niece, who was with her.

THIS WESTFIELD WIFE ASKS FOR ALIMONY

SUED BY AUGUST C. BLUME FOR DIVORCE.

Vice-Chancellor Stevens at Newark yesterday heard argument on an application for almony and counsel fee made in behalf of Mrs. Mary L. Blume, of Westfield, whose husband, August C. Blume, is suing for a divorce. Craig A. Marsh, of this city, counsel, in association with Paul Q. Oliver, for the husband, opposed the application.

Mr. Marsh urged that in the event of alimony being allowed the sum be not based upon the hope that the petitioner, who is a racetrack man, might succeed in his "future gambling operations," but upon his lawful pay of $50 a month.

A Westfield policeman is named as corespondent, and the name of a married sister of the defendant is also mentioned in the papers. Jeremiah Kiernan, of Elizabeth, counsel for Mrs. Blume, in refutation of the allegations concerning Mrs. Blume's sister, read from an affidavit that the latter was living with her husband. Mr. Marsh thereupon produced a petition for divorce and accompanying affidavit, both of which papers Mr. Oliver informed the court he had prepared at the request of the woman's husband.

LAMBERT GOT LITTLE.

Jury Awarded Him $4.95 In Suit Against D. R. Dunn.

The suit of S. W. Lambert against D. R. Dunn, of Alton, for $180 alleged to be due on the hire and use of ice-cutting tools and supplies, was given to the jury in the District Court yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock After a half-hour's deliberation the jury returned a verdict of $4.95.

The defense claimed the supplies and tools were not up to the mark, and contended that only about $5.50 was due. A tender of that sum was made in court before the trial, and the court attaches wondered at the reduction even on that by the jury.

Lawyers criticized the verdict as contrary to the weight of evidence and the judge's charge. S. S. Swackhamer represented the defence. W. L. Hetfield, Sr., appeared for the plaintiff.

District Court.

Two cases were tried and one discontinued in the District Court yesterday afternoon, after the Lambert-Dunn case was disposed of. Decision was reserved in both the cases of Leonard Bartlett against Abram Wolf and the Dunham Grocery Co. against Paul Nachtwey. Barttell sued for damages alleged to be due for the loss of trousers cleaned by defendant and delivered to the wrong man. The Dunham Company's action was a retrial, to which J. Henry Crane, counsel for the defendant, consented several weeks ago after winning his case.

Trinity Benevolence.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church on Thursday of next week wil pack a box for a missionary in Iowa and also a barrel to be sent to the Schofield School, Aiken, S. C., and one to McKee, Kentucky, for the Mountain Whites. Contributions of clothing and household goods are solicited from members of the church and congregation and may be left at the church next Monday afternoon or Wednesday night.

Bridge Work Closes Streets.

Because of reconstruction work being conducted by the New Jersey Central on the bridges over Berckman street and Leland avenue, those thoroughfares have been closed to wagon traffic between North and South avenues. The false work needed to hold the structures while the repairing is accomplished completely blocks the roadways.

One Fined; One Freed.

Ira Bowers, arrested yesterday afternoon for hitting a man on Second street while drunk, was fined $3 by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. Hugh Lamb, who was thrown out of the District Court for drunkenness yesterday morning, was released under suspended sentence.

Campaigning With Fowler.

C. J. Fisk was with Charles N. Fowler in Morristown last night. The candidate spoke to a large audience. Mr. Fowler will be in Rahway and Westfield tonight. Mr. Perkins will speak at the same places in reverse order to Mr. Fowler's appearances.

Edward Mattox Arrested.

Edward Mattox, 18 years old, was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Stillwell, charged with disorderly conduct. He will be arraigned before Judge Runyon tomorrow morning.

Will Teach You How to Vote.

One of the voting machines is now at the city clerk's office on North avenue, where anyone can become familiar with the system of voting up to election day.

RECOVERED STOLEN RIG

Quick Detective Work By Chief Kiely For Passaic Cops.

LOCATED $1,308 TEAM

But Crooks Were Sharp and Slip Through Net Carefully Spread For Their Apprehension.

Discovering the trail within twelve hours after the police of Passaic had asked him to help in the search for a team and truck stolen from that city, Chief of Police Kiely located the rig in Fanwood Sunday. He made the case public this morning after he had become convinced that a trap set for the thieves was not likely to work.

The team, which is valued at $1,300, was stolen by a young man, who hired with the owner for the purpose of getting a chance at it. He disappeared Saturday afternoon and the Passaic police traced him as far as Newark. They lost the trail there and telephoned Chief Kiely for help in picking it up. The next morning the Chief learned that the team was in the barn of Steirer's Hotel, just over the line in Fanwood. He made certain the rig was there and then posted shadows about the place. The young man had prospective buyers look over the horses Sunday morning but he faded from view after that and he hasn't been seen since. The place has been carefully covered by sleuths, but nothing of the young man or his pals has been seen. It is presumed the crooks watched the police before the police started watching them, and blew away in due season to slip the coil drawing about them. Chief Kiely thinks they are.

Michael Curtin, the owner of the team, was notified this morning by Chief Kiely and he hurried here to claim his team. He reached headquarters shortly after noon. The rig was turned over to him without delay.

7TH-DAY BAPTISTS HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Held Under the Auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society Last Night.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, a Hallowe'en social was held last night. The church parlors were appropriately decorated with autumn leaves, while the tables were garnished with harvest products.

Two special features were a comb chorus and a topsy-turvy chorus. Those in the former were Irving Davis, Clark Green, Miss Mary Ross, Charles Neagle, Mrs. C. H. Dunham, Miss Mildred Green, Miss Evalois St. John and Miss Mary A. St. John. They were hidden behind a curtain and gave several selections.

Those in the topsy-turvy were the Misses Helen Rogers, Ethal Rogers, Helen Ford, Maudella Ford, Grace Stillman, Evalois St. John and Frances Mosher, and they sang coon songs. Afterwards the young people took part in playing various games, including "Three Dishes of Fate." This comprised bobbing for apples, diving for fortunes in water and alcohol and stabbing the pumpkin blind-folded.

A part of the affair was the maze. As the young people arrived at the church they were met by persons dressed as ghosts who led them through dark and devious paths, made ghastly by unearthly sounds and curious lights, into the large room, where the festivities were held. Later in the evening refreshments were served. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Mary A. St. John, chairman; Mrs. Charles H. Dunham, Orra S. Rogers, Miss Eva Rogers, Clark Green and Miss Etta Randolph.

Defacing Letter Boxes.

Postmaster E. H. Bird's attention has been called to the fact that mischievous boys about the city and borough have been defacing the printed signs on the letter boxes denoting the time collections are made from each box. The law provides a penalty of $1,000 and three years in State Prison for anyone found guilty of destroying or defacing such boxes. Postmaster Bird is investigating the matter.

Entertainment and Sale at Church.

Grace church offers at the parish house next Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings, a variety of good entertainments, a clever magician in the afternoons, a hot supper served from 6 to 8 o'clock. A play, well worth seeing, will be given each evening at 8 o'clock; also a sale of candy, useful and attractive articles.

Former Plainfielder Dead.

James Henderson, formerly of this city, died suddenly at the home of his brother in High Bridge, following an illness of a few days.

MR. COLBY EXPLAINS CAMPAIGN POSITION

REGLLRR, BUT DOES NOT FAVOR DRYDEN OR BISHOP'S LAW REPAL.

State Senator Everett Colby, of Essex county, made a statement yesterday defining his position in the campaign. Attempts, he said, had been made to represent him as supporting the regular nominees of the Republican party, placing him in the light of standing for the candidacy of United States Senator John F. Dryden and the Republican plank with regard to a repeal or modification of the Bishops' law. He said, in part:

"We made our fight in the primaries as Republicans, and for that reason, and no other, I am compelled by the rule of ordinary political honesty to remain in the Republican party and stand for and support a majority of the nominees on that ticket. That does not mean that I uphold the attitude of the Assembly nominees on the Bishops' law, nor does it mean that I am in favor of Mr. Dryden's re-election. If there is any interest as to how I stand, and the attempts to misrepresent me and my attitude seem to indicate that there is, the people might as well get it straight. I am going to vote for a majority of the Republican nominees, not because I believe in the repeal of the Bishops' law, because I don't; not because I believe Senator Dryden should be elected, because I don't, and not because I stand for Major Lentz, because I don't; but because we began the fight within the party as the most useful way to work and gave our friends to understand that if defeated, we would still remain in the party. We cannot now, after our defeat in the primaries, play double with any of our supporters, even though our attitude does not meet with the approval of some of our most loyal friends."

The Senator, when asked if he intended to vote for any of the nominees on the ticket of the Citizens' Independent party, said:

"I shall give credits to the Independent candidates as often as I scratch the regular Republican nominees."

SUSPICIOUS PAIR.

Alleged Canvassers Arrested and Held For Investigation.

On a technical charge of drunkenness, but under strong suspicion of being lightweight confidence men, two young men who gave their names as Thomas Bevier and John Brankes were locked up this morning at police headquarters. The attention of the police was called to the pair by George Kesselring, a barber, whose shop is on Park avenue.

Kesselring told Chief Kiely, a few minutes after the young men left his place, that they were canvassing for subscriptions to a new daily. He didn't life the way they went about it. Chief Kiely sent Higgins out after them, and then he sent for the promoter of the new paper. The promoter denied any connection with the men. Bevier, he said, applied at his office yesterday, but was drunk at the time and he refused to have any dealings with him.

The Chief decided the pair had better stay awhile and ordered them to cells. Both of them were under the influence of liquor.

Kesselring told the Chief a third man travelled with the pair and Higgins was sent out to look up No. 3. The prisoners had papers on them that indicated they were at one time canvassers for a supposed "Art-Photography" concern.

Another Colored Church.

Plainfield is to have another colored church, the congregation of "The Church of God and Saints of Christ," or, as they are commonly known, "The Feet Washers," having decided to build. Ground has already been broken for a structure on West Fourth street, midway between Liberty street and Plainfield avenue, where a suitable structure will be erected. It will be seventy feet long by twenty-five feet wide and will be of frame construction, one story in height. The congregation hopes to occupy it soon after January 1.

Donation to Rev. Mr. Bowers.

The annual donation party was tendered to Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville, last night, when the members of his church and congregation as well as the neighbors for miles around gathered. Mr. Bowers received a gift of $60 and many useful things for the house. Among those present were Sheriff Edward Cooper and Freeholders Coddington and Fitzga.

Injured Men Will Recover.

Stephen Fitzgerald, who fell off a trolley car coming from Scotch Plains, Monday night, is improving from his injuries, while his companion, John Conway, was reported today as not being quite so well. Neither one is in a serious condition and both will recover.

ASK FOR THEIR PRAYERS

Dr. Chambliss Announces that People Are Seeking Help from Evangelistic Meetings.

DR. WHARTON SPEAKS

Mrs. L. R. Howard and the Revivalist Render Solos—Chorus Choir at Work.

The deep workings of the Spirit were manifest at the revival held at the First Baptist church, last night, under the leadership of Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton, and there was a larger attendance than on the preceding night. The service of song led by the chorus choir under the direction of Charles L. Lewis, was a feature and the congregation sang the hymns with earnestness. An impressive feature was a solo by Mrs. L. R. Howard, who sang, "I Will Go Where You Want Me to Go, Dear Lord."

Rev. Dr. Chambliss, pastor of the church, through whose efforts Dr. Wharton came to Plainfield, took charge of the first part of the service. The two divines have known each other for many years and it was because Dr. Chambliss was aware of the work his fellow-minister was doing in different parts of the country, that he planned to have him labor here for a brief period. Both are natives of the South and have been engaged in the ministry for years with marked success.

Dr. Chambliss stated last night that several requests for prayer had been received and he asked all to earnestly remember the petitions. Rev. Dr. W. C. Parsons, of Grace M. E. church, offered praye before Dr. Wharton began to speak.

In selecting passages of Scripture to read from the ninth chapter of St. Luke, beginning at the forty-ninth verse, Dr. Wharton said, in referring to John's remonstrance that he had to St. John's remonstrance when he had seen someone casting out devils in Christ's name, that it reminded him of a time when people believed that they couldn't get religion except in the church of their own faith. If they should see Baptists holding a meeting, they would protest because they were not Methodists and vice versa.

"I don't like these kind of matches you have to strike on the box they are in," said Dr. Wharton, "because it is often difficult to find the box. I like the kind of matches you can strike anywhere and will make a big blaze. I had a foolish notion once that when I joined the church all temptations would disappear, when as a matter of fact they just began."

After Mrs. Howard sang a solo, Dr. Wharton spoke of the absence of children from the meeting and urged their attendance. He said that he noticed on Monday night that nearly everyone present was a Christian and he appointed each attendant a committee of one to bring an unconverted one to the meeting tonight.

The evangelist said:

"My text tonight will be the ninth chapter of St. Luke and the fifty-seventh verse: 'And it came to pass, that, as they went in the way, a certain man said unto Him, Lord, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.' I like the way that verse reads. It has the right ring to it. Christ was on His way to Jerusalem and was preceded by St. James and St. John His disciples, who proclaimed His coming. When they arrived at a village of the Samaritans, the disciples told Christ that not one would let Him stay in his house. Then St. John lost his temper and wanted to call down fire from Heaven to consume the people. Preachers sometimes lose their tempers. I remember one, Dr. Burroughs, who was so out of patience with his people while I was conducting services at his church that he gave them a terrible reprimand because they were not re-

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The management of the New Plainfield theatre has contracted with D. W. Robertson, the pioneer in moving picture art, to present tonight for the tenth time in Plainfield another of his wonderful moving picture entertainments. Moving pictures in colors will be a special feature of this programme. One of the most beautiful will be "The Fairy at the Well," conceded by all to be the most astonishing revelation ever presented. Among the other thrilling pictures will be the "100 to 1 Shot," "The Snap Shot Fiend," "The Great Automobile Race for the Vanderbilt Cup," "The Man with the Ladder and the Hose." These are a few of the new moving pictures that will be given on this occasion.

Manager Counihan announces as his attraction for next Saturday afternoon and night at the New Plainfield theatre the sensational hit of the season, "Custer's Last Fight." It is a four-act historical melodrama by Hal Reid, and written in the author's best vein. It deals with the strenuous life of the settler in the far West when a man's best friends were a sure fire rifle and a swift horse. The incidents leading up to the last desperate stand made by General Custer on the Little Big Horn, are all faithfully portrayed and a grand reproduction of the battle scene is a feature of the last act. "Buffalo Bill" is made the central figure and is surrounded by the largest and best company in the dramatic field this season. A band of full-blooded Indians, horses, dogs and wolves are among the equipments, and the play has a production which cannot be equalled. Manager Aubrey Mittenthal has provided everything which should make the play a success and it has outdone his expectation. "Standing Room Only" signs have been hung on every box office where "Custer's Last Fight" has appeared. There will be a grand street parade on Saturday, leaving the New Plainfield theatre at noon, headed by "Custer's Last Fight" company's own Indian brass band which will also give a concert before each performance in front of the theatre.

There is very little sentiment about theatrical productions these days. Success is measured by the box office receipts. The fact that "His Honor, the Mayor," at the New York theatre, New York, has broken all records at that house is the most eloquent expression possible of the popularity attained by Alfred E. Aarons' musical production. "His Honor, the Mayor," went to New York practically unknown and unsung. It immediately caught the fancy of playgoers by reason of its tuneful music, witty lines and excellent comedians, and today it stands as the most successful musical summer show the metropolis has known in many years. It will be seen in this city Saturday afternoon and night, November 10.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

There need by no mystery as to how James Conway and Stephen Fitzgerald were thrown from a Second street car near Terrill road late on Monday night. The Daily Press several weeks ago called attention to a bad turn in the track at this point, which was liable to cost the company money before long. The way the motormen run the early morning and late cars at night makes it impossible for anybody to keep their balance on the rear platform without holding fast to the railing.

Funeral services of Mrs. Abbie Van Fleet, who died at her home on Front street, Saturday morning, were held yesterday at 12 o'clock from the house. Only a short service was held at the house, another service being held at 2 o'clock at the Mount Bethel church. The old woman was a former resident of that place, removing here two months ago. Interment was made in the family plot in the cemetery adjoining the church.

This is the one night in the year when the younger element hold full sway here, the local police and public in general winking at the pranks of the small boy. No attempt is made to stop them unless it is a clear case of malicious mischief, so if you are not pretty good natured just take your gate off and stay in the house tonight.

The Board of Registry revised and corrected the registry list at the meeting held yesterday in the town rooms. The new names added makes the list near the 330 mark, which is one of the largest the township has ever had.

The Suburban and Plainfield bowling teams were the guests last night of the Saengerbund team, of North Plainfield. Prize bowling was indulged in and a social time enjoyed.

Charles Reick, who has been seriously ill in one of the Rochester, N. Y., Hospitals for several weeks, is recovering nicely and will soon be able to return home.

Woodcock are said to be quite plentiful this season, the local hunters having bagged quite a number since the season opened.

The contract case of Nelson-Conley in Justice Clark's court will be tried November 7 at 2 o'clock.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The blaze from the burning of the Vail barn Monday evening illuminated the whole village, and several thought their own houses were on fire. Vail's are unfortunate in the buring of their barns. They lived on the old Chamberlain property a few years ago and there they lost their barn. From there they moved to the house now occupied by Charles Randolph and their barn burned there, and now this is the third barn to burn, all on Plainfield avenue, within a short distance of each other and all three within a few years.

Alfred Foote, who died Sunday at Muhlenberg Hospital, lived here for the past thirty-five years. His brother, Dr. Foote, of Larchmont, died about five weeks ago, but he could not attend his funeral as it was just at this time he was stricken down and took to his bed. He was eighty years of age at the time of his death. He is survived by a widow. His funeral took place at his home on Plainfield avenue at 11 o'clock yesterday morning and his remains were laid away in Cypress Hills cemetery.

At the masked dance and Hallowe'en party to be given by the Young People's Social Club tonight, a prize will be given to the prettiest and the most comical characters on the floor.

Rev. A. C. T. Attlee will deliver a lecture on Nicholas Nickelby next Wednesday evening at the Baptist church. Come and bring your friends and enjoy a good treat.

Don't forget to bring 25 cents for the oyster supper after the masked dance in the barn at Monroe Pyatts' this evening. Come and have your fortune told.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Smith attended the funeral of Alfred M. Foote yesterday morning. His body was buried in Cypress Hills cemetery, New York.

The usual prayer meeting will be held this evening at 7 o'clock, topic, "Psalm 12." The pastor will lead.

Miss Manning has returned home after spending a week with friends in Newark.

Charlie Randolph is working on the Ackerman place.

Mrs. Conway is suffering from an attack of gastritis.

Rosenthal Recital in Newark.

The coming of the great Austrian pianist, Moriz Rosenthal, to the Krueger Auditorium, Newark, Tuesday evening, November 27, will be the musical event of the season. Music lovers will hail with delight the advent of this wonderful artist, thereby showing that Rosenthal has reached the top rung of the musical ladder. His absolute command of the instrument, and mastery of style and technique are reasons why audiences are astounded by his marvelous artistic achievements. His recitals in this country are limited, and those wishing to hear the greatest virtuoso of the present time should take advantage of his Newark recital. Mail orders are being received by Frederick N. Sommer, 794 Broad street, Newark. Regular sale of seats will open at Lauter Company's piano warerooms, 657 Broad street, Newark, on Thursday, November 22.

Busy Session of Common Council.

The November meeting of the Common Council will be held Monday night, when considerable business will be taken up. It is expected that the members will take up the question of increasing the salaries of the policemen and firemen at that time. The contract for the construction of the southside sanitary sewer will also be awarded and there will be a report from Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh about the irregular bid submitted by James Tusco, of Montclair.

Recruits Are Scarce.

Since opening a recruiting station in this city not a single person has made application to join Uncle Sam's service. This is accounted for by the fact that everyone is provided with employment and has no desire to enter the army or navy.

Miss Lowe to Give a Dinner.

Miss Lowe has issued invitations to a dinner to be given by her at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday. Covers will be laid for eighteen.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Clifton, who recently sold their home on West Eighth street to Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor, of Park avenue, will leave this month for Braidentown, Fla., where they will spend the winter.

...THER WONDER OF SCIENCE.

Biology has Proved that Dandruff is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics. Since Adam lived, the human race has been troubled with dandruff, for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality; causing itching scalp, falling hair, and finally baldness. Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly. It is the only destroyer of dandruff. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Play for consolation and inconsolables' cups will be the attraction at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday.

Details are all completed for the big Election Day tournament at the Middlebrook Country Club at Finderne, and a large field of contestants is expected to be out.

FOOTBALL.

The Orange Field Club, which has not lost a game this year, will meet the Crescent Field Club, of Elizabeth, at the latter place on Saturday. The local players are rapidly learning the new rules and are putting up a very fast game.

There being nothing selfish about the O. F. C. eleven, they will play a return game with Alis Election day morning on Crescent Oval, when they hope to administer a second defeat.

This afternoon The North Plainfield High School eleven will play Rahway High School on the Westervelt avenue grounds. A good game may be expected, as the borough lads are improving in their play.

John Lyness, formerly, of P. H. S., but now playing with the Orange Field Club, put up a strong game on Saturday against Alis, showing the wisdom of securing his services.

The Indians made their speed tell in handling punts. Instead of catching the ball standing still they went up to it on the dead run and thus got a flying start, which made them all the harder for the Quakers to catch. The beauty of it was that they were sure of making their catches and were guilty of no errors.

BOWLING.

The Central Journal Bowling League met at the Roselle Casino, Monday night, and reorganized for the season. It was decided to have one round of play beginning in December, that is each club will play every other club one game on its own alleys. There will be the usual individual and team prizes and the play for the trophy offered by the Elizabeth Journal. There will also be the same number of clubs in the league as last year.

Considerable time and expense have been expended in putting the Park Club bowling alleys in first-class condition. They are now considered to be the best to be found in this vicinity. On Saturday night there will be a match on the alleys between the Parks and a team from Princeton. Later Roselle Casino will roll a return game here.

The high score of 285 rolled by Barlow, of the Park Club, is the object of much envy by the other bowlers, and there is a constant effort to equal or better the score.

ROD AND GUN.

J. A. Staats, of the Hotel Kensington, and Fred Sandford, of East Front street, are planning a hunting trip through Hunterdon county.

Although rabbit shooting will not be legal until November 10 the New Jersey rustic is busy locating its haunts, and the game is plentiful. New Jersey, however, is no friend to the amateur sportsman, for he is known to have no respect for either persons or property. He will tear down more stone walls in his chase after a cottontail than the farmer can rebuild in a whole day. Trespass signs are plentiful and game constables are keeping a good watch for any violation of the law. Sunday shooting is prohibited.

DIAMOND DUST.

"Lou" Wiltse, of this city, well-known as a baseball pitcher, has been refused reinstatement by the National Commission for leaving Baltimore, two years ago. It decides that there are no extenuating circumstances. This is a ruling that seems manifestly unfair, inasmuch as other players have been reinstated after committing worse offences against the baseball rules. The commission has also decided that on complaint of the Newark Eastern League Club, major league clubs cannot play at Elizabeth.

(Other sporting news on page eight).

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

There will be reception of new members at the First M. E. church on Sunday morning, by the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea.

Preparatory services will be held at the Congregational church tonight, and communion services on Sunday morning with reception of members.

The New Jersey State Sunday-school convention will be held at Somerville on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 13 and 14, and there will be a large representation from this city.

Practically all of the mid-week prayer meetings in the various local churches will be given up this evening on account of the evangelistic services being held at the First Baptist church.

After the dedication of the parish house of St. Stephen's church, it will be open every night for various objects. The Netherwood Club will have the use of the house two nights a week, and other social features will be planned from time to time.

All persons who can sing are invited to join the chorus choir at the First Baptist church to assist in the evangelistic services being held there this week. Altos, tenors and basses are needed. Singers are requested to enter the church by the Grove street doors.

Celebrating Thirteenth Anniversary.

After the evangelistic services at the First Baptist church, last night, Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton, who is conducting the services, left for Philadelphia, where, today he and Mrs. Wharton are celebrating the thirteenth anniversary of their marriage. The event is being attended by many relatives and friends and several features add to the enjoyment of the celebration. Dr. Wharton will return to Plainfield in time to take charge of the revival services tonight.

Miss Florence Wilson, of Bound Brook, who has been spending several days with relatives here, has returned home.

UP TO THE CANDIDATES.

How many candidates for the Assembly in Union county, Democrats and Republicans, have answered the query of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor as to their position on the Bishops' bill? Voters should remember that there is no use of asking such pertinent questions after next Tuesday. Silence on the part of the candidate means he's a straddler and there is no reason why Union county should send any two-faced individual to Trenton.

WHAT A LANDSLIDE MEANS.

Even should they lose Essex, Hudson and Passaic counties, the Republicans will have a majority on joint ballot in the next Legislature. In such an event, however, John F. Dryden will not go back to the United States Senate, but some other Republican will. If the result on Tuesday is a landslide for the G. O. P., there will be no question about the certainty of Dryden's selection to hold on to the job.

Girl pickpockets have been discovered in New York. And they had no husbands' trousers to practise on either.

TO CONSIDER BIDS.

Street Committee to Act Tonight On Sewer Contract.

The street committee will meet tonight to consider the bids for the southside sanitary sewer and it is expected that Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, who submitted the lowest bid, will be present. Street Commissioner Gavett wrote to Mr. Morgan, at the request of the committee, asking him to come to Plainfield to look over the ground and ascertain whether he still would like to take the contract.

It he desides that he does not want the job, he will be permitted to withdraw his bid. In such event he will have to forfeit the $300 deposited. In case he withdraws his bid, the committee will undoubtedly give the contract to the Harrison Construction Company, of Newark, the next lowest bidder.

Auto Race Brought Here.

A feature of Robertson's famous moving pictures which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tonight will be a reproduction of the great automobile race for the Vanderbilt cup. All the starters in the great race will be shown. Scenes and incidents along the Jericho turnpike, around Krug's corner, the Hair Pin curve, and many other points of interest along the course which the moving picture camera caught. This will be only one of the many moving pictures that will be shown on this occasion. It will be Mr. Robertson's tenth visit to Plainfield and he intends to eclipse all his previous efforts. In addition to the moving pictures there will be beautiful songs, comedy and other attractions.

Preached at Installation.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, preached the sermon at the installation of Rev. Thomas D. Wesley, of Union Seminary, as pastor of the Pluckemin Presbyterian church, Tuesday afternoon. He succeeds Rev. Samuel Parry. Rev. Charles B. Condit, pastor of the Liberty Corner church, presided. Rev. E. E. Cobb, of Elizabeth, gave the charge to the people, and Rev. C. Kuebler, of the First Presbyterian church, of Hackensack, delivered the charge to the pastor.

SPOOKISH GAMES AT A HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

They Occasioned Much Fun for Members of Grace M. E. Epworth League.

The Epworth League of Grace M. E. church gave a Hallowe'en social in McLaughlin's barn on Somerset street, last night. It was attended by a large crowd which included many young people who wore appropriate costumes and lent a ghostly aspect to the scene by walking about in silence.

The first part of the evening was given to a "short story," written by Miss Mary Steiner, which contained the names of members of the League. As each name was called, an epitaph from an imaginary tombstone was read by Miss Adah VanHorne in a doleful strain, corresponding to the event. The effect was "spookish" but caused much amusement. After that Hallowe'en games were in order and among those played were cutting a pan of flour to find where a ring was hidden, the luck one to pick it out with his teeth; a pie eating contest, biting at a raisin suspended on a string and many others.

Miss Mary Hoagland appeared later as a witch, carrying a huge basket. To the wondering listeners she told a story of how she once had plenty of money and lived on Fifth avenue in splendid style, but happening to look in the mirror one day, found her face covered with warts. It made her feel so badly that she then and there became a witch. The story of her life occasioned much fun.

Toward midnight refreshments consisting of apples, pears, coffee, doughnuts and crullers were served by the social committee composed of the Misses Mary Hoagland, chairman; Grace Clark, Loucetta Clark, Nettie Bauersachs, Helen Parsons and Adah VanHorne; George Parsons, Russell Harden and Raymond E. Miller. A neat sum was realized for the League treasury.

sponsive, ... really felt sorry for the congregation.

"It is a certain man mentioned in our text that I want to talk about tonight; that one who said he would follow Christ wherever He wanted him to. It matters not when you believed in Christ, but the important question is do you believe in Him. My sister asked me once to come to her church in Virginia and assist in revival meetings, she being much concerned about her two sons. They were of entirely different dispositions. One was impetuous and quick tempered and the other mild and as amiable as a girl—that is some girls. I had not been there long when the one with the quick temper gave his heart to Christ, but his brother gave no signs of interest. At my sister's request I spoke to him one night, saying, 'Can you remember when you didn't believe in Christ?' Whereupon he replied, 'No, I cannot. I have always believed in Him and have always said my prayers.' I then told him to confess Christ, which he did and he instantly received a great blessing.

"The man in our text had the courage of his convictions. It didn't make any difference to him what others had to say, he declared that he would follow Christ. That man had a will and when we get control of our wills and give them to Christ the bargain is sealed at once."

In closing his discourse Dr. Wharton related two impressive incidents. The first one was about a young soldier in the Civil War, who was the only Christian in his company and because he prayed every night before retiring he was jeered and hooted at by his comrades. At the suggestion of the chaplain he said his prayers after going to bed, but this only called forth greater ridicule, believing that they had laughed him out of his religion. So he decided to pray as before. When comrades found he was in earnest, one by one he won them to Christ until the whole company was saved.

The closing incident related was about the visit of Dr. Wharton and his brother, who is also a minister, to the home of an infidel. After entering the man's house Dr. Wharton introduced himself and his brother and then after much difficulty told him that they had come to pray with him. The infidel did not object. After the prayer, they saw traces of tears on his face and he was deeply impressed. Within a few days he attended the revival meetings in the village, the first time he had been in a church for fifty-six years and publicly confessed Christ. Within a short time he died and he had been faithful to the end.

In closing the service Dr. Wharton sang as a solo a beautiful hymn and Dr. Chambliss pronounced the benediction. Services will be held tonight and every night this week, except Saturday, at 7:45 o'clock.

The speaker said he had sat in Congress with Mr. Fowler for four years. The New Jersey representative was a gentleman and a worker. Senator Dryden, he said, was the noblest Roman of them all, and the Assembly nominees were to be safeguarded to insure his return to office.

C. R. H. Hawkins was the last speaker. He spoke briefly. The meeting ended with three cheers for Charles J. Fisk, proposed and led by Jesse Lawson.

After adjournment, the speakers and distinguished guests were entertained at a supper in the Kensington Hotel dining room. Covers were laid for thirty. Jesse Lawson was toastmaster. One speaker expressed his private opinion about John F. Dryden. He was promptly called to order.

MT. KIPP SANITARIUM NEARING COMPLETION.

Will Be One of the Most Complete Institutions in the State.

Glen Gardner, Oct. 1.—The exterior of the State Tuberculosis Sanitarium, which is being constructed on Mt. Kipp, at this place, is nearing completion, and a number of workmen returned to their homes in Philadelphia today. The electricians, iron stair builders and steamfitters have about finished their work, and many have left. The plasterers are still working on the passageway which conects the four buildings, and will probably be here the greater part of the winter working on the inside of the buildings. The carpenters and painters are also busy putting in the window sash and doors and making every preparation for cold weather. As the steam heaters are all placed and ready for operation, it is the intention to continue the work on the interior during the winter and have the institution completed by early spring.

The contract for the construction of a water system has been awarded to Marcus S. Wright, of South River, for $13,919. The water supply will be taken from a large spring near the buildings, which will be pumped into a large standpipe or reservoir north of the buildings. The water is said to be the purest in the State and the spring never-failing. Other springs nearby will be used if found necessary.

The New York Sewage Disposal Company of New York City has secured the contract for the sewage disposal plant, and will commence work in a few days. The price paid is $6,740. As soon as the sewage plant is completed the grading of the grounds will be commenced. When completed the buildings will be among the most up-to-date and sanitary institutions in this State.

DROWNED IN MILL RACE.

Woman Known to the Police Has End to Her Troubles.

Lucy Grimshaw, a police court character, was found dead yesterday in the mill race at Paterson. Whether it is a case of murder, suicide or accidental death the police are unable to determine. The body had been in the water about twenty-four hours. County Physician McBride examined it and found no evidence of violence. Death was caused by drowning.

Lucy Grimshaw was released from the county jail a week ago, after serving a term of three months for drunkenness. One theory is that while on a spree the woman fell into the mill race. The body was discovered by a night watchman.

PATERSON'S MARDI GRAS.

Newsdealer's Daughter Chosen as Queen of the Festival.

Paterson will have a Mardi Gras festival tomorrow night under the auspices of the Paterson Martial Drum Corps and the Lincoln Club.

Wallace Close, a candidate on the Republican ticket for member of Assembly, has been chosen as king of the carnival, and Miss Margaret Stratton, daughter of Samuel Stratton, president of the National Newsdealers' Association, has been chosen queen of the carnival.

The king and queen will be crowned at League Hall tomorrow evening at eight o'clock and then will follow the parade.

Hemming In Renegade Utes.

Sturgis, S. D., Oct. 31.—Two Indians, believed to be scouts from the Ute band now said to be encamped on Powder River, in Wyoming, rode into Sturgis Sunday night and after asking about the distance to Fort Meade from the town, the time the main body of the Sixth cavalry left the fort and the number of men left there, disappeared. The small body of troopers at the fort were held in readiness for a call to action through the night and the people of the town slept armed, in the belief that a descent on the place for the confiscation of supplies was contemplated by the Utes. Considerable excitement still prevails here. Soldiers are now approaching the band of renegade Utes from five different points, and it is only a question of time until the redskins are ither forced to surrender or are annihilated by the cavalry that is drawing about them in a deadly circle.

Poisoned In His Cell.

New York, Oct. 31.—That Antonio Spinnelli, an Italian, who killed his brother-in-law and whose trial for murder was to have begun yesterday, who died under suspicious circumstances in the Tombs on Sunday after eating fruit which had been sent to him, supposedly from a friend, was deliberately murdered under the noses of the guards of his cell, is the statement of Hyacinthe Ringrose, a lawyer, of No. 43 Washington square south, who was counsel for the man. A bag of particularly fine pears was left for Spinnelli on Saturday. The fruit looked harmless. Yet no sooner had the Italian started to digest the fruit than he was thrown into convulsions, suffered so much that he was removed to the hospital, and in spite of the best medical attendance, died in agony on Sunday.

Paterson Woman Found Drowned.

Paterson, Oct. 31.—The body of a woman was found floating in the raceway yesterday at Mill and Van Houten streets. The discovery was made by the watchman in the Scott mill. The body was taken to McBrier's morgue, where it was found to be that of Mrs. Lucy Grimshaw, a police court character and the wife of George Grimshaw. County Physician McBride viewed the body and said that the woman had not been in the water twenty-four hours. As the raceway is enclosed in the city limits, the police are uncertain as to how she came to be in there. There were no marks of violence on the body and the police do not think there was foul play.

MOST UNGENTLEMANLY.

As we neared the upper end of the park, I told my chauffeur, through the tube, to enter and go slowly. Whenever a lamp flashed in at us, I had a glimpse of her progress toward composure—now she was drying her eyes with the bit of lace she called a handkerchief; now her bare arms were up and with graceful fingers she was arranging her hair; now she was straight and still, and soft, fluffy material with which her wrap was edged drawn close about her throat. I shifted to theopposite seat, for my nerves warned me that I could not long control myself, if I stayed on where her garments were touching me.

I looked away from her for the pleasure of looking at her again, of realizing that my overwrought senses were not cheating me. Yes, there she was, in all the luster of that magnetic beauty I can not think of even now without an upblazing of the fire which is to the heart what the sun is to a blind man dreaming of sight. There she was on my side of the chasm that had separated us—alone with me—mine—mine! And my heart dilated with pride. But a moment later came a sense of humility. Her beauty intoxicated me, but her youth, her fineness, so fragile for such rough hands as mine, awed and humbled me.

"I must be very gentle," said I to myself. "I have promised that she shall never regret. God help me to keep my promise! She is mine, but only to preserve and protect."

And that idea of responsibility in possession was new to me—was to have far-reaching consequences. Now that I think of it, I believe it changed the whole course of my life.

She was leaning forward, her elbow on the casement of the open window of the brougham, her cheek against her hand; the moonlight was glistening on her round, firm forearm and on her serious face. "How far, far away from—everything it seems here!" she said, her voice tuned to that soft, clear light, "and how beautiful it is!" Then, addressing the moon and the shadows of the trees rather than me: "I wish I could go on and on—and never return to the world."

"I wish we could," said I.

My tone was low, but she started, drew back into the brougham, became an outline in the deep shadow. In another mood that might have angered me. Just then it hurt me so deeply that to remember it to-day is to feel a faint ache in the scar of the long-healed wound. My face was not hidden as was hers; so, perhaps, she saw. At any rate, her voice tried to be friendly as she said: "Well—I have crossed the Rubicon. And I don't regret. It was silly of me to cry. I thought I had been through so much that I was beyond such weakness. But you will find me calm from now on and reasonable."

"Not too reasonable, please," said I, with an attempt at her lightness. "A reasonable woman is as trying as an unreasonable man."

"But we are going to be sensible with each other," she urged, "like two friends. Aren't we?"

"We are going to be what we are going to be," said I. "We'll have to take life as it comes."

That clumsy reminder set her to thinking, stirred her vague uneasiness in those strange circumstances to active alarm. For presently she said, in a tone that was not so matter-of-course as she had tried to make it: "We'll go now to my Uncle Frank's. He's a brother of my father's. I always used to like him best—and still do. But he married a woman mamma thought—queer. They hadn't much, so he lives away up on the West Side—One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street.

"The wise plan, the only wise plan," said I, not so calm as she must have thought me, "is to go to my partner's house and send for a minister."

"Not to-night," she replied nervously. "Take me to Uncle Frank's, and to-morrow we can discuss what to do and how to do it."

"To-night," I persisted. "We must be married to-night. No more uncertainty and indecision and weakness. Let us begin bravely, Anita."

"To-morrow," she said. "But not to-night. I must think it over."

"To-night," I repeated. To-morrow will be full of its own problems. This is to-night's."

She shook her head, and I saw that the struggle between us had begun—the struggle against her timidity and conventionality. "No, not to-night." This in her tone for finality.

To argue with any woman in such circumstances would be dangerous; to argue with her would have been fatal. To reason with a woman is to flatter her into suspecting you of weakness and herself of strength. I told the chauffeur to turn about and go slowly up town. She settled back into her corner of the brougham. Neither of us spoke until we were passing Grant's tomb. Then she started out of her secure confidence in my obedience and exclaimed: "This is not the way!" And her voice had lost it the hasty call-to-arms.

"No," I replied, determined to crush the panic into a rout. "As I told you, our future shall be settled to-night." That in my tone for finality.

A pause, then: "It has been settled," she said, like a child that feels, yet denies, its impotence as it struggles in the compelling arms of its father. "I thought until a few minutes ago that I really intended to marry you. Now I see that I did not."

"Anther reason why we're not going to your uncle's," said I.

She leaned forward so that I could see her face. "I can not marry you," she said. "I feel humble toward you, for having misled you. But it is better that you—and I—should have found out now than too late."

"It is too late—too late to go back."

"Would you wish to marry a woman who does not love you, who loves some one else, and who tells you so and refuses to marry you?" She had tried to concentrate enough scorn into her voice to hide her fear.

"I would," said I. "And I shall. I'll not desert you, Anita, when your courage and strength shall fail. I will carry you on to safety."

"I tell you I can not marry you," she cried, between appeal and command. "There are reasons—I may not tell you. But if I might, you would—would take me to my uncle's. I can not marry you!"

"That is what conventionality bids you say now," I replied. And then I gathered myself together and in a tone that made me hate myself as I heard it, I added slowly, each word sharp and distinct: "But what will conventionality bid you say to-morrow morning, as we drive down crowded Fifth avenue, after a night in this brougham?"

I could not see her, for she fell back into the darkness as sharply as if I had struck her with all my force full in the face. But I could feel the effect of my words upon her.

Full fifteen minutes of that frightful silence before she said: "I will go where you wish." And she said it in a tone that makes me wince as I recall it.

I called my partner's address up through the tube. Again that frightful silence, then she was trying to choke back the sobs. A few words I caught: "They have broken my will—they have broken my will."

My partner lived in a big, gray-stone house that stood apart and commanded a noble view of the Hudson and the Palisades. It was, in the main, a reproduction of a French chateau, and such changes as the architect had made in his model were not positively disfiguring, though amusing.

The appearance of the man who opened the door for Anita and me suggested that our ring had aroused him from a bed where he had deposited himself without bothering to take off his clothes. At the sound of my voice, Ball peered out of his private smokingroom, at the far end of the hall. He started forward; then, seeing how I was accompanied, stopped with mouth ajar. He had on a ragged smoking-jacket, a pair of shapeless old Romeo slippers, his ordinary business waistcoat and trousers. He was wearing neither tie nor collar, and a short, black pipe was between his fingers.

RHEUMATIC FOLKS?

Are You Sure Your Kidneys Are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to uric acid in the blood. But the duty of the kidneys is to remove all uric acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive. Don't dally with "uric acid solvents." You might go on till doomsday with them, but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove uric acid, but cure the kidneys and then all danger from uric acid is ended. Here is Plainfield testimony to prove it.

Mrs. C. Rosseter, of 127 Watchung avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Years ago I had backache and headaches, and was troubled also with attacks of rheumatism. On being advised that Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles, I got a supply at Randolph's pharmacy, and found relief soon after I began using them. I now keep them in the house, and use them whenever I feel a twinge of pain in the back or any other symptom of kidney trouble, and it only requires a few doses to chase the pain away. I especially recommend them for rheumatic pain, for my system seemed to be filled with it before I used your medicine."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Woman Gored to Death.

Port Jervis, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Magdalena A. Berger, wife of Ova Berger, a prosperous farmer, residing three miles from Port Jervis, in Pike county, Pa., was gored to death by a bull on her farm yesterday morning. She had gone for wood in a field in which the bull was grazing. There was no eye witness to what occurred, but her daughter Rosanna heard a piercing scream and ran to the scene. Mrs. Berger lay unconscious near on opening in the fence. The bull was about one hundred yards distant, quietly grazing. Mrs. Berger died a half an hour later. Her skull had been fractured. There were many desperate wounds about her body and one six inches long on the side of her head. Mrs. Berger was sixty-five years old and had considerable money invested. She leaves her husband, one son, A. C. Berger, of Elizabeth, N. J., and two daughters.

Deserted Wife Turns Thief.

New York, Oct. 31.—With $3,000 worth of jewelry, cash, English pound notes and a bank book showing a deposit of $300, concealed in various places, a young, well dressed, good looking woman was arrested yesterday in a Brooklyn department store, a self-confessed pickpocket, whose picture is said by the police to be in the rogues gallery. She gave her name in Brooklyn Police Headquarters as Mrs. Jennie Miller, twenty-five years old, of No. 83 Allen street, Manhattan. She was composed during the ordeal of the search and said she had been deserted by her husband; had tried in vain to support her two children honestly, and had resorted to picking pockets only as a last resource.

Mrs. William Wheeler, of New York, has returned home after a visit with relatives here.

GOLF.

Intercity team matches for the Lesley cup will be under new and broader conditions next year if the suggestions of the donor are followed out. The contests, in which the Metropolitan Golf Association teams under the captaincy of Walter Travis have now won twice, are supervised by the committees of the M. G. A., Massachusetts Golf Association and the Golf Association of Philadelphia. The associations hold the cup under a deed of gift that requires matches in a different city each year, so that Boston will hold the contest next fall. "It seems unfair," remarked Robert W. Lesley at the Merion course, "to pit the golfers of Philadelphia against the picked men of two great districts. Since giving the intercity cup I have become president of the Golf Association of Philadelphia, and I realize very clearly that the conditions are unjust to our territory. Perhaps, as the tri-city match was to become the successor of the old Metropolitan-Philadelphia match, it is well that we started as we did. But the two matches have demonstrated very clearly that our golfing sons of Philadelphia are oversome by sheer weight of numbers. My suggestion to the three associations will be to so alter the conditions that we may play a Pennsylvania instead of a team limited to clubs in the Golf Association of Philadelphia. The reason is that the Bostonians are the pick of the Massachusetts clubs, or say fifty clubs, while the Metropolitan Golf Association, which claims sixty odd members within the radius of fifty miles of the New York City Hall, selects its team from New Jersey, Connecticut and the Malhattan and Long Island clubs. The Princeton Golf Club is a member, which permitted the team to play H. J. Gee this year, who is a resident in the West, while the Massachusetts team included Richard Kimball, whom I understand is a schoolboy who divides his year between Boston and St. Louis, where last month he took part in the Western Golf Association championship. Remember, I make no reflections on Gee or Kimball as individuals. The are both fine oung golfers and under the conditions entitled by every right to play with their teams," said Lesley in conclusion. "The point I would enforce is that Philadelphia is handicapped by a too limited territory against such big rivals. On a Pennsylvania team we could add the Fownes, Champion Byers and Ormiston, of Pittsburg, Fredericks of Oil City and so. The change would make the match a tri-association rather than a tri-city one, although the latter name is not a happ one, for now Philadelphia is opposed to Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut and New York."

'Plains' Team Officers.

A meeting of the Scotch Plains Baseball Club was held in its rooms on Tuesday evening, Oct. 30. The following officers were elected: George Baldwin, president and treasurer; Charles Eller, secretary; Bryant Johnston, manager, and George Frentz, captain. Other important business was also transacted.

Championship Decided.

The finals in the championship doubles at the Plainfield High School were played yesterday, when William Briggs and Fred Martin defeated James Fleming and R. F. Williams, 7—5, 7—5, 6—0.

Louis Brown, the East Orange youth who shot Miss Laura Osten in a cab in a Manhattan street last Sunday night, was compelled to send last night regrets, due to circumstances over which he had no control, to the home of Mrs. George W. Miller, of No. 183 Broad street, Newark.

Mrs. Miller's residence was the scene last night of the wedding of her niece, Miss Ethel Henever, to Walter Holman. When the marriage was arranged Louis Brown, who is a friend of the contracting parties, was selected to act as one of the ushers. His brother, Julian, also was to have acted as usher. Their places were filled by Harry Hicks, of Elizabeth, and Woodruff Folks, of Newark.

Miss Lilian Brown, sister of Louis, was bridesmaid at the ceremony. She had made all preparations to attend Miss Henever when the news of her brother's rash deed was received. Miss Brown asked Miss Henever to release her from attendance at the marriage, but the bride-elect was loyal to her friend and induced her to reconsider her intention not to act.

DIES WHEN PREPARING FOR DOUBLE WEDDING.

When engaged in preparing for the weddings of her only son and daughter, Mrs. Ella Cummings Leman, wife of William T. Leman, Superintendent of the Texas Oil Company, was stricken yesterday with a fatal attack of heart disease and died at her home, No. 238 Avenue A, Bayonne.

She had been in poor health some days, but no serious results had been looked for. Her husband arrived home last night from Texas to make preparations for the double wedding. Whether the wedding will be postponed has not been determined.

The wedding of Herbert P. Leman and Miss Florence E. Potter, daughter of Ezra H. Potter, of Newark, is set for next Saturday at the residence of Miss Potters sister, Mrs. Ralph O. Smith, Schuyler Court, Bayonne, and that of Miss Grace Leman and Edward Burdett Annett, son of Park Commissioner and Mrs. Chas. E. Annett, is set for next Monday evening at the Fifth Street Reformed church.

Mrs. Leman was prominent in charitable and social circles in Bayonne.

Race Track Crookedness.

New York, Oct. 31.—Based upon a veterinarian's certificate that the horse Garnish was, in July 31 last, at Brighton Beach, administered so large a dose of some strong drug as to burn his mouth and to cause him to suffer a serious shivering fit, the stewards of the Jockey Club have been investigating the horse and his connections ever since, and finally took extreme action on Monday night and ruled off R. L. Rogers, husband of the woman in whose name Garnish runs, and one John Wilson, former foreman of the stable. The woman was not ruled off, because no evidence was forthcoming that she was guilty of a violation of turf rules.

Miss Margaret McCutchen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, is entertaining her friend, Miss Bartlett, from out of town.
